VOL. 87. No. 221. PART ONE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1935. PAGES 1—14A  PRICE 10 CENTS.

JURY VOTES DEATH FOR 3 YOUTHS IN MOSS KILLING

Motorman Was Fatally Shot When He Resisted Hold-up Attempt by East St. Louis Men the Night of Last Feb. 22.

VERDICT REACHED ON FIRST POLL

Defendants Appear Stunned as Finding Is Read — Judge Thanks Jurors for "Having Courage to Do Your Duty."

The three young hoodlums who killed William C. Moss, East St. Louis motorman, were found guilty of murder last night by a jury which fixed thier punishment at death in the electric chair.

Moss was shot to death while resisting a holdup by the three—William Van Buren Dedmon, 25 years old; John Krul, 21, and Edward Balling, 19. They had held up and robbed three men, the night of Feb. 22, before stopping Moss near his home at 4030 Lincoln avenue.

The jury deliberated two and one-half hours. Prosecutors had pleaded for the death penalty and defense lawyers, admitting the youths' guilt, had argued against capital punishment.

City Judge Borders of East St. Louis thanked the jurymen for "having the courage to do your duty" and said the verdict was a warning to East St. Louis criminals.

Guilty Verdict on First Poll.

All three defendants were found guilty in the first poll of the jury. The punishment for Krul, who, the evidence indicated, had been the actual killer of Moss, was fixed at death on the first ballot.

In the first ballot on Dedmon there were 10 votes for the death penalty and two for life imprisonment, and on the second ballot the jury was unanimous for electrocution. In its first ballot on Balling, youngest of the three, the jury cast 11 votes for electrocution and one for life imprisonment, reaching unanimous agreement on the second ballot.

As the jury filed in at 7:45 o'clock, shortly after Judge Borders had been summoned on word that a verdict was ready, the courtroom grew still. Krul and Balling, facing the Judge and the jury, appeared very nervous. Dedmon, whose leg was broken when he was shot by Moss, lay on a cot.

"Have you reached a verdict?" the Court inquired. "We have," replied Foreman John West, who then read the verdict, the same but for names, in each case.

Defendants Appear Stunned.

The three youths seemed stunned. Krul reddened, Balling stared at the floor and Dedmon lay back on his cot.

Women relatives of the defendants burst out crying and Judge Borders ordered the courtroom cleared of "hysterical persons." Dedmon's 21-year-old wife handed her year-old baby to another woman and started forward. "Let me see my husband," she said; "I'm not going outside." A deputy led her away.

The jury was polled individually at the request of Ben Creamer, who had been appointed by the Court to represent Balling. Judge Borders deferred formal sentence to permit defense counsel to file a motion for a new trial Monday.

Judge's Comment.

"If these defendants had not been sent to death," Judge Borders said, "the electric chair at Chester might just as well have been junked.

"It is my opinion from the evidence that the defendants went out there with the intention of killing Moss because he was a witness in another holdup."

He referred to testimony by Detective-Sergeant Morrison of St. Louis, who quoted Krul as saying, "We saw the old man in the street car—we knew this old man as he was a witness in another robbery."

At this point Krul raised his hand, snapped his fingers and jumped to his feet, shouting, "That's a lie—I didn't say that."

"That was in the testimony," the Court continued as Krul sat down, flushing.

STRESA CONFERENCE ENDS WITH AGREEMENT "AS FAR AS WE COULD GO" ANNOUNCED

Final Three-Power Communique to Be Issued Later—Danubian Nations to Meet In Rome May 20.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

STRESA, April 13.—Italy, France and England tonight ended their conference, asserting they had reached full agreement "as far as we could go" on ways to save Europe from war.

The three-Power conference was called after Adolf Hitler's decision to rearm Germany, which France, in an appeal to the League of Nations, declared perilous to peace.

For the first time since the Paris peace conference the Premiers of the three great Western European Powers—Benito Mussolini of Italy, Pierre-Etienne Flandin of France, Ramsay MacDonald of England—met face to face to talk over Europe's prospects for peace.

Results of Conference.

After 18 hours at the conference table, these were the authoritatively reported results:

An offer by Germany to enter an Eastern non-aggression pact provided it is exempt from any mutual military assistance clause.

A decision to call Danubian nations into conference at Rome May 20 to discuss ways of keeping Austria independent. Germany, it was reported, would be invited to attend although no official announcement on the subject was made.

United support for France's appeal to Geneva against Germany's treaty violation in rearming.

Approval of the principle of an air pact for immediate aerial assistance against an aggressor in Western Europe.

Approval of Austrian, Hungarian and Bulgarian rearmament to some degree yet unspecified.

Reported Agreements.

The conferees also were reported agreed, although official confirmation was lacking, on:

A general European conference after the Danubian parley.

A proposed Eastern Mediterranean pact linking Italy, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

Furthermore, France agreed to soften its arraignment of Germany at the League of Nations Council session opening Monday, this in return for Great Britain's tacit approval of the bilateral mutual assistance pacts it feels should reenforce any general security system.

French and Italian delegates to the conference also extended amplified provisions of the accord Mussolini and Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, reached at Rome Jan. 7.

An Italo-French mutual assistance pact is virtually in its final stages, it is stated authoritatively, and this may be extended to bring in other Latin nations. Later an agreement for friendship and consultation between the Latin bloc and Great Britain is envisaged.

Members of the three delegations will meet again at 10 a. m. tomorrow to work out the final wording of their agreement. An official communique summing up the results of the conference will be issued afterward.

Seven Declarations.

Officials said seven declarations would be published tomorrow, each containing a separate point upon which an agreement had been reached either in full or in principle. They said the seven declarations would discuss the following objects: 1. The Danubian pact, with announcement of a conference to be held in Rome in May. 2. The Eastern Locarno pact, with mention of Germany's new offer. 3. Germany's possible return to the League of Nations. 4. France's recourse to the League against Germany's rearmament. 5. Limitation of armaments. 6. What action is to be taken in the future in the case of violation of treaties. 7. A general statement of collaboration in the consultation among Italy, France and Great Britain.

Rearmament of Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria would not form the subject of one of the declarations, conference circles said. This point will be postponed until the Danubian conference in order that nations of the Little Entente, which will be present, may give their approval.

After publication of today's brief official statement, British, French and Italian spokesmen said they had definite instructions to give no further details of explanations before the appearance of tomorrow's communique.

A gala night at La Scala opera house in Milan had been scheduled for the distinguished visitors but the British Prime Minister, his Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon and Laval, the French Foreign Minister, were too tired to go. Flandin represented them.

Immediately after today's discussions spokesmen for all delegations made the statement that agreement had been reached on all points under discussion "as far as we could go."

Details of certain pacts, they add-

POOR POTATO CROP CAUSES RUSH BY DEALERS; PRICES UP

208 Carloads Change Hands in St. Louis in 4 Days; 40 Normal Turnover.

Potato prices have risen abruptly in St. Louis because of crop failures in several states on which this market depends for its supplies. The rise has been accompanied by a scramble among dealers for the available supply with a result that 208 carloads changed hands in the last four days. Forty carloads would have represented average trading.

The No. 1 grade of Idaho russets sold at wholesale yesterday for 2½ cents a pound, and Michigan rurals brought 1¼ cents. Retail prices had not caught up with the rising wholesale market, and potatoes could be bought about as cheaply at retail as at wholesale.

Three weeks ago, when the turn in the market began, Idaho russets sold for 1½ cents, and Michigan rurals for .9 of a cent, wholesale. These prices were for the old crop.

The new crop, which by now should be coming on the market in volume, is scant. The California crop was a failure, because of unfavorable weather conditions, and the Texas crop, for similar reasons, is late and short. What new potatoes have reached this market have come chiefly from Florida. They sold wholesale yesterday at 5.6 cents a pound and at retail at 7 cents. New potatoes were expected to sell at retail this week from 8 or 10 cents a pound.

Last year at this time the new Florida crop sold for 3½ cents a pound, wholesale, and the Texas crop at 3 cents.

HAUPTMANN JURY AT DINNER

Reconvenes With Deputies Who Guarded Them at Flemington.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., April 13.—The 12 folk of Hunterdon County who fixed the death penalty for Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnaping murder, met again tonight, two months after their decision for an "anniversary" dinner.

The reunion took place in the Union Hotel, county hostelry directly opposite the Courthouse. The four women and eight men propose to make permanent their trial association by occasional meetings. The arrangements were made by Mrs. Mae Brelsford of Flemington, juror number 10 who acted as secretary of the group. With members of their families, the six deputies who guarded them during the trial and their friends, they made a company of about 35 for dinner.

MOVE TO SETTLE SUITS OVER FIRE INSURANCE RATES

Companies Trying to Enforce 16 2-3 Pct. Increase in Missouri, Negotiate With Officials.

NO DEFINITE PLAN SUBMITTED SO FAR

Suggestion Made That If Agreement Is Reached Present Schedule Might Be Reduced $1,000,000.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 13. — Negotiations toward settlement of suits in which stock fire insurance companies operating in Missouri are attempting to enforce a 16 2-3 per cent increase in fire insurance rates, were begun in a conference held today at the request of the companies, between representatives of the companies and Gov. Park and other State officials.

No definite proposal was submitted and no decision was reached, pending further conferences. It was agreed that negotiations as to terms of a settlement should be continued between State Insurance Superintendent R. E. O'Malley and C. R. Street of Chicago, representing the National Council of Fire Insurance Underwriters. Another conference will be held within 10 days or two weeks.

Company representatives, while not committing themselves to any specific proposal, indicated that if the suits were settled, the companies might file a new schedule of fire insurance rates, which would involve a reduction of about $1,000,000 from the rates now being collected, which include the 16 2-3 per cent increase.

$11,000,000 Impounded.

So far the companies have made no proposal as to disposition, in the event of a settlement, of the nearly $11,000,000 in premiums which have been impounded in the rate suits pending in Federal and State courts. This amount represents the 16 2-3 increase in fire, lightning and windstorm insurance rates, which has been collected by the companies since they forced the increase into effect, under temporary injunctions, June 1, 1930.

It was indicated the companies would submit a written proposal on suggested terms of a settlement at the next conference.

Those who attended the conference, held in the offices of the State Insurance Department, were Gov. Park, State Insurance Superintendent O'Malley, Attorney-General McKittrick, Powell McHaney, atttorney for the insurance department; former Attorney-General John T. Barker of Kansas City, Floyd Jacobs of Kansas City, and Glenn C. Weatherby of Jefferson City, special counsel for the State in the rate litigation; Robert J. Folonie of Chicago, chief counsel for the companies in the rate suits; William L. Igoe of St. Louis, president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, and former Supreme Judge W. T. Ragland of Jefferson City, both of counsel for the companies and Street.

History of Litigation.

Fire insurance rates in Missouri have been in litigation since 1922, when the State Insurance Department ordered a 10 per cent reduction in the rates. The companies put the reduction into effect in August, 1929, under protest, after an unsuccessful legal fight in Federal and State courts, that lasted nearly seven years.

In December, 1929, the companies filed an application for an increase of 16 2-3 per cent. Before the Insurance Department had completed an investigation of reasonableness of the rates, the companies forced the increase into effect through injunctions obtained in Federal District Court at Kansas City, restraining the department from interfering with collection of the higher rates. Before legal service in the injunction suits was obtained on Joseph B. Thompson, the insurance superintendent, Thompson issued a hasty order denying the increases. The companies then applied to Cole County Circuit Court here for a review of the reasonableness of the order rejecting the increase.

Seventy-four companies are involved in the case pending in Circuit Court and 137 companies in the cases pending in Federal District Court at Kansas City. Both courts ordered impounding of the increase, pending final decisions. So far about $9,000,000 has been im-

MELLON PUTS PUBLIC GIFTS AT $23,000,000

Figures for Five Years — Tax Deductions on Them Total $2,200,000.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 13.—Records of the A. W. Mellon income tax hearing disclose that the former Secretary of the Treasury lists his public gifts for educational and charitable purposes for the five years ending in 1934 at $23,612,031. Associates say this does not include private gifts.

The largest item is $19,587,615 to the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust. The amount represents oil paintings which Mellon contends he intends to give to a national art gallery.

The Government, in the tax case, has challenged the contention that the art collection is a bona fide tax-exempt gift.

In five years, Mellon has claimed exemptions on donations of $2,218,928.97, about all that could be claimed because the law limits such deductions to 15 per cent of a person's income.

The list, as shown by the Mellon books:

Year—Gift.	Tax deductions taken
1930—$1,503,266	$1,497,255
1931—$3,821,328	$340,079
1932—$7,378,941	$208,396
1933—$ 701,578	$173.198

THREE NEW ENGLAND TEXTILE MILLS TO CLOSE

Plants Employing 3810 Blame Processing Tax and Japanese Competition for Plight.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 13.—The closing of three New England textile mills employing 3810 workers was announced today while Governors and congressional representatives at Washington appealed to the President for relief for the industry in this section.

The Greylock Mills in North Adams and the Berkshire Mills at Adams today announced they would close next week. They employ 3400 workers. The mills have been idle this week. The Hope Mill at Scituate, R. I., employing 410, announced it would close April 19. Officials of the three mills asserted the processing tax, North-South wage differential and Japanese competition had forced them to close.

OHIO GOVERNOR CALLS ON CHARITY TO EQUIP OFFICE

Democrat Says Republican Senate Refuses to Indorse Needed Furnishings.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 13.—Gov. Martin L. Davey appealed to the "good citizens of Ohio" today for charity contributions to buy supplies, including a rug, for the executive office. His appeal, he said, is occasioned by the Republican Senate's refusal to pass an appropriation bill. He attributed its defeat to the Republican members aided by one Democrat. Davey is a Democrat.

"Contributions are needed to keep the Governor's office functioning," he said. "Charity is the answer. I appeal for help to the good citizens of Ohio. Contributions will be gratefully received, whether they be large or small—even a few stamps will help. Let us have the united support of the great people in a mighty crusade to collect nickels and dimes and dollars in support of the economy program of the Republican members of the Senate."

The Governor said a department store had offered $65 for one of the old rugs which he wants to replace in the executive offices and that several donations of $10 and smaller sums down to 10 cents have been reecived to establish a rug fund.

RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR FOURTH TUFTS FIRM SINCE HIS SUICIDE

Public Reputed to Have Invested $34,000,000 in Three of Banker's Concerns.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 13.—A receivership suit was filed today against another of the companies with which Bowen Tufts, banker, who killed himself, was connected. It is estimated that the public had invested $34,000,000 in three concerns with which Tufts was connected, for which receivers have been asked or appointed since his suicide.

Thomas Fitzgerald, a minority stockholder, petitioned the Suffolk Superior Court to appoint a receiver for the National Service Co., a coal and oil concern, in which he estimated the public had invested $10,000,000. The National Service Co. is affiliated with C. D. Parker & Co., of which Tufts was an officer, and for which a receiver was appointed this week. Receivers have been appointed for the Seaboard Utilities Shares Corporation, with investments of $16,000,000, and the Railroad Shares Corporation, with investments of $8,000,000. Both were connected with C. D. Parker & Co.

GANGSTER SHOT THREE TIMES ON BUSY CHICAGO STREET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13. — Sanford (Gimpy) Rosenbaum, said to have been a bodyguard of Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, former chief of South Side bootleggers, was shot three times and seriously wounded to day on a street near the Loop.

A man who accosted him drew a pistol and fired three times, the bullets hitting Rosenbaum in the right arm, left shoulder and chin. The assailant then got in an automobile and drove off.

Rosenbaum refused to talk to detectives about the shooting.

PACT TO AVERT RUBBER WORKERS' STRIKE SIGNED

Goodrich, Goodyear and Firestone Companies of Akron, O., Come to Terms With A. F. of L.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13. — Akron, O., rubber manufacturers and the American Federation of Labor reached an agreement tonight to avert the threatened strike of rubber workers in the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone plants.

The text of the four-point agreement follows:

"1. The management agrees to meet with employes and with the chosen representatives of any group of employes for the purpose of adjusting grievances and complaints and for the purpose of negotiating upon hours, wages and conditions of employment for those they represent. Conferences will be held promptly upon request, and grievances and complaints disposed of as expeditiously as possible.

"2. The company will post on its bulletin boards in departments affected, any changes in hours, wages or working conditions arrived at through negotiations with any group of its employes.

"3. It is recognized the holding of an election as ordered by the National Labor Relations Board is postponed until final decisions have been reached by the courts in the cases now pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and any appeals therefrom.

"4. There shall be no strike or lock-out or discrimination pending final decision in the cases now pending in the Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit and in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and any appeals therefrom. However, if grievances are not settled satisfactorily they shall be referred to a fact-finding board of three neutral members approved by the Secretary of Labor. If the recommendations of the board are not followed by either party to the dispute, then the other party may be relieved of the obligation contained in this paragraph."

Unions to Vote Today.

Representatives of the three companies signed the agreement. William Green, president of the Federation of Labor; Coleman Claherty, Federation organizer in Akron and presidents of the three local unions in Akron also signed, but the agreement is subject to approval by Federation members in the three plants, who will hold mass meetings tomorrow.

About 35,000 rubber workers would have been affected by the strike, understood to have been set for Monday. The Federation claims about 12,000 workers in the three plants, but the companies deny the union strength is so great.

Tonight's agreement was signed after three days of negotiations with Secretary Perkins.

The manufacturers signed first then dashed to the Union Station in Miss Perkins' automobile to make an Akron-bound train being held for them. Joseph Hostetler, Cleveland attorney representing them, said they would make a public statement tomorrow. After the manufacturers had left, Miss Perkins carried the agreement to the

TOBACCO CONTROL ACT HELD INVALID

Federal Judge Dawson Declares Law Is "Plainest Kind of Attempt" by Congress to Exceed Its Powers.

INTENT TO REGULATE PRODUCTION BY TAX

Louisville Jurist Rules Growing of Crop Is Intrastate Business Over Which Federal Government Has No Authority.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 13.—The Kerr-Smith tobacco control act was held unconstitutional by Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson today.

The act, similar to the Bankhead cotton control law, levies penalties on growers who do not join the AAA program to limit production.

Ruling on the first case testing the act — a suit filed by W. E., Frank and Oscar Penn, Fayette County growers, to recover $7059 in penalties paid on the 1934 crop—Judge Dawson said:

"It is impossible for any one who has any respect for constitutional limitations to contemplate this law with complacency.

"Naked Unconstitutionality."

"It is the plainest kind of an attempt to accomplish an unconstitutional purpose by the pretended exercise of constitutional powers. The garment used to hide the naked unconstitutionality of the act was fabricated from the taxation and commerce clauses of the constitution; but neither congressional recitations of purpose nor the formal dress of a statute, is conclusive upon the courts."

The Judge declared that legislation must be condemned when plainly on its face it shows that admitted constitutional powers were invoked for the primary purpose of regulating matters beyond control of Congress. He said that neither in the title of the act nor in the declaration of policy is there a word about taxation.

Remarking that courts ordinarily are reluctant to invalidate the act of a co-ordinate department of government, Judge Dawson said that if the act itself showed "subterfuges were resorted to to circumvent constitutional limitations, no Judge who respects his oath to support and defend the Constitution will hesitate to strike it down, it matters not how great may be the demand for such legislation."

Constitution a "Fortress."

"For nearly 150 years, the Constitution has been the fortress behind which the individual citizen has found security against all dangers inherent in a representative government based upon popular suffrage. Its worth has been tested by time and proven by experience, and it must not be discarded or weakened to meet the exigencies of the moment," he continued.

Reviewing the Kerr-Smith act, Judge Dawson concluded, "There seems to me no doubt whatever that the sole purpose of the act is to regulate and control the production of tobacco.

"If I am correct in this conclusion, this purpose cannot be accomplished under the taxing power unless . . . the production of tobacco is interstate commerce, or so directly and immediately affects interstate commerce in the constitutional sense as to bring it under the regulatory power of Congress under the commerce clause."

Referring to his decision in the coal code case, he reaffirmed his opinion that Congress has no power to regulate manufacturing or production.

The Penn brothers, who were unable to sign an acreage reduction contract because their crops were grown on rented land, sought an injunction to prevent enforcement of the law.

The Court overruled the Government's contention the Kerr-Smith law could not be attacked under the new Federal declaratory judgment law.

Tax Ordered Returned.

Holding a temporary injunction was unnecessary, Judge Dawson ordered the $7000 in taxes, impounded pending the litigation, returned to the Penns.

The law imposes a tax of 25 per

TALK OF SPECIAL SESSION TO PASS NEEDED PWA BILLS

Gov. Park Hopes to Have Them Put Through Before Adjournment but Leaders Doubt Possibility

OPPOSITION FROM UTILITIES LIKELY

Measures Required if Missouri Is to Get Full Share of $4,880,000,000 Federal Appropriation.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 13.—The necessity for an extraordinary session of the Legislature if Missouri and its communities are to have full advantage of the State's share of the Federal $4,880,000,000 public works appropriation has become a serious subject of consideration by Gov. Park and legislative leaders.

The Governor has received from PWA officials in Washington a series of bills the passage of which is considered essential if Missouri is to be in a position of equality with many other states to obtain public works funds. He said today he intended to cause the introduction of several and possibly all the bills in the Legislature early next week.

The Governor expressed the hope that the needed measures could be enacted before the present regular session of the Legislature adjourned. However, legislative leaders professed to see no possibility that any new legislation could be passed, and said if the public works measure were enacted a special session would be necessary.

Utility Lobby Would Oppose.

A serious effort to pass the bills unquestionably would meet opposition from the public utility lobby and would result in a long legislative fight. Some of them are virtually duplicates of a the public utility bills the Governor presented to the special session a year ago and which were killed in the Senate Committee on Municipal Corporations. The public utility lobby made a vigorous and effective fight against them.

The bills the Governor has received as model state laws to take advantage of PWA funds would enable cities and towns to build municipal water, electric and gas plants through the issuance of revenue bonds, would provide for the creation of power districts for rural electrification and would authorize the creation of housing authorities in the larger cities to permit slum clearance and provide low-cost housing facilities.

The bills are technical in character, and would give legal authorization for local expenditures outside the constitutional limits on municipal indebtedness, permitting the issuance of bonds to be paid out of the revenues of the miunicipal utilities built with the bond money.

Legislative Pay a Factor.

Included in the Missouri projects aggregating $373,630,353 forwarded to PWA by the State Planning Board are a dozen or more municipal utility plants, most of which could not be built without the enactment of new State laws.

Legislators who have been receiving $1 a day for the past month are in no mood to remain in Jefferson City to take up new legislation which would prolong their stay. They expect the present program before them can be worked out within two weeks and that they then can adjourn. If called in special session they would receive $5 a day as long as they remained.

It would be a virtual impossibility to pass within two weeks any bill on which a fight was waged by any powerful interest.

If the Governor sends the PWA bills to the Legislature he probably also will send a message urging their immediate passage. He may decide, however, to defer them for the present and to call the special session within a few weeks.

Strength of Lobby Questioned.

Whether the utility interests exercise as great an influence in the present Senate as in the one which killed the Governor's utility bills a year ago is doubtful. Then the committee merely refused to make a report on the bills and when an attempt was made on the floor to force a report the committee was sustained by a vote of 20 to 12 with two Senators absent.

Since that time there has been a change in the representation from 12 districts, and the line-up on utility bills is thought to be somewhat closer.

The Governor would be in a better strategic position in a special session if he confined its activities to the PWA bills. In a session in which there are numerous subjects of legislation there is much log-rolling and few bills are passed on their merits.

It cannot be said that a special session will be called, the Governor being non-committal as to his intentions, though admitting that he considers the proposed legislation of major importance, and is giving it and the necessity of a special session careful study.

labor group, assembled in the office of Assistant Secretary Edward F. McGrady.

Miss Perkins' Statement.

Miss Perkins made only a brief statement after the agreement was completed. The document, she said, in substance was the same as that proposed by Green and Claherty early today.

"A conciliator," she said, "doesn't have much to say. His duties are to bring the disputants together, to get their proposals and counter-proposals and to try to explain them to each other."

Happy at the successful conclusion of her first start-to-finish mediation job since hse became chief of the Labor Department, Miss Perkins thanked each of the manufacturers and labor men individually after they signed the agreement.

One Point Conceded by Union.

The Federation lost its fight for immediate elections to determine whether employes in the Goodrich and Firestone plants preferred the Federation to company unions as their representative for collective bargaining. The conclusion of the companies' court appeals from Labor Board orders may take months.

Green said the agreement was "acceptable to labor" and discussed it point by point with newspaper men to explain what the Federation employes had won.

Before the agreement was reached, he said, referring to point 1, neither the Goodyear nor Firestone company had met and dealt with Federation representatives.

The agreement to post the results of negotiations on bulletin boards, he also called a "victory for labor." "Never before were the union men able to get even a memorandum of agreement," he said.

The last clause, concerning the creation of a fact-finding board, Green said "means that collective bargaining is made real."

"Heretofore," he said, "the management would sit around and talk but would not come to any agreements. That section now makes collective bargaining more real for the rubber workers than they have ever had it before."

Steps In the Dispute.

Last summer the Federation petitioned for elections in the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone plants to determine whether the Federation or the company unions represented a majority of the employes. The board, after hearings, ordered elections in the Goodrich and Firestone plants. The Goodyear election petition still is pending.

Within a few days after the election orders were issued, the Goodrich and Firestone companies appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati for a review. Argument on the motions for review are to be heard Monday.

A few weeks ago, the Labor Relations Board found that the Firestone Co. had violated the collective bargaining guarantee of the Recovery Act by fostering a company union. Unless the company quit recognizing the company union for collective bargaining, the board said it would cite it before the NRA for the removal of its Blue Eagle. To save this symbol, the Firestone company obtained an injunction from the District of Columbia Supreme Court restraining the Labor Board from enforcing its order. A hearing on whether this injunction should be made permanent will be held within a few weeks.

Union Leaders at Akron Predict Agreement Will Be Rejected.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., April 13.—Rubber union represenatives here predicted tonight the agreement reached in Washington between labor chieftans and manufacturers will be rejected tomorrow. Separate meetings of the local chapters of the United Rubber Workers' Union will be held tomorrow for workers in Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone plants.

E. E. White, secretary of the United Rubber Workers' Council, said: "I wonder if our boys were hypnotized by Miss Perkins."

THREE-POWER STRESA CONFERENCE ENDS WITH AGREEMENT

ed, could not be settled here before negotiations with other countries.

Both the visiting delegations plan to leave Stresa late tomorrow. MacDonald and Flandin will return to their capitals while Simon and Laval go to Geneva.

There was complete unanimity in expressions of satisfaction at the results. "Everybody was extremely well satisfied," the French spokesman said. 'Everything has gone off in a very satisfactory manner with good will and cordiality," the British declared. "We are deeply pleased with the success of the Stresa conference," the Italians announced.

Official Communique.

Today's brief official communique said all the points raised in the Anglo-French proposals at London Feb. 3, which formally launched British-conceived plans to bring all Europe into one inclusive security system, had been covered in the course of the three days' deliberations.

"Divers other points were examined," it added.

Failure to arrive at the definite signing of an air pact today was due, it was stated, to Prime Minister MacDonald's desire that Germany be given an opportunity to accept the other undertakings proposed in the Anglo-French communique.

Three pacts were proposed in that document—the air defense alliance, the Eastern pact, the Danubian pact. The first Germany welcomed; the second it agreed to accept yesterday; the third it received cooly, Hitler insisting that it would be difficult to define what constitutes "interference" in the internal affairs of Danubian countries.

Flandin was reported anxious to have the three nations sign the air pact immediately and let Germany enter later, after other pending problems are solved. His proposal failed of acceptance, however.

Rumor of German Plebiscite on Return to League.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 14.—(Sunday)—Quarters usually well informed say a national plebiscite is planned this Spring or early Summer on Germany's rearmament and possible return to the League of Nations. Such a plan was considered Friday at a meeting of Nazi party leaders it was said. The vote would resemble the one of August 19, 1934, when a popular vote of confidence was sought after Adolf Hitler consolidated the office of Chancellor and President.

It was reported the plebiscite would be explained to the people as a chance to vote re-entry into the League, just as they approved withdrawal in 1933, to indicate anew their support for the Nazi administration and to approve conscription and the government's foreign policies.

KING'S CLOCKS SET AHEAD

England on Summer Time at 2 A. M. Today.

LONDON, April 13.—Clockmakers went through the royal palaces here tonight setting the hands of the King's clocks ahead one hour. They had to start early in order to have the clocks adjusted before the official summer time starts at 2 a. m. tomorrow.

There are nearly 200 clocks in Buckingham palace, more than 50 in St. James' and 350 in Windsor Castle.

U. S. JUDGE DAWSON HOLDS TOBACCO ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

cent of the sale price of the 1934 crop on all tobacco grown without contracts with the Secretary of Agriculture, and 33 1-3 per cent on the uncontracted portion of the 1935 crop.

Last year the Government collected $3,000,000 in Kerr-Smith taxes, half of which came from Kentucky.

Reports from Washington said the AAA planned an immediate appeal from Judge Dawson's decision.

Ben F. Kilgore, executive secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau, said the decision, "if sustained, will strike at the very heart" of the tobacco and cotton control programs.

His Previous Decisions.

Judge Dawson, on last May 2, issued a temporary injunction restraining the NRA from enforcing the $4.60 minimum wage scale in the Western Kentucky coal fields. He held that mining was intrastate, not interstate) commerce and Congress had no power to regulate it. In a written opinion on May 19, he said that the NRA, as applied to local affairs, was the "boldest kind of usurpation."

On Nov. 14, he sustained the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium amendment to the Federal bankruptcy law, though he said that the amendment was "unfair" and "unwise." He was sorry, he said, that he could not decide otherwise.

Judge Dawson ruled on Jan. 4 that the Federal Government had no power to condemn private property for slum clearance projects, thus blocking a $1,500,000 low cost housing program at Louisville. He held that the purpose of the project was not one of public use.

Flying Chamberlin a Father.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Fear of kidnapers led Mrs. Clarence D. Chamberlin, wife of the trans-Atlantic flyer, to seek Europe as a haven for the birth of her child nearly two years ago, it was said today. Birth of the daughter, Pauline, in Paris, Aug. 22, 1933, was made known here today. They had kept the news from everyone except a few friends.

GERMAN VIEWS ON STRESA STATED IN COMMUNIQUE

Interpreted as Charging Powers With Fearing Failure to Keep Proposed Non-Aggression Pact.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 13.—Germany, in an official communique, interpreted in diplomatic quarters as accusing the Powers at Stresa of suspecting non-fulfillment of obligations under the proposed non-aggression pact, said "the desire to have the gun back of the pen" was a "self-contradiction."

The communique followed another one clarifying Germany's acceptance of an Eastern European accord without binding itself to any mutual assistance clause.

It was explained that Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who has no faith in multi-lateral arrangements, was persuaded on surveying the situation with his advisers that it would be better tactically to have Germany announce through the British Foreign Secretary its willingness to co-operate with the rest of the European nations by participating in a general pact. This, it was said, was because Germany did not wish to be blamed for any failure of the Stresa conference and branded as intransigeant.

Hitler's Change of Front.

"Misleading statements in the press," said the communique, "have induced the Government to clarify its standpoint in the matter of an eastern pact as follows:

"First, Der Fuehrer informed the British delegation that the German Government to its regret was unable to declare adhesion to an eastern pact in its proposed form.

"It was, however, ready to consent to such a collective security pact if it is based upon mutual and general non-aggression obligations and arbitration; if it provides for consultative procedure in case of disturbance of the peace; and finally the German Government is willing—while emphasizing the difficulties undisputably determining the aggressor—to join in general measures for non-support of such an aggressor. By this offer the Government stands today.

For Non-Aggression Pacts.

"Second, Der Fuehrer intimated during this discussion that Germany was not able to consent to a pact which, for all or for individual states, contains more or less automatic obligations for military assistance, on the ground that this would carry elements menacing peace rather than for maintaining peace. The German Government is still of this opinion.

"Third, the Government immediately upon assuming power expressed the wish to conclude non-aggression pacts with adjacent countries. It has made this proposal without the knowledge of and without reference to bilateral or multi-lateral pacts existing between single states. Since the German Government has no aggressive intentions it does not feel affected by defensive agreements. This standpoint the German Government still maintains.

"Just as little as it is able to join a pact which contains such military obligations as essential elements, just so little can such agreements outside this pact prevent Germany from concluding non-aggression pacts on the basis indicated above.

"This is the gist of the Government's reply to the British Ambassador's questions as to whether Germany would be willing to join an Eastern pact also in case the other Powers were to make special agreements among themselves.

The German Viewpoint.

"The German Government, however, desires in this connection to make its standpoint fully clear: the completion of non-aggression and force exclusion pacts by the engagements of military assistance, as considered necessary by the various Powers, contained a self-contradiction. Either one believes voluntarily in undertaken obligations or one does not. If one believes in them the necessity for such military agreements is not apparent.

"If one doubts the honest observation of non-aggression obligation, than the same doubt is equally justified as applying to supplementary military obligations of such peace pacts. If it is possible that from non-aggression pacts wars may come, it is equally possible that from defensive aid pacts, offensive acts may spring. Only it seems to the German Government that the way from non-aggression and exclusion pacts to a breach of peace is longer than the way from military obligations of a defensive nature to an offensive act.

"The German Government still sees in this development of military alliances in Europe no element of a collective peaceful movement, nor yet a guarantee of peace. It is, therefore, unable to sign pacts which contain such obligations as an integral part, whether for all or for single participants. The foregoing has been communicated officially to the British Embassy in Berlin by the Minister of Foreign Affairs."

German Press Elated.

Elation was expressed at the outcome of the Stresa conference, at which, newspapers commented, Germany played the role of Savior of Europe's peace.

Germany has serious misgivings about individual military agreements beyond the general non-aggression pact, a spokesman pointed out, and tried to impress the Stresa conference, through Simon, with this fact. If the others insisted, however, in stipulating such provisions among themselves, Germany would not do anything about it save ignore them, the spokesman stated.

The Diplomatische Politische Korrespondez, mouthpeice of the Government, said: "It is the German aim to bring German interests into a permanent accord with other European states by means of a general system. Germany's intentions are closely connected with those of other nations."

Poland's Ambassador to Germany, Joseph Lipski, has been with Foreign Minister von Neurath twice during the last two days to confer with him regarding Hitler's proposal to join an Eastern pact. (Poland, like Germany, refused to join the original Eastern agreement with its mutual assistance proviso.)

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT TO GO INTO COAL AND OIL BUSINESS

President Cardenas Says It Will Produce on Non-Profit Basis—To Organize Co-Operatives Also.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., April 13.—President Lazardo Cardenas, declaring foreign investors welcome to Mexico so long as they obeyed the law, tonight gave warning that "the colonial capitalistic system must disappear."

In an interview the President, who is leading efforts to settle strikes in key Mexican industries, said the Government was planning organization of co-operatives to exploit the nation's wealth without, however, attacking established industries.

He said the state would participate also directly in production, especially in the coal and petroleum industries which it will operate on a non-profit basis.

Saying he had no intention of establishing a Communistic government in Mexico, Cardenas declared: "Communism is not my doctrine nor the inspiration of my policies."

Discussing the nation's religious problem, Cardenas reiterated that "the Mexican revolutionary government does not try or desire to attack the religious conscience of Mexico. The excesses which have occurred are evils inherent in all political actions. But they can be remedied."

Socialistic education, he asserted, was not intended to destroy the home.

As Cardenas offered to intervene in the Huasteca Refinery strike in Mata Redonda, Veracruz, and the trolleymen's strike in the capital, 20 workers' organizations here voted solidarity with the latter movement "until we gain definite victory in our just struggle against imperialistic enterprise."

Strikes of electric and power company employes in nine cities, including Merida and Veracruz, were declared illegal today by the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. Dispatches reported the strikers were returning to work. The walkouts were ordered in sympathy with a similar strike in Tampico which has not yet been settled.

Veracruz police dispersed rioting women who besieged the Nixtamal Corn Mill there, declaring they had increased the prices of corn meal without justification.

7000 CHINESE REDS REPORTED KILLED

Generalissimo Chiang Said to Have Smashed Communist Army in 4-Day Fight.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, April 13.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek smashed again at Communists ravaging Kweichow province, killing 7000 of them in four days' heavy fighting, reports reaching the National Government tonight said.

The battle, fought about Kweiyang, was described today as the hardest fought since the Chinese military dictator opened his long arduous campaign against the reds.

Details were meager. It was assumed the generalissimo, who delayed his scheduled return to Nanking in his desire to clean up the Communists in Kweichow, struck at the army that occupied and looted Shiehfeng four days ago.

After the Shihfeng raid the Red hordes threatened Kweiyang and occupied Pingyueh and Wengan, nearby, before turning southward.

A vigorous counter-offensive was launched after the Communists appeared before Kweiyang, and it was assumed the pitched battle of the last four days was the climax of that operation.

National Government armies recently were reported in another drive against the Reds in Hunan province, this being launched from Changteh. A casualty list of 1500 dead and 3000 wounded was reported as a result of fighting in Northwest Hunan.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek who has often expressed his determination to clean up Communism in China, said at Changteh recently he would remain in that region until the Communist threat was checked.

PARAGUAY REPORTS FRESH VICTORY OVER BOLIVIA

More Than 600 of Enemy Killed, Defense Ministry at Asuncion Announces.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, April 13.—Paraguay's northern army corps, invading the Bolivian department of Santa Cruz, today defeated the 47th Bolivian infantry regiment, the defense ministry announces tonight. More than 600 Bolivians, among them Lieut. Carmelo Cuellar, were killed, the announcement said.

The ministry asserted the Paraguayans, "methodically conquering Bolivian defense positions," were driving forward at the important town of Charagua, a communications center.

FORMER CONVICT GETS 25 YEARS IN EAST SIDE KILLING

Leonard N. Byington Found Guilty in Edwardsville of Murdering Bryce Bolin in Roadhouse.

JURY OUT ONLY HOUR AND A HALF

Victim Found Burned and Shot to Death in December, 1929, Near Granite City.

Leonard N. Byington, former Cuckoo gangster who has served three prison terms, got another one for 25 years from a jury at Edwardsville yesterday for the murder five years ago of Bryce Bolin, a former convict. The jury was out only an hour and a half, after a brief trial in which there were only three witnesses.

Bolin was found shot and burned to death in the charred ruins of "Shady Rest," a roadhouse at Long Lake, three miles east of Granite City, the night of Dec. 23, 1929. William O'Leary of St. Louis, who was shot and wounded, told authorities Byington had shot both him and Bolin, and the gangster was immediately indicted. He was not arrested, however, until last August, when he and a companion, both armed, were seen driving near East St. Louis.

O'Leary was the chief witness against Byington, but an unwilling one. He said he did not want to testify, but was compelled to under subpena. Authorities had believed it a gang shooting, but O'Leary denied that. He said he and Bolin were at the lodge on a hunting and fishing trip when Byington, whom they had met the day before, came in drunk with two companions. The gangster twirled a revolver, talked wildly, then suddenly began shooting, O'Leary said, although he declared he declared he "didn't know exactly why."

Bolin fell to the floor, wounded, and he himself was shot twice, the witness said. Byington and his companion left and he walked to a nearby tavern and telephoned a deputy sheriff, O'Leary related. When he and the officer got back to the roadhouse two hours later the place had been destroyed by fire and Bolin was dead.

The only other witness against Byington was the proprietor of a roadhouse close to Shady Rest who identified the defendant as a man who came into his roadhouse with O'Leary and Bolin several times the day of the murder.

Byington, only defense witness, denied he had anything to do with the shooting. He said he was in St. Louis at the time. He admitted he had been with O'Leary and Bolin in Shady Rest that day, but said he left some time before the shooting. He also admitted serving two terms in the Jefferson City penitentiary and one at Boonville Reformatory for robbery.

The trial, which began late Friday, was held in Circuit Judge Mudge's court.

VENDING MACHINE OPERATOR HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $400

Attacked in Office in Basement of Home, 4151 Westminster Place.

Bernard Ingram, proprietor of the National Cigarette Service Co., operating vending machines, was held up and robbed of $400 by a robber who entered the office of the company in the basement of Ingram's home, 4151 Westminster place, at 5:30 p. m., yesterday.

The man pointed a pistol at Ingram, ordered him to face the wall, took the money from a cash drawer and fled.

NEW POST FOR ST. LOUIS MAN

Lieut. Col. John N. Hodges to Aid in River Improvement Work.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Lieut. Col. John N. Hodges of St. Louis, division engineer of the Upper Mississippi division, in addition to other duties, has been detailed for duty with the Secretary of Commerce for consultation in connection with the system of aids to navigation on the Mississippi River system to facilitate co-ordination of that work with river improvement work.

COLLECTS $6540 IN BACK PAY

NRA Order Brings in Wages Due to 226 Employes of 30 Firms.

Back wages totaling $6540.20 were collected for 226 employes of 30 companies during the period March 31 to April 13 by order of the State NRA Compliance Officer.

The total represented the difference between wages paid and amounts due under the code. The largest sums were restored in retail food and automobile establishments.

Falls in River and Drowns.

Isaac Rivers, a Negro, was drowned at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he fell into the Mississippi River at the foot of Chouteau avenue. Rivers, about 25 years old, lived in a shack on the river bank. Neighbors said he was repairing a fence, which broke, plunging him into the water. The body was carried away by the current.

JURY VOTES DEATH FOR THREE YOUTHS IN MOSS KILLING

the reading of the verdict, Judge Borders said: "If these hysterical parents had thought about what might happen to their children this verdict would not have been necessary. Probably they are more to blame than anyone.

"By your verdict," he went on, turning to the jury, "you have said to the criminals of East St. Louis that it is not safe for them to roam the streets at night bent on robbery and murder. It takes the electric chair to prevent killings of this sort."

Then, facing the defendants, he said: "For the gay times you have had with your 'gals,' at the expense of your holdup victims, you will now pay the supreme penalty.

"The life they took," he continued, "was probably sweeter to him (Moss) than life is to any of these curs and rats."

Judge Borders also took occasion to criticise East St. Louisans who had "so eagerly disqualified themselves as jurors."

To a reporter Dedmon said, "I may have to die but I am not guilty of what the Judge said. I never knew Moss before that holdup."

State's Attorney Zerweck, in his closing argument to the jury, called attention to the position in which the youths stood as Moss approached them, just after leaving a street car.

"One was behind a tree," the prosecutor said, "one across the street, and one was facing Moss. It was a perfect trap, but Fate intervened when a bullet from Moss' gun shattered Dedmon's leg and chained him to the spot."

Demands Death Penalty.

"If ever a case merited the death penalty, it is this one," the State's Attorney said. "This man gave his life fighting for law and order. It is your duty to law and order, and to justice, to find each of these defendants guilty and impose the death penalty."

James Farmer, special prosecutor in the case, denounced the "midnight assassination" and cried: "There is only one punishment in this case: death by electrocution. There is not one circumstance of mitigation. If you believe in law and order and not in vigilante committees, the time to enforce the law is now."

He picked up Krul's revolver and said: "This is the weapon that killed Mr. Moss. This was the only one shooting lead bullets and it was a lead bullet that went through his back, leaving a much larger hole where it emerged.

"One of the witnesses testified he heard 20 or 25 shots. Dedmon's gun held nine, Mr. Moss' revolver, six. That makes 15, so the other fellows must have been doing some shooting, too."

In planning the robbery, Farmer said, the three young hoodlums were "measuring out this old man's life's blood for the few dirty dollars they could get."

Ben Creamer, appointed by the court to represent Balling, made a plea for the youngest of the defendants, because of his youth, and the fact that he readily admitted his guilt. He contended also that Balling did no shooting.

Self Defense Angle.

Harold Bandy of Granite City, for the defense, argued that the three went out with the intent to commit robbery, but not murder, and that the shooting was in the nature of self-defense, as he contended that Moss fired first.

John M. Karns, attorney for Dedmon, who was taken into court on a cot, pleaded for the "poor, unfortunate boy," making an appeal for mercy.

None of the defendants was placed on the witness stand when the time came for defense testimony yesterday, and no defense testimony was offered. In this way, the jury was kept from learning from the testimony of the previous criminal records of Dedmon and Krul, former convicts who were at liberty under bail on burglary convictions.

The defense lawyers, in cross-examining police witnesses, brought out that deceit was used in capturing Krul. Dedmon, wounded and captured, was told that Krul had been killed, and was asked for Krul's address, which he gave to the police, resulting in Krul's prompt arrest. Krul's name had first been obtained from Balling, arrested because he was a known associate of Dedmon.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST HEADS OF CLOSED INDIANAPOLIS BANKS

Three Accused After Five Years of Accepting Deposits When Knowing of Insolvency.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 13.—Affidavits were filed in Criminal Court today against three officers of closed banks in Indianapolis.

Those named are Sol S. Meyer, former president of the Meyer-Kiser Bank; Dick Miller, former president of the City Trust Co., and Mark V. Rinehart, former vice-president of the Washington State Bank & Trust Co. Each is charged with embezzling deposits. The affidavits were signed by John Dugan, investigator for the office of Herbert M. Spencer, county prosecutor. The affidavits charge the offenses were committed nearly five years ago.

The failure of the three banks brought losses to 35,000 depositors whose deposits totaled $12,000,000.

The officers are accused of receiving deposits when they knew their banks were insolvent.

Meyer already is under indictment for embezzlement in connection with the failure of his bank. He is in Miami, Fla. Rinehart has been living in Louisville, Ky. Extradition papers for their return will be prepared next week, the prosecutor said.

PUBLIC DEBT UP 8 BILLION; INTEREST DOWN 28 MILLION

Comptroller of Currency O'Connor Gives Figures on Result of Refunding Operations.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor said tonight that while the public debt had increased $8,000,000,000 since 1925, interest charges on it have been reduced $28,000,000 due to the Government's refunding operations. Today on a debt of $28,478,664,000 the Government is paying $801,000,000 interest a year, he said. In 1925 the interest was $820,000,000 on a debt of $20,000,000,000.

"The public debt of England is $33,904,080,000, or $736.37 per capita; in France it is $21,108,846,000, or $503.78 per capita, and in Italy, $8,773,229,000, or $205.84 per capita," O'Connor said. "The United States has a public debt of $224.60 per capita.

"In other words, the per capita debt of the United States is approximately one-third that of England, one-half that of France and about the same as that of Italy."

POLICEMAN'S SHOULDER BROKEN

Motorcycle Patrolman Elihu Sander, 4112 Shenandoah avenue, suffered a broken left shoulder yesterday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in front of 4035 Lindell boulevard while he was escorting the Humane Society horse parade.

The driver of the car said he was Sidney Clark, 4938 Pernod avenue, a department manager at the Federal Reserve Bank. Sander was taken to Barnes Hospital.

38 GIVE AFFIDAVITS FOR MRS. MUENCH ON VENUE CHANGE

Hearing on Kelley Kidnaping Defendant's Application to Begin at Clayton Tomorrow.

Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, defendant in the Kelley kidnaping case, yesterday sought to file 38 affidavits in Circuit Judge Nolte's court in support of her application for a change of venue, hearing on which will be started tomorrow at Clayton.

Walter Wehrle, one of her counsel, presented the affidavits to the clerk of Judge Nolte's court before the Judge had reached the courthouse. However, Judge Nolte, upon arrival, ruled they would have to be presented to him by counsel personally, and defense counsel were so notified.

The affidavits—eight from residents of St. Charles County, nine from Franklin County and 21 from St. Louis and St. Louis County—all alleged that there was much prejudice against Mrs. Muench, that in none of the localities could she have a fair and impartial trial on the charge of kidnaping Dr. Isaac D. Kelley for ransom on April 20, 1931.

What Affidavits Say.

In each of the affidavits it was alleged that popular discussion of the case indicated that citizens generally believed Mrs. Muench to be guilty, and in some of them it was also stated that this was the result of newspaper account of the case. The same allegations were made in the application for a change of venue, in which it was alleged the prejudice extended not only to St. Louis and St. Louis County, but also to St. Charles, Washington, Warren, Gasconade and Franklin counties.

Mrs. Muench is docketed for trial tomorrow, but has obtained a continuance until 10 days after adjournment of the Legislature on the ground taht one of her attorneys, State Representative Edgar J. Keating, is busy with the affairs of the General Assembly and that she is entitled to the statutory continuance provided for such a circumstance.

City and County Signers.

The St. Louis and St. Louis County residents listed as signing affidavits were:

Bernard J. Kohnen, 2253 Shenandoah avenue; Hyman Feder, 4701 McMillan avenue; Louis H. Schneider, 5782 Kingsbury avenue; Richard Davenport, no address given; Jack Miller, 5107A Delmar boulevard; H. pounded in the Federal Court and about $1,750,000 in the Circuit Court here.

Suit to Force Refund.

Another suit, in which the State is attempting to compel the companies to refund the remainder of the excess premiums collected before the 1922 rate reduction of 10 per cent was sustained by the United States Supreme Court, is pending in Cole County Circuit Court. The companies charged the higher rates during the seven years of litigation. They collected about $13,000,000 in excess premiums during that period. It has been estimated that from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 of this amount never has been refunded to policyholders.

WHISTLE BLOWING WHEN TRAIN HIT BUS, CREW SAYS

Engineer and Fireman Testify at Inquiry Into Collision Fatal to 14 Children.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, April 13.—Traveling through a drizzling rain at a speed officially recorded at 58 miles an hour, a Baltimore & Ohio express train crashed into a loaded school bus with whistle blowing and bell ringing, a railroad inquiry board was told today. The St. Louis-Washington liimted struck the bus Thursday night at Rockville, Md. Fourteen of the 29 bus passengers were killed and two others seriously injured.

The engineer and fireman testified before railroad officials and Interstate Commerce Commission inspectors that every safety precaution had been observed the Percy Line, driver of the bus, is at liberty under $1000 bond on a charge of manslaughter.

In Williamsport, plans were made for a memorial service to be held for the victims Wednesday afternoon. Individual funeral services will be conducted tomorrow, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

William F. Bussey, the fireman, told of watching the lights of the bus creep up toward the crossing, appear to hesitate on the first rail, then go on into the path of the onrushing engine. Bussey said he shouted "hold'er—we're going to hit a bus," a second before the collision.

Saw "Flash Like Fire."

J. A. Shoebridge, with a record of 32 years as an engineer, told of hearing Bussey's cry. He said he never saw the bus, but a few seconds after he applied the brakes he saw a flash "like fire" in front of the engine.

He testified he began blowing the whistle at a "whistling-board" about 1400 feet from the crossing. He said he began to ring the bell about mid-way and both bell and whistle were sounding at the time of the crash, he testified.

The inquiry developed the fact that the bus approached the tracks from the left of the train, the engineer's post being on the right of the cab. Shoebridge told of seeing another machine crossing the tracks from left to right just prior to striking the bus, but Bussey was unable to recall any other vehicle being on the road.

Call Point "Important."

G. W. Lovering, chief of the accident section of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Safety, questioned Bussey repeatedly on this point, saying he thought it "important."

H. T. Clark, road foreman of engineers, said the tape of the sealed speed indicator showed the train was running 58 miles an hour at the time of the crash. The speed limit, it was said, is 60 miles an hour at that point.

B. & O. officials issued no statement after the hearing, but Lovering intimated his department would be represented at the inquest Tuesday at Rockville. He said testimony taken today will be included in a file of the complete investigation he will make, and that recommendations for criminal action "if any" would be submitted with his report. No results of the investigation, he said, would be made public for at least a month.

STRIKERS COMPLAIN TO LANDIS ABOUT CARDINAL BALL PLAYER

Garment Workers' Union Quotes Leo Durocher as Telling Them to Return to Jobs.

A letter complaining of the "unfriendliness" of Shortstop Leo Durocher of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball team to the strike of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at the Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1627 Washington avenue, was sent by the union Friday to Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

As a specific example of "unfriendliness" it was stated that on Feb. 22 Durocher told members of the union they had better go back to work, that "you are walking the streets for nothing and while you are starving my wife is getting as much in one day as you would in a week."

Durocher, whose wife is a dress designer for the Forest City company, gave testimony in Police Court on April 10 on the basis of which Miss Dorris Smith, a garment worker, was fined $240 for disturbing his peace when he took Mrs. Durocher to the plant for work on Feb. 22.

Mrs. Durocher, who said she was classed as an executive by the company, denied yesterday that Durocher had made remarks such as were attributed to him in the letter. She is not a member of the garment workers' union.

DIES IN FLORIDA

MISS MARGARET M. AUGHIVAN.

MISS MARGARET AUGHIVAN FUNERAL HERE TOMORROW

Former St. Louis Nurse, 43, Killed in Auto Accident at Lake City, Fla.

Funeral services for Miss Margaret M. Aughivan, former St. Louis nurse, who died Thursday at Lake City, Fla., of injuries suffered April 1 in an automobile accident, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. from St. Mark's Catholic Church, Page boulevard and Academy avenue. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Miss Aughivan, 43 years old, recently was stationed at a naval hospital at Pensacola, Fla. The accident occurred while she was driving with another nurse at Lake City, where they were vacationing. The automobile apparently skidded and overturned. Her companion is recovering.

Shortly after graduation from St. John's Hospital here in June, 1917, she enlisted in the Army Nurse Corps and served in France during the World War. Following the armistice, she joined the Navy hospital service and served in the Philippine Islands, Brooklyn, N. Y., and San Diego, Cal.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Thomas H. McDonough and Mrs. Mary McKelvey of St. Louis and Mrs. Eugene Barrymore of Bowling Green, Mo., and a brother, Thomas Aughivan of Grover, Mo.

MISSOURI U. ACCEPTS PRESIDENT'S RESIGNATION

Dr. F. A. Middlebush to Continue As Acting Executive in Williams' Place.

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri, meeting yesterday at Hotel Jefferson, accepted the resignation of Dr. Walter Williams as president of the university, effective June 30. Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, dean of the School of Business and Public Administration, will continue as acting president.

Candidates recommended to succeed Dr. Williams as president were considered by the board, but no definite action was taken because the special commitee to investigate possible successors has not completed its work. F. M. McDavid, president of the board and head of the special committee, said it would be two or three weeks before the new president would be chosen. The board also failed to appoint a successor to Dean E. J. McCaustland of College of Engineering.

Three new curators were sworn in at the meeting. They are: James A. Potter, Jefferson City, J. A. Wolpers, Poplar Bluff and John H. Lathorp Jr., Kansas City. They replace A. A. Speer of Jefferson City, Mercer Arnold of Kansas City, and Mrs. Helen G. Zwick of St. Joseph, whose terms have expired.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT IN SUIT OF SON AGAINST MOTHER

Basil Vairo Awarded $1500 for Injury to Hand in Home of Mrs. Josephine Vairo.

A motion for a new trial was filed in Circuit Judge McAfee's court yesterday in the suit of Basil Vairo against his mother, Mrs. Josephine Vairo, in which a jury last week returned a verdict in his favor for $1500.

Vairo, who resides at the home of his mother at 3238 Minnesota avenue, alleged that on Aug. 8, 1933, he received an injury to his left hand when a porcelain water faucet in the basement broke. The faucet was defective and the property owner was guilty of negligence in permitting it to remain in that condition, according to his petition.

The motion for a new trial was filed by attorneys for a liability insurance company in which Mrs. Vairo carried property insurance protecting her against damage suits. Her son's suit was for $7500.

WOODEN CELL EXHIBITED IN MOONEY DEMONSTRATION

To Be Displayed at Labor Union Meetings in City Today.

A group of men from the Molders' Union and the Committee for the Defense of Tom Mooney placed a wooden cell seven feet high and four feet wide on the lawn of the Old Courthouse yesterday long enough for photographers to take pictures, and then carried it away.

They stated they would apply for a permit from the City to place the cell there permanently.

The cell which bears the sign "Tom Mooney a Member of the Molders' Union for 32 years," will be shown at various labor meetings today.

PARTY HARMONY URGED AT DINNER ON JEFFERSON DAY

Mayor Dickmann and R. E. Hannegan, City Committee Chairman, Warn Against Factions.

A plea for harmony in the Democratic ranks was made last night by Mayor Dickmann and Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, at the annual Jefferson Day dinner of the Jefferson Club of St. Louis at Hotel Jefferson.

Hannegan, who also is president of the club and who introduced the guest speaker, Congressman Jennings Randolph, of the Second District of West Virginia, asserted that as many as five factions had developed among Democrats in a single ward and said: "Unless we forget about fighting among ourselves and present a united front we won't be in power two years from now."

Hannegan criticised Democratic Aldermen and School Board members who had not co-operated with Mayor Dickmann's administration, referring to them as "disgruntled Democrats who had more now than ever before."

After introducing the 14 new Democratic Aldermen he admonished them not to "permit any individual to come in and stir up strife." The "Democratic party," he continued, "is above lobbyists and representatives of utilities."

Mayor's Speech.

Mayor Dickmann prefaced his address by observing: "Bob Hannegan gave you a real Jeffersonian speech. And you may consider that notice is served that if you don't want to go along with a united group of Democrats you had better go to the other party."

The Mayor added that he regarded the recent election as indicative of a "big happy party" and expressed the hope that there would be "no more differences in the Board of Aldermen" and that it would work for "the good of the city as well as the party."

"I am hopeful that the newly elected members of the Board of Aldermen together with those that are holding over", Mayor Dickmann said, "will place in the hands of the president of the board the powers rightfully belonging to that office and all co-operate in the adoption of any constructive measure of benefit to the city as well as the party."

Replies to New Deal Critics.

Congressman Randolph outlined the career of Thomas Jefferson, the one hundredth and ninety-second anniversary of whose birth was observed yesterday, and praised the policies of President Roosevelt, taking issue with his critics.

"The only liberties which have been taken away from anyone are those liberties which gave an employer the right to exploit child labor," Randolph said, "to operate insanitary sweat shops and to deny to organized labor the right to collective bargaining."

The "liberty" of "unscrupulous bankers to destroy cities and communities" had been denied, he continued, while "fake brokers and stock salesmen have had their liberty taken away."

President Roosevelt, Randolph said, is "giving banking institutions of this nation an opportunity to make good." After detailing other Administration policies, he said it was necessary for labor and capital to co-operate to "eliminate future need of emergency action."

Other Speakers.

Other speakers included McCune Gill, historian, who outlined the history of early St. Louis and detailed plans for the development of the river front in line with the aims of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial.

Others at the speakers' table included Superintendent of Insurance O'Malley, Speaker John Christy of the Missouri House of Representatives; Roy Hamlin, Democratic floor leader of the House; State Treasurer Nacy and Dwight Brown, Secretary of State.

About 800 persons attended the dinner, including Federal and State and city officials.

AAA Crop-Curtailing Plan Defended by Woman Speaker.

Policies of the Agricultural Adjustment Act frequently under criticism, such as wastefulness in the plowing under of crops, reducing cotton acreage and slaughtering immature beef and pork, were defended by Mrs. Marie F. Maguire, of St. Paul, a field representative of the AAA in an address to 100 women members of the Women's Democratic Club at a Jefferson day breakfast at the Park Plaza yesterday.

"People were glad enough to turn everything over to Roosevelt when a revolution threatened," she said. "Now that we are working through and there are signs of economic recovery, those who were then so timid are beginning to grow bold with criticisms."

"The talent, service and experience of women are being recognized in the present administration at Washington as never before. We are turning from an age of materialism into an age of humanitarianism and the special resources and endowments of women fit well into the social and welfare program. If we had more of the so-called new-fangled ideas in operation we might have crushed the depression. It was because of a program of social legislation well in advance of ours that England has been able to fill the gap in the world wide depression as no other country has done."

Passage of Thought Through Brain Recorded

Harvard Scientists Demonstrate Physical Effect of Thinking by Use of Body's Electricity.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, April 13.—The passage of thought through the human brain was recorded on paper here today through electric wires. The substance of these thoughts could not be read on the paper, however.

With a similar hook-up also the muscles of the human body telegraphed a record of their fatigue and wrote it on paper. Both experiments were shown by Harvard scientists to the Federation of American Societies for experimental biology. In both cases the body supplied all the electric current, energies of a few millionths of a volt which naturally flow uninterruptedly throughout life.

Fine needles piercing the flesh painlessly with aid of anesthetics acted as telegraph poles. Wires attached to the needles carried the body's electrical messages.

Thought Recording.

For thought recording one needle was in the scalp, the other in the lobe of the ear. The brain messages were amplified enough to move a pen. The experiment began with a man sitting still, his mind and body both at rest. The needle traced a wavy line, with about nine waves a second.

"Close your eyes," he was told. As he did so, the waves instantly became larger, and a trifle slower. Their rhythm showed a brain even more restful with eyes shut than open, probably because the eyes were no longer seeing objects in the room.

"Now multiply in your head 21 by 32," he was commanded. Almost instantly the waves ceased. In their place the ink line became smooth, as if pressure were placed on it.

In a moment the man spoke the answer, "672." As he did so, the waves came back to the electric current produced by his brain. Then the waves stopped abruptly—the smooth line came back. Then the man said: "Yes—672—that's right."

He had been checking his result. The needle recorded this check—thought before he could speak it. As he finished the check, the waves came back.

"Now," he was told, "spell alpha-amino-beta-hydroxybutyric acid." This is a new word coined by chemists at this meeting for a lifegiving acid isolated from food proteins.

As the man spelled the word, the needle again drew a smooth line. There were contours in these smooth, thought lines, but nothing that anyone can even attempt to decipher with present knowledge of the subject.

Recording Muscle Activity.

The thought recording was directed by H. Davis, F. A. Gibbs and E. L. Garceau of Harvard Medical School. The electrical mesages flowing from muscles were described by D. B. Lindsley of the school, who thrust the needle electrodes deep into his arm or leg muscles.

Whenever he moved such a muscle, electric currents flowed and traced their presence with a pen on a paper as a series of waves. The weakest voluntary contraction of muscles produced four to five waves a second. As voluntary effort increased the waves stepped up to 15 or 20 a second.

When the muscles were contracted with full strength the waves ran 40 to 50 a second. When the muscle was fatigued, however, a change took place. The pen showed this by drawing continually smaller and smaller waves.

AIR COLLEGE STUDENT KILLED ON MOTORCYCLE

Williamson (N. Y.) Youth Victim in Collision With Truck; Companion Hurt.

Lester LeRoy, 20 years old, a mechanical student of Williamon, N. Y., at Parks' Air College, died yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, from a punctured lung suffered when thrown beneath the wheels of a truck which collided with a motorcycle he was riding.

The driver of the motor cycle, Oscar Holt, 22, Dallas, Tex., also an aviation student, suffered a fractured left ankle. He was driving south on Tenth street, when a truck driven by Ed Thomas, Negro laborer of Venice, turned suddenly into Trendley avenue ahead of him. The motorcycle crashed into the side of the truck, and LeRoy fell beneath its wheels.

Another Cyclist Injured by Hitting Auto Near St. Charles.

Ora Wintermeyer, 25-year-old student at Eden Seminary, suffered a skull fracture and a brain hemorrhage yesterday when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of an automobile on Highway 40, 10 miles west of St. Charles. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles. He was riding to his home in Hartsburg, Mo. The car was driven by George Barklage, St. Charles hardware dealer.

WITNESS ASSAILS COTTON GARMENT CODE AUTHORITY

Counsel for Work Shirt Manufacturers Alleges $1,000,000 Fund Has Been Misused.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13. — A group of small business men urged extension of the recovery law today, their testimony being a preliminary to the appearance next week of Hugh S. Johnson, former administrator, in the Senate's NRA inquiry.

Spokesmen who said they represented thousands of little business firms told the Senate Finance Committee that NRA instead of oppressing them had been their salvation.

As the fifth week of the investigation closed, Chairman Harrison announced the hearings would end next Thursday with Johnson the last witness.

Though the testimony today was predominantly favorable to the recovery law, there were some protests. One, representing farmers, referred to monopolistic tendencies under NRA. Spokesmen for small plumbing firms and retail hardware stores also opposed the law.

Code Expenditures Assailed.

The final witness, Mortimer Fishel, counsel for the National Work Shirt Manufacturers' Association, charged irregularities in expenditure of more than $1,000,000 collected by the cotton garment code authority, and asked the committee to investigate.

He said the code authority, instead of keeping a separate bank account for this amount, had put it "in the private bank account of a private trade association," the International Association of Garment Manufacturers.

Fishel said his group, which came under the cotton garment code, had never been able to see the books of the code authority and asked the committee to go into them. He also demanded legislation to prevent "recurrence of irregularities in the handling of code funds and to curb the orgy of extravagant expenditure of code funds."

Harrison announced that after Johnson's testimony Thursday, the committee, in executive session, would begin to frame legislation to extend the recovery law. Already he and other administration leaders are working behind the scenes to find compromises on the major issues, such as price fixing and anti-trust provisions.

Johnson's Chance to Reply.

Johnson will have a chance to answer witnesses before the committee who assailed his administration of NRA, and to give his views on how the new legislation should be framed. He has been keeping in close touch with the protests and complaints as they were filed during the inquiry.

Witnesses for small drug stores and retail tobacco dealers provided the dominant tone of the day's testimony. The retail code authority reported that only the National Retail Hardware Association had voted against NRA.

William A. Hollingsworth, president of the Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, composed of 750,000 retail outlets, testified that the retail tobacco code was 'conceived by the little man, initiated by the little man, operates for the little man, and is administered and managed by the little man."

"Under the code," Hollingsworth said, 'the little retail tobacco dealer is enjoying progress and assurances of protection against his natural enemies never enjoyed before, and he wants it continued."

Hollingsworth was followed by I. H. Lefkowitz, a small New York City tobacco dealer, who charged the "big four" cigarette manufacturers had attacked the code undercover "because they know retail price control is a menace to monopoly."

"When I compare what I have now with my condition before the code, I seem to be living in clover," the little dealer said.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES UP

March Figures Reveal 30.3 Per Cent Gain Over February.

Dollar value of department store sales in St. Louis during March increased 30.3 per cent over the February mark, but were 1.8 per cent below the record in March, 1934, the Federal Reserve Bank reported yesterday. The cumulative increase for the first three months of 1935 was 1 per cent.

For the Eighth District as a whole, March sales were 29.8 per cent larger than those in the preceding month and 3.9 per cent less than those in March last year. The cumulative drop in the first quarter of this year was .4 per cent. The largest month-to-month increases were shown by Evansville, Ind., with an increase of 50.9 per cent, and Louisville, Ky., with 45.5 per cent.

St. Louisans Hurt in Crash.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13.—W. A. Wigance, St. Louis, was brought to Baptist Hospital here today in a serious condition after an automobile accident near Frenchman's Bayou, Ark. Hospital attaches said he has a broken right arm and internal injuries. Wigance and R. L. Harris, also of St. Louis, were headed for Memphis when their automobile and another machine collided and overturned. Harris was slightly bruised.

TOWNSEND PLAN REPORTED CHANGED TO $50 A MONTH

Congressman Buck Says He Is Informed Sponsors Reduced $200 Pension Figure.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Half way through its 20 hours of debate on the administration's social security program, the House was told today by Representative Buck (Dem.), California, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, that he was informed the Townsend plan to be offered as an amendment to the pending bill would call for a $50 payment to those more than 60. Originally the Townsend program was $200 a month.

Democratic leaders already had said they were confident of defeating the Townsend old-age pension idea. They said they would clear the way for a "showdown vote" if the proposal were offered as a substitute to the administration bill—as appeared probable.

Leaders said today the change in the McGroarty bill—the original Townsend bill—made the defeat of the proposition almost certain and predicted there would be only 50 votes for it.

St. Louis Woman Wins Contest.

Miss Elba Butts, 6515 San Bonita avenue, was awarded first place, and Libero Monachesi, 368 North Taylor avenue, second place in the state elimination voice contest of the National Federation of Music Clubs, held last week in Kansas City. Miss Butts also won the district contest and is eligible for the national contest.

ST. LOUIS SALES RISE FIRST TIME SINCE 1928-29

Taxable Business for Year Ending Last May Up 11.8 Per Cent From Previous Fiscal Period.

Taxable sales of St. Louis merchants and manufacturers for the year ended May 31, 1934, increased $73,810,100, or 11.8 per cent, over sales for the preceding year, it was shown in License Collector Renick's annual report yesterday. They totaled $696,047,100, as compared to $622,237,000 for the fiscal year 1932-33.

Manufacturers' sales had previously decreased every year since 1925-26, and merchants' sales every year during the same period with the exception of 1928-29. For example, the total sales for the fiscal year 1925-26 were $1,402,271,000.

Merchants has sales of $357,028,100 for 1933-34, an increase of $17,987,100 over the preceding year; stocks on hand of $37,257,485, and paid a tax of $841,311.

Manufacturers had sales of $339,019,000, an increase of $55,823,000; stocks of $44,310,000, and paid $907,091 taxes. The total increase in taxes was $174,860.

Clash at Los Angeles Students' Peace Demonstration

SCENE at Los Angeles Junior College, Friday, when students tried to pull down an American flag. Also, a girl speaker was dragged from the platform.

There were 14,733 licenses issued to merchants, a decrease of 267 from the preceding year, and 1813 licenses to manufacturers, an increase of 40. Sales are taxed $1 per $1000, and stock at $1.28 per $100 valuation.

Total collections from all sources for the fiscal year which ended last Monday were $4,026,720, an increase of $551,097 over the preceding year. The gain was largely due to liquor licenses, which brought $481,000. Of this, $309,750 came from 2065 licenses to sell by the drink, $61,050 from 407 licenses to sell by the package, $78,000 from 52 wholesalers, $30,000 from 20 manufacturers and $2200 from 44 licenses for selling liquor less than 22 per cent in alcoholic content.

There were 154,363 automobile licenses issued, bringing in $712,217, as compared to 182,944 licenses and revenue of $838,256 for 1932-33, when a late deadline for purchasing licenses caused many motorists to buy them after April 8, 1932.

The mill tax on street car revenue was $104,214, an increase of $713.

A police drive against unlicensed bicycles resulted in 9365 being taxed at $1 each as compared to 987 for the preceding year.

Only 4637 dog licenses were issued at $2 each, as compared with 6137 the year before. Hotels increased from 303 to 403, with a rise in license revenue from $6147 to $7603. Dance halls increased from 89 to 217, with revenue going up from $5030 to $7360. Service cars dropped from 469 to 376 in number, but brought $3929 in license fees, an increase of $875, because of larger automobiles.

Fewer Undertakers.

The number of undertakers licensed dropped from 154 to 113, with a $1000 decrease in license fees to $3575. Only 122 theaters took out licenses as compared to 152 the year before, but revenue was increased by $900, to $15,200. Only 662 slot machines were taxed at $2, as compared to 1012 the previous year. There were 374 motorbusses licensed for $9350 as compared to 306 busses and $7637 in fees for 1932-33.

The city gasoline tax brought $626,748, an increase of $11,071. The 5 per cent tax on gross wrestling reecipts brought $5255 and that on boxing $977.

Of the total collections, the city receives $3,134,387; the state $72,176 for its treasury, $8153 for its interest fund, $24,475 for its blind pension fund, $48,940 for its soldiers' bonus interest and sinking fund; the City Art Museum and Zoo $16,313 each; the public schools $685,354; the school bond interest and sinking fund, $7978, and the Public Library, $32,627.

VETERAN COURT EMPLOYE TO RETIRE ON 70TH BIRTHDAY

Frank O'Laughlin Was in Republican Politics 40 Years; Has Had Present Position 27 Years.

Frank O'Laughlin, veteran court employe, who has been active in Republican politics more than 40 years, will retire from public office April 22, when his present position in the "disposed of" files department in Circuit Court will be taken by a Democrat, appointed by Circuit Clerk H. Sam Priest. The date of his retirement happens to be the seventieth birthday of O'Laughlin, who will celebrate the occasion with his family at their home, 8218 Pennsylvania avenue.

Through a boyhood friendship with Edmond Koeln, former City Collector, O'Laughlin became active in Republican activities in the old Twelfth Ward in Carondelet. His first political activity was at the Republican convention in 1894, when Cyrus P. Walbridge was nominated for Mayor. Later he received an appointment in the fire and police telegraph division of the city and then in the administration of Mayor Ziegenhein served as garbage inspector. His court work began 27 years ago, first as deputy clerk in the Court of Criminal Correction, which position he held 18 years, and then nine years as an employe in the Circuit Clerk's office.

MAIL MARKER ADVERTISES 1935 LEGION CONVENTION

Special Cancelation Urges Recipients to Attend Homecoming in City Sept. 23-26.

Beginning today, a special cancelation marker will be used on all mail leaving St. Louis advertising the 1935 national convention of the American Legion, it was announced yesterday by Jules R. Field, executive secretary of the Convention Committee.

The marker will urge recipients of the mail to attend "the Legion's homecoming" in St. Louis from Sept. 23 to 26, inclusive. The marker was arranged through the cooperation of local postal officials.

ANOTHER SUIT OVER E. D. FRANZ ESTATE

Son Says Bank and Attorneys Carried on Groundless Litigation; Seeks $960,000.

G. A. Franz, of Ouray, Colo., filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday for $960,500 damages in connection with litigation over the estate of his father, the late Ehrhardt D. Franz, wealthy St. Louis grocer, who died in 1898.

The petition named the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., A. Holt Roudebush, its vice-president; S. Mayner Wallace, Thomas M. Pierce and Samuel H. Liberman, attorneys, as co-defendants.

Under the will of the elder Franz, his estate was left in trust for the benefit of his widow, Mrs. Sophie Franz, who died in 1930. The will provided that at her death the property was to be distributed among their children, of whom there were 10.

According to the damage suit, defendants carried on groundless litigation without benefit to the estate and as a result of prolonged lawsuits the plaintiff has been deprived of his property and otherwise damaged.

It was alleged in the suit that in 1923 E. W. Franz, one of the heirs, filed suit in Federal District Court through his attorney, S. Mayner Wallace, to establish his rights in the estate. The Mississippi Valley Trust Co., the present suit set forth, was appointed ancilliary administrator for the estate of two brothers, Walter G. and Ernest W. Franz, in order to intervene in the Federal Court action. Pierce and Liberman were employed by the trust company as its attorneys in the matter.

According to G. A. Franz, the Federal Court case was dismissed by the court but an appeal was taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeads, which sustained the lower court. Subsequently litigation was started to remove the trustees of the E. D. Franz estate, which was also dismissed, but appealed. It was alleged that before the appeal on the second action could be heard Mrs. Franz died and the estate should have been distributed among the surviving heirs.

G. A. Franz said his share of the estate amounted to 28,250 shares of stock in the Burroughs Adding Machine Co., distribution of which has been delayed because of the various court actions. A reporter who asked the trust company for a statement was referred to Attorney Liberman, who could not be reached.

$600,000,000 PROPOSED FOR WATER AND SOIL PROBLEMS

Committee of Valley Association Refers to Dust Storms in First Meeting Here.

Members of the Mississippi Valley Association's Committee on Use of Water Resources, from the dust-swept plains states and the lower reaches of the Mississippi River subject to floods, expressed hope that at least $600,000,000 of the $4,800,000,000 Federal public works appropriation would be spent in meeting their problems. Their first meeting was held yesterday at Hotel Statler.

The committee authorized at the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association here last November is concerned with flood control, navigation of the Mississippi and its tributaries and soil erosion, problems due to improper seasonal distribution of water, according to Chairman Wade Martin of Martinsville, La., chairman of the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

It advocates a reservoir system to control the release of water at flood periods and supply arid sections subject to drouth. Arthur J. Weaver, Falls City, Neb., former Governor of Nebraska, was appointed chairman of a Policy Committee, and six subcommittees representing various geographical areas of the Mississippi system were authorized.

Speakers included Col. Robert Isham Randolph of Chicago, president of the Mississippi Valley Association. The Committee on Use of Water Resources will meet again at Washington, April 29.

Forgiven for Stealing Milk

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Justice transcended technicalities today to provide William Rittereiser, with food for his wife and six children. He and a neighbor stole a case of milk from a dairy today. A detective burst into his dingy flat and found Rittereiser warming some milk. The dairy owner refused to press the charge and sent a basket of groceries to feed the family.

Rittereiser, who lost a leg in an accident, has been jobless for two years. He said an application for relief had brought no results.

Easter
OLD FASHIONED BAKED HAM DINNER

Chinaware from Marshall Field & Co.

See W. C. FIELDS eating ham in "MISSISSIPPI"

Twenty years ago, W. C. Fields was a vaudeville juggler. Today as the star of "David Copperfield" and "Mississippi" he is one of the great comedians of our generation. The jump from five-a-day vaudeville to the legitimate stage occurred when he appeared with McIntyre and Heath in "The Ham Tree." This, he slyly explains, may account for his great passion for baked ham. Be sure to see him in his latest triumph, "MISSISSIPPI."

W. C. Fields invites you to enjoy his favorite Easter dinner as planned by Marie Gifford of Armour's and featured by your dealer all this month

"Sundays, holidays, or just ordinary weekdays, nothing hits the spot with me like a good plate of baked ham and sweet potatoes. You can serve me a big helping and a second helping any day in the year."

W. C. Fields
(Star of "Mississippi")

EVERY month Armour searches far and wide for the most delicious meal it can find . . . THE MEAL OF THE MONTH. Pictured above is the choice for Easter-tide . . . an Old-Fashioned Baked Ham Dinner.

W. C. Fields picked it as his favorite meal . . . and he's passing it on to his millions of friends. Best of all, Armour has arranged with food stores from coast to coast to feature this meal all during April. You can buy it complete . . . from one dealer, at one time, in one bundle. A meal to make every member of your family stand up and cheer.

Why this ham is beyond compare

The difference, the really amazing difference, is in the ham. For the entire meal is built around an Armour's Fixed-Flavor Star Ham . . . baked in a coating of brown sugar, grated pineapple and bread crumbs . . . cut into tender and toothsome slices . . . and gloriously mated with candied sweet potatoes, buttered asparagus, and all the delightful accessories.

The matchless flavor of Armour's Star Ham is due to a secret formula . . . a mild, sweet sugar-cure, then a long, slow smoking over fragrant hickory fires. The result is a ham so perfectly cured it needs no parboiling . . . never needs to go near the water! Then too, its flavor is always the same, whether you buy it in January or June, in Philadelphia or Phoenix.

Now glance again at the photograph and behold the asparagus, plentifully drenched in choicest butter . . . a butter born of lush green meadows and containing the richness of eight half-pints of table cream in every pound . . . Armour's Cloverbloom.

No wonder this feast is favored by that king of actors, the great Micawber of "David Copperfield," the lovable river captain of "Mississippi" . . . W. C. Fields, himself!

New money-saving way to buy

Early tomorrow, go to your nearest dealer who displays the Armour MEAL OF THE MONTH. There in his store, grouped around a big display card, you will see all the makings for this marvelous Baked Ham Dinner. There, too, you can buy the complete meal . . . in whatever quantities you need. A whole ham, for instance, a half ham, or just the center slices.

With your purchase, your dealer will provide you with a free booklet by Marie Gifford, food economist at Armour's, telling how to bake the ham . . . how to prepare the vegetables . . . how to assemble a perfectly balanced meal. This booklet also gives you five delightful recipes for using ham "left-overs." Even if meals are for only two, these recipes will make the purchase of a whole ham very economical indeed. Tomorrow, early, look for the MEAL OF THE MONTH display . . . buy the ham, the sweets and all the makings at the one store . . . and set your table for a glorious feast!

LITTLE CHANGE BY CITY BOARD IN ASSESSMENTS

Equalization Group Decreases Realty and Personal Total by Assessor Only $19,870.

Few Appeals Under New Valuation System Put in Effect With CWA Workers.

The Board of Equalization, which concluded its annual four-week session yesterday, made changes in the assessed valuation of real and personal property which had only a negligible effect on the total assessment as reported by Assessor Coale.

In 70 instances the board reduced real estate assessments by a total of $161,300. There were 20 increases and one decrease in personal property assessments, resulting in a net increase of $141,430. Combining real estate and personal property assessments, the net change was a decrease of $19,870.

This left the total at $993,647,890, of which $912,620,240 was for real estate, and $81,027,650 for personal property. These figures do not include utility assessments which are made by the State Board of Tax Equalization, and totaled about $53,000,000 last year.

24 Loan Firms Get Increases.

Most of the increase in personal property assessments resulted from the action of the board in citing 24 loan companies thought to have made inadequate returns. Twenty of these, which had filed returns totaling $167,040, agreed to increases which totaled $292,080.

The loan companies which amended their returns, and the changes made were: Auto Finance Co., $1300 to $10,300; Auto Money Corporation, $2460 to $4000; Commonwealth Loan Co., $7130 to $11,130; Fulton Loan, No. 1, $7220 to $8220; General Loan Co., Paul Brown Building, $7700 to $10,000; General Loan Co., Victoria Building, $1500 to $2500; General Motors Acceptance Corporation, $38,570 to $113,580; Guaranty Motor Corporation, $2400 to $12,200; Local Finance Co., $1450 to $10,000; Merchants' Loan and Finance Co., $600 to $6200; Metropolitan Loan and Investment Co., $10,000 to $11,100; Royal Loan Co., $11,800 to $17,800; Standard Motor Finance Co., $3820 to $11,200; St. Clair Loan Co., $3750 to $11,150; C. I. T. Corporation, $3710 to $48,710; University Credit Co., $6510 to $51,500; National Bond and Investment Co., $6850 to $30,000; Lasker Finance Co., $13,820 to $21,070; Welfare Finance Co., $32,250 to $62,250, and Economy Finance Co., $4200 to $6200.

The only decrease in personal property returns was in that of the W. D. Collins estate, which was reduced by $150,650. The represented notes and bonds reported by the executor with the notations that they were not in his possession, but were held by Mrs. Collins. The board obtained a ruling from the City Counselor that they could not be taxed against the estate.

The 70 Realty Reductions.

The 70 reductions in real estate assessments ordered by the board resulted from 225 appeals by taxpayers. Only five of the changes involved amounts of $4000 or more. The valuation of the Bridge & Beach stove factory on Union boulevard opposite the General Motors plant was fixed at $349,630, a reduction of $75,000, on the ground that the property was not used for productive purposes. A $35,000 reduction was made in the assessment of the Odeon, making it $100,600. The decrease was because of obsolescence and less frequent use of the theater.

A department store building on the northwest corner of Hodiamont and Easton avenues was assessed at $175,500, a reduction of $10,000. Reductions of $4000 were ordered in the case of an apartment at 5800 Clemens avenue, owned by Ray Haas, and for the old Henry Clay Pierce mansion in Vandeventer place. The apartment was assessed at $83,840 and the Pierce home at $25,170.

The board passed a resolution complimenting Assessor Coale and his valuation engineer, Berry Craven, on the accuracy and fairness of their assessments. There were no appeals from the Assessor's valuation of hotels, office buildings and large apartments, which were increased by $7,000,000 this year under the uniform assessment system initiated with CWA workers. There were fewer appeals of any sort than last year, when the board ordered reductions which totaled $338,970.

Assessor Coale served as chairman of the board and his secretary, Ralph Panzer, was the board's secretary. The other members were William L. Protzmann, James L. Barngrove, and Gerald B. O'Reilly, real estate dealers, and Irwin H. Gamble, an attorney. Board members were paid $10 for each session attended. About 25 sessions were held.

OFFICIAL WILLING TO QUIT ALCOHOL REGIONAL BOARD

But Emil Nathan Says if Charge Is Made Against Him, He Will "Fight to Last Ditch."

Emil Nathan will "fight to the last ditch" if a charge is made aaginst him, he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, in connection with the suggestion of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration at Washington that its regional board in Missouri should immediately consider his removal as executive secretary.

In letters to regional board members, Harris Willingham, acting director of the FACA, wrote that the Administration was informed that Nathan's activities "as a liquor broker and as secretary of the board are so closely related as to make it difficult" to perform his duties, and advised the Board to deal with the problem at once.

"If they have a charge against me, I'll fight to the last ditch," Nathan said by telephone from Pass Christian, Miss., where he is vacationing. "But if they want me to step out because they want a more aggressive administrator, that is what I'll do. They gave me the job at $1 a year, and I'll release them whenever they want to give it to me.

"Wouldn't Be Policeman."

"I told them in Washington that I wouldn't be a policeman—that if they wanted someone to police the industry, they should retain a full-time criminal lawyer who could go after violators. As far as any relationship between my office and my firm is concerned, the fact is that I sell only seven people out of 35 in the State who are under the regional board's supervision. If that's a crime, I'm guilty."

Nathan, a liquor broker, has offices in the Security Building, Fourth and Locust streets, occupying connecting rooms with the Regional Board headquarters. Members of the Board are representatives of wholesale liquor firms organized under Federal supervision, to investigate and report violations of fair practice regulations.

When the board was formed more than a year ago, Nathan offered his services as executive secretary, directing code enforcement in the wholesale wine and liquor industry, at $1 a year. With the economy of the arrangement and Nathan's long experience as a veteran liquor dealer in mind, the board accepted the offer.

Action Withdrawn.

Finding his administration not to their liking, a majority of the board, in Nathan's absence, voted to oust him and employ a full time executive with no business connection with members of the industry under his supervision. On his return, Nathan demurred at the resolution deposing him and the action was withdrawn.

Attention of national headquarters was directed to Nathan, it was learned, after the administration was informed that a salesman for the Nathan jobbing firm had solicited orders from whisky wholesalers whose conduct was the subject of complaint to the Regional Board. These complaints, in prescribed routine, were received by Nathan as executive secretary, and reported for discussion as to possible disciplinary action.

"It is understood," Willingham at Washington wrote to board members, "that numerous complaints have been received by Mr. Nathan and that he has disposed of these complaints without action by the regional board or a properly constituted subcommittee of the board.

Wants No Connection.

"The administdation is of the opinion that the Regional Board office should in no way be connected with the office of any person whose customers are members of the wholesale industry.

"In view of the above facts and in view of the fact that Mr. Nathan devotes most of his time and effort to his brokerage business, it is felt that your board should consider the advisability of removing Mr. Nathan as executive secretary and of employing a paid executive secretary who will devote his full time to his duties. It is felt that a separate board office should be established in the immediate future."

The annual meeting at which a president of the board will be elected, who, in turn, will appoint an executive secretary, will be held in St. Louis April 27. Louis J. Becker, former United States Collector of Internal Revenue, now is president of the organization. Other members are: E. P. Schrader, Frank L. Anderson, J. Bardenheier, C. G. Haley, all of St. Louis; S. O. Davidson, O. E. Hirsch and P. McCrory, of Kansas City; W. O. Evans and R. N. O'Neill of Joplin, and J. D. McNeely, St. Joseph.

ART EXHIBIT BY "NEW HATS"

St. Louis Group to Open Noonan-Kocian Display April 27.

A group of St. Louis artists, the "New Hats," will hold their fourth annual exhibition of contemporary paintings April 27 at the Noonan-Kocian Galleries, 923 Locust street.

Included in the exhibition will be works of Vera Flinn, Gregory, Ivy, Miriam McKinnie, Jessie Beard Rickly, Rudolph Tandler, E. Oscar Thalinger and Valentine Vogel.

MASS MEETING IN INTERESTS OF SOCIAL SECURITY BILL

A mass meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters and 14 other civic organizations will be held tomorrow night at the Sheldon Memorial, 3646 Washington boulevard, in the interests of the pending Wagner-Lewis social security bill.

William J. Fitzmaurice, president of the Central Trades and Labor Union, will speak of labor's interest in the measure. Prof. Ralph Fuchs of Washington University Law School, will discuss the unemployment insurance aspect of the bill, and Oscar Leonard, of the American Association for Social Security, will tell of the provisions for old age pensions. The child welfare proposals in the bill will be described by J. Lionberger Davis, president of the Security National Bank, Savings & Trust Co.

The Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla S. J., dean of St. Louis University Medical School, will preside. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

11,500 PWA PROJECTS FINISHED, ICKES SAYS

5500 Under Construction as Plans Are Made for New Works Program.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In effect clearing the decks for the new public works program under the works act, Secretary of the Interior Ickes said today 11,500 PWA projects had been completed and 5500 were under construction. Direct and indirect labor totalled 109,600,000 man-weeks, he said, the equivalent of a year's work for 2,107,692 men.

Including dependents of both direct labor and those employed in producing and transportation materials, he estimated 10,000,000 persons had been "directly benefited by expenditures to increase the national wealth through construction of useful public works as a substitue for direct relief." Two million, he added, had worked at different times on construction sites.

In addition to $900,000,000 allocated under the $4,880,000,000 work program for projects of States and communities, Ickes said construction on 2000 projects already authorized would begin shortly to "continue to provide a vast amount of direct and indirect work."

Of a total of $3,775,000,000 appropriated to PWA, $2,506,050,000 has gone to construction including 559,167,000 to Federal projects, 757,000 to local public bodies, and $197,126,500 to loans for railroad improvements, he reported.

NEW EXCISE HEAD GIVES VIEWS ON LIQUOR LAWS

T. L. Anderson Convinced That Favored Treatment of 3.2 Beer Sellers Must Stop.

When the Legislature and the Governor turn out a new State liquor law, 3.2 beer bill and all, the St. Louis Board of Aldermen may be asked to put on the finishing touches.

Thomas L. Anderson, who takes office tomorrow as city Excise Commissioner, will do the asking. Former Judge Anderson has been looking through the records of the office under his predecessor, Harry Scullin, and has made a study of the State law, the proposed changes in it, and the city liquor ordinance.

He is convinced that, as Scullin has been contending, the favored treatment of 3.2 per cent beer sellers, under the present laws, has created the biggest part of the Excise Commissioner's problems.

"There are about 2500 3.2 places," Anderson said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "and fewer than 1600 legally licensed liquor saloons. As things have been, it is surprising that so many licenses have been issued. If these conditions were to continue, I would expect to see the number of licenses fall away, until there would not be enough to keep up the Commissioner's office. Also, I would expect to see dry sentiment grow, and prohibition return in a few years.

"Practically all the 3.2 places sell hard liquor, as is authorized by their Federal licenses. The present State and city laws permit them to run at all times, while requiring the licensed liquor sellers to cease sales on Sundays and election days. The 3.2 places pay the State $10 and the Federal Government $25, while the licensed liquor dealers must pay the State and city $300 each and the Federal Government $25, or $625 in all.

"When the new law has been enacted, if it contains any such conditions as this, it will be time for the St. Louis Aldermen to tighten up on the 3.2 people. I believe the Aldermen can do it. The courts have been holding that if cities wish to impose stricter regulations than those of the State law, they may do so under the police power of their charters.

Cites Speed Limit Case.

"When the municipality of Mexico passed an ordinance fixing the speed limit for automobiles at 20 miles an hour, it was contested on the ground that the state law provided a 25-mile limit. The St. Louis Court of Appeals, in the case of Mexico vs. Sharp, held that the city possessed the power to make stricter rules than those of the state law.

"The same should apply to the liquor ordinances, as to any changes which are required by city conditions. If the state law, as the Senate has proposed, should prescribe Sunday closing for licensed liquor saloons and not for 3.2 places, the city ordinance should be amended, to close up the 3.2 places also."

Anderson has not been a close observer of saloons as conducted under the present law, but he has the impression that some of them are not observing the rule against screens and blinds, and are not giving the unobstructed view from the street which the law requires. He intends to look into this so that the public may look into the saloons.

Had Czar-like Powers.

His policy in general, Anderson said, will be one of straight enforcement of the state and city laws. This was his policy when he held the then state-appointive office of Excise Commissioner 20 years ago, under Gov. Major. The office then had Czar-like powers in revocation of licenses. Sunday closing was still strictly enforced, under the rules laid down under Gov. Folk and maintained under his successors, Hadley and Major. This had caused the rise of Sunday "lid clubs," some of which ran through the week, "chiseling" on the regular trade as the 3.2 places now do.

The Excise Commissioner, under the old state law, could set hours for opening and closing, and could impose other regulations as he saw fit, with revocation as the penalty for violations. Anderson did not keep up the rules against art displays and musical instruments in saloons, which had been prescribed in Folk days. "They can play pianos until they are black in the face," Anderson ruled.

Anderson left the commissionership in 1915, to accept a short-term appointment as Circuit Judge, which was followed by a term on the Election Board. He has practiced law in St. Louis since coming here from Pike County in the late '90s. His present appointment was made by Mayor Dickmann.

FOUR BOYS WITH CAP PISTOLS BODYGUARD FOR GASSAWAY

Oklahoma Congressman Has 10-Year-Old "Protectors' Discharge Weapons on Capitol Steps.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Representative Gassaway, former cowboy from Oklahoma, who says he has been trying to "out-hooey" Senator Long of Louisiana, appeared today with a "bodyguard" of four small boys armed with cap pistols.

Gassaway performed today for cameramen by walking down the Capitol steps surrounded by his four "protectors." He stopped and remarked: "Now that I've started this fight against Huey Long and Wall street, how about trying out our guns?"

The four—averaging about 10 years old—flipped out long, blue-barreled cap pistols and popped away.

Gassaway had enlisted his son, Jim, one of the youngsters of Representative Sweeney of Ohio, and two House pages.

HEALTH DIVISION DISTRIBUTES DIPHTHERIA LEAFLET IN CITY

Half Million Copies Being Sent to Parents in Pay Envelopes, Monthly Bills, Relief Orders.

Half a million copies of a leaflet entitled "What Parents Should Know About Diphtheria in St. Louis" are being distributed by the Health Division and co-operating organizations, Health Commissioner Bredeck announced yesterday.

Four hundred and twenty St. Louis business firms have pledged their co-operation and are enclosing copies of the leaflet in pay envelopes of their employes. Several public utilities and insurance companies are enclosing copies with their current billings. Contributors to United Relief, Inc., received them with their April statements. Recipients of public relief find them enclosed with their current food order. Through these different types of enclosures it is hoped to reach nearly every parent in St. Louis, Dr. Bredeck said.

Indorsement of the campaign have been received from numerous civic groups, such as the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and the Civitan Club, the St. Louis Medical Society, St. Louis Dental Society and the Retail Druggists' Association.

St. Louis moving picture houses are using special anti-diphtheria trailers this month.

The co-operation of both public and parochial school authorities in the diphtheria immunization campaign has been enlisted. The need for diphtheria immunization is being called to the attention of all parents of school children, and they are urged to extend this protection also to children of pre-school age who are even more susceptible to diphtheria.

SALE OF RAILWAY OPPOSED

Minnesota House Wants M. & St. L. Road Reorganized.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 13.—The Minnesota House of Representatives today adopted a resolution opposing the dismemberment of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad and recommending to the Interstate Commerce Commission that the present management be permitted to reorganize the road.

The road has been in receivership for several years and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Feburary approved a plan for the purchase by eight other railroads. No purchasers appeared Friday when it was offered at public auction.

WALTON LEAGUE URGES CLOSED DUCK SEASON

Wants Hunting Forbidden for Year or Longer to Restore Supply.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The Izaak Walton League of America, closing its national meeting today, urged a closed season on ducks and other migratory waterfowl.

Minnesota members offered a resolution, which was adopted, asking for adequate "leadership and discipline" in Civilian Conservation Corps camps to prevent illegal hunting and fishing by CCC members. J. J. Baecher of Norfolk, Va., proposed a substitute resolution which would submit the matter to the league's executive board with power to act.

The resolution for a closed season pointed out that periods of limited shooting of migratory waterfowl from 1917 to 1921 had restored the game so that by the fall of 1921 the shooting was comparable to that of the early '90s. Since then, the resolution said, due to "drouth and over-shooting," the number has declined rapidly to 34,000,000 and hunters are annually killing more ducks than are produced.

"We urge and recommend," the resolution concluded, "the establishment of a closed season on all migratory waterfowl for the year 1935 and for such further period as in the judgment of the U. S. Biological Survey is necessary to restore and maintain a continuing supply."

The resolution sponsored by the Minnesota division said:

"We are not unmindful that many complaints have been made of CCC practices that are detrimental to conservation, notably with respect to the unlawful taking of game and fish. But we believe that such practices in the main have resulted from a lack of adequate leadership and discipline in a few camps only. And we urge upon the proper authorities the necessity of supplying in all camps such leadership and discipline, for any want thereof involves potential danger of great magnitude.

"Much of the work of the corps has consisted in the building of roads in forested areas to provide access for men and materials to the camps and to the places of work. It is the sense of this convention that such roads should be as few as possible consistent with the forestry operations, should be temporary in nature and should be eliminated when the work of the corps has been completed."

FLURRIES OF BULLISHNESS MARK WEEK'S STOCK TRADE

Sentiment Reaches High Point at Final Session of Period Which Sees the Most Active Saturday-Trade Since Last December.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Wall street edged a little further out of the March valley of gloom this week.

Securities prices did not register as consistent recovery as in the previous week, but there were a few brief flurries of bullish enthusiasm that seemed to have some of the old-time fire.

The bullish sentiment reached a high point at the final session of week as investors and traders bid for stocks in the most active Saturday session since last December.

Analysis singled out no one development to account for the day's rise, they held, instead, that the brisk demand for shares was the result of a gradual seepage of better feeling into the financial community.

Brokerage observers said this improved attitude hinged partly on the spreading idea that eventual utility holding company legislation may not be so severe as previously feared.

Among the tangible pegs on which bulish sentiment was hung was the climb of weekly automobile production to the highest total in five years. Cram's estimate of 109,537 units compared with 107,895 in the previous week and 91,224 in the like week a year ago. The new peak was taken by most to reflect the hope of makers of good sales ahead.

The announcement that banks would offer call money at the all-time low of ½ of 1 per cent may have possibly been in the back of the minds of those who reached for equities. At the same time few ventured to guess how much this would prompt increased buying of shares on margin.

Closing prices found the market .4 of a point higher at 38.5 in terms of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. The volume, 701,820 shares, was the largest for any Saturday in the past four months and compared with 840,210 shares for Friday's full five-hour session.

Mining, Utilities Lead.

Mining and Utility stocks led the field with gains of fractions to a point or more. The somewhat less aggressive rise of the rails denoted a dash or two of caution on the part of those who had an eye on the economic decision of the Supreme Court on the rail pension act.

Some industrials chalked up the most generous advances in many days.

A large number of preferred issues staged a field day, adding 1 to 4 points to their price.

Bonds were steady, marked by resistance to profit taking in the medium priced rails and low yield utilities.

After crashing through the $1 line for new highs for the season in some deliveries, the wheat market met with realizing and closed down from the tops. Net gains were ⅛ to ¾ of a cent a bushel. Corn finished unchanged to ½c up. The spurt in cotton netted 75 cents to 90 cents a bale. Bar silver was unchanged at 68½ cents an ounce.

Final foreign exchange dealings saw sterling ¼ of a cent higher at $4.85 and the French franc down .01 of a cent at 6.60⅜ cents. Other gold currencies were a trifle easy.

Relief Measure Completed.

Tinges of inflationary psychology appeared with enactment of the $4,880,000,000 work-relief measure, and the sharp lift in silver prices, but they were not of a character to disturb the investment market appreciably. In fact, bonds made more progress than stocks.

Weekly business surveys expressed conflicting opinions.

The action of commodities contributed to the ripples of bullishness. Wheat led the movement, aided by the Government's low estimate of the winter crop, continued dust storms and indications that stocks in Europe were low. Dollar wheat came back to the grain pits for the first time since January. Cotton recovered moderately.

The placing of the President's signature to the $4,880,000,000 works-relief bill probably fired the speculative imaginations as much as any other development of the week. Business executives said the effect upon recovery would depend upon how rapidly and in what manner the funds were spent, and not much information as to Washington's plans was vouchsafed. But the very magnitude of the appropriation was sufficient to lead to forecasts that, if pump priming will work, it should work this time. But it was generally acknowledged that it would take some months to get the program fully under way.

Silver Up 7 Cents.

Bar silver ran up nearly 7 cents an ounce to 68½ cents, a nine-year high, in the week ending today. Silver mining circles, bimetalists and silverites were jubilant, but in the main, financial circles were unimpressed. Wall street banking circles said the principal beneficiary would be the relatively small silver mining industry. They thought the silver campaign might become inflationary if pressed far enough, but thus far some said they saw in it merely a nice compromise designed to stave off dangerous inflation while providing a little psychological stimulus.

For the moment at least, the latest gold bloc crisis seemed to have passed, as the Holland guilder recovered, and the foreign exchange market steadied. Wall street welcomed a breathing spell in the exchange markets. In the meantime, Far Eastern silver currencies advanced sharply, to the accompaniment of groans from Shanghai banking quarters. The movement there, it was explained, was the opposite of the devaluation movements elsewhere, and with consequent deflationary effects.

In the stock market the utilities, rails and industrials kept the general level on the upright. The Associated Press average of 60 leading issues closed today at 38.5, up 1 from a week earlier. Virtually all groups in bonds made progress during the week, and the refunding movement was resumed with several plans coming to light. Municipal financing took a decided spurt. The Associated Press average of 20 rail bonds closed today at 79.1, up 1.8 from a week previously; the 10 industrials at 94.3, up 1.4; 10 utilities, 89.9, up .4; 10 foreigns, 67.6, up 1.5; 10 low-yields, 109.8, up .3.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 13.—Gold currencies were a trifle backward in foreign exchange markets today but other units held steady.

The French franc declined .01 of a cent in New York to close at 6.60⅜ cents to the franc after the dollar had held steady in earier transactions in Paris. The Dutch guilder dipped .05 of a cent to 67.52 cents, a figure slightly under its gold export point and other gold monies were inclined to easiness.

British sterling held its head above water in New York, ending ¼ cent higher at $4.85 after the dollar had held about unchanged in London.

Based on the franc at its final New York rate the dollar was at a premium of 45-100 of 1 per cent compared with 31-100 Friday and 5-100 a month ago.

"OUTSIDE" CALL MONEY TO HALF OF 1 PER CENT; LOWEST RATE RECORDED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The decision of several large Wall street bankers to cut the charge for "outside" call money to ½ of 1 per cent next week brought the cost of money for the purchase of stocks on margin to the cheapest rate on record.

Wall street wondered whether the action of the banks in cutting the rate on "outside" money would result in a cut in the official rate for call funds at the loan desk in the Stock Exchange. Official call money was hung on the 1 per cent peg since Dec. 7, 1933. Previous to that it had ruled at ¾ of 1 per cent.

The only other time call money was quoted at ¾ of 1 per cent at the loan desk was August, 1908.

$3.50 A BALE ADVANCE IN COTTON LAST WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A further advance in cotton today carried the list up about $3.50 a bale from the levels of a week ago. The close was very steady at practically the top with net advances of 15 to 18 points.

The market showed a firm undertone influenced by strength in wheat, apprehension over the drouth and dust storms in the Western Belt and larger sales of textiles.

Offers of spot cotton from the South continued light and in some quarters the theory was entertained that the market was working up to a point where more cotton would come out either from private holders or Government controlled stocks.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 69,000 bales against 12,500 last year and 105,700 in 1933.

DOLLAR WHEAT ON LOCAL BOARD; RISE IS NOT ALL HELD

Chicago Market Also Meets Profit Taking After 2-Cent Advance to New Peak for Season.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 13.—Dollar wheat was posted on the local board at week end session for the first time since Jan. 10, but no one accepted the bid and the market reacted some later, closing only fractionally net higher after an extreme upward range of over 2 cents. Corn finished unchanged to fractionally higher.

Profit-taking after the week's substantial upturn was a factor here as well as at Chicago, where the market closed nervous, and only slightly higher following a 2c upturn on the dust storm news, among other influences.

The higher cables were credited with bringing higher opening.

Liverpool wheat closed 1⅛ to 1¼d higher following 1 to 1⅛d lower start.

Winnipeg wheat opened ¼c higher and closed unchanged to ⅛c net lower.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Completely eclipsing the dollar mark and outdoing top price records for the season, broad speculative buying again and again today swept wheat values strongly upward.

Big profit-taking sales, however, slashed into the effects of new buying rushes and left the wheat market at the last with only fractional net advances after a maximum fresh rise of 2¼ cents above exciting upturns yesterday and the day before. Further dust storms southwest were among the bullish factors.

Wheat closed nervous ¼-⅜c above yesterday's finish, May $1.00¼-⅜, corn unchanged to ½c higher, May 88⅜-½, oats also unchanged to ½c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

General desire to realize profits for the week-end was an outstanding feature in the day's final dealings. Earlier, much notice was taken of the fact that yesterday's official forecast held out but little hope of moisture relief for drouth regions where devastation from dust continued. Giving additional stimulus to price upturns were Liverpool dispatches saying the wheat market was strong with an advancing trend, and that Argentine wheat quotations were higher.

Bulls contended that only a further advance of 5 to 10 cents here would permit Argentine wheat to be imported into the United States, even if Argentine prices remained unchanged. On the other hand, one Chicago trade source stressed that throughout this season it had been difficult to maintain prices above $1, and that caution seemed advisable after a 12-cent climb. An opposite influence was figures indicating that for the third successive season, the United States winter wheat harvest might fall below normal.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. A restraining circumstance was word that there were 500,000 fewer cattle on feed at present in the corn belt states than was the case a year ago.

Provisions borrowed strength from grains.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN

In the cash grain market Saturday, red wheat was 3¾c higher. Receipts were light and there was an early clearance of the offerings. The nominal close on No. 2 was $1, only ¼c above Friday's nominal close due to the easing of the future market at the finish. Hard wheat was nominally ¼c higher. There is an increasing inquiry for this class, but none is available. At the close No. 2 was figured at $1.07¾. Corn was 1¼-1½c higher. There was a firmer tone to the market. Offerings were fairly large and with a fair demand a good clearance was made. Glucose plants furnished the main outlet. Oats were unchanged. Offerings were very light but the demand was quiet and only two cars changed hands.

Local wheat receipts, which were 16,500 bu., compared with 13,500 a week ago and 40,500 a year ago included 4 cars local and 7 through. Corn receipts which were 51,000 bu., compared with 70,500 a week ago and 37,500 a year ago included 23 cars local and 3 through. Oats receipts which were 12,000 bu., compared with 34,000 a week ago and 36,000 a year ago included 5 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 6 cars through.

AUTO PRODUCTION AT PEAK DURING THE LAST WEEK

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, April 13.—Output of United States and Canadian automotive plants for the week ending today is estimated by Cram's Reports, Inc., at 109,537 cars and trucks, a new peak for the year. Production for the week ending April 6 was 107,895 units. For the same week last year production totaled 91,224 cars and trucks.

The report says that while there is no definite proof that production will continue to higher levels there are no present indications of recessions in the output of any of the plants.

BONDS HOLD DESPITE TAKING OF PROFITS

NEW YORK, April 13.—The bond market survived a moderate amount of week-end profit-taking today without material damage to values.

Consistent support in low-priced rails and utilities enabled these groups to hold about even, while some of the industrials were bid up as much as a point and low-yield bonds attracted more investment attention than they have enjoyed since the refunding motif became so fashionable among corporation executives a week or more ago. U. S. Governments aided sentiment with modest gains fairly well distributed among the Treasury loans.

Transfers were well in line with the usual Saturday turnover, aggregating $6,372,000, par value, compared with $5,728,000 last Saturday, and the Associated Press averages were unchanged to .2 of a point higher.

Among the most active rail and utility loans holding their own or showing slight advances were Baltimore & Ohio 6s at 70, New York, Ontario & Western 4s at 50, Southern Railway 5s at 89¼, American Waterworks 6s at 77¼, Laclede Gas 5½s at 61 and Western Union 4½s at 86. New York Central consolidated 4s advanced 1¼ points to 79¼. Tennessee Electric Power 6s, which have been consistent gainers in recent sessions, slipped a trifle to close at 96¼.

In the industrial and low-yield groups, higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel 5s, International Paper 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s and Illinois Steel 4½s. New England Telephone 5s, a charter member of the "blue chip" class, added another ¼ to its quoted value at 121⅜.

U. S. Treasury 3⅛s of 1946 were at the head of the advancing Governments with at gain of 5-32 at 104.16. Other Treasury loans were on the average of 3-32 higher, but most of the Liberties and indirect obligations slipped a very small fraction of a point.

In the foreign division, higher prices were paid for most of the Central European Government obligations, including Czecho-Slovak 6s, French 7½s and Austrian 7s. South American loans were indifferent.

ZINC UP $3 A TON IN WEEK, FEATURING METAL MARKET

NEW YORK, April 13.—Increased demand for zinc at an advance of $3 a ton featured the metal markets this week.

Favorable March statistics, revealing large shipments and decreased stocks, aided the tone. Consumers who had been holding off, were said to be poorly supplied for forward needs and bought actively for shipment in the next three months.

Spot tin prices advanced approximately 1¾ cents a pound partly in sympathy with strength of other markets, the rise in silver and the action of London, but largely because of tightness of supplies immediately available here. "Buffer" stocks of the international pool at New York are not being offered and the premium of spot prices over forward quotations widened further.

Copper ruled steady with domestic sales averaging approximately 1000 tons a day, but with foreign demand tapering off following the recent activity and advance in European prices. The trade here is hopeful consumption will be maintained or improved later in the year through appropriations from the works relief fund for projects requiring the metal.

Lead experienced a fair demand from day to day which was said to be sufficient to absorb smelters' daily ore intake. Producers generally were understood to be reluctant to accept larger orders and this aided in sustaining buying interest.

Antimony remained dull at unchanged levels. The limited demand was supplied mostly by domestic grades. Relatively high Chinese asking prices have limited shipments from that source and made quotations for competitive grades more attractive.

With buyers of steel generally pursuing a cautious policy, ingot production tapered off somewhat further. Miscellaneous buying is now accounting for a relatively large percentage of the demand, as automobile trade purchases are slowing.

Zinc and Lead Prices.

JOPLIN, Mo., April 13.—Zinc ore prices were unchanged in the Joplin market this week despite increases totaling $3 a ton in the slab zinc market. As a result, many operators refused to part with concentrates. Prices remained at $25 and $26 a ton. Lead price was unchanged at $35 a ton. The zinc purchase for the week was reported at 4710 tons, which is one of the smallest of the year. Some of that tonnage was bought in the previous week after the purchase report was made and some was bought earlier in the week. The sale for Friday and Saturday on the open market was around 1000 tons. The zinc code was placed in effect Monday with most of the large companies adhering to its provisions. The cost of producing concentrates was increased as all of the mines were forced to increase wages. Additional men—at mines and tailing mines—were put to work.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, April 13.—The New York Stock Exchange announced today it has granted authority to its committee on stock list to suspend dealings in the shares of the City Stores Co. "at such time as the committee may deem it advisable to do." The action was taken, it was explained, because of the pending plans for the company's reorganization. The exchange also authorized the stock list committee to recommend to the Securities and Exchange Commission that the stocks be stricken from listing and registration. The company operates a chain of department stores.

Next week's scheduled dividend meetings include Caterpillar Tractor on Tuesday, Liggett & Myers on Wednesday and McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Ltd., on Thursday. United Biscuit, Chicago Yellow Cab and Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator boards also are due to consider dividend payments.

WALLACE ASKS FARMERS TO SAVE PROCESSING TAX

'Something More Extreme' Predicted in Georgia Speech if AAA Program Is Knocked Out.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, April 13.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today warned processors and handlers of farm commodities that they might face "something more extreme" if they succeed in destroying the agricultural adjustment program.

Repeating that the cotton processing tax would be continued, the Secretary charged that "the effort of certain textile manufacturers to get rid of the processing tax is the spearhead of the movement" against the cotton program.

Addressing farmers from Georgia and surrounding states in the Wesley Memorial Church auditorium he said:

"The current resistance to the pending amendments to the agricultural adjustment act is really an attack on the entire program. The forces that have been set in motion could become so intense and so powerful as to destroy the whole broad program of agricultural adjustment.

Fears Fantastic Measures.

"My own feeling is that the very groups who are fighting the agricultural adjustment act are shortsighted and perhaps unwittingly might force upon this nation fantastic measures which would do much injury and accomplish no good.

"I would sound a solemn warning to these groups and in the national interest appeal to them to take the longer view. While this nation is deciding whether it will take the leadership in an effort to restore an international economic order, it is essential to permit these adjustments in this difficult period of transition.

"Farmers are poorly organized and it is difficult for them to make their protests articulate. For that reason the Government has a special duty to see that farmers get a fair break. But I sometimes think the pressure of these special pleaders can be made to appear so powerful that the real interests of agriculture which is, of course, the general public interest, may be sacrificed.

Time for Hard Thinking.

"Farmers everywhere need to do some hard thinking and to express their point of view as to whether they want the mechanism of the Agricultural Adjustment Administra to be thrown overboard because certain special groups believe it to be in conflict with their immediate self interest. For that reason I repeat my appeal for an understanding and an alliance between the great agricultural sections of the South and Middlewest.

"If the cotton program goes by the board, the corn, wheat, tobacco and other programs will follow. The unity of the farmers will be broken."

He told the farmers "it is apparent that the agitation against the cotton processing tax will continue. Efforts are being made to turn cotton farmers against the tax—a device which contributes $100,000,000 a year to their purchasing power and to which they are entitled as a matter of common justice.

Cotton Price and Prosperity.

"If poverty prices of cotton were a basis for prosperity in the textile mills, then why weren't they rolling in wealth in 1931-1932? The true basis for the textile industry recovery is the spreading of purchasing power through the population, including the city workers and the farmers.

"Sixteen cents a pound for cotton, which is about the present cost to the mills in price plus tax, has not in the past been regarded as an unfairly high price. It has been not a symptom of distress in the textile industry but as prosperous business conditions in the country as a whole."

Jefferson Day Speech.

In a Jefferson day address at the same place last night, Wallace asserted Jefferson recognized that "property rights are a shifting concept" and if living now he "would be in the forefront fighting the battle against such organizations as the present day Liberty League."

Gov. Eugene Talmadge recently asserted that a Jefferson day speech from Wallace would be a "mockery," Wallace said that Jefferson in effect "separated natural rights into human rights and property rights; the first must never be abridged—the second must be subject to bargaining if a Democratic society is to endure."

The definition of liberty "Jefferson arrives at," Secretary Wallace continued, "is a far cry from that of the rabble-rouser on the one hand or the plutocrat on the other.

"Liberty of speech and of thought, of press and of religion, can not be limited in any social compact; but other kinds of liberty—notably economic liberty—obviously must suffer whatever restrictions are necessary to provide security—security, that is, both for the individual and for society."

"Maybe what we need in this country most of all," Wallace said, "is a share-the-responsibility movement. Maybe we need a modern Jefferson among us to put into immortal words a Declaration of Interdependence."

Three Times as Much Rubber in Ford V-8 As in Old Model T

Total of 164 Pounds Used in a 1935 Model—Many New Applications.

The quantity of rubber used in Ford car construction has virtually trebled in the last eight years, an investigation just made by the Ford Motor Co. reveals.

The Model-T Ford contained only 56 pounds of rubber, while the 1935 Ford-V contains 164 pounds. So rapidly are new applications being discovered, that the Ford company would not be surprised to see as much as 200 pounds used in future Ford cars.

In the early cars, rubber was employed chiefly for tires and tubes. Now it is applied throughout the car to improve riding qualities and lengthen life, as well as reduce cost of manufacture.

Today rubber is used for making steering wheels, batteries, switches, junction blocks, weatherstrips, running boards, floor mats, motor supports, axle bumpers, sound deadeners, fan belts, radiator hose, insulating material, grommets, doorbumpers, spring shackle bushings and top materials, as well as tires and tubes.

All Ford rubber compositions are made to strict specifications and severely tested before use in car construction. Steering wheels must withstand drops from a height of six feet after 12 hours' exposure to a temperature of 20 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Windshield weatherstrips are exposed to the sun and high humidity on the roof of the branch plant of the Ford Motor Co., Jacksonville, Fla., to determine anti-checking and anti-splitting qualities.

Rubber matting is given ingenious tests for resistance to abrasion and, in addition, running-board stocks are checked for their qualities in bonding to steel.

Rubber used for motor supports and axle bumpers is subjected to a distorting force far in excess of any that would be encountered while in use. As a result, the company reports that failures in service "are unknown to us."

Fan belts are severely tested for stretch, and improvements based on these laboratory findings have reduced the stretch in Ford fan belts to one-third of what it was, though the present belt is 50 per cent longer than that used on previous models.

The Ford Motor Co. subjects the tires it uses to the most exhaustive tests. In the laboratory, Ford-developed machines test for carcass and bead fatigue and indicate tread-wear resistance. Other machines check for resistance to bruise-breaking.

To determine their stability at high speed, Ford tests tires on the road. To aid in determining the actual mileage given in service, the company periodically measures the non-skid design remaining on tires in use on employes' cars.

Warns That Worn Tire Treads Increase Danger of Skidding

Recent announcement that in 1934 automobile accidents due to skidding increased in ratio over those caused by blowouts and punctures combined should serve as a warning to motorists who drive cars using tires with worn treads, according to C. M. Van Epps, manager for Goodyear Service, Inc.

In 1933, figures from accurate sources revealed that five and one-half times as many accidents were caused by skidding as by blowouts and punctures combined. This figure was changed in 1934, according to figures released by a nationally recognized insurance authority, accidents due to skidding increasing to seven times as many as those caused by blowouts and punctures combined.

With motor travel increasing and the danger of skidding increased by spring rains, Van Epps says, drivers should be more than usually careful to avoid the possibility of accidents caused by smooth treads. The replacement of worn tires by new ones with full non-skid protection will do much to avoid one of the most prevalent dangers in driving.

Chrysler Convertible Will Have New Type of Body Construction

A convertible body that will not squeak, rattle or weave has been developed for a coupe model on the airstream six that will be ready for delivery in May.

An independent X-type body frame built into the body itself is the solution evolved by the Chrysler body engineers. This frame is entirely independent of the chassis frame, to which it is securely bolted. In effect, it gives the care a 10-inch frame in its central section, which heretofore has been the weak spot in the convertible type. In addition to the X-type frame, heavy cross members support and brace the body at points of greatest stress. Further strength and rigidity are secured through the use of a ribbed steel floor board extending the full length of the body.

Hens Keep Engine Warm.

Lester Green of Prospect, Conn., has hit upon a novel way to keep the engine in his automobile from freezing in his outdoor garage and at the same time start easily on a zero morning. Before retiring he takes two setting hens and puts them under the hood of the car to set on the engine all night. A setting hen's temperature is around 102 degrees. As a result, the engine starts first time the starter kicks. If the battery shows signs of freezing he lets the spare hen set on that. The hens are cheaper than alcohol, says Mr. Green, and it is a lot easier than draining the radiator every night.

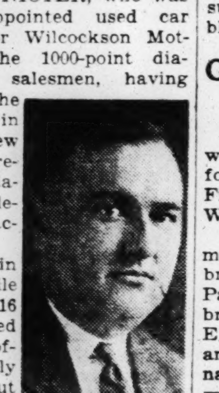
1000-Point Pontiac Salesman Second Time

GEORGE F. NICTER, who was recently appointed used car manager for Wilcockson Motors, is one of the 1000-point diamond Pontiac salesmen, having qualified for the second year in succession. A few days ago, he received his diamond pin, emblematic of the accomplishment.



G. F. NICTER.

He has been in the automobile business for 16 years. He started in the Buick office immediately after coming out of the Third Division of Infantry in the army in 1919, and was transferred to the selling end in December, 1926.

He is an old Muny Soccer player, and played baseball in the Trolley League for several years.

How Supercharger Works on Auburn Car Explained by Kublin

Supercharging of engines, according to George Kublin, chief engineer for Auburn, increases engine output without disadvantages.

What a supercharger actually does is to force the mixture of gas into each cylinder under pressure, distributing it uniformly and packing it in. Because the charge is greater, the result is higher explosive pressure and proportionately increased power," he says.

"Likewise, a supercharger gives a more effective fuel mixture, atomization started by the carburetor being completed and the waste of improperly mixed gases, which pass out unburned, is eliminated. This results in greater power with less fuel for the same power. With an ordinary carbuertor it becomes necessary to heat the intake manifold by exhaust gases so as to vaporize unmixed gasoline in the gas stream. Thus when the gas reaches the cylinder it has lost some of its explosive power. With a supercharger the fuel is so well gasified by mechanical agitation that little heat is necessary and damaging choking and warming by periods in cold weather are usually unnecessary with a supercharged engine.

"A supercharger really acts as a compressor pump. The revolving rotor, which travels six times faster than engine speed, draws the gas mixture from the carburetor, thoroughly mixes it and drives it into the cylinders of the engine."

In the 1935 Auburn cars the rotor is operated by friction drive, resulting in a quiet, strong and durable unit.

Goldring Organizes Own Finance Firm

Nat Goldring, formerly associated with a local finance company, has formed his own firm, the Franklin Finance Co., with quarters at 3740 Washington boulevard.

His firm will specialize in automobile financing, and will have a branch office at Fifteenth and Paseo in Kansas City, Mo. This branch will be managed by William E. Leonard, who is now secretary and treasurer of the Franklin Finance Co.

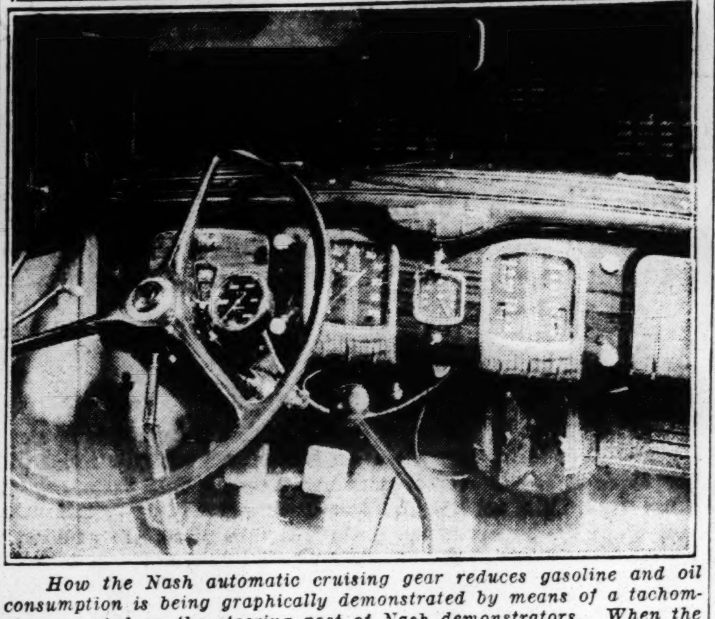
Tachometer Tells the Story



How the Nash automatic cruising gear reduces gasoline and oil consumption is being graphically demonstrated by means of a tachometer mounted on the steering post of Nash demonstrators. When the cruising gear goes into operation at speeds between 40 and 45 miles per hour, the tachometer registers a reduction of approximately 30 per cent in engine revolutions although car speed remains unchanged.

Says Dust Storms Necessitate Cleaning Car Parts More Often

Dust storms have necessitated a thorough cleaning of all motor vehicles, says E. C. Sanner, manager of the local General Motors Truck Co. branch.

He declares that the interval between thorough cleansing of oil filters, air cleaners and crankcase ventilators, as well as the oil changing interval, should be materially shortened.

The dust in many instances was carried hundreds of miles from the actual storm. It is highly abrasive, and if permitted to reach the inside of an engine, may cause serious damage, such as worn pistons, piston rings, cylinder walls and crankcase bearings. In fact, he said, any part served by the engine oiling system may be damaged if oils contaminated with the abrasive dust are not drained.

"It is customary to change oil on a mileage or time basis," Sanner says, "but, in view of the extraordinary circumstances, we call attention to the necessity of reducing the intervals until the return of normal conditions."

Pontiac Retail Sales For First Quarter Largest Since 1929

The Pontiac Motor Co., built and sold more cars in March, and in the first quarter of the year, than in any similar periods since 1929, it is announced today by A. W. Gilpin, vice-president and general sales manager.

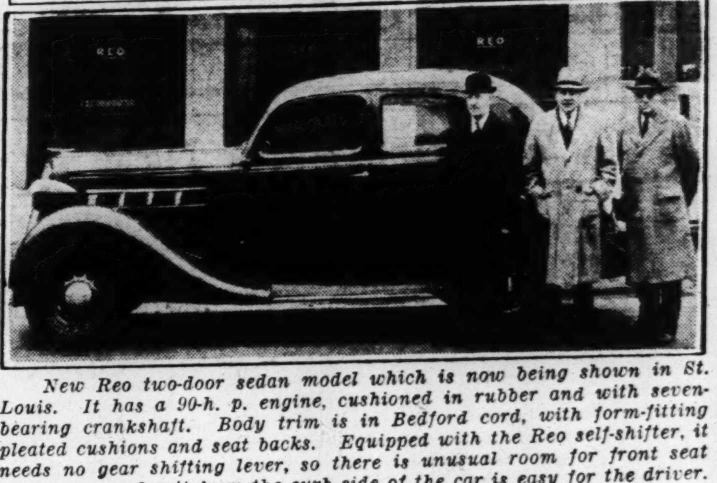
Retail sales of Pontiac cars were 17,180 in the month against 7946 in March, 1934, an increase of well over 100 per cent. March retail sales in 1933 were only 5440. The last 10 day period produced 6759 sales, compared with 3169 in 1934 and 2886 in 1933.

First quarter sales were 38,573 cars compared with 15,164 in the first three months of 1934, an increase of 154 per cent. Pontiac sales in March alone this year exceeded those in the entire first quarter of 1934.

These first quarter sales figures were the best that Pontiac had had since 1929.

Export shipments at the end of March had almost doubled those in all of 1934.

Latest in Two-Door Sedans



New Reo two-door sedan model which is now being shown in St. Louis. It has a 90-h. p. engine, cushioned in rubber and with seven-bearing crankshaft. Body trim is in Bedford cord, with form-fitting pleated cushions and seat backs. Equipped with the Reo self-shifter, it needs no gear shifting lever, so there is unusual room for front seat passengers and exit from the curb side of the car is easy for the driver. There is a dustproof tire and luggage compartment in the rear. In the picture are (left to right), George A. Krauss and H. C. N. A. D. A. Urging Law to Help Innocent Holders of Auto Liens

Working with finance companies, the National Automobile Dealers' Association is preparing a campaign for legislation in Congress to protect innocent holders of liens on seized automobiles, national headquarters here has been advised by President F. W. A. Vesper, who is in Washington with the support of 30,000 dealers to urge re-enactment of the NRA and certain amendments to the code.

The proposed new legislation is for the relief of lien holders on cars seized by Federal revenue agents under an old Civil War days law enacted before the days of instalment payments on vehicles. It is aimed to return the protection such innocent lien holders had under prohibition, but which went out of existence with repeal.

Reports of dealers to N. A. D. A. indicate about as many cars are being seized these days as in that early day of prohibition before the protective provision was enacted. Section 709 of Revenue Act of 1928 allows such a lien holder to request relief from the Secretary of the Treasury, but this is seldom effective, the dealers report. The new legislation is under H. R. 6081, and the N. A. D. A. has filed a brief in support of it with the Senate Judiciary Committee. A bulletin to all dealers will be issued by headquarters requesting data to be used in support of the bill.

School Boys Build Their Own Bus That Seats 48 Passengers

A large school bus has been built, so far as body design and construction are concerned, by the passengers who regularly ride in it—sophomores, juniors and seniors attending the metal working class of Union High School, Selma, Cal.

With a Dodge two-ton chassis as foundation unit, the bus has a wheelbase of 216 inches and an overall length of 348 inches. The body is entirely of steel, with seat supports of cast aluminum poured in the school's foundry.

To gain greatest possible passenger capacity—the vehicle seats 48—the steering gear and the clutch and brake pedals were moved forward, so the driver is seated, not behind the engine, but beside it.

Miles Pontiac Co. New Dealership on Jefferson Ave.

W. P. Winslow, St. Louis zone manager of the Pontiac Motor Co., has appointed the Miles Pontiac Co., 2218 South Jefferson avenue, Pontiac dealer. The dealership will serve the south part of St. Louis.

Members of the firm are John H. Miles, president; T. H. Eggerding, vice-president and sales manager; Harry Dietrich, service manager, and Irene Serth, office manager.

Miles is one of the pioneers of the automobile business in South St. Louis, having been associated with the automobile industry for about 20 years.

The building which the firm is to occupy is of brick, 60 by 120 feet, of modern fireproof construction with 7200 square feet of floor space. It has been completely renovated and reconditioned.

The formal opening was set for yesterday and today with a complete line of the new Pontiac sixes and eights on display.

Where Motor Problem Is Greatest

The automobile problem of New York State is greater than that of any other state in the Union or that of any foreign country. The State has a passenger and truck registration of 2,240,757, while England's figures are 1,471,0[illegible] France's 1,890,174, and Germany 690,000. New York has more than 3,000,000 operators and each is an annual customer of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. The bureau's filing division is in charge of one of the largest filing systems in the United States.

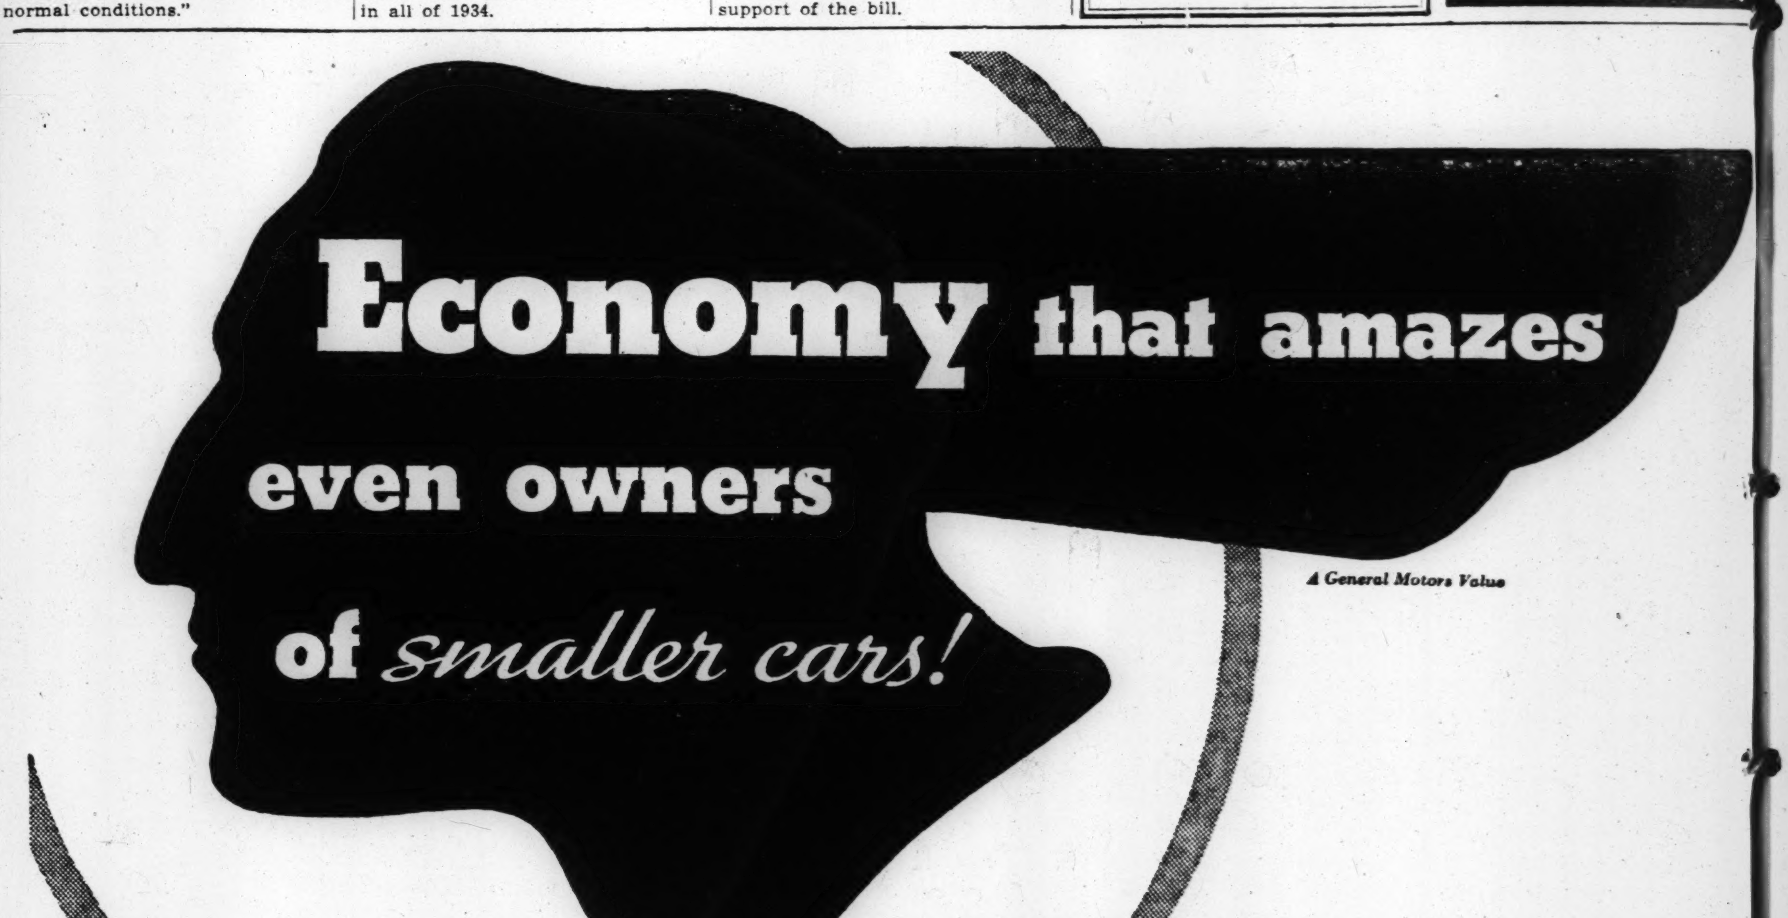
Site FLASH GASOLINE COSTS LESS!



The first big rush to Pontiac was caused by Pontiac's sensational styling. Everyone was attracted by "the most beautiful thing on wheels"—and overnight, Pontiac sales began to soar.

But soon those new owners who had been won by Pontiac's beauty were happy to discover that the 1935 Pontiac is one of the most economical cars on the road today! Not merely the economy of freedom from constant adjustment and repairs, but an economy of gasoline and oil that is actually amazing to even those who are used to driving smaller, lighter cars.

In view of the fact that the 1935 Pontiac is a big, full-size, full-weight automobile, such economy may sound—and seem—incredible. But it isn't! It is based on reports from many sections of the country. We do not quote any sensational figures of miles per gallon—because such figures are usually obtained in special tests under conditions which never occur in everyday average owners' driving. But if you want PROOF of Pontiac's remarkable economy, we are ready to supply it. Come in—and get the facts!

Oldsmobile Acquires Durant Motors Plant to Raise Production

Adds Buildings Covering Nearly Million Square Feet to Its Lansing Factory.

Purchase by General Motors of the manufacturing plants of the former Durant Motors Corporation, to be used to expand the future production facilities of Oldsmobile, is announced by C. L. McCuen, president of the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich.

The property purchased is located near the Oldsmobile factories in Lansing on a 48-acre industrial site. The production facilities of Oldsmobile will be expanded to include an area of more than 960,000 square feet in four large, modern automotive manufacturing buildings and several smaller buildings.

These modern factories were constructed to house the manufacturing and assembly of Star and Durant automobiles. More than 40,000 automobiles were built in one year in these new Oldsmobile factories, although the plants at no time were operated at capacity. Since the Durant organization ceased operations, the new plant has been used only temporarily and in part by several manufacturing organizations allied with the automotive industry. The buildings are considered throughout the automotive industry as models of modern plant design and construction. Immediate possession of the new property will be taken.

In expanding Oldsmobile's capacity, the production activities of the Lansing division of Fisher Body, which are devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Oldsmobile bodies, will be moved to the newly acquired buildings. Other production activities, such as motor, axle, sheet metal and final assembly departments will be expanded at the present 87-acre Oldsmobile factories, replacing the body-building activities to be centered in the new factories. These moves and changes will be so organized that they will not interrupt Oldsmobile's current record-breaking production.

Announcement of expansion of Oldsmobile's output followed closely upon reports that all previous Oldsmobile production and sales records were broken in the first quarter of 1935.

In March more than 17,000 Oldsmobiles were delivered to retail purchasers, establishing an all-time record. The largest single day's production in the history of the company was achieved on March 12 when 931 new Oldsmobile sixes and eights were built and shipped. Current daily production in the Oldsmobile factories averages more than 900 cars. In the first quarter of the year production gained more than 24,000 domestic car units over the same period of 1934. Export sales in the first quarter were five and one-half times those in the same period of last year. The previous record-breaking month in Oldsmobile history, April 1929, was exceeded in March by 31.4 per cent.

'Champion 100-Miles-an-Hour Club' for Drivers in Big Race

Formation of one of the most exclusive clubs, with membership so restricted that neither wealth nor social position can break the barriers, is announced by R. A. Stranahan, president of the Champion Spark Plug Co. of Toledo, sponsor of the club. One requirement only opens the door of membership, and that is to drive in the annual 500-mile Memorial day race at Indianapolis without being relieved at the wheel, and average 100 miles an hour or more.

Col. Eddie Rickenbacker and T. E. ("Pop") Myers, president and general manager of the Indianapolis Speedway; M. C. DeWitt, vice-president of the Champion Spark Plug Co., and T. E. Allen, secretary of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, are the ex-officio board of governors.

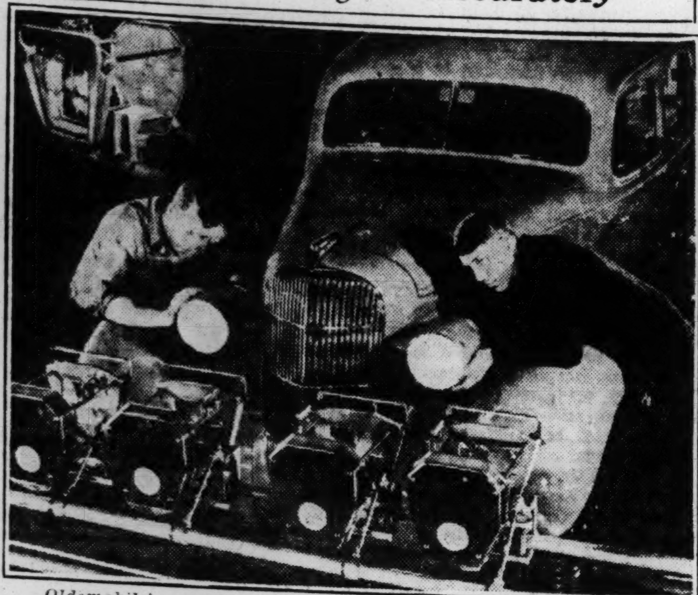
The club will be named the "Champion 100-Mile-an-Hour Club." Records of the Contest Board of the A. A. A. are now being examined to determine those eligible for membership. The eligible members probably will number not more than 14. The rules exclude many famous drivers who have high speed averages to their credit, but, for one reason or another, have been relieved at the wheel some time during the race.

Singer Motor Co. Now Graham Dealer

E. A. Archer, president of the Archer-Mann Motor Co., distributers of Graham cars, has appointed the Singer Motor Co., 234 Lemay Ferry road, an associate dealer.

N. A. Singer, president of the firm, has been selling automobiles for the past six years. He has Graham cars on display and a complete line of parts for service.

To Adjust Lights Accurately



Oldsmobile's new mechanical device for accurate adjustments of headlamps in its Lansing plant. Known as the "automatic optometrist," this machine, by means of three condensing lenses and a target, makes possible more accurate adjustment than previously in the industry. Mechanics are shown aiming the headlamps at the target (at upper right) on the Oldsmobile assembly line. Horizontal and vertical lines on the target make adjustment easy.

Silver Anniversary Federal Trucks Have Many Improvements

More attractive body lines, better load distribution and increased capacity are outstanding improvements in the new 15, 18, 20 and 25 Silver Anniversary models announced by the Federal Motor Truck Co. of Detroit, according to Phil H. Brockman of the Federal Truck Co., local distributer.

The same styling of modern design has been carried out in all of these new models. The radiator has well rounded edges, and is inclined at a smart angle. The hood and cowl are neatly streamlined and embellished with an attractive stamped moulding. Louvres are of the latest style with four long parallel mouldings over an ornamental grill. New fenders, radiator, splash shields, spring type front bumper and running boards with rounded edges to match the fenders all provide improved appearance.

Deluxe equipment is available for all models. Included are skirted fenders, heavy rubber running board mats, and chrome plated radiator, bumper, hub caps, hood hinge, louvre mouldings and head lamps.

The new Federal built cabs are offered for these models—a standard cab with a one-piece sloping windshield and a deluxe cab with a V-type sloping windshield, insulated steel roof and ply-wood lining. Both cabs are two inches longer than previous models, have lower seats and are built with skirts extending down to the running boards. A decorative moulding on the sides and back form a continuation of the design on the hood and cowl. Windshield frames are chrome plated.

Better load distribution has been obtained by moving the power plant and dash forward. This provides a shorter turning radius, shorter overall length and also distributes the load more evenly on front and rear tires resulting in longer tire life. A wide choice of wheelbase lengths to meet practically every individual requirement is furnished on these models. The following wheelbases are available: Models 55 and 18, 136, 147, 156 and 168 inch; Model 20, 136, 147, 156 and 181 inch; Model 25, 136, 147, 156, 168, 181 and 195 inch.

Gross capacities have been stepped up as follows: Model 15, from 10,000 to 11,000 pounds; Model 18, from 11,000 to 12,000 pounds; Model 20, from 12,000 to 13,000 pounds; Model 25, from 14,000 to 14,500 pounds. Nominal ratings are: Model 15, 1½-2 ton, model 18, 2-2½ ton; model 20, 2-3 ton; model 25, 2½-3½ ton.

Each of these new Federals is powered with a six-cylinder, seven-bearing truck engine. The engines are similar in design, but differ in size.

Japan to Market Cheap Cars.

Builders of light automobiles are meeting competition from Japanese manufacturers in Brazil. The cars sell for about $285, and appeal because of a small gasoline consumption.

Motor Boom in South Africa.

The biggest automobile trade boom on record was experienced in South Africa last year. The number of new cars sold in 1934 totaled 38,830, an increase of 14,000 over 1933.

Mid-Afternoon Plane Service From St. Louis to Chicago Every Day

On Friday, American Airlines began a daily non-stop mid-afternoon service from St. Louis to Chicago. The plane leaves St. Louis at 3 p. m. and arrives at Chicago at 4:29. This new flight is in addition to the three daily schedules to Chicago and the two daily schedules to Oklahoma and Texas points that the company has been operating.

Two additional services to New York were put into effect on the same date, A. R. Bone Jr., city traffic manager, said. A morning plane leaves St. Louis at 9 o'clock and arrives in New York at 4:50 p. m. The afternoon plane, leaving at 3 p. m., arrives in New York at 10:20 p. m. There are also four daily planes to Detroit and Cleveland under the new schedules.

The new Vultee plane, which cruises at 200 miles per hour, and with which transcontinental records have been recently established is used on all flights from St. Louis.

Listeners desirous of hearing Pope Pius' annual Easter message will have to arise in time to tune some station in the CBS chain at 5:30 next Sunday morning.

Loew Interests in Network Project.

ENTRY of the Loew theatrical organization into network plans is regarded in New York as a possibility. It already is feeding programs from its New York station, WHN, to three New England stations formerly affiliated with the defunct ABS chain, and it is said that negotiations are under way looking toward a large-scale project with network ambitions. The stations that were in the ABS net are being approached. It was on WHN that Maj. Bowes developed his amateur hour, which now is a Sunday night KSD feature.

EAST SIDE SCHOOL ELECTION RESULTS

Dr. R. L. Campbell Named to Head East St. Louis Board for Ninth Year.

Dr. R. L. Campbell of East St. Louis was re-elected yesterday to his ninth one-year term as president of the Board of Education of School District No. 189, comprising East St. Louis and several surrounding communities.

The four incumbent board members were re-elected to three-year terms. They are W. W. Stines, Dr. A. E. Bott, E. V. Menges and Frank B. Young.

A proposition to extend the term of the board president from one to three years was approved, 2829 to 2219. The longer term will not go into effect until next year. Proposed sale of the abandoned Emerson School property at Eighth street and Bowman avenue was approved, 6175 to 2793.

Other results in St. Clair County were: Dupo Grade School: President, J. A. Hartfell; trustees, Louis Smothers and R. H. Mayes. Dupo High School District, Eugene Burns, trustee. Canteen Township: President, Clarence Doak; trustees, Joseph Becera, John Zatka and William Stanke. Brooklyn: President, A. R. McKee; trustees, George Washington and Phal Webster.

Other Results.

In Belleville, Henry C. G. Schrader was re-elected president of the Grade School District. Trustees elected were Arno Grossart, John Dintelman and Mrs. George Steingoetter.

Dr. S. W. McKelvey was re-elected president of the Belleville Township High School District. Dr. E. L. Rauth and Arthur O. Spoeneman were chosen trustees. Roland Wiechert was defeated for re-election as trustee.

Results in other districts in or near Belleville were: Union District, Carl Heidinger, president; Leonard Owens and Gaston Duvall, trustees. Signal Hill, Harold G. Baker, trustee; Belleville Township, Frank Carson, trustee; Dewey District, Fred Cameron, trustee; Harmony District, Leroy Griffith, trustee.

Alton Labor Candidate Loses.

In Alton, H. F. Horstman and G. A. McKinney were re-elected to school board membership in the first contested election in several years. Harold Cheesman, a candidate supported by labor organizations, was defeated. I. V. Skipper was elected to the Board of Trustees of Alton Township Schools.

In five Madison County school districts the following were elected: Madison, Dr. R. A. Marshall, president; Franklin Bucher and John W. Peppers. Venice, C. R. Scott, president; E. G. Massman and Raymond Barr. Granite City High School, C. W. Munson; Granite City Grade School, John H. Kleinschmidt, president, Mrs. J. R. Propes, B. O. Bodnam and Robert Chapman. Nameoki, George Stearns, president; Earl Young and Ross Nightwine.

AUDITORIUM ATTENDANCE IN FIRST YEAR 1,329,000

Building Housed 353 Separate Events, Manager James E. Darst Reports.

During the first year of its operation, the Municipal Auditorium housed 353 separate events which attracted a total attendance of approximately 1,329,000 persons, it was announced yesterday by James E. Darst, auditorium manager.

Since its formal dedication and opening last April 14, the auditorium, with the exception of the summer months, has been used almost continuously. In the Opera House 183 events were held with a total attendance of nearly 486,000 persons. There were 47 symphony concerts, 35 religious meetings and pageants, 33 stage presentations, 18 concert appearances, 13 grand operas, 12 amateur shows, 11 lectures, eight employe's meeting and four civic gatherings.

Commercial exhibits and sporting events in the Exposition Hall attracted more than 740,000 persons. In the four assembly halls, 163 programs were witnessed by 65,000 persons.

Among the improvements to the auditorium were the addition of a cocktail lounge, restaurant, new drapes, furniture and stage equipment, and the installation of a chime system to call persons to their seats at the end of intermissions. Improvements to be made are the addition of four canopies in front of the building, drinking fountains, new lighting facilities in the Opera House and amplification and spotlight systems in the assembly halls.

TAMMANY BEATS NEW YORK REDISTRICTING THIRD TIME

Congressional Reapportionment Defeated by Same Margin as Proposal for Assembly Change.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—Tammany forces in the New York Assembly today defeated the Democratic administration's proposal to reapportion Congressional districts. The vote was 67 to 76.

The vote was the same as that recorded in the lower house when the Tammany-Republican combine twice defeated the proposal to redistrict Senate and Assembly seats. The same eight Tammany legislators stood against the measure, along with an up-state Democrat, Assemblyman Michael Breen of Rensselaer County.

Tammany Hall opposed the measure because its representation would be cut from 10 to 7.

G. P. JOHANNES WILL CONTEST IS DROPPED

Attorneys for Two Grandchildren Make Frank Statement in Terminating Suit.

Suit contesting the will of George P. Johannes, vice-president of the Glencoe Lime & Cement Co., who died in July, 1933, was terminated yesterday by two grandchildren, who were plaintiffs in the action. The will was formally proved before Circuit Judge Beck and declared to be his last testament.

The grand children, Russell C. Johannes and Mrs. Marie Johnson, alleged that Mr. Johannes, who was 81 years old, had been unduly influenced and that he did not have mental capacity to make a legal will at the time it was drawn in 1932. Co-defendants were three sons, George P., Gustave H. F. and William P. Johannes; two daughters, Mrs. Marie Ruecking and Mrs. Gertrude Hebenstreith, and another grandson, George P. Johannes III.

The petitioners objected to a trust provision in which their one-seventh interest was involved. Similar provisions were made in reference to other beneficiaries. The estate was valued at $164,456. Mr. Johannes resided at 5715 South Grand boulevard.

Wilbur B. Jones, attorney for the estate, who was present when the will was made, testified Mr. Johannes was of sound mind and that no one attempted to dictate to him. Louis B. Sher and Victor Packman, attorneys for petitioners, made the following statement to the court:

"We filed this will contest within the statutory period of one year just a day or so before that period expired. We did not have sufficient time to make an exhaustive investigation before filing suit, but we, as well as our clients, relied on certain information which we had no opportunity to corroborate as the time left to file the action did not permit us to make an investigation which we have since made. We have concluded, and our clients agree, that the facts do not warrant further prosecution of this action, and in all fairness to the plaintiffs and to the memory of Mr. Johannes, we feel there is no merit in the allegations of our petition. No settlement has been made and nothing has been promised to plaintiffs or their attorneys."

The candor of plaintiffs' attorneys was commended by Attorney Jones. The case was on the docket for trial next week.

LAMBERT GIFT HORSE WINNER IN PARADE

Sergt. Joseph Wegman, Who Rode Chestnut Bay, Receives Silver Loving Cup.

"Buddy," a thoroughbred saddle horse which Maj. Albert Bond Lambert gave to the mounted division of the St. Louis Police Department, was adjudged winner of its class entered in the parade that yesterday closed "Be Kind to Animals Week." The chestnut bay was donated by Maj. Lambert, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, six months ago.

Sergt. Joseph Wegman, who rides "Buddy," was presented with a silver loving cup by Gerald B. O'Reilly, president of the Humane Society of Missouri, which sponsored the program for the week.

A team of geldings, owned by the St. Louis Dairy Co., received a silver statuette of a horse for first award in the work horse entries. Second and third prices, also statuettes, were awarded to a gelding of the Quality Dairy Co., and a brown and white Shetland pony of the Jacob Mange & Sons, 717 Washington avenue, respectively. "Tiger," a 24-year-old work horse owned by the Pevely Dairy Co., was awarded a red ribbon as being the oldest horse in service, 18 years.

The parade, headed by 19 mounted policemen, was routed from Grand and West Pine boulevard to Kingshighway and Clayton avenue, where the awards were made. The entries included, besides the police, 22 work horses which pulled commercial vehicles shined up for the occasion, six Shetland ponies, a zebra and six privately owned saddle horses.

An old-time storm buggy, driven by John Bumbery, horseshoer of 5229 Maffitt avenue, gathered most of the attention of the spectators.

Bank Charged With Violating 7A.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Labor Relations Board found today that the Irving Trust Co. of New York had violated NRA's collective bargaining guarantee in its capacity as trustee in bankruptcy for the United Cigar Stores Co. of America. The board recommended that the company reinstate, with back pay, William Schrader and August Vesper, who were found to have been discharged in Chicago for union activity.

University City, that annual champion in all county, district, and State track and field meets for the past five years, scored 32 points to win the Relays Division, and also retired the traveling trophy that goes to the school scoring the most points in the meet, counting 43 points.

New Trier High, Winnetka, Ill., won permanently the three-time cup that goes to the victor in the individual events competition, scoring 24½ points.

Two individual champions also retained their titles, Robert Waldram, Washington, Mo., breaking his last year's javelin mark with a heave of 183 feet 9½ inches and Bill Faymonville, New Trier, winning the shot put again, and also winning the discus throw, in which he placed third last year.

Rockford Sprinter Stars.

Bob Packard, Rockford, Ill., sprinter, was a double, in fact one might say, a quadruple winner, for he not only won the 100 and 220 yard dashes, but also enabled his school's team to win the 440 and 880 yard relays through his speedy running at anchor.

Packard first won the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds, tying the old mark of Bob McClure, University City, 1932. Then he anchored the 880-yard relay team, making up a three-yard handicap and winning by five yards from University City's fourth man. The time was a new record, one minute and 31.6 seconds. The mark was one minute 31.9 seconds by University City, 1934.

Following that, Packard went back to individual events and easily outdistanced the remainder of the 220-yard dash field. And a few minutes later he went out to help his team win the 440-yard relay. His work enabled Rockford to place third in the total points division with 30 points.

Green of Blewitt Surprises.

Steve Gallauer, Granite City, took an early lead in the 440-yard dash and won it in the record-breaking time of 50.7 seconds. The old mark was 52.5 seconds, by Bridges of New Trier, in 1934.

Eugene Green of Ben Blewett surprised with a victory and a new record in the 880-yard run. Green, unheard of previous to this meet, took and kept a lead throughout the race, beating Morgan of East Prairie to the tape. His time was 2 minutes 6.8 seconds. Van Ofman, Poplar Bluff, Mo., set the old record of 2 minutes 7.1 seconds in 1934.

The other new mark set was by University City's quartet of quarter milers, who stepped over the mile route in three minutes 34.7 seconds.

Relay Notes.

Walter Schoenbeck, Roosevelt hurdler, hit the next to last obstacle in the 200-yard low hurdles, fell and finished out of the money. He made up for it, however, by winning the high hurdles.

Robert Waldram, Washington, Mo., javelin record breaker, is only 17 years old and is still a junior in

MISS RAWLS WINS THREE U. S. SWIM TITLES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Katherine Rawls, 17-year-old Miami school girl, was crowned queen of the indoor waves tonight with Lenore Kight and Eleanor Holm Jarrett her ladies in waiting.

Katy won the all around championship with three titles, winning them in the 100-yard free style, 100-yard breast stroke, and the 300-yard individual medley, an event she repeated in an exhibition tonight in the world record time of 4:04 as against her own mark of 4:12.4 as a final flourish.

Miss Kight, beaten by the tiny queen in the 100-yard free style, came right back to win the 220-yard and 500-yard free style events, while Mrs. Jarrett, star in the 300-yard medley relay victory of the swimming association of New York last night, returned tonight to crack her own world mark of 1:10.4 by eight-tenths of a second to retain the national 100-yard back stroke title.

Shoved forward by Miss Kight's 13 points, the Carnegie Library Club team of Homestead, Pa., won the national team championship with 29 points. The Washington A. C. Seattle and Miami S. C., tied for second, 17 of which were scored by Miss Rawls.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Pretty Soft for Max.

MAX BAER, it appears, finally has struck pay dirt. His endeavor to capitalize his championship by fighting has come to little since he T-kayoed the Man Mountain. But he will soon open on a new lode—it should be gold-bearing.

BAER

First will come Jimmy Braddock, Logical Contender No. 1—control your laughter, gentlemen—as the New York Commission views him. Late in June Braddock will be tossed to the Lion of Judah, with profits for the Lion running into six figures no doubt.

This will, in all reasonable probability, be the only real "cheese championship" battle since Tommy Burns fought Bill Squires of Australia for the world's heavyweight crown. But since the New York Commission has fallen for it, perhaps New York customers will do likewise.

The Lion's Second Course.

BY the time the Lion has finished licking his chops over the Braddock remains, they will toss another tidbit in his direction—Max Schmeling.

Like Braddock, Schmeling has been descuscitated after having passed out. He was brought back into the headlines, via his victory over Steve Hamas—where have we heard that name?

For this fiesta our Lion has been promised some $300,000—if coming—by Promoter Rothenberg of Germany. This match is in the doubtful column, although contracts have been offered Baer. If he must fight Max in Germany,

After Bob Weiland of the Browns had retired 11 successive batters from the start of their game with the Cardinals yesterday afternoon, the next four hit safely. Jimmy Collins was the third man to connect in the three-run rally.

Losing pitcher—Weiland. Umpires—Summers and Barr. Time 2:17.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Frankie Frisch's Cardinals, displaying an extra-base and timely attack worthy of world champions, took the lead in the spring series for the city baseball title yesterday afternoon by defeating the Browns of Rogers Hornsby in the third game, 6 to 3, before a crowd of 3200 customers, most of them sun-worshippers of the bleacher variety.

Six of the nine hits fashioned off the curves of Bob Weiland and Dick Coffman were good for extra mileage, including a home run for Joe Medwick, a triple by Ripper Collins, and four doubles, two by Manager Frisch, one by Leo Durocher and one by Johnny Rothrock.

For a time it seemed that the under-dog Brownies were going to vanquish the world champions and the crowd, sympathizing as crowds always do with the little fellow, was very happy about it. But after the left handed Weiland had mastered the National Leaguers with consummate ease for three and two-thirds innings, retiring 11 successive batters, the Cardinals suddenly found the range and after the fourth frame, the Browns were never better than on even terms with the champions.

Kleinke Stops Browns.

Norbert "Nub" Kleinke, right-handed recruit from Rochester, who won 19 games last year, was the winning pitcher and his performance, despite five bases on balls, took the sting out of Bill Hallahan's failure to show winning form. Kleinke went to the hill with the bases packed in the fifth inning, stopped the Brownie rally and then held the American Leaguers scoreless through the rest of the afternoon.

The Browns had numerous opportunities, with their eight safeties and 10 bases on balls, but they could not get the extra hit in the pinch and 13 American League athletes were left stranded on the base paths.

Pepper Makes Three Hits.

Ray Pepper, who made three hits in the first game of the series and two more in the second, again set a fast pace at the plate, pounding the National League pitching for a double and two singles. It is easy to expect the former Cardinal outfielder to have the best year of his big league career this season.

Clift's walk with two out in the first inning and Pepper's double to right center gave the Browns the first run of the game and they added another in the third on Clift's safe bunt to Martin, Pepper's single to center and Burnett's one-bagger to right.

Meantime Weiland was performing like a champion. In the first three innings only one ball was hit past the infield and that was a short fly to West. The first two men in the fourth also were retired with neatness and dispatch and then the storm broke. Frisch doubled to right for the first Cardinal safety and Joe Medwick, with a count of two and two, smashed a four-bagger into the left field seats, scoring behind his manager. Collins tripled to left-center and DeLancey bounced a single between Mueller and Melillo to score Collins and put the Redbirds ahead.

Hallahan Loses Control.

Hallahan lost control in the fifth and the Browns tied the score without the aid of a hit. West walked and Mueller sacrificed. Clift walked and after Pepper flied out, Burnett and Bell also drew passes, forcing West home with the tying run. Kleinke then was called to

Pinch-Hitter's Homer Beat Missouri, 11-10

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., April 13.—Sent in as a pinch hitter, Rudolph Tone, a recurit, made his first base hit in college baseball today—it was a home run, and with one man on it gave the University of Oklahoma Sooners a 11 to 10 victory over the Missouri Tigers. The game went 12 innings.

But Tone's deciding blow might not have brought the Sooner victory if Blase, Tiger outfielder, had fielded it quickly. Probaly thinking the winning run had crossed the plate, Blase picked up the ball and held it. Tone raced home with the run that gave Oklahoma a clean sweep in the three-game series. Missouri lost after taking a four-run lead in the first inning.

WHITE SOX WIN THIRD VICTORY OVER CUBS, 5-2

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—The White Sox defeated their cross-town rivals, the Cubs, in their first home meeting of the exhibition season today, 5 to 2, before 8000 shivering fans at Comiskey Park.

The victory was the third for the American Leaguers in as many meetings this Spring.

The Sox combed Larry French, new Cub southpaw, for four hits and as many runs in the first three innings, including a homer by Vernon Washington, recruit right-fielder. They frisked Charley Root of a run in the fourth. John Whitehead and Joe Vance, rookie right-handers from the same Dallas team, minimized nine Cub hits into two runs.

The teams meet tomorrow at Wrigley Field.

Wilmer Allison And Bryan Grant In Tennis Final

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 13.—Wilmer Allison and Bryan Grant will meet here tomorrow for the championship of the Atlanta-Biltmore tennis tournament. Allison and Grant won their semifinals matches today from Billy Reese and Berkeley Bell, respectively, in straight sets.

Allison of Austin, Tex., who ranks No. 1 in the nation's tennis set-up, won from Reese, Atlanta star, 6—3, 6—2 and 6—3.

Bell, a New Yorker, put up a harder fight against Grant, but Grant won, 8—6, 8—6 and 6—1.

Braddock Signs to Box Baer for Title; Fight Will Be Held in June

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—James J. Braddock, 28-year-old New Jersey veteran, who little more than a year ago was not regarded as a suitable opponent for Germany's Walter Neusel, signed a contract today with Madison Square Garden to meet Champion Max Baer in a 15-round heavyweight boxing title bout in June. The date for the fight will be announced next week.

Braddock, whose recent victories over John Henry Lewis and Art Lasky made him an outstanding contender for the crown, signed for 15 per cent of the net receipts after deductions for Federal and state taxes. Baer, who is under contract to the Garden for one title defense, will receive the champion's customary 37½ per cent, the Garden said.

The Garden's selection of Braddock, made after futile attempts to induce Max Schmeling to come over from Germany to fight him, virtually leaves Baer with no alternative but to approve the Jersey veteran.

It is the champion's prerogative to reject a challenger. Should Baer do this at the meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission next Tuesday, then the titlist would face suspension in this state until such time as he agrees to meet Braddock. The commission already has designated Braddock the leading contender.

AUSTRIAN SKI STAR WINS U. S. TITLE

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., April 13.—Hannes Chroll of the Austrian Ski Federation rocketed over the down-hill course on Mount Rainier today despite poor snow conditions, to win the National Ski title. His unofficial time for the mile and four-fifths run was 2 minutes, 35 4-5 seconds.

Notwithstanding fog, high winds and ice at the 8500-foot Sugar Loaf starting point and wet snow on the lower stretches, Chroll streaked down the hillside more than a minute ahead of Richard Durrance, Dartmouth's 20-year-old ace.

Miss Glutting Is Beaten 1 Up In Golf Final

PINEHURST, N. C., April 13.—Miss Estelle Lawson, 26-year-old Chapel Hill (N. C.) golfer, today gave the South its first victory in the 35-year-old North-South women's championship by defeating Miss Charlotte Glutting of East Orange, N. J., defending champion and medalist, 1 up in the finals.

Miss Glutting led from the start of the tournament, taking the medal round, and continuing unthreatened through her matches to the final round, but succumbed to the superior playing of the North Carolina girl in the last stanza.

MALONE HELPS AS YANKS BEAT DODGERS, 8-4

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, April 13.—The New York Yankees made effective use of their 11 hits today to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8 to 4, as 5000 fans, braving adverse weather, turned out to welcome both teams home from their Southern training tours.

With Lou Gehrig driving in the initial run in the first frame with a single and then connecting with a homer in the third, the Yanks found little difficulty solving the offerings of Watson Clark, Van Mungo, Johnny Babich and Bob Logan.

Lefty Gomez started for the Yanks, but ran into a streak of wildness in the third when he handed out three passes and let loose a wild throw and was relieved by Red Ruffing. He gave another free ticket to force in a run, but then steadied and allowed only one more tally before being replaced by Pat Malone at the start of the seventh.

FOXX HITS TWO HOMERS, MACKS BEAT PHILS, 16-2

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Connie Mack's Athletics got into the annual City Series with the Phillies today with all the power of a bombardment and came through with a 16 to 2 win—their first in three starts in the series to date.

While Sugar Cain, Alton Benton and Johnny Marcum let the National Leaguers down with six hits, the A's connected for 13 safeties, including a pair of homers by Jimmy Foxx. Neither Phil Collins, Orville Jorgens nor Joe Bowman was able to hold the A's in check.

The Phils were unable to score until the fifth inning, and by that time the A's had piled up five runs. They increased this total to 11 by a six-run rally in the sixth, added four more in the eighth, and chipped out another in the ninth.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Hal Schumacher and Clyde Castleman combined to blank the Indians with six scattered hits today as the New York Giants defeated Cleveland, 5 to 0, in the first game of their exhibition series at the Polo Grounds.

Schumacher, pitching the first six innings, held the American Leaguers to five hits and started the Giants' scoring with a homer off Monte Pearson in the fifth with a mate on base. The Giants also picked up their third run off Pearson and scored the last two in the seventh with Lloyd Brown on the mound.

With a light rain falling at intervals, only 1000 fans were on hand to welcome the Giants home. The same teams play the final of their spring series tomorrow.

CHICAGO, April 13.—High stakes await the winner of the western soccer final series in which the Centrals of St. Louis and the Chicago Wieboldts are engaged here tomorrow afternoon. To play in the national final is the highest honor in the game for any player, and there is a fair financial reward, too, for the three-game series between eastern and western champions draws big crowds.

The Centrals can reach that national final goal by winning the match, the fourth of the series. They won the opening match, three weeks ago, 2-1; then, two games were tied, 1-1 and 3-3, a succession of scores which gives some indication of the equality of the contenders. The strange feature of this check-and-counter-check is that one team is particularly strong on attack and the other has just the sort of tight defense needed to offset it. On the other side, the Central defense is not so airtight but it doesn't have to be since the Chicago forwards haven't worked up much of a punch. Result: The Centrals have scored 6 goals, the Wieboldts 5.

A Wieboldt victory would necessitate another game, for one club must win two matches to take the Western championship.

Not Likely to Change.

In the game of last Saturday night, played in Walsh Stadium in St. Louis in a rain storm, there was a laxity on the part of the St. Louis wing halfbacks that had the crowd shouting unpleasant criticism. Early in the week, after that game, there was some talk about a changed lineup with a view to strengthening the wing halfback positions, but as the hour of the game approaches the club management becomes reluctant to break up a combination which has carried the club to so high a place in the national cup competition. It is possible, though, that if the run of the play goes against the Centrals and the wing halves are as ineffectual as they were a week ago, a change will be made, something like this: Gonsalves to center half; Lehman to right half; E. Kane to inside right; Bohlman to left half.

The match will be played at Sparta Field, a great improvement over the site of the second series game here, at DePaul University stadium. Sparta Field is much like that at Sportsman's Park in size and the stands are sufficient to accommodate a fair crowd.

Dave Evans of Detroit will referee the game, the third official of the series, succeeding Harry Sinclair, of Detroit, and George Brannigan, of Pittsburgh.

DOWNTOWN Y. M. C. A. SWIMMERS TRIUMPH OVER CHICAGOANS

One Downtown Y. M. C. A. swimming pool record was broken and another tied as the Downtown "Y" team defeated the Lawson Y. M. C. A. squad of Chicago, 45 to 39, in a dual swimming meet here last night.

Bartosch of the Downtown "Y" established the new record when he swam the 440-yard free style in five minutes 21.6 seconds, and Ferguson of the invading forces tied the record when he was clocked in 25 seconds in the 50-yard free style.

The summaries:

400-YARD FREE STYLE RELAY — Won by Downtown Y (Queenson, Bartosch, Schaller, Brenner); Lawson Y. (Nelson, McCaffery, Elwell, Shapiro), second; Time, 3:47.

200-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Sullivan, Downtown Y.; R. Ferguson, Lawson Y., second; Olsen, Downtown Y., third. Time, 2:45.

150-YARD BACK STROKE — Won by Bowman, Lawson Y.; Heidemann, Downtown Y, second; Wolinsky, Lawson Y., third. Time, 1:51.3.

50-YARD FREE STYLE — Won by Ferguson, Lawson Y.; Schaller, Downtown Y., second; Queenson, Downtown Y., third. Time, :25.

440-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Bartosch, Downtown Y.; Hines, Lawson Y., second; McCaffery, Lawson Y., third. Time, 5:21.6.

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Brenner, Downtown Y.; Nelson, Lawson Y., second; Schaller, Downtown Y., third. Time, 57.0.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Johnson, Lawson Y., 72.26 points; Piotrowski, Downtown Y., second; Kuntscher, Downtown Y., third.

220-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Elwell, Lawson Y.; Bartosch, Downtown Y., second; Hines, Lawson Y., third. Time, 2.24.

300-YARD MEDLEY RELAY — Won by Downtown Y. (Heidemann, Sullivan, Brenner); Lawson Y. (Bowman, Ferguson, Nelson), second. Time, 3:17.4.

Bing Miller Signs.

BOSTON, April 13.—Bing Miller, veteran outfielder, was today signed by the Boston Red Sox. Miller, who was a star for Connie Mack's Athletics for many years, will be used either at first or in the outfield by the Red Sox.

he won't sign; but London or Rome will be acceptable, if the promoters can show the $300,000.

This affair would take place in July or August.

Here's the Big Shot.

THIS brings us to the "million dollar" gate revival—a bout with the winner of the Joe Louis-Primo Carnera fight, which is tentatively set for June 19.

Whichever wins this fight will be a good drawing card for Baer; but if the Negro stops Primo, they won't be able to find an enclosure large enough to park the customers.

Louis is the big money man of the fight game today and the complete revival of pugilism, from a financial standpoint, is strictly up to his success.

In view of his victory Friday over Roy Lazer and his long string of previous successes it appears that he can hardly miss coming through, even against the gigantic Italian.

In all of this program there seems to be something like half a million dollars awaiting Baer, if he can survive the series, and endless possibilities thereafter.

It certainly appears as though Max were in the money at last—unless there are still too many slices to come out of the melon.

Revising the Forecasts.

BASEBALL writers who rushed into the clairvoyant ranks several weeks ago, predicting pennant winners on training camp information, have been revising their forecasts in several instances.

The Cardinals, who were "hot" two months ago, have cooled off considerably and the metropolitan contingent has returned to its old love—the Giants.

Detroit and Cleveland, which excluded the Yankees from the No. 1 picture in earlier views, have now taken a back seat and have given way to the Yankees, in the revised predictions of several experts.

The Cards, of course, have lost some support, due to the departure of Pat Malone, and doubt as to the pitching of Hallahan, Walker and the young hurlers on whom Frisch, to some extent, must rely.

The Giants, on the other hand, stronger in every department than last year, have increased in favor with the speculators.

Almost unanimously the baseball world has excluded all other National League clubs from serious consideration—a risky procedure when one considers the makeup of the powerful Pittsburgh team, and the still formidable Cubs.

Rise of Yankees' Following.

CLEVELAND, having lost its infield ace for an indefinite number of weeks or months, has also lost the first-place consideration which a "boost" by Hornsby and its own native strength had given it. Detroit, too, has slipped because fans are beginning to believe that no club can be 100 per cent lucky throughout two successive seasons.

As a consequence, the Yankees are now exciting serious attention and are second choice in St. Louis and first choice in some New York betting shops. At this writing, Tom Kearney quotes 8 to 5 against the Cards, 2 to 1 against the Giants and 4 to 1 against the Pirates and Cubs. The Tigers are favored at 8 to 5, with the Yanks at 2 to 1 and Cleveland at 3 to 1.

As matters are now shaping up, it would surprise no one if the October world series saw the two New York teams battling for the spoils. Certainly the metropolis this year will present two strong fronts. The teams that beat the Giants and the Yanks seem reasonably sure to win pennants.

Racing at Fairmount.

WHETHER there will be racing at Fairmount this Spring depends somewhat on the State Legislature's action on the new Lager bill. Already the commission has favored the restoration of passes—a point for which Fairmount fought long and hard.

Now there is additional relief in sight in the bill which increases the Illinois mutuel "take" from 6½ to 10 per cent for cities 50 miles away from an Illinois city with a population of 500,000 or more.

Fairmount race track seems to be about the only important course in the State affected by this bill. If this is passed there is no doubt we shall have a Spring meeting at Fairmount, with passes ad lib and only a 25 cent service charge for the punters to pay.

There is another bill in the Illinois Legislature which merely increases the "take" of all tracks from 6½ to 8 per cent, with breakage to the dime instead of to the penny. This would mean a total income of 9½ per cent of the mutuel handle for all tracks in Illinois, regardless of their location.

Doubtless Fairmount would operate if this bill were passed.

The possibility of Missouri passing a racing law will not influence Fairmount this Spring for, even if the bill were passed with an emergency clause, no St. Louis track could be built in time for Spring or Summer use.

The Future of Babe.

MAJOR league baseball's attention will be focused on the Boston Braves this year. That's because Babe Ruth will be making his last effort to remain in the limelight as a player.

The club's bank account is the reason for this intensive move to keep the Bambino active. As a first base regular Ruth would pull customers into the park; as a vice-president or an assistant bench manager, he would be just another official, to the mob.

"We wanta homer!" is the chorus of the entire baseball world where Babe is concerned.

The outlook for gratifying fans in this respect seems dubious. Just now Babe is not so hot physically. Also, his batting eye in spring training has been sealed tight. The Babe's legs don't function, and if the legs don't work nothing matters, on the ball field.

It would surprise no one if Rogers Hornsby, who is some three or more years younger than the Babe, would appear in more games than Ruth this year and to better advantage. Hornsby really has surprised himself, so far this season.

"I'm not kidding myself," Hornsby warns. "But I am feeling and moving around far better than last year. If it lasts I'll probably be in there a lot."

Would THAT be good news!

28,500 Tickets Already Sold for All-Star Contest

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 13.

THE Cleveland Indians had better be good this year. They seem to have the home town fans all excited.

The Cleveland Baseball Company announced today that 28,500 tickets already have been sold for the American-National League all-star game here, July 8.

Cleveland Options Two.

Bill Perrin and Steve Sundra, young pitchers, have been optioned by Cleveland to the Minneapolis club.

Extra-Base Hit Attack of Cardinals Beats Browns, 6-3

the rescue and threw out Melillo to end the inning.

The Cardinals quickly regained the upper hand. With one out in their fifth, Durocher slashed a double down the left-field line, took third on an infield out and scored when Martin singled sharply just out of Clift's reach.

Weiland Batted Out.

When Rothrock and Frisch doubled to start the sixth inning, Coffman replaced Weiland and Medwick greeted him with a single to left, scoring Frisch with the Cardinals' sixth and final run.

Ivy Andrews pitched the ninth and retired three men in a row to make the inning scoreless after an error, a walk and a late throw to third on a sacrifice bunt had filled the bases.

Spring Series Notes.

BILL WALKER, who won a dozen games and lost four for the Cardinals last year, will face the Browns in the fourth and final contest of the series this afternoon. Rogers Hornsby said last night he would start Jimmy Walkup or Jack Knott.

The Browns will be the at-home team, with the Cardinals occupying the visitors' dugout.

The Cardinals' boys' band, bigger and better than ever, paraded to the center field wall for flag raising ceremonies and entertained the customers between innings. The tooters have drilled during the winter under the direction of Ernest Prang Stamm.

Terry Moore reached Pepper's double in the first inning, but the ball popped out of his hands. The young center fielder was dangerously near the concrete wall in right-center.

The Browns open the American League season at Sportsman's Park Tuesday, opposing the Cleveland Indians, while the Cardinals depart at noon tomorrow for Chicago, where they play the Cubs in the 1935 inaugurate.

Pepper picked on Terry Moore's field again in the third. Terry tried for a shoestring catch of a low liner, but missed and the ball caromed off his glove, into the air, for a single. Terry gave it a battle.

Pepper opened the seventh inning with his third hit, a single to right, and Burnett drew a cheer from the Brownie partisans when he doubled to right, moving Pepper to third. But Bell lined into a double play and Durocher threw out Melillo to nullify the two safeties.

They laughed when Martin sat down trying to catch West's pop foul in the eighth inning. He sat down in the wrong place.

SIGNED FOR MATCH RACE AT ARENA, APRIL 23

One thrill-promising match race already is lined up and another is in the making for the next program of midget auto racing at the Arena, April 23, according to word from Promoter Earl Reflow, who is in Chicago.

Reflow telegraphed that Jimmy Rogers and Jimmy Snyder, whose duel was noticeable to the highest perched galleryites at the Arena last Tuesday, had been definitely lined up for an individual duel.

The second match race in the process of being lined up would bring together Marshall Lewis, the Arena's outstanding driver, and Lou Schneider, winner of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis in 1931.

These two drivers proved popular with the fans last week and Reflow decided to sound them out for a match to pit Schneider's daring against Lewis' uncanny ability at negotiating the turns.

The same system of dividing the cars into two classes and presenting a double program of events is to be followed next week.

BEARS LOSE TO WESLEYAN NINE IN OPENER, TIE SECOND GAME

By James M. Gould.

Washington University's baseball team went through two games yesterday and, at the end of the very long afternoon, had succeeded in winning neither. At that, they lost only one, for, after Illinois Wesleyan had trounced the Bears, 9 to 3, in the opener of a doubleheader, the Bears were good enough to tie the visitors from Bloomington, 3 to 3, in the nightcap.

Wesleyan did some high-class clouting in the first game, gathering 14 hits of assorted lengths off the pitching of Dave Blumberg and Oscar Machens, the latter pitching only two-thirds of an inning. Machens went right back in the second game and his failure to win was due entirely to some frenzied Washington fielding in the eighth inning and a balk he made himself in the seventh. In this game, Machens permitted only five hits and struck out eight.

Wesleyan used two southpaws, Read and Hawkins, in winning No. 1. Both were in good form, especially Read, who might have a future in professional baseball. He is a left-hander with a fine curve and a real "high, hard one," and has excellent control as well. Three Illinois pitchers were employed in the second affair, which was marked by light hitting. Wesleyan made but two hits and the Bears but one in the first five innings.

Then, in the sixth session, the Bears bunched two hits, one a double by Hopkins, with two passes, a single and a muff by Center Fielder Peterson, for their three runs. A balk by Machens gave Wesleyan a run in the seventh and Depew chose the eighth in which to muff a fly ball. Neither side could score in the ninth and, as the shades of night already had fallen, it was decided to call it a day.

Wesleyan has a right nice college team—that is, the lineup which operated in the opener. They used a flock of reserves in the second game and these didn't click quite so prettily.

Washington's pitching was spotty and Coach Gale Bullman is on the hunt for a couple of dependable hitters.

The Bears' record thus far is one victory—over the Alumni, a tie and defeats by Eden Seminary and, yesterday, by Illinois Wesleyan.

Gene Sarazen had to stage a great uphill fight to tie Craig Wood in the Masters' Tournament. The playoff, however, was something of a coast.

A 2 on a par 5, 485-yard hole is enough to take the tuck out of anybody with the ball game apparently salted down in the old kit bag.

See where the latest fad is cocktails to match the color of the gown or vice versa. How would a nile green go with that dark brown taste in the morning?

And by the way, or the beer if you prefer, did you ever see anything leap into prominence overnight as did the cocktail? Before prohibition it was just a drink, one of many. Now, what with the cocktail hour, cocktail parties and cocktail songs it has become a sort of a rite.

In Billy Beauhuld St. Louis has the amateur champion lightweight boxer. This is doubly gratifying as the champion leather pushers developed in St. Louis can be counted on the foot of a two-toed sloth.

St. Louis hasn't had a professional champion boxer as far back as the memory of the oldest inhabitant runneth and it runneth back to the time of the Daley boys, Ed Kelly, Bob Douglas, Jack Wilkes and Mike Mooney. Tom Allen was an imported champ.

What, Another?

No doubt about it, those Phillies are out to win the feud championship of the world. They have taken on a new one. In addition to the Frisch-Wilson feud they now have a Terry-Watkins vendetta.

It seems that Bill blames the loss of the 1934 pennant on Watkins, whereas George claims that he was no more a contributing factor than the well-known Memphian himself.

Off hand we should say that the main cause of the debacle was the Brooklyn players in general and the Dean brothers in particular.

However, there is nothing like a good feud to make the turnstiles click even if it doesn't mean anything.

But we still maintain that the minstrel boys had the right idea. A noonday parade starting from the hotel with a brass band and drum major making a piker out of Solomon in all his glory, would let the cat out of the bag and make the citizenry cognizant of the fact that by special permission of the Weatherman there would be a ball game in the afternoon at 3 p. m. Admission: Adults $1.10; children under the turnstiles free.

ALIX, MICHIGAN RUNNER, SUFFERS FRACTURED LEG IN 2-MILE RUN

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 13.—In a meet climaxed by the injury of Neree Alix, Michigan two-mile runner, University of California defeated the Wolverines on track and field today by the score of 76½ to 54½.

Alix, favorite to win the eight-lap test, and leading at the time, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg just above the ankle.

The plucky little Michigan long distance man was two yards ahead of his teammate, Walter Stone when his spike caught in the sideboard of the oval. He turned his ankle and fell heavily. His leg bone protruded through the flesh as he writhed in pain on the track. Stone was forced to hurdle over his fallen mate.

Alix was taken to the infirmary hospital while Bob Fowler, California's undefeated runner went on to win the event by eight yards over Stone. Roderic Howell of Michigan came in third.

Ward Scores 17 Points.

Beaten, Michigan, nevertheless produced the outstanding individual performer in Willis Ward, all around Negro star. Ward won the 120-yard high hurdles and broad jump, tied for first in the high jump and took second in the hundred dash to score 17 points, while 5000 fans who sat through drizzling rain gave him a tremendous ovation.

His time in the high barriers was 14.8 seconds and he broad jumped 23 feet, 11¾ inches. He tied with his teammate, Konrad Moisio, at six feet in the high jump, but was unable to keep up with California's fleet-footed George Anderson in the hundred.

Anderson, who took second honors in individual scoring, led Ward by two feet in the century. The time of 9.8 seconds was slow compared to the best efforts of both dash stars. Anderson led all the way.

The big California youth came back to win the 220-yard dash in 21.7 seconds and take third in the shotput with a toss of 44 feet, 9½ inches.

Anderson Overcomes Lead.

In the furlong, Anderson loafed for 75 yards, allowing Sam Stoller of Michigan to take a lead of several yards. The Bear speedster came with a rush to pass up Stoller at the hundred yard station and went on to win by six yards.

The half-mile run and the relay furnished thrilling finishes with Brace of California and Davidson of Michigan breasting the tape simultaneously in the 880. In the mile relay, Birleson of Michigan and Elmer of California broke the string at the same time, the judges ruled, although from the stands it few inches ahead. The time of the half mile was 1:55 and the relay 3:21.

Indigo Victor in Cup Hurdle Race

MIDDLEBURG, Va., April 13.—Best of a field of four, Northwood Stable's Indigo, with W. B. Cocks up, today won by three lengths the fifteenth running of the Middleburg Cup, four miles over Timber, feature event on the opening day's card of the Middleburg Race Association. The blue-gray gelding led over 18 of the 19 jumps and was running strong at the finish.

Noel Laing, aboard Mrs. Simon T. Latterson's Career, came to Indigo at the eighteenth fence. From that point the pair made a race of the Virginia classic.

The most popular victory of the afternoon came when Paul Mellon's Chatterbox beat Mrs. E. Kenneth Jenkins' Patrick Day 2nd by a length in the Rose Hill, a three-mile gallop over timber for horses that had never won a timber race. It was Chatterplay's first start and he justified the confidence of his supporters by clipping four seconds off the record.

Mrs. T. H. Sommerville's Last Command, a chestnut gelding, won the curtain raiser, The Sunnybank, one and a quarter miles on the flat.

Only two horses came out for the William Skinner Memorial, a two and a half mile trip over brush for qualified hunters, Mrs. Vernon Redd Jr.'s Our Friend, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Cold Punch.

SPRING FOOTBALL WORK CLOSES AT NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., April 13.—The "Reds" registered their fifth consecutive victory over the "Whites" here today as the University of Nebraska spring football session closed. ST. LOUIS TO BID FOR 1936 A. A. U. TITLE BOXING TOURNEY

Cleveland, Hawaii And San Francisco Ask for Title Event

By W. J. McGoogan.

There was no Joe Louis uncovered in the 1935 National A. A. U. boxing tournament just completed at the Arena, but there were several really good boys brought to light in the opinion of Bill Kenney, Boston, chairman of the National Boxing Committee and Roy Davis, Chicago, vice-chairman.

Kenney thought the champions as a whole were perhaps a little better than the 1934 winners and he mentioned Bill Beauhuld, the first native St. Louisan to hold a national title, as one of the standouts of the event.

Beauhuld Outstanding.

"Beauhuld appeared to be very aggressive and a good hard puncher," Kenney remarked, "When you are speaking of the outstanding boy of the tournament he can't be overlooked.

"Then there is Jim Clark, Niagara Falls Negro welterweight. He is a very fine puncher and a good boxer although his confidence in his punching ability makes him careless.

"Johnny Marcelline, Philadelphia flyweight victor, is a fast clever boy who should go far, while Dave Clark, Detroit Negro middleweight, is a classy ring artist. So are Al Nettlow, Detroit featherweight champion and Troy Bellini, Cleveland bantamweight winner.

"As is always the case, there were probably better boys defeated in the preliminaries than those who reached the finals. Notable cases, of course, are those of Jesse Levels, Cleveland, and another Patsy Uso, Detroit. These boys are both good and it was too bad they had to meet in the first round.

"Altogether, however, I think it was a great tournament with the arrangements and the action throughout very good. There were few disputes over decisions and the work of the referees and judges was very good."

Davis concurred in these views and went on to say that while the work of the officials of St. Louis in handling the event was appreciated, it seemed to him that the local public generally is not very interested in the national tournament and he thought perhaps it would not be returned to this city in 1936.

However officials of the Ozark A. A. U. want it back and will bid for it in December.

The total attendance for three days was 18,141 and the gross receipts $12,430.30. The expenses were approximately $7500 so there was not a great deal of profit when taxes amounting to about $1500 were deducted. The net proceeds are to be divided 70 per cent for the national and 30 per cent for the Ozark A. A. U. the local organization.

"When you consider that the tournament has grossed $60,000 in other cities in other years you can see how far off the proceeds were here," Davis said, "and we count on boxing to help run the affairs of the A. A. U. just as universities depend upon football to support other sports.

"We must find a revenue of about $10,000 per year out of the boxing tournament.

"Geographically, of course, St. Louis is ideal. We have had more associations represented in the tournaments here than we ever had when the event was held in Boston or New York.

Sectional Tournaments.

"It may be that it would be a good idea to reduce expenses by dividing the country into eight sections, hold sectional tournaments and send the eight winners to the national. Thus the receipts would pay the expenses of the teams, with the national body having only to pay the expense of the tournament which would be a one-night event and probably would attract better gates.

"Seat prices here were the lowest that have ever prevailed at a national tournament.

"Of course, the 1936 tournament site will not be determined until the convention in December. San Francisco, Cleveland and Hawaii are talking of holding the event next year."

Kenney said that he thought the exploitation of amateur boxing by newspapers in various cities had a tendency to detract from the national tournament in addition to killing boxing by small units of the A. A. U. in those cities.

Publicity Harmful.

"Golden Gloves affairs are very colorful and newspapers put them over in great style," he said, "but I believe the spread of the idea is harmful to the A. A. U. despite some obvious advantages."

The popularity of the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament and the inter-city matches with New York, together with the international meet which is held every year, has virtually killed the small amateur shows in Chicago and was even harmful to the national tournament here because several of the inter-city winners in the matches held just prior to the national were unable to make the trip to St. Louis, due to injuries.

ONE INNING GIVES WASHINGTON VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Bunching five hits in the third inning for four runs, Washington today defeated Albany of the International League, 4 to 2. Susko, Albany first baseman, hit a home run over the right field fence in the first inning.

An intra-squad football game today will bring to a close the spring practice of the St. Louis University Billikens. Play will start at 2 o'clock on the practice field at Walsh Memorial Stadium and Assistant Coaches Roy Taylor and Carl Pike will direct the play with Head Coach Muellerleile holding general supervision.

Every member of the practice squad will see service in the grand finale. Starting lineups include for Coach Taylor's team: Padjen at center, Oates and Banfield at guards, Baker and Rossini at tackles and Fitzgerald and Mitchell at the ends. Opposing this line Coach Pike will have: Krause at center, Putnam and Keleman at guards, Cagle and Neff at tackles and Hartle and Ruhl on the flanks. There will be little difference in weight in the two starting forward walls.

The "Taylors" will have Lou Drone at center, Captain Hudson and Bill Harris at the halves and Hermanny at fullback, while the "Pikes" are to depend on Vieth or Shea at quarter, Wood and E. Drone at the halves and Kloepper at full to do the signal-calling and ball-carrying.

Head Coach Mullerleile is greatly pleased at the spirit shown by the men throughout the practice season. There was evident at all times a high morale which, observers thought, was absent part of the time last year. "Mull" records a great improvement for about 20 of the players—that is about two teams showed better class than ever before.

The Billikens have scheduled 11 games for the 1935 season. On the list are Sewanee in an American Legion convention game in September, Creighton, Marquette, Arkansas State, Mississippi, Xavier, Kirksville Teachers, Missouri Mines, North Dakota, De Paul and Washington.

22,000 SEE PRINCE FOX WIN $5000 STAKE AT ARLINGTON DOWNS

By the Associated Press.

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Tex., April 13.—Winning his eighth victory in his last nine starts, Prince Fox, well ridden by Georgie Woolf and carrying 116 pounds, won the $5000 Added Three D's Handicap today over a mile and a sixteenth.

Bien Fait finished second and Bold Lover got show money. The victory was worth $4150 to Owner W. C. Weant. The winner went the route in 1:42 1-5 to establish a new track record for the distance.

Our Count, pre-race favorite, was scratched when he suffered a slight leg injury last night in his stable.

An estimated crowd of 22,000 persons saw Prince Fox win.

He paid mutuels of $6, $3.70 and $3.10. The second place horse paid $7.40 and $5.50, and Bold Lover paid $4.20.

The winner was under strong handling from the start and won drawing away.

The Presidents Speak: Harridge And Frick in Pollyanna Messages

By Will Harridge,
President of the American League.
(Written Especially for the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 13.—To predict in early April what will be the outcome of the championship race in late September, with eight ball clubs participating, is merely guesswork. The uncertain thing, which is always liable to happen in baseball, might upset any early predictions.

I hope and am sincere in the belief that the American League will enjoy the best race we have had for years. There does not appear to be a single "push-over" in the league. Detroit is starting the season with its championship club of 1934 intact and may repeat. A poll of the newspaper writers has given Cleveland the edge, but the New York Yankees are confident, with the return to good physical condition of Combs, Dickey, Walker, Allen and Van Atta, that they will be the winners.

Boston has been greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Manager and Shortstop Joe Cronin, and, should Pitcher Bob Grove show a return of his 1933 form, the Red Sox will be first place contenders.

Connie Mack spent 1934 in developing a new pitching staff, which now appears ready to go places, and if Jimmy Foxx develops the catching ability Mr. Mack looks for, the Athletics are going to be very dangerous.

Washington handicapped by an unprecedented epidemic of accidents in '34 should again have its full strength on the field, and, if it has the pitching, will be fighting for a first division berth.

The St. Louis Browns, under the leadership of Rogers Hornsby, made a very enviable showing on their Spring exhibition trip and will give a good account of themselves.

The Chicago White Sox have shown terrific batting punch in their Spring exhibition games, and with two or three young promising pitchers to replace the fading veterans might be the surprise of the league.

Fan interest is at its height, which promises a prosperous season.

"A Great Year for Baseball," Says Frick.

By FORD FRICK.
President of the National League.

FRICK HARRIDGE

NEW YORK, April 13.—My favorite prediction for the past two months has been that 1935 will prove to be a great year for baseball.

I've been saying that, then proceeding to state that in our league it looks like a pennant race narrowing down to the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, with Chicago and Pittsburgh possibly taking a hand in it and one of them, perhaps, holding the upper hand at the finish.

The rebounds of my statements show me that people have hooked up these two statements and have construed my "great-year" prediction to mean the National League exclusively.

Great Year for Baseball.

I really meant "a great year for baseball as a sport of national scope." I was thinking mainly of the fact that this year—and I can show you figures to prove it—there will be more boys playing ball than there ever were before at any time in American history.

Our league is fortunate in having probably the most colorful as well as competent assemblage of players in its long history. The league's sixtieth birthday will be next February and I feel sure our sixtieth year will go down into the annals as one of the banner seasons of all time.

My first thrill will be in Boston. Babe Ruth, the big Bambino, I watched during his great Yankee years, little thinking that in 1935 I would see him in a Boston Braves' uniform starting a new incarnation.

What Will Dizzy Do?

I'm looking forward to Dizzy Dean's next chapter. You never know what Diz is going to do next. I'll get a thrill out of Rabbit Maranville's comeback after his year off because of a broken leg. I'm going to follow closely Cincinnati's luck with all these new players Larry MacPhail has gotten together. I'm keen to see whether Bill Terry's big four are going to be the pitching staff they were in 1933. I'll be watching Chuck Klein to see whether he has regained his batting power of 1933, a thing that will mean everything to the Cubs. I want to watch Paul Waner defend his title of league batting champion.

And, for my own private satisfaction, I'll be right up there in the stands quite often watching my pair of dark horses, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. If I were trying to make a really shrewd prediction it would be this one: Either or both of these teams, Dodgers and Phils, will be one or two of the sensations of our pennant race.

And there's a good chance that one of them may turn out to be our league's major sensation.

CARDINALS WILL BE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GUESTS ON APRIL 22

Manager Frankie Frisch and the world champion Cardinals and officers of the St. Louis National League club will be the guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at the Hotel Jefferson Monday evening, April 22.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, will attend the dinner as will Gov. Park of Missouri, Gov. Futrell of Arkansas, and deliver speeches. Gov. Laffoon of Kentucky also has been invited.

Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cardinals, will introduce members of the Cardinals. Thomas W. Dysart, president of the chamber, will preside.

The dinner, although sponsored by the chamber, will be open to the public, and Dysart has urged merchants, manufacturers and jobbers to invite their customers from out of town to attend the dinner and stay over for the opening of the St. Louis National League season on the following day.

Chicago Will Hold Olympic Boxing Trials

CHICAGO will be the scene of the Olympic boxing trials, probably next June, it was said by members of the National Boxing Committee here attending the recent National A. A. U. tournament.

Roy Davis, vice-chairman of the committee, said he had enough votes to insure the selection of Chicago for the site.

A. A. U., collegiate, Army, Navy and other national organizations select boys for tryouts for the team.

Johnny Behr, Chicago, veteran coach and referee, is being boomed for coach of the team instead of Spike Webb of the United States Navel Academy, who has coached the United States boxers for other Olympics.

NINE KENTUCKY DERBY ELIGIBLES GET HEAVY PLAY IN KEARNEY'S BOOK

Chance Sun, Commonwealth, Roman Soldier, Omaha, Nellie Flag, Psychic Bid, Plat Eye, Montagna and Boxthorn are still popular choices with players on the Kentucky Derby to be run May 4, Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner, announced yesterday.

Even the exercise boy has a bet on the favorite, Chance Sun, and all employes of the J. E. Widener stable are likewise backing the colt, according to Kearney.

New York and Philadelphia players are betting on Commonwealth, Psychic Bid, Omaha, Today and Chance Sun. Chicagoans are wagering on St. Bernard, and Louisville and Cincinnati have gone strong for Weston, now backed down to 20's.

Some of Kearney's odds:

Chance Sun, 4; Commonwealth, 6; Omaha, 8; Roman Soldier, Nellie Flag, Psychic Bid, Plat Eye and Boxthorn, all 15; Montagna, 20; Today, 25, and St. Bernard, 30.

Central Makes 22 Runs Against Soldan in Its First City League Game

By Harold Tuthill

Central hammered the offerings of five Soldan pitchers all over the Public Schools Stadium annex yesterday as the Red and Black boys started the defense of their City High School League baseball championship with a 22 to 4 victory.

The game was supposed to be the second of a triple-header, but the morning contest was postponed when Cleveland failed to make an appearance. It was explained that the Cleveland officials understood that the game had been postponed, so now the Carondelet nine will play Blewett Tuesday afternoon. Tomorrow, Cleveland is scheduled to meet Central in a play-off of last week's postponed game.

McKinley took the league lead by defeating Roosevelt, 5 to 1, in the second game. It was the Goldbugs' second victory against no defeats.

While Martin Hughes and Walter Flachs were keeping Soldan well under control, Central scored in every one of the six innings. In all, the Red and Black boys secured 20 safeties, of which one was a triple and seven were doubles. The most productive innings were the second and fifth, when Central counted five runs each time.

After starting with four runs in the first frame, Central made five in the second, four in the third, one in the fourth, five in the fifth and three in the sixth. Five Soldan pitchers failed to stop the barrage.

Jim Hill was Central's siege gun for he doubled three times, walked once and forced a runner in his five trips to the plate. Tom Cigno, second baseman, was the leading run-getter, for he tallied five times.

It was Central's opening game of the season and Soldan's second loss in as many starts. Last week Blewett walloped Soldan, 16 to 2.

Goldak, The Goldbug.

Johnny Goldak, who last year was a catcher for McKinley, this season is rising to stardom for the Goldbugs as a pitcher. Against Beaumont, Goldak yielded only two hits and no runs, while he let Roosevelt down yesterday with four hits and one run. In addition, he struck out 10 of the Rough Riders.

The one run that Roosevelt scored was due to a momentary weakness on Goldak's part. He walked Bob Stanton at the first of the third. Stanton advanced while Goldak tossed out Bohannon. Then after Axthelm popped to Bishop, Fred Naumann singled to right center, Stanton scoring.

McKinley previously had scored in the last of the second when Freeman walked and stole second, from where he counted later, on Bud Parrot's single and Bohannon's fumble. The Goldbugs regained the lead with a pair of runs in its half of the fifth. Julius Blanke opened with a triple to right that just grazed the glove of Hardy. A passed ball let Blanke in. Goldak walked. Bishop struck out, but Colombo singled to right, Goldak stopping at second. Hughes forced Goldak at third, Weckle unassisted. Joe Monahan then singled to right and Colombo crossed the plate.

Monahan's double in the fifth inning drove in one of the two runs made by the Goldbugs in that round, and that ended the scoring for the afternoon.

Clayton's Track Team Wins Meet; Schneider Loses

Clayton's star sprinter, Schaeffer, was beaten for the first time this season when he was defeated by Lammers of St. Charles in the 100-yard dash event in a dual meet yesterday morning on the Clayton field. The time was 10.8 seconds, due to the poor condition of the track.

Clayton was the winner of the meet, 67¼ points to 54¾. Cohen, a member of the winners, ran a good race in the 220 and also showed well in the relay race.

The summaries:

200-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Harvey, Clayton; Lammers, St. Charles, second; Soell, Clayton, third. Time—24.6 seconds.

NEW YORK MUTUEL BILL IS DEFEATED

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—The Senate today killed a bill for a constitutional amendment to legalize pari-mutuel betting. The vote was 16 to 31.

DON WHITE AND DAVIS ARE OUT, IN SHAKEUP OF BEARS' COACHES

Don White, for 12 years basketball coach at Washington University, and John E. Davis, who has served in several coaching capacities at Washington for 14 years, have been notified that their contracts will not be renewed next season, it was announced yesterday, following a meeting of the University Faculty Committee on Athletics.

WHITE

The announcement has been expected, as rumors have been frequent on the campus for the last two years of dissatisfaction with the basketball team's work.

Davis, who has been track, baseball and freshman football coach at various times, will continue as track coach until the close of the current season.

White, who has been absent from the city recently, has been relieved of his former duties as baseball coach and Gale Bullman, line coach of the football team, has been handling the coaching of the diamond squad. He will continue as baseball coach for the remainder of the season.

No successor to either White or Davis was named by the committee, but campus gossip has it that several prominent graduate athletes have been under consideration with a view to naming one man to handle both basketball and track coaching. That would leave Bullman as permanent baseball coach and also assistant to Jimmy Conzelman as football coach.

The Committee on Athletics gave no explanation of the change in coaching arrangements other than that it was in line with the general reorganization program inaugurated three years ago when Jimmy Conzelman was brought in to replace Coach Al Sharpe.

Although White had great success with his basketball teams a few years ago, in recent seasons the Bears have not been able to hold their own in major circles. Now that the football team has been developed to major strength, pressure from the alumni has endeavored to obtain a similar improvement in basketball and even track teams.

White, whose home is in Lebanon, Ind., came to Washington direct from Purdue University, where he was known as one of the best players in that institution's history.

SUIT AGAINST BOXER JOE LOUIS DISMISSED

DETROIT, April 13. — Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan today dismissed a suit for an accounting of the earnings of Joe Louis, colored heavyweight boxer. The suit was brought by Alter E. Ellis, who managed Louis as an amateur and also named John Roseborough who has managed Louis' professional career since July, 1934. Ellis claimed he was entitled to a share of Louis' professional earnings.

SHANDON FARM HORSES WIN TWO STAKES AT BOWIE

EVERGOLD TAKES HANDICAP AND BRIGHT LIGHT THE KINDERGARTEN

Horses That Ran Dead Heat Meet In Match Today

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., April 13.

FOR the first time in 15 years a matched horse race will take place here tomorrow when a "winner-take-all" event is scheduled between Dirigible and Suitor. Last Sunday the pair finished in a dead heat and rewarded by paying $2.50 and $2.40, respectively.

In the race, last on the card, conditions will be the same as last Sunday with the Jockey Club putting up a purse and owners of Dirigible and Suitor making a side bet. It will be a six furlong dash with Dirigible carrying 112 pounds and Suitor 117. Jockey Joe Frey will have the mount on Suitor and Virgil Thompson will ride Dirigible.

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., April 13. — The Shandon Farm, owned by Richard and Patrick Nash of Chicago, completely dominated the picture here today as an 11-day meeting came to a successful close. Shortly after Bright Light had won the Bowie Kindergarten Stakes, the six-year-old Evergold raced to a handy triumph in the mile and a sixteenth of the Southern Maryland Handicap, richest stake of the session.

Evergold, with the leading local rider Silvio Coucci handling him perfectly, registered by a length and a half over Good Harvest, which Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt yesterday purchased at private terms from the B. B. Stable to run as a stable companion to Dogmata. A. J. "Whitey" Abel's St. Moritz was third, another three lengths back. Evergold, coupled with Dust Girl, closed favorite at $5.40 for $2. Over a deep and holding track, the son of Ladkin completed his journey in 1:50 2-5 to collect $3675 for his stable.

Lynx Eye Caught Napping.

R. Robertson's Lynx Eye, with Workman up, was unprepared for the start and was left behind the other five starters. This fellow was well backed and his bad fortune drew groans from many in the crowd of some 15,000 that viewed the sport.

St. Moritz, which improved so much last winter that Owner-Trainer-Rider Abel made a supplementary entry to the Florida Derby, showed the early speed of the field under Little Georgie Watson. The St. James gelding opened up several lengths advantage in the first three furlongs.

Rounding out of the back stretch, Coucci suddenly shot Evergold around the leaders to go from last place to first before reaching the home turn. The big chestnut easily drew clear and was in hand through the late stages. Good Harvest, always in the thick of contention, closed gamely under the whip and had no difficulty beating the tired St. Moritz. Dogmata was a poor fourth, while Dust Girl, after showing early foot, dropped back to last position at the same time her stablemate moved into the lead.

Bright Light in Kindergarten.

Bright Light, in the Chicago-owned silks of the Nash Brothers' Shandon Farm, was an easy winner of the ninth running of the Bowie Kindergarten Stakes, four-furlong dash worth $1480 to the victorious owner. Johnny Gilbert, who is second to none at riding juveniles, brought the son of Sun Flag first home by a length and a half to pay $10.80. A. G. Vanderbilt's Parade Girl was second, three lengths clear of the Wheatley Stable's Distract. H. H. Hector's Wise Duke, making his first start since winning the Hialeah Juvenile Championship Stakes, in which Bright Light was third, was a nose farther back as favorite in the field of nine. He appeared to have finished third. The time over the heavy going was :49 flat.

Incidentally, this marked the third year in a row that Gilbert has ridden the winner of this fixture. He won with Angelic a year ago and with Wise Daughter two seasons back. The victory was Bright Light's second in as many starts here.

Borsa tossed Bobby Jones at the start, which was poor. The boy suffered a deep cut on the wrist and lost a finger nail. Victorious Ann opened up a daylight lead, but stopped early as Bright Light assumed command and held it without being seriously threatened by the slow starting Parade Girl.

Jockey Jones is not expected to ride again for several days.

The first, second and fourth horses all are eligible for the rich Aberdeen Stakes at Havre De Grace April 24.

Big Gawk, Bradley Candidate for Derby, Is Attracting Attention

BIG GAWK.

Three-Year-Old Which Has Never Gone to the Post Has Done Well in Preparation for the Event.

BIG GAWK
Chestnut gelding by North Star III-Bed of Roses.
Owned by E. R. Bradley.
Has not yet gone to the post.

Despite the fact that he has never started in a race, the "overstuffed" gelding Big Gawk is attracting a surprising amount of favorable comment from those observers who have had an opportunity to see him work on E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm track.

It appears that Big Gawk acquired his name a bit too early in life, for he has outgrown much of his yearling ungainliness. He was actually "leggy" and awkward and gawky in his first year but a study of the accompanying photo, made a few days ago at the Bradley Farm, shows plainly that he has filled out remarkably.

Still, his conformation is rather suggestive of the antelope and his stride is nothing but a refinement of a "lope," reports from Louisville say.

Some observers have gone sort of high on Big Gawk but Trainer Thompson frankly declares that he has learned very little about the Derby worth of this horse.

"I know that he is tough, willing in all his work and capable of a blinding flash of speed," explains Thompson. "However, he has not yet been tried over a distance of ground. His work to date has been confined to long gallops with a breeze at the end. In these breezes he has had no trouble knocking off quarters around 23 seconds."

One Louisville turf editor writes that he believes Big Gawk will be a factor as well as his stablemate, Boxthorn, in the running of the Derby. "These horses are in capable hands," he writes. "The 'Bradley's' are good horses. They are being perfectly educated—and there is always the luck of the Colonel to consider. They will be at the peak of their form at the hour of the race."

George Dawson Wins Midwest Title Third Time

By the Associated Press.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 13.—Playing sub-par golf, George Dawson of Chicago came from behind today to win the Midwest amateur 36-hole medal tournament for the third successive time.

He played the two rounds of the long, hilly course in 146 strokes, three less than it took Wilford Wehrle, 20-year-old Racine (Wis.) star, to finish.

When the final round began Dawson trailed Wehrle by two strokes. The champion, however, was on his game from the start, going out in 34 and returning in 37 for a 71, one under par.

Russell Martin of Chicago added a 78 to his 74 of yesterday for a 152 to take third place.

More than 300 players participated in the tournament.

Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit won the women's section of the tournament, scoring a 93 yesterday and an 85 today for the low gross of 178. Mrs. George Davis of Oak Park, Ill., finished second with a 91 and 95 for a total of 186.

Oklahoma Aggies Win Mat Title

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 13.—Winning five titles and amassing a total of 32 points during the championship round, the Oklahoma A. & M. College mat team tonight won the National A. A. U. wrestling title.

The Aggies, who recently won the National Collegiate championship at Bethlehem, Pa., led Central Oklahoma Teachers by 22 points when the smoke of the championship finals had cleared away.

The tournament was an all-Oklahoma affair. Only one out of State man—Robery Myers, Bloomington, Ind., who defeated Ernest Young, Stillwater, Okla.—won a championship. He carried off the 112-pound crown.

The only other invader to win his way into the finals—Dale Brand, Cornell College, Iowa, lost to Ralph Rasor, Oklahoma A. & M., in the battle for the lightweight crown.

112-Pounds—Robert Myers, Bloomington, Ind., defeated Ernest Young, Stillwater, Okla., 20-9.

118-Pounds—Rex Perry, Oklahoma A. & M. defeated Grant Wright, Central Oklahoma Teachers, 15-11.

126-Pounds—Ross Flood, Oklahoma A. & M. defeated Jack Gott, Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers, defending champion, 19-18.

135-Pounds—Ralph Rasor, Oklahoma A. & M. defeated Dale Brand, Cornell College, Iowa, 23-13.

145-Pounds—Lewis Tomlinson, Central Oklahoma Teachers defeated Doc Strong, Oklahoma A. & M., 15-11.

155-Pounds—Frank Lewis, Oklahoma A. & M. defeated Melvin Clodfelter, Stout A. C., Wetumka, Okla., 15-11 (overtime).

165-Pounds—Orville England, Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers, defending champion, defeated Chares Bird, Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers, 23-17.

175-Pounds—Lloyd Ricks, Oklahoma A. & M., defeated Emil Scheilstede, Central Oklahoma Teachers, 18-11. Ralph Teague, Stout A. C., Wetumka, Okla., defending champion, defeated Tom Hanly, Oklahoma A. & M., 13-5.

PRESIDENT'S ARM IN SHAPE TO OPEN SEASON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Roosevelt said today that his arm is "in shape" to toss out the first ball, opening the season here next Tuesday.

The Chief Executive was given a season pass for himself and one for Mrs. Roosevelt by Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators. Ford Frick, president of the National League, was with Griffith.

INDIGO IS WINNER IN MIDDLEBURG CUP RACE

MIDDLEBURG, Va., April 13.—The favored Indigo, property of the Northwood Stables, carried the lead from the start today to win by two lengths in the Middleburg cup race, feature event on the spring renewal of the annual Middleburg Race Association races.

Mrs. T. H. Somerville's last command was ridden to victory by C. K. Bassett in the Sunnybank, one and a quarter miles on the turf, in 2 minutes 28½ seconds with Richard K. Mellon's The Stag, J. E. Ryan up, two lengths behind at the finish.

DERBY HOPES WORK IN MUD AT LOUISVILLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 13.—Too impatient to wait longer, several trainers today took their Derby pets out into the thick mud and held watches while they circled the Churchill Downs track.

Chance Sun got the most attention when he ran six furlongs in 1:19 3-5. He came in better than in previous tries and gave no indication of trouble from the slight leg cut he received Friday.

Chanceview, the Flanigan "gift horse," in his first real work over the Downs oval went the full mile distance in 1:51 2-5.

Mrs. R. B. Fairbanks' Bluebeard, recently acquired from the Coe string, gave his new owner a treat with a three-eighths in :36 2-5 in preparation for a longer work tomorrow.

Bobby's Son, W. E. Hupp's flashy colt, begged for more after six furlongs at 1:20.

Finance and St. Bernard, two Derby eligibles of the Coldstream Stud at Lexington, arrived along with 13 other runners. Both look good. St. Bernard is the real hope of the stable and stands a good chance of being among the colts to line up May 4.

DENVER PLAYER WILL COMPETE IN OPENING MOTO-HOCKEY BATTLE

Promoter Walter C. (Speedy) Clark announced yesterday that he had received a wire from George Seifert, Denver, Colo., motorcyclist and veteran moto-hockey ace, that he will play with the St. Louis All-Stars in the opening game of the season Tuesday night at the Coliseum. Seifert will arrive today and report for a workout with the local quartet tomorrow.

Seifert's appearance will fill the place in the local lineup left vacant when Sammy Stein, local rider, crashed into a concrete post in a practice game at the Coliseum.

The Denver rider is also scheduled to give a demonstration of short-track motorcycle racing, which will be introduced to St Louis sports fans this summer.

The Eastern team captained by George Seagraves and including Harry J. Lee of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Earl Hughes, Chicago, Ill.; and Steve Mopsky, Cleveland, O., is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis tomorrow. Seagraves is bringing a team of seven substitutes with him. There will be no practice today but two drills are planned for Monday.

By Alec Mermod.

HERE is something new in trapshooting which has been suggested by Mr. Bob Nichols, sports editor of Field and Stream. It is presumed that readers of this article are familiar with the present skeet layout, so we won't go into any description of the old-style game.

Mr. Nichols very aptly calls this new game Hi-Skeet because the high tower is 40 feet high instead of 10, while the low tower is 12 feet instead of 3.

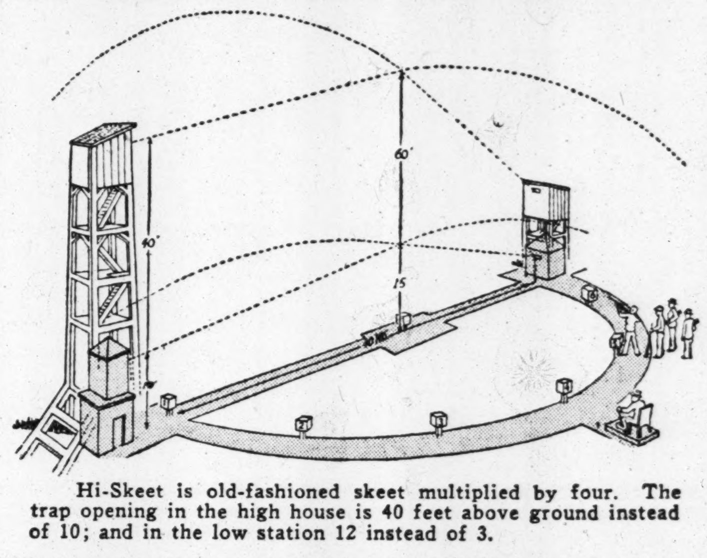
Old-fashioned skeet has become very popular, especially among the sportsmen who care more for field shooting than they do for trap-shooting, and care very little for the routine trap-shooting at 16-yard targets.

Skeet affords better practice for the field shooter than does any other game, where artificial targets are thrown, for the flight from the different stations more nearly resembles the flight of upland game birds.

Shooters are always on the lookout for improvements and when skeet was developed we thought we had the last word in trap-shooting. But this idea suggested by Mr. Nichols should appeal to duck shooters, who very seldom go afield with the dogs and who do find that the flight of the targets in old-style skeet does not give them the varied shots encountered in the duck blind.

For example, the shots from Station 8 in regular skeet are not to be had in the field or duck blind; for any bird killed at so close a range (15 feet) would not be worth picking up; in fact, there wouldn't be anything left to pick up.

Here's the New Hi-Skeet Layout



Hi-Skeet is old-fashioned skeet multiplied by four. The trap opening in the high house is 40 feet above ground instead of 10; and in the low station 12 instead of 3.

Perfect Shot at 60 Feet.

The targets from Hi-Skeet traps fly over Station 8 at a height of 60 feet or 20 yards, which affords a perfect shot, and one that is frequently had when shooting from a blind.

When talking to some of the skeet shooters about this Hi-Skeet game the question arose about the proper boring of the guns. The contention was that the gun best adapted to the old-style skeet would not do for the new game, for the pattern was too open, but as most of the guns are bored improved cylinder and modified, I am inclined to believe that guns so bored will be O K for the new.

For regular skeet, I believe that there is no necessity for closer patterns than those made with both barrels improved cylinder. The reason I advocate this boring is that it does away with shifting the single trigger for each shot, for having this one, one's mind frequently causes a miss.

Mental hazard cuts just as much of a figure in shooting as it does in golf. I have often heard a shooter exclaim, after missing a target, "Oh, I shot the wrong barrel; no wonder I missed that shot."

The shooting members of Deer Creek Club are thinking seriously about these high traps, which can be built over the others so that the same shooting stations may be used.

Having this double set-up will enable shooters to obtain all the shots one gets in the field at upland birds as well as the various shots from blinds. To make the shooting really hard, the trap puller may release a target from the 40-foot tower or the 10-foot tower at the call of pull, the shooter not knowing which target he will draw, and I venture to say that there will not be many 25 straights made under these conditions.

There are four private skeet clubs in St. Louis territory and two public shooting parks, and probably one of these clubs will have a Hi-Skeet field operating this season.

As a matter of information for those contemplating installing this new field, the cost will be in the neighborhood of $200, exclusive of the traps.

FIELD FOR U. S. AMATEUR GOLF ENLARGED TO 200

CLEMENTON, N. J., April 13.—The Pine Valley Golf Club, never negotiated in competition in less than its par 70, will be the scene of next year's Walker Cup matches between amateur teams of Great Britain and the United States.

The Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association, meeting at the club, 18 miles from Clementon, made the selection today. Dates for the matches were not set.

The committee also enlarged the match field for the 1935 amateur championship tournament at Cleveland to 200. Last year 188 players were in the field.

To handle the enlarged field for this year's national tournament there will be eight rounds, six at 18 holes, the semifinals and final at 36 holes. The first round will be played Sept. 9, some contestants drawing byes, so that 128 remain for the second round on Sept. 10. The next two days two 18-hole rounds will be played with 36 holes in the semifinals on Sept. 13 and the final on Sept. 14.

The women's national championship, August 26-31, at Hopkins, Minn., will be run on practically the same plan as last year, the committee said, except that 18-hole matches will be played in the afternoon on days when one 18-hole round is scheduled. Sixty-four players will qualify at 18 holes.

The public links championship, July 29-August 3, at Indianapolis, will be played on the plan followed last year, with the field increased to 64 players. District qualifying will be at 36 holes. The Golf Association representative in each city may select five from the 20 lowest gross scores. The qualification for the tournament proper will take place on July 29 and 30, 18 holes each day. Two 18-hole match rounds will be played July 31 and August 1, 36-hole semifinals and final on August 2 and 3.

The committee said it is considering increasing the number of sectional qualifying districts for the national amateur from last year's total of 24. Districts which may be added are Albany, N. Y., Charlotte, N. C., Madison, Wis., Little Rock, Ark., and New Orleans. The pro-rating of entries will not be followed strictly on the number of entries. Those sections far from the championship course but of unusual playing strength will be allotted extra places. Texas, California and the Northern Pacific Coast are such sections.

CHICAGO TEAM WINS INDOOR POLO TITLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The 124th Field Artillery team from Chicago won the national indoor low-goal polo championship tonight, defeating the local Squadron A trio 6 to 3½ in the second game of a best two out of three games intersectional series. The artillery men had won the first game 8½ to 4½.

EVERY CLUB IN MAJOR LEAGUES TO SHOW CHANGED LINEUP

TOTAL OF 31 NEW MEN TO BE INTRODUCED IN OPENING GAMES

By Herman Wecke.

When the major league clubs swing into action for the 1935 pennant race Tuesday, not one of the teams will open with an unchanged batting order. Each of the 16 aggregations has made one or more changes since the close of the last flag races, when the Cardinals and Tigers came through to the pennants.

Present indications are that no fewer than 31 new faces will be in the various lineups. Of this number, 16 will be in the National and 15 in the American League. Of the newcomers, 17 played in the minors in 1934, while the other 14 changed teams in the numerous trades made during the off-season.

Each of the St. Louis clubs will show a change. The World Champion Cardinals will open the 1935 pennant grind against the Cubs in Chicago, with Terry Moore, a star with Columbus last season, in center field. Moore, playing his second year in professional baseball, has yet to show that he can hit major league pitching, but he'll be given a chance to start the season as the Redbirds' middle gardener.

With the Browns, Beau Bell, last season at Galveston, will be in right field, and Johnny Burnett, obtained in a trade with the Indians, will in all probability open at shortstop, when Rogers Hornsby's 1935 machine pries open the American League campaign at Sportsman's Park.

Experimental Changes.

The start of the 1935 flag races will show several interesting experiments. With the Boston Braves, for instance, Babe Ruth will for the first time in his career try his drawing powers in the National League. Babe will open at first base for Bill McKechnie's club against the Giants, but just how long he will be in there is an uncertainty, since latest reports have it that his legs are giving him trouble. The Babe has not been hitting this spring, having only 10 hits in 44 trips to the plate in exhibitions, an average of but .227.

With the same Boston club, Rabbit Maranville, out of baseball all last season because of a fractured leg, will try a "comeback" at second base. Maranville is past the 40-year-old mark and his effort will be watched with interest. If he fails, Mallon, a younger man, will take over the second-basing.

Then to go to the Yankess. It will be the first time since 1920 that the Ruppert entry will open the campaign without Ruth in the outfield. In his place will be George Selkirk, a young man, who rode the bench with McCarthy's club a great deal of the time in 1934. In left field for the team will be "Dixie" Walker, trying a comeback after being out practically all of last season with a bad arm, or Earl Combs, who suffered a fractured skull in a collision with the left-field concrete at Sportsman's Park last summer. Then "Red" Rolfe, a young man, who served as a handy man in 1934, has won the third-sacking job.

Reds Practically Rebuilt.

Cincinnati's Reds will open with practically a new club. Charley Dressen in an effort to get the club out of the cellar will show three new faces on the infield and two in the outfield. John Mize, a former Cardinal farm hand at Rochester, will open at first, if his condition permits, while Bill Myers and Lew Riggs, from Columbus, another Redbird farm, will be at short and third respectively. Sam Byrd from the Yankees and Ival Goodman from Rochester, will be in the outfield with Chick Hafey. Alex Kampouris, who will be at second, played only a part of 1934 with the Reds.

The Giants, again regarded as the Cardinals' leading rivals for the pennant, will show Dick Bartell at short and either Hank Leiber or George Davis in the outfield.

The Cubs will start with Augie Galan, a reserve infielder last season, in left field; Freddie Lindstrom, obtained from the Pirates, at third base and Phil Cavaretta, with Reading a year ago, working in Manager Grimm's place at first base.

Pittsburgh's one change will have Babe Herman, former Dodger and Cub, in the outfield with the Waner brothers. Stanley Bordagaray, an outfielder from Sacramento, is scheduled to open for the Dodgers, while the Phillies will have George Watkins, Johnny Vergez and "Blondy" Ryan, all from the Giants, as the newcomers.

How the Indians Look.

When the Indians take the field against the Browns, Walter Johnson will have three new men in his lineup. Louis Berger will be at second and Roy Hughes at shortstop. Both played with New Orleans last year. Hughes is getting his chance because Bill Knickerbocker, regular shortstop, was laid low by an attack of appendicitis. The only new man will be Bruce Campbell, former Brown, down to open in right field.

With the champion Tigers, Chester Morgan, an outfielder last season with San Antonio, appears to have ousted Pete Fox from the regular right field berth. At least, he is scheduled to open the campaign as a regular. Ray Radcliff and George Washington, a pair of minor leaguers, will commence the campaign in the White Sox outfield, while Luke Sewell, from the Senators will be behind the plate.

Alex Hooks and Wallace Moses, from Galveston, will be the Athletics' new faces. Then there will be that interesting experiment of Connie Mack's of using Jimmy Foxx, a fine first baseman, as his regular cather. Lyn Lary will be at shortstop for the Senators, with Powell, from Albany, in the outfield, while Joe Cronin will manage and play shortstop for the Red Sox. In addition, Ellsworth Dahlgren, from the Coast League, and Almada, from Kansas City, are due to open for the Hubtown entry in the American League.

Irene Schreiber was the best scorer in Heidel's Wednesday night league, rolling a 645 series which set a new league record. Miss Schreiber's score helped the Schreibers take three straight from the Heidels. Mrs. Fred Johnston toppled 617 and led her team to a clean sweep over the Penneys. The Beiderwiedens won two from the Morganfords and the Colombos two from the Schmitts in the other matches.

The Judge Butlers won the odd game from the leading Brocks in last week's round of the Mound City league at Feuser's Del-Mar alleys. The Ray Fosters won two games from the Silver Seals in the other feature. In the other matches, the Liberty Bells took two from the Comforts and the Nadas two from the Hauptmanns.

Buzz Wilson was the leading scorer in the Maplewood Handicap League, rolling 685 on 225, 215 and 245 for the leading Joe Gabberts who made a clean sweep of their match with the Aircos. The Gabberts are now leading by seven games. Joe Hofer was the only other bowler to hit 600, scoring 605 with a high count of 245. Joe Palardy paced the Schenks to a two-game victory over the Freys with a 558 series while Otto Arneson hit 557 to top the Ryans who won the odd game from the Wolfs. In the other match, the Kochs won two from the Litzingers.

FAUROT DOESN'T KNOW WHAT HIS DUTIES WILL BE UNDER NEW PLAN

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 13.—Informed of his promotion to commander-in-chief of University of Missouri intercollegiate athletics Don Faurot, Tiger football coach, today said he had not been officially informed of the curators' action at St. Louis.

"I don't know what my duties will be under the new organization," Faurot said, "but I am happy to accept any new responsibilities in connection with intercollegiate athletics."

COMPANY NAMED TO HANDLE TITLE TENPIN MATCHES

J. Marvin Krause, a lawyer and son-in-law of Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri, was elected president of the St. Louis Bowling Tournament Co. at a meeting of stockholders yesterday at the Annex Hotel. The company will finance and hold the world's match-game bowling championships at the Wellston Recreation here May 4 to May 12.

Ed Doerr, president of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Proprietors' Association; Carl Stifel, J. C. Ameling, secretary, and John M. Koelsch, president of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association, and Frank Heidel, secretary of the St. Louis Bowling Proprietors' Association, were elected vice-presidents.

Ed Wenneker, manager of Rogers Recreation, was named secretary, and John Tschudy of Wellston was elected treasurer.

Harry R. Feuser, who took over the office of president of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America yesterday upon the death of Leo A. Schueneman of Chicago, was elected general supervisor of the show.

The Executive Committee will be comprised of Henry C. Menne, Treasurer of the City of St. Louis; C. Howard Stewart, treasurer of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association; Frank B. Grodzki and George Kuehner.

Otto Stein Jr. of St. Louis will begin the defense of his match-game title at the championships here. He will bowl 30 games here against the survivor of the national eliminations to be held in Chicago late this month and will continue his match in Chicago and two other cities still to be decided upon.

Miss Marie Warmbier of Chicago, individual women's champion, and the Alberti Jewelers of Chicago, women's championship team, will be seen here in several matches in defense of their championship, as will the reigning men's championship team at that time.

The Heils of Milwaukee, present team champions, are defending their laurels against the Waldorfs of Cleveland. The winner will be seen here during the championships next month.

500 SEASON TICKETS ARE SOLD FOR BEARS' HOME GRID BATTLES

More than 500 reservations have already been received for Washington University seven-game home schedule of football next fall, it was announced today by Coach Jimmy Conzelman. Season tickets for the seven games cost $8.80, which includes the 10 per cent Federal tax.

Washington's home schedule starts with the only night home game on the schedule, with McKendree College, Sept. 27. Following are the other games on the home (Francis Field) schedule: Southern Methodist University, Oct. 12; Drake University, Nov. 2; Creighton University, Nov. 9; University of Missouri, Nov. 16; Oklahoma A. & M., Nov. 23; St. Louis University, Nov. 28.

Plans are under way for the transportation of Bear fans to Champaign, Ill., for Washington's game with Illinois, Oct. 5. It is likely that there will be at least two special trains, plus several special buses. Reservations for the Illinois game can be made at the Washington U. athletic department.

Coach Conzelman has announced there will be a limited number of season reservations for the Bears' home games this season.

MEXICAN POLOISTS TO PLAY SERIES IN U. S.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—Mexico's most ambitious polo invasion of the United States will get underway tomorrow night when 10 picked players will leave to engage in a series of games with the Ranchito Polo Club at Fort Worth, Arlington, Marfa, San Antonio and other Texas teams.

Ponies used by the Mexican players will be selected from the stable of former Minister of War Gen. Joaquin Amaro, whose horses were obtained from leading stables of the United States and Canada.

"Jim Flynn's Boasting of His Victory Over Me Made Me the Champion," Jack Dempsey Says

By Edward J. Neil,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, April 13.—"So Fireman Jim Flynn is dead, eh? Say that's too bad, too bad."

A thoughtful scowl covered Jack Dempsey's dark face. The mind of the old mauler roamed back 18 years to Salt Lake City and the only knockout of his entire fighting career, at the hands of this same Fireman Jim Flynn.

"Too bad," he said again, as he pulled out a chair from one of his tables in his new restaurant, sat down, rested his elbows on the cloth, forgot the crowded, noisy room. "If it hadn't been for him, funny as it sounds, I'd probably not be here right now. I'd never have been a heavyweight champion. He made me so mad I had to be a good fighter."

DEMPSEY

Then he went back to the beginning of a story that may never have been told before.

"I was just a kid, 22, and I was down," he said. "I'd just gotten back from New York, after John Lester Johnson broke a couple of my ribs just when I thought I was ready to set the world on fire. I was broke, and I was having plenty of family trouble.

"I got back from Salt Lake, and Flynn was a big shot. They thought he'd be the next champion. They were looking for someone to 'feed' to him. I was in no shape. I wasn't eating regularly. I couldn't train with my bad side. But they offered me $200, and that looked like all the money in the world. I grabbed at it.

Before He Had Hands Up.

"Flynn had a big name, a great reputation, and that worried me. He was supposed to have made Jack Johnson quit in a fight. I was really scared, I guess. And that night, as we shook hands, he crossed a terrific right to my chin before I even got my hands up.

"They told me I went down face first. I never knew what hit me. Everything just went black. I got up two or three times and he put me right down again. Luis Firpo hurt me more, because I could feel his punches. But I guess no one in all my career ever hit me that hard. Halfway through the first round my older brother, Bernie, who was seconding me, tossed in the towl. Guess I couldn't have gotten up anyway.

"Getting knocked out wasn't so bad at that stage of the game, but it finished me on top of the Lester Johnson flop. I walked out that night after I came to and I was certain I'd never fight again. I was going back to mining. I don't think I ever would have fought again, except that Flynn kept telling everybody he could do the same thing to me any time again. He kept talking that way. I got so mad I forgot about mining. All I wanted was revenge.

"I left Salt Lake and my luck in the ring turned right away. I started to nail 'em. They began to go down and stay down. I beat Charley Miller, Bob McAllister, Homer Smith and some others, and then I came back to Kenosha, Wis., in 1918, to square things with the fireman.

"If Flynn Hadn't Boasted."

"I was a madman that night all right. This time I got in the first belt. He went down. He got up three or four times, and then he couldn't get up at all. I was so hot then that within the next year I got my chance against Jess Willard at Toledo.

"But if Jim Flynn hadn't made me so mad I couldn't quit the ring, I'd be swinging a pick now in the mines out in Colorado I guess."

Dempsey insists that suspicions that have been cast at times on that first night were absolutely unjustified. There were hints, at times, that he needed that $200 so badly that he "took" the first punch and the walloping that went with it, as part of the agreement he made when he got the fight.

"Wrong," says Dempsey, "all wrong. I never needed money that bad. He threw the first right. I caught it. And I never knew what happened after that. That wasn't the first, or the last time either, that I forgot to duck."

FIVE RECORDS FALL IN ANNUAL RELAY MEET AT MAPLEWOOD

school. He always takes his shirt off to throw. It must help.

The fastest heats were placed together in the 440 and 880 yard relaps, so that records might be set with fast teams meeting. It worked in the 880-yard event with Packard at the finish to carry the baton.

Frank Rucker, Kirkwood miler and winner of the State indoor title, met too good an opponent in Burruf of Granite City, who took the lead from Rucker in the fourth lap and held it to the finish.

A record was established in the 200-yard low hurdles, as it was the first time the event has been held. Arnold Evans, Elsberry, Mo., won it in 23.5 seconds.

This is the fourth time that University City has won the Maplewood relays. Another time they tied for the title.

Second is Outlaw, which finished far back. Hawkins, fourth-place winner is topping the fence next to the camera. The race is not always to the horse that gets the first jump in a steeplechase—not by several obstacles.

15 SCHOOLS TO ENTER MEET AT EDWARDSVILLE

The first annual Edwardsville High School Relays will be held Friday night, April 19, at the Edwardsville (Ill.) High School Field. Entries for the event close tomorrow. Fifteen schools have already signified their intention of entering.

It will be the first time that a night track meet of importance has been held in the St. Louis district. There will be 16 events, including seven relays.

Several novel events will be held, including a 480-yard low hurdle shuttle relay, in which each hurdler runs 120 yards; a sprint medley relay with the four men running the various distances of 440, 220, 100, and 880 yards; and a junior 880-yard relay open only to boys who have not reached their seventeenth birthday.

Trophies will be given for the winner of the meet, for each victor in the relay events, and to the individual scoring the most points. Points will be scored, 5, 3, 2 and 1 for the individual events, and 10, 6, 4, and 2 for the relays. Athletes will get 2½, 1½, 1, and ½ points for running on the placing relay teams, which will count in determining the high individual point scorer.

Gold, silver, and bronze track shoes will be awarded to the winners of the first three places in the individual events.

Schools planning to enter are: Decatur, Bethalto, Benld, Jerseyville, Red Bud, Livingston, Palmyra, Staunton, New Athens, Panama, Litchfield, Hardin, Freeburg, Troy, and Edwardsville, all from Illinois.

The events to be held are: Individual—100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, 120-yard high hurdles; broad jump, high jump, shotput, broad jump, discus and javelin throw. Relays—Distance medley (880, 440, 220 and mile); one mile, 480-yard low hurdle, two mile, sprint medley (440, 220, 110 and 880), junior 880 and senior 880.

KOPLAR REORGANIZATION PLAN DRAWS BONDHOLDER CENSURE

Galigher Files Petition Disagreeing With Plan to Pay Manafer $6930 Annually.

The holder of a $500 first mortgage bond on the Congress Hotel and Senate Apartments filed an informal petition yesterday in Federal Court objecting to the reorganization plan of the Koplar Co., which issued the bonds.

The bondholder, Charles F. Galigher of Cairo, Ill., disagrees in particular with a provision in the plan that Sam Koplar be employed as manager of the buildings at an annual salary of $6930 with the privilege of occupying an apartment rent free.

This, Galigher contends, was "putting the cart before the horse." He urged the Court to amend the plan so that Koplar would be paid only a nominal salary until after bondholders had received interest at the rate of 4 per cent a year.

$70,026 RAISED SO FAR IN SCOUT FUND DRIVE

Campaign to End Tuesday; Leaders Confident $98,000 Goal Will Be Reached.

The Silver Jubilee Financial Campaign to raise $98,780 set as a minimum budget for 1935 activities of the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, will end with a final report meeting at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday at Hotel Statler. Pledges reported Friday increased the total amount subscribed to $70,026.

Campaign leaders expressed confidence yesterday that the goal would be reached, calling attention to the fact that at least half of the persons who subscribed to the fund last year had not been approached by the workers as yet this year. They said that such persons would be asked to contribute during the closing days of the drive.

Walter W. Head, chairman of the campaign and national president of the Boy Scout organization, pointed out that attendance at report luncheons had grown progressively larger during the 12 days since solicitation started. "This shows how seriously determined the 900 workers are that the Scouting program in St. Louis should not be curtailed for lack of funds," he said.

Sea Scouts will make their initial voyage in the new schooner, the Commodore Nims, next Sunday. Incidental fittings remain to be made on the vessel, launched a week ago. A crew of five is required to sail the boat.

Other sail boats which the scouts have had in storage during the winter are being put into sailing condition. A number of new Moth boats are under construction and will be used in preparation for the Moth class races in the regional regatta to be held this summer above Keokuk Dam. Scouts of six states will compete in these races.

Classes for study of various phases of seamanship will be held at Creve Coeur Lake on Saturday afternoons during May. The courses, open to scouts and leaders, will include instruction in parts of boats, types of boats, handling boats under oars, marlin spike seamanship, racing rules, and rules of the road.

The inter-denominational committee in charge of the Easter Sunrise Service to be held in Tower Grove Park has issued an appeal for 50 scouts who will help in handling the crowds, distributing programs, and other duties. Scoutmasters are asked to report the number of volunteers to Clifford Bolgard, FLanders 7473.

Lester Brundrige, former assistant scoutmaster of Troop 67, Madison School, has become scoutmaster of Troop 27, Hodgen Elementary School, with the reregistration of the troop.

Troop 164, Elias Michael School for Crippled Children, held a court of honor Friday night at which Second Class badges were awarded to Charles Eades and Barry King.

Scouts of Troop 243, St. Stephen's House, hiked yesterday to their camp on the Meramec River. A rustic bridge has been erected across the river, and a dam is being constructed.

Troop 87, United Hebrew Temple, is planning a supper and program of entertainment for the families of the scouts on May 6, at the Temple.

Harry Seimers, divisional commissioner, is chairman of a North District Committee, which is arranging for a minstrel show and scouters-meeting to be held early in May.

Troop 226, Harrison School, has completed its reregistration for 1935, led by Ted Hunt, its new scoutmaster. W. P. Strocker, Paul Hann, and E. C. Reiss are members of the troop committee.

The North District Scouters Committee, headed by Willis Ehrhardt, met Monday and completed plans for the Scouters' week-end June 8-9 at Camp Irondale.

The Order of the Arrow will hold its spring dance April 27 at the De Soto Hotel. Presentation of 1935 membership cards will be required for admission.

Visitors from 20 cub packs in St. Louis and St. Louis County attended the regular monthly meeting of Pack 43, Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, last week. A comprehensive display of handicraft articles made by the cubs was on display.

Awards made at the meeting went to Robert Leedham, Pete Kasius, Ted Hoener, David Cammack, A. T. Dunham, Warner Schilling, Edwin Richardson, Eugene Frerichs, Hubert Upton, Harry Adams, George Collins, Woodward McPheaters, John Culling, Clinton Foote, Herman Gillespie, William Allen, Carl Waldeck, John Vickroy, Taylor Boggs, Don O'Neill, Allen Finkenaur, Guy Harden, Dudley Leetun, Albert Gruer, Robert Scott, Robert Kick, Loyde Driy, William Dyer, Fred Goetch, and Ralph Wood.

Pack 6, Hamilton Avenue Christian Church, will hold a Parent-Cub Banquet May 1 at the church. S. C. Reaves, Director of Cubbing in the Council, will be the principal speaker.

206 Births, 205 Deaths in Week.

There were 206 births and 205 deaths reported in St. Louis last week. Eleven persons died of pneumonia, seven of tuberculosis, one of influenza and six of violent causes.

LEGION'S CARNIVAL TO BEGIN MAY 1

"Streets of Paris" Festival for Raising Convention Funds to Be in Auditorium.

A "Streets of Paris Carnival" will be held at the Municipal Auditorium for four days beginning May 1 under the auspices of American Legion National Convention Corporation to raise funds for expenses of the convention which will be held here in September.

The exposition hall, on the ground floor, will be transformed by backdrops and buildings to be erected in the central area into scenes reminiscent of Paris. Shops in which French merchandise will be displayed will be open for business. Flags and French war posters will add to the atmosphere.

The carnival will open each night at 6 o'clock and continue until midnight. On the last day, Saturday, May 4, it will open in the afternoon, for school children. Legion posts and their auxiliaries are selling tickets in advance at 40 cents. At the box office they will be 50 cents.

Entertainment during the carnival will be provided by local theaters and night clubs. There will be music, and dancing. Attendance prizes will be offered, and a prize will be awarded each night for the best French costumes worn by members of the audience.

Sponsors of the carnival are looking for an attractive girl who was born in 1919 on May 8, 9 or 10, the dates of the first national convention of the American Legion, held here in the old Shubert-Jefferson Theater. She will be asked to preside May 9 at ceremonies when a bronge plaque will be unveiled at Twelfth and Locust street to mark the birthplace of the legion. Gen. Pershing, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Senator Bennett Clark and Col. Henry Lindsley of Dallas, first national commander of the legion, have been invited to attend.

FRANCIS BIDDLE, LABOR BOARD HEAD, TO SPEAK IN ST. LOUIS

To Discuss Section 7A at Luncheon Tommorrow Given by Regional Group in City.

Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, will discuss Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery Act at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at Hotel Coronado under auspices of the Twelfth District Regional Labor Board, which maintains headquarters here.

Besides commenting on the celebrated "collective bargaining clause," Biddle will discuss the present status of the NRA and labor matters generally.

Reservations for the luncheon may be obtained until two hours before it begins by communicating with the catering department of the hotel. The luncheon costs $1 a plate. Biddle was originally scheduled to be here last Friday, but postponed his visit until tomorrow.

Biddle addressed a luncheon meeting at Indianapolis yesterday, attended by representatives of business and labor.

WALLACE SENDS ASSISTANT TO SURVEY DUST DAMAGE

M. L. Wilson to Visit Southwest; Additional CCC Men to Work on Soil Erosion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—M. L. Wilson, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, left today for the Southwest to survey dust storm damage. Visiting Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Colorado, Wilson will confer with farmers, county and State officials, and representatives of State agricultural colleges. He will have no set itinerary.

On his return Wilson will recommend to Secretary Wallace steps to be taken to relieve the situation.

Robert Fechner, head of the Civilian Conservation Corps, said 20,000 men would be transferred to western states to enlarge the soil erosion program. After the CCC is expanded to 600,000 men, he said, the total shifted to erosion work may reach 100,000.

FRATERNITY HOUSE CLOSED

Girl's Saturday Night Walk From Quarters Starts Action.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, O., April 13.—Knox County Prosecutor William L. Howell announced today that the Psi Upsilon fraternity house at Kenyon College in Gambier will be turned over to the college.

The house came into the limelight when a Mount Vernon girl walked home from a party there last Saturday. Her father asked Deputy Sheriff Harold George to investigate, and two Kenyon football players were arrested on charges of assault on George. A third student is awaiting hearing on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

JURIES CONVICT THREE OF FIVE TRIED IN WEEK

Six Receive Penitentiary Sentences on Entering Guilty Pleas.

Three of the five men tried by juries in the criminal division of Circuit Court last week were convicted. Those found guilty were:

James Wheat, 49-year-old electrician, who shot and killed his landlord, Frank Meyer, last August 16, during an altercation over sprinkling the lawn at their home, 2266W Dodier street. Wheat was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Joseph Kral, 41, who was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary for shooting his former father-in-law, Spencer G. Lemmon, 66, who survived his injury and testified against Kral.

Earl Ward, 35-year-old chauffeur, who was fined $100 and costs for carrying a concealed revolver in his automobile.

Juries acquitted Joseph Jones, 66-year-old switchman of 2326 Park avenue, of a manslaughter charge growing out of an automobile accident in which a man was killed; and Oscar Fields, 21-year-old Negro charged with robbing a restaurant. Fields, however, is to go to the penitentiary on a similar charge, having previously received a 10-year sentence for robbing another restaurant proprietor.

Postell Pinkston, 26-year-old Negro, pleaded guilty of murder in the first degree and was sentenced to life in the penitentiary as the State prepared to retry him for a shooting during the attempted holdup of a Franklin avenue policy game in December, 1932. Pinkston, on original trial, received a death sentence which was reversed and remanded for prejudicial remarks of the State's Attorney to the jury.

Others who received penitentiary sentences on pleas of guilty, were: John W. Franklin, robbery, five years; Sylvester Johnson, burglary, three years; Percy Payne, felonious possession of burglars' tools, two years; Fred Powers, assault to ravish, two years, and William Dillman, larceny of auto, two years.

Others who entered pleas of guilty and their punishments follow: Keaver Bardwell, manslaughter, six months; John Chrostowski, manslaughter, one year; John Dukeman, Oren Griver, petit larceny, 90 days; William Pamplien, petit larceny, six months; Wesley Thurman, attempted larceny of auto, 60 days; Dave Neeley, assault to rob, one year; Albert Henderson, Louis Kornblum, Bruce J. Roper and Pete Smerek, permitting gaming device on premises, $50 and costs; Howard Vandable, larceny of auto, one year; Mildred Gamel, forgery, fourth degree, six months; Lee Campbell, Fred Ruth, petit larceny, 60 days and one year, respectively; Frank Becker, common assault, six months; Harry Moore, petit larceny, three months and paroled; Raymond Tucker, malicious trespass, nine months; Augustus Brooks, petit larceny, one year; Ike Flatt, manslaughter, one year; Leo Murray, John Garry, malicious trespass, one year and seven months, respectively; Joseph McCool, malicious mischief, six months and paroled; William Brown, destruction of property without malice, six months and paroled; Pete Nicoletti, permitting gambling device on premises, $100 and costs; Autrey Dennis, Elliott Robinson and Edgar Brooks, malicious tresspass, six months, and Irwin Hawk and Richard Watson, malicious destruction of property, 30 days.

PINCUS FISCH PAID $30 ASKS FOR $1470 MORE

Brother of Hauptmann's One-Time Partner Says Police Broke Promise.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., April 13.—Pincus Fisch, brother of the one-time business associate of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, has compained to Secretary of State Hull that he got only $30 of the $1500 promised him for coming to the United States from Germany to testify at Hauptmann's trial for the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

His letter was forwarded by Hull to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, who turned it over today to Attorney-General David T. Wilentz. Fisch said Sergt. Arthur C. Johnson of the New York City police, promised him before leaving Leipzig, Germany, that he would get $1500 and his wife, sister and the nurse who attended his brother, Isador, $245 each. When they left, Fisch wrote, Johnson said drafts were being forwarded to Germany. He said that they received only $30, of which $20 was handed to him by Wilentz on the eve of their return home.

Fisch said there was no profit motive in his coming to the United States, that he came only to defend the honor of his dead brother. But on his return home, he found his business in bad shape, that he was being sued, and that his personal property was being threatened by attachment.

Of the four who came from Germany, only Hannah Fisch, sister of Pincus and Isador, testified at Hauptmann's trial. The State brought the others here to defend Isador Fisch when the defense attempted to show he, not Hauptmann, was connected with the kidnaping and murder.

Attorney-General Wilentz denied that $1500 had ever been promised to Fisch.

"We made no arrangement with Fisch of any nature," he said, "but we asked Johnson to bring him here. We feel that the responsibility of the State to him has been discharged."

ELECTRIC CONCERN BUYS BUILDING AT 4365 DUNCAN

Baldor Co. Acquires One-Story Building to Provide for Expansion — Owns Adjoining Property.

By Berry Moore.

Exemplifying the sustained demand for quarters in this district, the Baldor Electric Co. has purchased the one-story building at 4365 Duncan avenue, owned by the Benbow Realty and Investment Co., a holding company of R. A. & G. B. Bullock, builders and operators. It occupies a site 50 by 150 feet.

The transaction was on a cash basis, it was stated, but the price involved was not disclosed. Negotiations were handled by the Thomas J. Anderson Realty Co.

The building is now tenanted by the Mines Equipment Co. under a five-year lease expiring in February, 1936. Manufacturer of motors and electric equipment, the Baldor company owns and occupies the one and two-story buildings adjoining on the east, and obviously has made the purchase to provide for the expansion of its plant.

With the new acquisition, the concern now has a total lot frontage of 150 feet on Duncan avenue, each of the three buildings standing on lots 50 by 150 feet.

An Industrial Center.

The property is diagonally opposite the Post-Dispatch's auxiliary plant at 4340 Duncan avenue. The plant of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co., manufacturer of plumbing supplies, is at 4300 Duncan, standing at the southwest corner of Boyle. A two-story building at the northwest corner of Boyle and Duncan avenues, comprising 33,000 square feet, was recently purchased by the National Underwear Co., manufacturer of rayon underwear, through Arthur S. Martin & Son, contact being established through the Industrial Club of St. Louis, of which John Ring Jr. is manager. The National Service Cinema Co., Inc., is at 4327 Duncan avenue. The plant of the Stange Manufacturing Co. is at 4377 Duncan avenue. The Multiplex Faucet Co. has a building at 4325 Duncan avenue. Other important industrial concerns are established in this block.

A majority of the plant structures on the north side of Duncan, in the 4300 block, including those occupied by the Baldor Electric Co., were built by the Benbow company, in the vanguard of speculative builders. All have been disposed of, except the one occupied by the Stange Mfg. Co., which the Benbow company still owns.

The 4400 block of Duncan, which is east of Boyle, is also a center of large industrial concerns.

Abbott Laboratories, Inc., recently purchased a modern two-story concrete and steel building at 4455 Duncan avenue, which the concern had occupied under 99-year lease. It comprises 20,000 square feet of available floor space.

The property on the south side of Duncan avenue is equipped with spur tracks, available in connection with the Wabash Railway Co., in Mill Creek Valley on the south, affording shipping facilities which have enhanced vastly values of property in this section.

Negotiations are said to be pending for other buildings in the Duncan avenue section.

Renewed Activity Forecast.

Renewed activity in real estate was pointed to at the beginning of the month, with the prediction that it would be well sustained throughout the spring season.

The volume of transactions will be expanded, according to real estate men, by deferred purchases involving, notably, property of an investment character. This is predicated on negotiations now under way and being initiated for holdings of this type, it was stated.

Noteworthy interest is being displayed in well situated flats and apartments on the part of investors, with the absorption of vacancies giving assurance of ultimate restoration of values on a basis of rental returns. According to a recent survey made by the Building Owners and Managers' Association, directed by Earl C. Giraldin, president of the Giraldin Bros. Realty Co., vacancies in apartments have been reduced to 10.91. An appreciable number of holdings of this character was acquired under foreclosure by their present owners.

Purchasers of residences, which have been a salient feature of the real estate market, promise to be in even larger volume as the season advances. A record number of residences of the better class, especially in the various county additions, has changed hands, while sales of medium-priced homes in the southwestern and northwestern parts of the city have been at an accelerated pace.

Negotiations are said to be pending for attractively situated corner holdings in both the downtown and uptown parts of the city. Acquisition of a small corner plot, adjacent to the Memorial Plaza, is in an advanced stage, according to the street. Aside from its proximity to the civic center the corner has a noteworthy value as constituting the key to a quarter block destined within the next few years to be claimed as a site for an ambitious building project. A check for $200,000 was said to be posted in connection with a deal for a downtown office building occupying one of the most prominent corners south of Olive street.

FURNITURE CONCERN LEASES 5-STORY BUILDING, 1116 OLIVE

The American Furniture Co. has leased the five-story building at 1116 Olive street for a five-year term. It now occupies the adjoining building at 1114 Olive street. The two buildings, comprising a total of 32,000 square feet, will be consolidated.

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co. arranged the lease.

Types of Residences That Have Been Recently Acquired

Residence at 4063 Magnolia bought by Louis J. Graf, from Conrad W. Ffimmer. Mullin-Walters Realty Co., Inc., represented the purchaser, and Mary Potter Love, Inc., the seller.

Residence at 7121 Delmar boulevard, University City, purchased by Zack F. Hawe from L. J. Wenneker. Transaction negotiated by the John P. Dolan Realty Co.

Residence recently completed at 4326 Cranford avenue in Pasadena Hills for William C. L. Hall, a client of the George J. Wanstrath Realty Co.

Recently completed home at 6560 Neosho street, acquired by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boedges from Shirley T. Ashby. Sale handled by the Cyrus Crane Willmore organization.

LOAN CONCERN LEASES QUARTERS AT 513 OLIVE

Being Vacated by Waldheim, Platt & Co., Which Moves to 308 N. Eighth St.

The Lafayette Industrial Loan & Investment Co. has leased the first floor of the building at 513-15 Olive street, owned by Aaron Waldheim. The lease is for five years with the privilege of renewal.

This space, 25 by 100 feet, together with the second floor of the building, is now occupied by Waldheim, Platt & Co., New York Stock Exchange firm, which has leased larger quarters at 308 North Eighth street in the Chemical Building, also owned by Aaron Waldheim.

The Lafayette company, now at 1701 South Broadway, plans to move to the Olive street quarters as soon as they are vacated.

Occupying 30 by 120 feet on the ground floor of the Chemical Building, the new Eighth street quarters of Waldheim-Platt, are being remodeled and adapted to conform with the requirements of the concern. A specially designed entrance on Eighth street will be a feature. Plans also include an entrance from the alley in the rear of the premises. Contracts call for completion by May 5, but the work is being speeded with a view to occupancy at an earlier date.

Waldheim purchased the 16-story Chemical Building, which stands at the northeast corner of Eighth and Olive streets, together with the site, several years ago from the Paul Brown estate. The five-story building at 513 Olive street, was acquired by Waldheim from the Pulitzer estate, several years ago, through Cornet & Zeibig. The property is situated at the southwest corner of the north and south alley of this block, which gives it a key status. Waldheim also owns the Equitable Building, Sixth and Locust streets.

PARK DRUG CO. TO OPEN STORE AT DELMAR BL. AND SYRACUSE

The Park Drug Co. has leased quarters at 6665 Delmar boulevard at the corner of Syracuse, in University City, with plans for a drug store on a handsome scale. The new store is scheduled to be opened with the completion of alterations now being made.

This will be the seventh store opened by the Park Drug Co. in its expansion program in the St. Louis territory.

The lease was negotiated by Edward Glik, exclusive agents for the Park company.

SUBDIVISION PLANS FOR BIG BEND RD. TRACT

Fred J. Klemhoffer Acquires 54 Acres Mile West of Osage Country Club.

Fred J. Klemhoffer has acquired a 54-acre tract on Big Bend boulevard, a mile west of the Osage Country Club. This tract also has a frontage on the Barrett Station road.

The purchaser has started construction of two houses in the tract, which is to be subdivided. Forest trees abound in this section and rock is available in ample supply for modernistic treatment. The sale was negotiated by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

Salesmen's Meeting Postponed.

This week being Holy Week, the regular weekly meeting of the American Annex of the Real Estate Salesman's Association will be postponed until the following Thursday, April 25.

APARTMENTS SOUGHT MORE THAN DWELLINGS

National Association of Real Estate Boards Reports Results of Survey.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Families who doubled up to weather the depression are now undoubling, the National Association of Real Estate Boards reported today, and are making bee-lines for apartments.

Occupancy reports to the board from a cross-section of large and small cities indicated apartment space is filling even more rapidly than single family dwellings.

Although detached dwellings, on the basis of the report, still held the lead in space absorption, the renting trend in the large cities reporting showed that for the first time in the recovery period apartment occupancy is becoming higher than occupancy of single family houses.

Figures from Detroit showed a 2.5 per cent vacancy in apartments and 4.5 per cent in single homes. Chicago reported a 6.47 per cent vacancy in apartments and 10.88 per cent in single family houses.

The survey in Madison, Wis., found 99 per cent occupany of residences of all tyyes, with 1000 families still doubled with others. Indianapolis reported a total vacancy of 9027 units, including offices, stores and residences, representing a decrease of 4950 units since 1932 plus an estimated 3000 housing units torn down and not replaced.

In the Oranges and Maplewood, N. J., the survey disclosed a 6.5 per cent apartment vacancy, comparing with 14.7 per cent last year and 16.6 per cent two years ago.

Evanston, Ill., reported a 4.4 per cent vacancy for apartments and flats and 1.5 per cent for homes. Residential units of all kinds in Hammond, Ind., were 3.03 per cent vacant. "Extra" families were counted at 705.

A vacancy of less than 1 per cent in two-story and bungalow type single family houses was reported in Oklahoma City.

Earlier surveys reported by the association disclosed:

Cincinnati: Apartment vacancies of 4.8 per cent, as against 18 per cent in 1933.

Kansas City, Mo.: Total residential vacancy of at least 9.3 per cent.

San Diego, Cal.: Total residential vacancy of 2.27 per cent as against 9.9 per cent last year.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN APRIL 22 TO MAY 4

Mayor Urges Residents to Join in Rehabilitation and Beautification Effort.

Mayor Dickmann, in a proclamation issued yesterday, called atention to the annual clean-up campaign, April 22 to May 4.

"In this worthy movement of cleaning, painting, planting, repairing and general rehabilitation and beautification, I urge each citizen to do his or her best part to make our community clean, healthy, thrifty, safe and beautiful," the Mayor said.

The campaign will be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the City Administration, the public, Catholic and Lutheran schools, the Police Department and civic and business organizations. Directors of the campaign said they expected it to result in property improvements costing $2,000,000, including materials and wages paid to workers.

Owners of vacant business or office buildings in the downtown district will be urged to clean the show windows and the interiors, and paint, varnish or make repairs where needed. In the residential sections, owners of unoccupied buildings will be requested to make improvements and to eliminate any unsightly conditions.

A speaking campaign to arouse interest in the movement has been started. Radio talks are made by members of the Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, and speakers appear daily before meetings of civic and business groups in different parts of the city. Members of the Young Men's Division will direct the canvass in the downtown business district, and school children will canvass the residential sections to encourage householders to join in the campaign.

Pastors of churches have been requested to make special announcements next Sunday, and to ask members of their congregations to aid in the campaign opening the following day.

RECORD SALES OF LOTS IN YEAR IN DAVIS PLACE

Six of 20 Houses Under Construction Sold From Drawings—Street Contracts Let.

Comparatively dormant for the first two or three years after it was platted, Davis Place, at the northwest corner of Clayton and Hanley roads, is now pointed to as one of the most active sections of the real estate market.

Measured by front feet, approximately 100 lots in this development have been sold during the last year, as reported by Shaw & Francis, Inc., sales agents, for the Hanley Realty Co., or for individual owners who had purchased from the original developers, or in instances from banks and speculators who had acquired lots under foreclosure.

A large number of houses, ranging in cost from $13,500 to $50,000, have been erected in Davis Place. Six of 20 houses in course of construction in the addition were sold last week from the plans. Several lots were also acquired in this addition as sites for homes, for which plans are new being made.

Henry A. Barnett, contractor and builder, has just completed a handsome residence in the addition, with plans made for several others.

The Hanclay Realty Co., now owners of the remaining unsold ground, have let contracts and placed the money in escrow for making Bemiston avenue, West Biltmore drive and Mohawk place, in Davis Place. Reinforced concrete streets and sidewalks will be constructed under State specifications. The contract calls for completion of the work within 45 working days. Ansbrow & Bower are the contractors.

The tract, formerly owned by the Davis estate, was placed on the market several years ago by subdividers with plans for its upbuilding with high-class residences or duplex houses. It was surrendered by its original developers under mortgages held by the Davis estate. Restrictions exclude apartment buildings and flats. It was one of the few unexploited tracts of large area immediately adjacent to the city.

Activity in Lake Forest.

The week witnessed renewed demand for lots in Lake Forest on the part of person with building plans. As announced yesterday, only 21 of the 124 lots comprising the plat, remain unsold. More than 50 houses, ranging in cost from $30,000 to $125,000, have built in the addition. Eleven houses are under construction with plans for others being drawn, William L. Gorley is director of sales, with the John P. Dolan Realty Co. special agents for the asle of the new residences.

RECENTLY ORGANIZED REALTY FIRM READY IN NEW OFFICE

E. W. Pape, former president and general manager of Pape-Johnson & Co., has opened a modernly equipped real estate office at Grand boulevard and Meramec street. As Pape & Co., the firm will operate a general real estate business. E. J. Schnapp, with many years of real estate experience, is director of sales, and A. Bizelli will have charge of the farm activities in St. Charles, Lincoln and Warren counties. Efficient management will also be found in other departments, Pape stated.

RECENT SALE REPORTED BY MARY POTTER LOVE, INC.

Mary Potter Love, Inc., has negotiated the sale of a nine-room residence at 106 Bemiston, Clayton, to a client of the Mayor & Comfort Realty Co.

Representing the seller another recent sale in which Mary Porter Love, Inc., participated was that of the residence of Mrs. Earl C. Brown at 6349 Ellenwood avenue. The purchaser, George Naumann, was represented by Henry R. Weisels.

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE, REACHING HIGHEST IN 3 YEARS

Gain Due Largely to Modernization and Repair Program of Federal Housing Administration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Due in large part to the modernization and repair program of the Federal Housing Administration, the number and value of permits for new buildings, alterations and repairs during March expanded to a much greater degree than is usually the case. The March volume of building permits for 215 cities of the United States, as compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was the largest since April, 1932, and represented a total value of $45,056,822, as compared with $27,636,367 in February. This was an increase of 63 per cent, as against a normal seasonal gain of about 53 per cent. Marked improvement was also shown over the corresponding month of last year. Comparison with the March, 1934, total of $25,505,005 reveals a rise of 76.7 per cent.

The volume of permits for the 214 cities outside of New York increased to $33,609,654 during March, compared with $21,783,459 in the preceding month and $19,804,760 in the same period of last year, representing increases of 54.3 and 69.7 per cent, respectively.

At New York City, the value of permits issued jumped to $11,447,168, a gain of 95.6 per cent above the February total of $5,852,908, and 100.8 per cent higher than March a year ago, when permits were valued at $5,700,245.

In analyzing the February to March comparison by sections, it is seen that three groups reported increases of over 100 per cent. The West Central States had a gain of 159.2 per cent, Middle Atlantic 110.1 per cent and East Central 101.6 per cent. Moderate increases were shown by the South Central, New England and Pacific groups, while the improvement was smallest in the South Atlantic and Mountain States.

First-Quarter Results Favorable.

The record of building permit costs for the first quarter of 1935 gives evidence of a continuance of the rise from the depression low levels reached in 1933. Permit values for the first three months of this year amounted to $99,519,457, compared with $65,657,024 for the same period of 1934, or a gain of 51.6 per cent. Last year's total, in turn, showed an increase of 24.6 per cent when compared with the first quarter of 1933.

SALES TOTALING $451,000 CLOSED BY FIRM SINCE JAN. 1

The Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co., Inc., Big Bend and Clayton roads, reports having closed sales of properties to date in 1935 aggregating in price $451,000, an increase of 92 per cent over the same period of 1934.

A partial list of the company's sales since March 1 are as follows: 4963 Thrush avenue, bungalow, for Andrew Schneider to Jessie Duff; vacant lots No. 72 and No. 82 of Osage Hills, sold for Cora Halm to Harry C. Vollmar; 1310 Midland drive, six-room residence, for a client to Alfred M. Pollack and Aline U. Pollack, his wife; 1007-07A Claytonia terrace, a single flot, for a client of the John S. Blake & Bros. Realty Co., to Henry W. Breitshaft; 4167 Washington avenue, residence, for Jessie Duff to Andrew Schneider; 7726 St. Albans avenue, a new seven-room bungalow, for a client to Wilhelmina F. Flake; vacant lot known as lot 12 of Moorlands Park, to Roy V. Woodworth and Ethel Woodworth, his wife, for a client; vacant lot known as lot 19 block 7 Westmoor Park No. 2, for Charlotte Rossen to Joan Conway; duplex located at southwest corner of York drive and Glen Ridge in the Moorlands, for Joseph Golluber, to Robert G. Criag.

FOUR PROPERTIES SOLD, THREE FOR AN ESTATE

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. reports the following sales:

5651 Theodosia, five-room brick residence with lot 21x120, for the account of Emily C. Schiedler and others to Howard J. Brown. The purchaser was represented by Haake Realty Co. 4414 St. Ferdinand, frame cottage, lot 20x130 feet, 4159 Lexington avenue, three-room brick cottage with lot 25x179 feet. 1919 North Whittier, frame cottage with lot 22x102 feet. Three of these properties were sold for Olive Blackinton, trustee under the will of Adelia S .Wheeling to Minnie Stephan, for all cash.

ERECTION OF 15 HOMES STARTED IN ENGELSYDE

Bungalows Will Comprise 5 Rooms and Have Lots, With Side Drives.

The John C. Greulich Realty Co. has begun construction of 15 houses of the bungalow type in Engelsyde Subdivision on McLaran avenue, between Goodfellow and Riverview drive (Kingshighway). Modern in every detail, the new homes will have five large rooms, tile bath and kitchen, abundance of closet space, including guest closet, air-conditioned heating plant. Construction will be of hydraulic matt brick. The buildings will have lots ranging in size from 36 to 40 feet in width, with a side drive.

Located within the city limits, the subdivision has modern sewers, street, water, gas and electric mains. This North St. Louis tract was the last remaining within the city limits available for residential development.

The Greulich Co. reports noteworthy inquiries for homes and real estate in North St. Louis.

REPORTS SALES OF FIVE VACANT LOTS IN MARCH

Sales of lots during March are reported by Victor Wm. Reitz Jr., as follows: On Stanford ave., University Park, for Harry W. Winsby to a client of the Haffner Realty Co.; in Richmond Heights, on Edward ave., for George Kemper to L. J. Moran; in Wydown Forest, Clayton, for M. D. Flavin to S. C. Lance; on Tulane ave., University Park, for Flora Rank to a client of the Del-Lin Realty Co.; on Wellington ave., Musick subdivision for C. Brown to a client.

COUNTY REALTY BOARD CLAIMS TAX CUT CREDIT

Launched Movement Last February That Resulted in Revision.

Members of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board, claim credit for the 10 per cent reduction in the real estate assessment for 1935 taxation, recently granted by the State Board of Equalization.

The movement for the reduction was launched at the February meeting of the County Real Estate Board, which appointed a committee composed of William Heckman, Grover Devine and William Reasor, to confer with County Assessor Neaf. The latter, along with the members of the committee headed by John E. Eggers, president of the County Real Estate Board, appeared before the State Tax Commission at Jefferson City, and recommended a reduction of 10 per cent on real estate and 20 per cent on personal property assessments. The committee also appeared together with members of the St. Louis County Board of Equalization, before the commission, and before the State Board of Equalization. The State board agreed to a 10 per cent reduction on real estate, which has just been approved by the State Board of Equalization.

BRISK BUSINESS IN MARCH SHOWN BY RECORD OF SALES

Brisk business in March was reported by John H. Armbruster & Co., the firm having sold the following properties: 2486 Brown road, for J. H. Vatterott to Harry H. Unland and wife; southeast corner Marion avenue and Hawthorne, for J. H. Vatterott to Emma Mentz; two acres and cottage in Maryland Heights, for F. L. Tiller to Cecil C. Bryant; 8214 Jefferson street, Vinita Park, for Ruchte estate to J. V. Cleary and John G. Knoll; 2950 Chaucer avenue, for W. M. Wilson to August Dolin; 2438 Charlack road, to J. C. Graham; 9636 Midland avenue, for J. L. Streszewski to Homer L. Hunt; seven acres in Palmer subdivision for Roy Palmer to David J. Hurley; 9410 Muriel avenue, for T. V. Atwell to G. W. Lawrence; 9418 Bristol avenue, for Augusta Rastberger to B. J. Leeman; 2200 Burns avenue, for L. A. Christmann to Harry C. Moore; lot in Midland View, for C. D. Jost to Thomas V. Ottinger; 2247 Spencer avenue, for a client to G. R. Steinbach; vacant lot in Maple place, for J. L. Dryden to Albert Wicks; 2315 Wengler avenue, for John Gribben to Alex J. Mockler; 2316 Spencer, for Herman F. Long to Robert H. Beckley; 2337 South Milton, for J. H. DRIVE-UR-SELF CONCERN LEASES GARAGE ON DELMAR

The Hertz Driv-Ur-Self Stations, Inc., has acquired a long lease on the Melitio garage, a one-story structure 161 by 140 feet at the southeast corner of Fifteenth street and Delmar boulevard. It comprises 23,000 square feet of available floor space. The lease calls for an average rental of $7800, said to be a new rental record on this part of Delmar.

The Hertz company, controlled by the Yellow Truck & Coach Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of the General Motors Corporation, has already moved from its former quarters at 3524 Washington boulevard. Contracts have been let for extensive improvements on the exterior and in the equipment of the new quarters. The new quarters are four times as large as the old quarters, which were built and leased to the Hertz company 10 years ago at a record rental for that part of Washington boulevard. The company is planning more intensive and diversified operations in this territory.

The lease was negotiated by Griffith & McMillan.

BROWNE-TILT INC., TAKES SPACE IN FRANCIS BLDG.

The Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co. arranged the lease to Browne-Tilt, Inc., a portion of the third floor in the Francis Building at the northeast corner of Sixteenth street and Washington avenue. This company recently was organized to manufacture and design shot patterns.

Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co. reports an active inquiry for loft space, as this is the third lease made in this building this year.

W. H, LERCH APPOINTED HEAD OF SALES ORGANIZATION

W. H. Lerch has been appointed sales manager of the Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co. Lerch has been aggressive figure in the real estate field, with a record of sales, notably in West End properties, to his credit. He is regarded, accordingly, as well qualified to serve as sales chief of the organization.

California

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution of many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. Agricultural Development Department, Santa Fe Railway, 934 Railway Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Our Used Car Business Is Good!

BECAUSE our stock is unusually clean. Our prices are below present market value. Our terms are liberal and we tell you the truth about our cars. Over a quarter of a century in business and we still believe you should get your money's worth and we are not overstocked with five lots full of old distressed cars traded in at last year's prices.

Your Uptown Chevrolet Dealer. Drive in Our Large Parking Lot. It Pays to Buy From a New Car Dealer.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

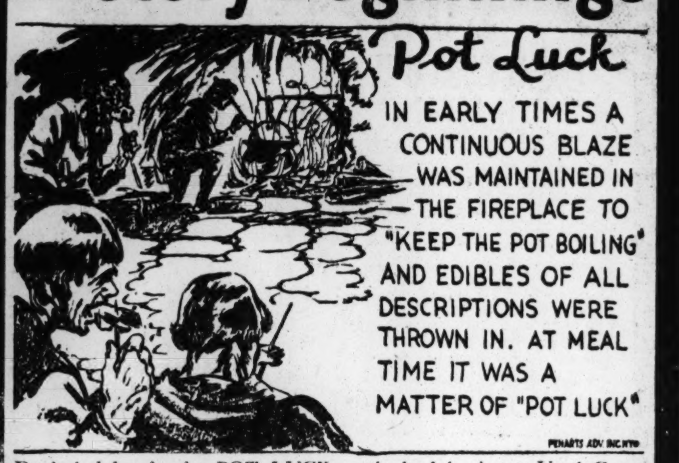
History Beginnings



IN EARLY TIMES A CONTINUOUS BLAZE WAS MAINTAINED IN THE FIREPLACE TO "KEEP THE POT BOILING" AND EDIBLES OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS WERE THROWN IN. AT MEAL TIME IT WAS A MATTER OF "POT LUCK"

Don't indulge in the POT LUCK method of buying a Used Car—that of guessing what kind of a car you got. Everyone who has become the SECOND OWNER of a car through us will tell you of their satisfaction—AND THAT THEY KNEW EVERYTHING ABOUT THE CAR WE SOLD THEM BEFORE THEY BOUGHT IT.

How Andrew Mellon Got Rid Of Steel Firm; Sale or Merger, Is Vital Question in Tax Case

McClintic-Marshall Deal With Bethlehem Corporation Gone Into—Value of Stock Another Point at Issue.

By Marquis W. Childs
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 13.

WHEN the Government's tax suit against Andrew W. Mellon is resumed here tomorrow still another phase of the extraordinary business career of Pittsburgh's first citizen will be explored.

In the eight weeks that the hearing, before a special division of the Board of Tax Appeals, has continued, not only Mellon's financial and business biography, but a great deal of his personal life has been written into the encyclopedic record. The Government is seeking to collect $3,089,000 in tax and penalty on Mellon's 1931 income.

Nearly $1,000,000 of this is claimed on profits which the Government charges Mellon realized on a complicated deal in steel. This deal involves subtleties of accounting and financial interpretation beyond the understanding of the layman. But it contains, too, beneath all its complexities, the dramatic story of the rise of industrial America and the large part that the Mellon family and the Mellon fortune had in that rise.

The clang and clash of the riveters putting up the steel frame of the great Mart Building in Chicago, assembling the Bear Mountain Bridge over the Hudson and forging the huge steel doors to the locks in the Panama Canal will have a faint echo in the Federal courtroom here. And all the time, as the Mellon business connections were multiplying, geometrically, and new buildings and factories were rising, the Mellon profits in steel were mounting. Nearly $20,000,000 was realized on an original investment of $75,000, the records in the case show.

Start in Steel Business.

Two likely young engineers, H. H. McClintic and Charles D. Marshall, attracted the attention of Andrew Mellon and his brother, the late R. B. Mellon, more than 35 years ago. The two Mellons had taken over the banking business founded by their father and already had shown an almost uncanny knack for making money grow. They decided to invest $75,000 apiece in Young McClintic and Marshall, in return for which they would own 60 per cent of the steel fabricating company that the two young engineers were to found. The engineers added another $50,000 apiece and the McClintic-Marshall Corporation was ready for business, with a plant at Pottstown, Pa.

It became, thanks in part to the business that the Mellons could throw to it, the largest independent company of its kind in the world, with dozens of subsidiaries. There were the McClintic-Marshall Construction Companies of Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania; the McClintic-Marshall Export Company; the Kenilworth Land Company, the Steel Frame House Company. One subsidiary, the Union Shipbuilding Company, sent steel ships out to cruise the seven seas. In the building of America, the America of steel and concrete, skyscrapers, bridges, tunnels, vast, many-windowed factories, McClintic-Marshall had an important part.

Decision to Get Out.

Then toward the end of 1930 the four partners, the two bankers and the two engineers, decided to get out. They may have thought that it would be a long time before America would need great quantities of structural steel again. They may have foreseen the depths of the depression. Anyway they agreed to call it quits, and just in time, at a most favorable moment, before the business cycle swept downward.

Now this is where the controversy begins. The Mellons and McClintic and Marshall disposed of their steel company, in part by liquidation, in part to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Was this a sale or was it a merger? That is the vital question in this suit, for if it was a merger, as Mellon contends, then he paid a lawful amount of tax on the transaction. But if it was a sale then Mellon owes, as the Government charges, nearly $1,000,000 more. A minor point, on which turns about $100,000 of the tax, is whether the stock of McClintic-Marshall was worth $353 a share in 1913, when the income tax law went into effect, as Mellon contends, or $158 as the Government maintains. With the experts and the mass of data which both sides are able to summon, it is plain that these are not matters to be settled in a day's argument.

Considerable testimony has already been given on these points, in examination and cross-examination of Mellon's witnesses, but the Government will add a great deal more in presenting its own case.

A Busy Day in 1930.

The way in which the four partners unburdened themselves of their steel company is an excellent example of the methods of big business. In the first place, there were the subsidiaries to put formally into the discard. Dec. 31, 1930, was a very busy day for McClintic-Marshall, and two holders of qualifying shares, Earle J. Patterson, former vice-president of the McClintic-Marshall company, and E. A. Gibbs.

First, as directors of the McClintic-Marshall Corporation, they met and transferred $44,000,000 of the assets of the company to the Union Construction Co. Ten minutes later the same four men met as the board of directors of the Union Construction Co. and accepted the $44,000,000 in assets from McClintic-Marshall. A few minutes later the stockholders of Union Construction—the same four men—met solemnly to approve the action of the board of directors of the Union Construction Co.

Again the four met, once more as the board of directors of Union Construction to carry out certain necessary formalities. This was only the beginning. First the four sat as the board of directors and then as the stockholders of all the various McClintic-Marshall subsidiaries in order to vote the assets of these subsidiaries into the parent company. Altogether it was a pretty busy time in the office of McClintic and Marshall in Pittsburgh.

It meant, the Government charges, merely that the decks were being cleared of assets which Bethlehem Steel did not want to buy in the subsequent deal. Some time later all the assets of Union Corporation were liquidated, Andrew Mellon's share being $13,000,000. The Government concedes that this was tax exempt.

Bethlehem Steel acquired what remained of McClintic-Marshall, giving over to the four owners in exchange Bethlehem stocks and bonds. Mellon's share of the proceeds was about $6,300,000. Of this total he took $1,300,000 in bonds and sold them to the Union Trust Co. in Pittsburgh and on this amount he paid a tax. But he denies that the Government is entitled to income tax on the other $5,000,000 which is still in the form of the obligations in which it was received from Bethlehem.

Testimony has already shown that just before the deal Bethlehem bought 240,000 shares of its own stock through a brokerage ac-

How Much Work in the $4,880,000,000 Works Program?

30 Per Cent of Money Spent on Public Works Goes for Labor on the Job — Amount of Employment Indirectly Provided Varies With Different Materials and Is Problematical—About 25 Per Cent of Total Expenditures Goes to Capital and Management.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, April 13.

A GREAT experiment in making jobs for idle hands was commenced when President Roosevelt signed the $4,880,000,000 Work Relief Act, which for nearly three months had been the center of debate in Congress.

The immensity of the sum may be measured by the fact that it would provide 40 20-foot concrete highways across the United States from Atlantic to Pacific. Intended to give jobs to an army of 3,500,000 idle workers, the fund stands as a dramatic monument to a tragic era of depression.

Will it give jobs to all who want to work, and will it turn the tide from depression toward better times? These questions are of vital interest, both to those who have no work and to all who through taxes will have to repay in the future the growing Government debt.

It is the purpose of this article to examine the prospects for employment from the expenditure of this huge fund.

Subsistence Wages for "Employables" on Dole.

President Roosevelt has given currency to the view that 3,500,000 would be given employment at subsistence, or "security," wages. He used the figure as being the total of "employable" persons on the relief rolls, in his message to Congress in January, and he proposed a work relief appropriation of $4,000,000,000 for the purpose of taking all these employables off the dole.

It is possible, mathematically, to divide the huge fund into enough "security" wage payments to indicate that jobs might be available for approximately 3,500,000 for one year. The method of computation will be shown a little later.

It must be remembered that not all of the fund will be available for direct wages of labor. The purposes for which the money will be expended are largely to be determined by the President, subject to certain general limitations. He has said that only useful public works are to be considered. He has apparently ruled out the makeshift projects which were so large a part of the CWA program a year ago.

Certain limitations naturally apply to expenditures for useful public works. In the first place, there is required, in nearly every instance, a substantial expenditure for materials and equipment. In the second place, adequate preparation and sound execution of such projects carry over a period of time that tends to spread out the employment; that is, the work, to be useful and sound, must proceed according to plans which cannot always be rushed.

Doubt That Fund Can Be Spent in a Year.

If the fund can be disbursed so as to exhaust it in one year, as administration officials propose, it probably would give employment to about 3,500,000, directly and indirectly. It is said by some critics, however, that it cannot so speedily be put into use on that scale. The President's authority to make expenditures from the fund extends for two years from next June 30.

Expenditure of the fund in one year, except for limitations imposed by the act, probably would result in maximum employment near that estimated by proponents of the project. Although the total fund voted is $4,880,000,000, there was set aside for direct relief $880,000,000, which, of course, will not provide any new jobs, and so will have no effect on reducing the number of unemployed, variously estimated at from 10,000,000 to 11,000,000.

A total of $600,000,000 is earmarked for maintenance of the Civilian Conservation Corps for two years. Since the fund was made available, the director of the CCC has announced that enrollment will be increased from 370,000 to 600,000. This, then, will provide 230,000 new jobs for young men for two years, and a comparatively small number of new administrative jobs.

When the CCC and direct relief funds are deducted the work relief fund stands at $3,400,000,000, earmarked to some extent, but subject rather broadly to the discretionary use of the President. The language of the law and the pronouncements of the administration imply that this will be used almost wholly for beneficial public works.

How Jobs Were Made by PWA

THE following table from a publication of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor shows the month by month record in providing jobs on projects financed by the Public Works Administration, which was allotted a fund of $3,300,000,000 nearly two years ago:

The totals for payroll and materials, $1,061,714,132, are not the whole cost of projects which for the period amounted to approximately $1,200,000,000.

30 Per Cent for Labor in PWA Construction.

The experience of the Public Works Administration over the last two years gives some guidance as to the amount of employment that may be expected. In the expenditure of $1,200,000,000 on construction projects up to last Feb. 15, the proportion going for wages of labor employed directly on the job was approximately 30 per cent. This may be considered representative, as a great variety of projects was included.

Applying this percentage to the $3,400,000,000 of the fund available for public works gives $1,020,000,000 for wages of labor employed in actual execution of the projects. Assuming that the average wage paid this labor is the so-called security wage of $50 a month, or $600 a year, suggested by administration officials, the number of jobs available for one year would be 1,700,000. If the work were spread over two years the number of jobs, of course, would be only half as many, or 850,000.

The business of supplying materials and equipment, of course, would give many additional jobs. It is difficult to estimate the amount of this indirect labor, and Government bureaus at Washington have no exact figures on it, but are undertaking to compile some. The general statement that in the total cost of construction projects, 75 per cent goes ultimately to labor, direct and indirect, seems to be fairly well substantiated. This tentative estimate has been made by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. Wages of capital and management would come out of the other 25 per cent.

$1,530,000,000 Estimate for Indirect Employment

The PWA demonstrated that approximately 30 per cent goes for labor employed on the various projects. This leaves 45 per cent for labor employed in production, transportation and distribution of needed materials and equipment. This percentage applied to $3,400,000,000 gives $1,530,000,000. Since these wages will be paid almost entirely by private industry, it is not to be expected that the minimum security wage of $600 a year will prevail. The average more likely will be at least $1000.

At an average wage of $1000 this part of the fund would give jobs to 1,530,000 for one year. If spread over two years, the number employed would be 765,000.

On this basis, then, the prospective new employment would be as follows:

	Money to be Spent in One Year.	Two Years.
Direct labor...	1,700,000	850,000
Indirect labor..	1,530,000	765,000
CCC additions,	230,000	230,000
Total	3,460,000	1,845,000

It has been suggested that the paying out of these large sums in wages would provide additional employment in the production and distribution of additional goods which would be bought by the newly employed persons and their families. The possibilities in this direction are discounted by others who point to various restrictive influences, and say also that already all those to whom these jobs would be given are being provided with at least the necessaries of life, and that not much, if any, more than that would be their lot on the minimum scale of wages considered.

In the foregoing paragraphs the prospects for additional employment have been considered on the assumption that a well-considered plan of useful public works is to be carried out. By spending the money for labor where little or no materials and equipment are required the number employed conceivably could be increased. But President Roosevelt, in his message to Congress, said he was not willing to continue the plan of a "few hours of weekly work cutting grass, raking leaves or picking up papers in public parks," an obvious rejection of the old CWA program.

Possibility Benefits Will Fall Below Estimates.

There remain for consideration the circumstances which some observers think are likely to reduce the amount of employment below the administration's optimistic estimates. The delay in getting the substantial projects under way is one of these. The PWA experienced this. Established nearly two years ago, with $3,300,000,000 to spend, it still has about one-third of the sum unexpended, and the peak of direct employment provided by it was 624,000 wage earners on various payrolls in July of last year. In January of this year employment on PWA projects had declined to 304,000.

On general construction work employment usually declines in winter months because in so large a part of the United States cold weather interferes with much of this kind of work. This fact shows the impossibility of maintaining construction projects on an even level the year round and tends toward delay, which spreads out the employment. The experience of the PWA, and the fact that it has an organization already trained, should aid the new program to operate more speedily and smoothly.

The estimate of the amount of direct and indirect labor to be employed is subject to variation on account of the types of work finally decided on. The act contains provisions for certain types of work, as follows:

Highways, roads, streets and grade crossing elimination, $800,000,000.

Rural rehabilitation and relief in stricken agricultural areas, irrigation, reclamation, water conservation, $500,000,000.

Rural electrification, $100,000,000.

Housing, $450,000,000.

Assistance for education and professsional and clerical persons, $300,000,000.

Civilian Conservation Corps, $600,000,000.

Loans and grants, or both, for State and municipal projects, $900,000,000.

Sanitation, prevention of soil and seacoast erosion and stream pollution, reforestation, flood control, rivers and harbors, and miscellaneous projects, $350,000,000.

From the money spent for highway and street work, on the basis of past PWA experience, approximately 25 per cent will go for di-

Forced Unemployment of Youth Is Having Demoralizing Effect, Geneva Labor Office Reports

Education, Work Camps, Army Conscription Employed to Supply Lack of Jobs—How Various Nations Meet Situation.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

GENEVA, April 13.

ONE of the most tragic features of the continued world unemployment is the demoralizing effect enforced idleness is having upon the youth of many countries, according to a report of the International Labor Office. The Labor Office has ascertained that about 25 per cent of the 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 unemployed workers today are less than 25 years of age.

According to official statistics furnished by Governments Hungary has the largest percentage of youthful unemployed. Of Hungary's idle workers 42 per cent are less than 24 years of age. Italy comes next with 41.5 per cent unemployed between 15 and 25 years old. Exactly one-third of the unemployed in Sweden and Finland are more than 16 and less than 25 years of age.

Unemployment in Great Britain has again touched the 2,000,000 mark. Of this number 600,000 in receipt of doles are between 14 and 25 years of age. Denmark, one of the most progressive of the Scandinavian countries, reports slightly more than 28 per cent of its unemployed are between 18 and 25, while in Holland and Norway the average exceeds 27 per cent.

According to unofficial information from Washington at one time 27.6 per cent of America's 10,000,000 idle were between 15 and 24 years old, but that figure is thought to have risen recently.

Statistics from other countries in respect to the number of idle persons less than 24 years old are: Germany (in June, 1933), 26.1 per cent, in June, 1934, 18.8 per cent; Czecho-Slovakia, 22.8 per cent; Switzerland, 15 per cent.

Meeting the Situation.

Reports from all the states mentioned and several others stress the fact that the consequences of unemployment are more serious on young workers than older people—particularly those who have just started to make their way in life. Adults, after long years of experience, are able to face misfortunes nonchalantly, while young people become reckless and demoralized in their social outlook.

Different countries have taken various steps to meet the situation, which is expected to grow more serious as the crisis passes, inasmuch as older workers will be reabsorbed by industry first and the youths later.

In Great Britain, France, Denmark, Belgium, among others, the school-leaving age is being or has already been raised. The French Chamber of Deputies, in 1933, passed legislation making it compulsory for children to remain in school over longer periods and pressure is being put on the Senate to approve the measure at once.

According to an estimate submitted to Parliament by the parliamentary secretary of the British Board of Education raising the school-leaving age in England and Wales alone to 16 would entail an annual additional expenditure of $90,000,000 a year. In Scotland the Board of Education, backed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, is urging raising the minimum school age limit from 14 to 15 years.

Belgium has instituted compulsory free education for all unemployed between the ages of 14 and 16 years and has provided government subsidies for unemployed young persons more than 16 years old who wish to receive higher education. The regular training courses are in both vocational and general subjects.

In Denmark the Government has just prolonged the subsidy for education of young unemployed persons to 1938 and fixed the initial expenditure at 4,000,000 crowns. Recent inquiries have established the fact that 15 per cent of Denmark's unemployed are boys between the ages of 18 and 22 years.

Nazi Germany drastically reduced the high percentage of unemployment among youths first by the Brown Shirt movement. Later the compulsory labor camps absorbed several thousands, bringing the percentage down from 26 to approximately 19 per cent. Now the Nazis propose to recruit "desirable" youths for the new standing army, which will take anywhere from 300,000 to 500,000 new men within the next few months.

Unemployed as Soldiers.

Both France and Italy, and even Czecho-Slovakia, expect to cut deep into the ranks of unemployed youths by lengthening the terms of military service. In France, the birth rate, between 1914 and 1919, was greatly reduced and the number of boys eligible for military service will drop by many thousands between 1935 and 1939. A similar situation exists in Belgium.

While figures from Japan are not available the fact that about 250,000 new workers are poured on to the labor market each year makes the situation in the Orient resemble that in Italy, which also has a birth rate of nearly 1,000,000 in excess of the annual death rate.

Although no action in the form of international conventions is contemplated, the International Labor Office has placed the question of unemployment among young persons on the agenda of the next annual conference, which will be held early in June. Delegates of 60 or more countries will be asked to pool their experiences, with a view to determining the most effective methods of dealing with the problem.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Our Crippled Purchasing Power.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HERBERT HOOVER speaking: "Because of food destruction and restraint on farm production, foreign food is pouring into our ports, purchase of which should have been made from our farmers." Of course, Mr. Hoover forgot to say that drouth was the major cause of shortage in some foodstuffs.

It is amazing that the confirmed politician, mistaking partisanship for statesmanship, will open up the battle with a blunderbuss, or a boomerang, where he must know there are hundreds of more modern guns trained on his position. Mr. Hoover's glass house is peculiarly susceptible to attack.

Probably nobody knows better than Secretary Wallace that the logical solution of the economic problem involves the increase of purchasing power so that it will function as a promoter of production and employment, instead of slowing down production to keep step with a crippled purchasing power. However, the general well-being which the Republican party was 12 years in destroying cannot be restored in a few months. Unfortunately, it was a "condition and not a theory" which confronted the AAA.

Crippled purchasing power is not the New Deal's "baby." It is the foundling left, scantily clad and wailing, on the New Deal's doorstep, March 4, 1933. It is the illegitimate child of that unlawful wedding of the G. O. P. and Big Business; a mating which produced that ugly paradox, hunger and want in a land of plenty. Unlike the thought behind the New Deal—prosperity for all—the Old Deal stood for prosperity for the few.

Mr. Hoover, of all men, should know that one wrong usually begets another or a chain of wrongs; and the greater or more widespread the original wrong, the more far-reaching the wrongs that follow in its wake.

Pierron, Ill. DEMOCRACY.

War's Burden of Proof.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EUGENE WITT, in his recent letter, claims that war has "justified itself." He places upon war the greatest burden of proof that any institution has ever borne—to justify 10,000,000 deaths and the waste of untold billions of wealth.

The munitions investigation has brought to light the only group of people who benefit from a war. The white crosses in France and the twisted bodies in our hospitals give evidence of the immediate losers; and generations yet unborn will still be paying for it.

It is the duty of every American to bend his efforts toward frustration of the plans of those who would lead us into another orgy of mass murder. We must exert our influence to force our Government to take action such as will relieve international tensions. We must demand and obtain actual disarmament.

W. DON ELLINGER.

Opportunity for Demagogues.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE dilatory manner in which democratic institutions function is felt most keenly during periods of national emergency. Two striking examples of these shortcomings of democracy have been evidenced recently, in the long struggle over the $4,880,000,000 Federal work relief program, and the dilly-dallying of the Missouri State Legislature over relief measures, which caused Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins to lose patience and withdraw Federal assistance from this State.

Unfortunately, it is in times like the current period that demagogues take advantage of the situation to further their own selfish ends, by appealing to the people that all we need to cure our ills is to place our Government in the hands of a single individual or a group of ruthless men. The condition we in this country find ourselves in today has already been experienced in a number of European nations, with the disastrous result that brutal, militaristic men, acting under the guise of saviors of the nation, have foisted themselves on the people.

There is one thing about these demagogues, once they attain power: they will act. They will lead. What the American people should understand is that leadership of these types of men can result only in the downfall of our civilization.

M. RADER.

Would Reorganize Local Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EVERY day we hear someone clamoring about the increasing cost of government. I think the logical attack would be upon local government. I venture the suggestion that most of our county governments, and all of our township governmental units, are obsolete, unnecessary and impractical.

This is the day of mobility and diversified interests. In an age of rapid transit and far-flung economic holdings, it is preposterous to think that the populace of a nation will allow itself to be bound by a condition of government that found its birth in a period when an individual's interests lay in one locality, and when it took longer to traverse a county than it now requires to travel across an entire state.

Anna, Ill. JOHN W. MORGAN.

EXPEDITING PUBLIC WORKS.

The Public Works Administration, which has spent approximately two-thirds of the $3,300,000,000 turned over to it two years ago for public works, is considering making larger grants to cities and states to encourage them to make improvements under the new work relief law.

Heretofore, the outright grants to political units have been limited to 30 per cent. It is proposed now to raise this limit to 50 per cent. Interest upon Federal loans for such purposes is now 4 per cent. It is proposed to make it less. President Roosevelt hopes to see the public works program reach its height next November. It is counted upon to carry some 3,500,000 of the unemployed through next winter, as well as to stimulate business to a degree. It cannot, of course, do more than that. We must recall that when the boom was at its height, the United States was putting as much as 12 billion dollars a year into construction.

This reveals the primary difficulty in reviving construction in some fields. The nation was greatly overbuilt in these fields. While neglecting mass housing, it had too greatly facilitated services which only prosperity could sustain. Office buildings and hotels are still selling on the block at a small part of their cost. As George Soule has said, after building the Empire State Building we turned to the log cabin. This has been at the bottom of the real estate mortgage mess and the pyramided participations, of which more than $2,500,000,000 are beleaguered in New York City alone.

The new public works fund has an advantage over the first one. It finds the nation with two years' experience in the use of such funds and an organization to administer them. The first appropriation had neither, and it could not therefore meet expectations of it. It is sometimes said that Secretary Ickes leaned backward in putting the money out; but if he had not done so, much of the original fund would have been misspent, if not actually wasted. Political morals in the United States are far too low to take undue chances with them in the distribution of any kind of public largess.

The opportunity of the states and cities to benefit themselves with these public works moneys is so great that we may expect to see them move quickly to avail themselves of it. The Government seemed generous when it offered to give 30 per cent outright and advance the balance at 4 per cent. If it is now to give 50 per cent outright and reduce interest upon the balance, the temptation to make improvements will be irresistible. The truth is that improvements are sorely needed. The irruption of automotive traffic, for instance, has brought the highway and the street into a new relation to government. The matter of grade separation alone is terribly serious. It is not enough for the Government to make grade separation one of the chief objectives of work relief. The states and the cities will have to prosecute it vigorously as a matter of public safety.

In amplifying its public works program, the United States is acting upon the advice of that school of economy headed by John Maynard Keynes. It is not the purpose of the Government to compete with private initiative, but to take up the slack until the nation catches up to its expanded credit. Much of the world is accepting the Keynes theory, the latest notable convert to it being Philip Snowden, formerly Chancellor of the British Exchequer. The idea is, of course, as old as Rome. The Romans used public works as a political buffer when they were not at war.

MYSTERY STORY PIONEER.

Any list of the foremost constructors of the detective story's intricate architecture would perforce include Anna Katherine Green. Ranking with the masters of this lively art, she also was among the pioneers. Most of her writing was done long before the readers who find recreation and relaxation in a fictional game of wits had created a demand that brought mass-production methods to the field. Her first novel, "The Leavenworth Case," came in 1878, nine years before the advent of Sherlock Holmes, and was followed by 26 others.

Miss Green, first aspiring to be known as a poet, received encouragement from Emerson, and this comment: "If our thoughts come in such wealth and with such heat that we have no choice, but must watch and obey and live for them, the question is answered for us." Though the answer for her proved to be mystery stories instead of poetry, Emerson saw correctly; her novels were written in a fever of activity, as their swift tempo would indicate. Surviving to the age of 88, she saw her books hold their own in the flood of her successors' writings.

THE MOVIES ARE MAD AGAIN.

The motion picture industry is again threatening to leave California. The trouble this time is the proposed State income tax, urged by Gov. Merriam, whom the movie people helped to elect by a jittery campaign when the shadow of Upton Sinclair's EPIC darkened the hills. The bill was passed by the Assembly on Friday with only a few negative votes. The Senate has yet to act.

There are places to which the movies could go if the California Senate refuses to come to heel. Florida "stands at the gate a-welcoming them in." Florida has constitutionally disavowed the income tax, while gazing invitingly toward the West. There are 17 other states in which no income tax is levied. Yet the movie industry might well hesitate before leaving California's bed and board. For the State income tax is sweeping the country. Since 1929, 14 states have adopted it. This revenue measure, originating in Wisconsin 24 years ago, when it was unctuously denounced as "radicalism," has become an indispensable source of supply, without which many states would be hard put to it to function.

It has grown in repute. The curse of "radicalism" has been lifted. It is no longer intelligently regarded as a necessary evil. Enlightened opinion accepts it as a just tax, in entire conformity with the basic principle of capacity to pay. It is a tax approved by thoughtful citizens. It is a tax paid gladly by every citizen conscious of his civic duty.

Moreover, Florida's constitutional proscription of the state income tax is not irrevocably a vow eternal. In the art of wooing, honeyed phrases are glibly uttered and splendid pledges fervently whispered, which are not literally adhered to forever and ever. Constitutional amendments may be, and of record have been, repealed. Specialists in romance as they are, the powers of moviedom might ponder the actualities before forsaking the California Eden, into which the serpent of taxation is entering, to dwell always in Florida's taxless paradise.

The attitude of the motion picture people, in the premises, seems to us insufferable. It is true the industry pays a corporation income tax in California, but so do corporations in most of the other states, and surely that cannot be offered as plea for exemption by individuals, many of whom receive preposterous salaries, and ought, in all conscience and decency, to count it a privilege to help bear the burden of public affairs.

It is incredible that California can be bludgeoned into removing its capital from Sacramento to Hollywood. The Senate, let us hope, will follow the lead of the Governor and the Assembly and pass that income tax bill.

RESULTS OF STRESA.

The three-Power conference at Stresa, Italy, closes in a far more encouraging atmosphere than prevailed at its opening. Several developments are responsible.

First, the British and Italian representatives prevailed on France not to ask the League Council to denounce Germany for rearming in defiance of the Versailles Treaty. Such a denunciation could have done no possible good, would only have strengthened Germany's determination and doubtless have aggravated the tension. In their own piling up of armaments, in violation of their treaty pledges, the other Powers would have been on slippery ground in denouncing Germany. It is far better to accept Germany's action as an accomplished fact, treat her as as equal and, from that point of departure, seek a readjustment of European affairs.

Another important development was Germany's consent to join an Eastern non-aggression pact, while remaining clear of any agreements for mutual assistance, though not objecting if other nations desire to take such steps. Germany thus proves her willingness to enter the concert of nations if treated as an equal. Exactly what her price will be for returning to the League of Nations remains unsettled, though it is hinted that the problem of her former colonies may be an obstacle. It is clear, in any event, that some concessions will be sought by Hitler. The other nations, if they wish European stability, should be prepared to undo some of the damage wrought by the inequitable treaty terms.

New steps for safeguarding Austria also are to be undertaken, and Germany is to play a role in determining what they shall be. Again, it is inconceivable that Hitler will waive all ambitions for uniting Germany and Austria, but it is better to have these things openly negotiated than to leave them dependent on a long course of intrigue, as heretofore. The rearming of Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria is a logical accompaniment of the pending adjustments, regrettable as it is that Europe has not yet reached the stage where peace is sought by downward revision of armaments rather than upward revision.

Despite all the points left unsettled, it is plain that Hitler's action in breaching the treaty has clarified the European atmosphere. The cards are now on the table, and rational settlements are at least possible, whether the opportunity is grasped or not. All nations concerned have demonstrated that they do not wish war, and that they will make concessions to avoid it.

The vast increases in armaments, however, leave always imminent the peril that an unintended incident will precipitate conflict. Awakening to the need for serious consideration of arms reduction is among the unfinished business of Europe.

WHAT OF THE BOY SCOUTS?

The St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, is conducting a campaign to finance the 1935 program. The amount needed, closely figured, is $98,700. About three-fifths of that sum has been subscribed. Unless the remainder is raised, much of the projected work will have to be abandoned.

The importance of the work does not have to be stressed. Everybody knows about the Boy Scouts, knows what a fine, wholesome movement it is. It is precisely what it undertakes to be—a training in citizenship. Everything about it is good. Every boy identified with it profits from it. Any boy who misses it is the loser. It is an institution that appeals to the imagination of the boy and provides experiences and education and comradeship that cannot otherwise be had.

St. Louis is the banner Boy Scout city. The St. Louis council won the President Roosevelt Award last year by reason of its percentage of membership. Scouts, Cubs and Sea Scouts—there are 11,962 of them in the St. Louis area. That is a prize showing. But we have 55,000 boys of Scout age who have not joined. They are all eligible, in the sense that the movement is non-sectarian, non-military, non-political. Need for such an organization is pressing, and subscription to its fund is worth the sacrifice.

CO-ORDINATING SOCIAL KNOWLEDGE.

A group of eminent American scholars in the social sciences have joined hands in an effort to coordinate their several fields of learning. This is a highly intelligent act, and the first issue of the Journal of Social Philosophy, which they purpose to publish as a "working tool" to bring about this co-ordination, will be awaited with interest not only in the learned societies but in many other circles.

For some time, it has been evident that the world's social knowledge has been accumulating in departments, so to speak, faster than the world has been able to make use of it. This is one of the points made by the late Graham Wallas of the London School of Economics and Political Science, a pioneer in the application of scientific methods of the study of government, in his recently published posthumous book, "Social Judgment."

Pointing out in this brilliant volume that the effects of action ignore the artificial frontiers set up between the provinces of knowledge, the British scholar wrote:

> If one takes down a few learned journals from the open shelves of the British Museum Library, one realizes that every year's work by the chemists and physicists and biologists and historians and archeologists of the world now adds more knowledge to the social heritage of mankind than the whole body of that heritage in the days of Aristotle. And in every decade the rate of accumulation is increasing rapidly. Our present danger is that knowledge may be growing too vast for successful use in social judgment by human beings whose lives are as short as ours and whose intellects and sympathies are so limited.

It is in recognition of this grave need that the Journal of Social Philosophy is being undertaken. The sponsors and supporters—such scholars as Robert M. MacIver of Columbia, Carl Becker of Cornell, Jacob Viner of Chicago, John R. Commons of Wisconsin, W. Y. Elliott of Harvard, Charles A. Ellwood of Duke and M. J. Aronson of the College of the City of New York—doubtless are aware not only of the difficulties which lie ahead of their project, but also of its imagination-stirring possibilities.

Man's Dreams

LEADERS, DREAMERS AND REBELS. By Rene Fulop-Miller. (The Viking Press, New York City.)

IT IS the thesis of Fulop-Miller, in this truly magnificent study of mankind's sublimities and absurdities through the ages, that the materialistic interpretation of history is no less inadequate an explanation of human trends than is the assumption of a logically consistent spiritual principle slowly working toward some far-off "divine event."

"'Material' and 'spiritual' causes," he says, "determine a large part, but not all, of human history. There is a third force, everlastingly at work, deciding human fate quite as much as do material necessity and spiritual conception. I refer to the power of dreams."

It is the wish-dreams of individuals and of groups spreading among the masses that he considers here, beginning with remote antiquity and ending with Sovietism and Fascism. According to his view, it is the tremendous efforts of mankind to realize such dreams that reveal human greatness. All great movements, religious, economic and social, or in the realms of pure philosophical thought, are merely attempts to realize such wish-dreams.

In the concluding chapter, we read: "For thousands of years, the generations of man have striven against a fate which they regarded as imposed upon them by the disfavor of the gods, or as unjust, or as unreasonable; they have endeavored to ward off its blows; always with the secret hope that in the end they could completely avert it and introduce a 'Euclidean' order of equality, comparability and calculability into this unequal, incommensurable and incalculable life of an arbitrary natural world."

In our day, he sees the world repudiating the late flourishing dream of an equalitarian order and reaffirming the "primitive powers of destiny," Mussolini's gospel being typical of the trend.

As a final word, the author quotes Nietzsche: "My formula for the greatness of man is 'Amor fati'; that one wants nothing different from what it is; to move neither forward nor backward; not in all eternity. The necessary must not only be endured; still less is it to be concealed. The essential thing is to love it."

There is, it will be observed, a profound truth in this that may be applied in such a way as to result in absurdity; and, considering the temper of our time, the book is certain to be misread. To love one's fate, to "give thanks for everything," is vital to the Christian adjustment to life; and, with a change of mood, it is central in the heroic adjustment. Fionn, the Irish hero, regarded "the music of what happens" as the greatest of all music; and Fulop-Miller seems to mean the same thing.

But give that doctrine to the reactionary and see what he will do with it! If millions starve in sight of abundance which they have helped to create, shall they love that as their fate? And if they should clamor for an opportunity to eat of that abundance, shall we Freudianize the simple, practical commonsense of their demand into just another "wish-dream" of the masses?

We can try; for truly our capacity for absurdity is sublime.

HE SENT FORTH A RAVEN. By Elizabeth Madox Roberts. (Viking Press, New York City.)

NINE years ago, Elizabeth Madox Roberts achieved a high place among contemporary fiction writers with her first novel, "The Time of Man," and with "The Great Meadow," her most widely read book, she rose even higher in the esteem of her readers. Her three other novels, a collection of short stories and an especially charming volume of child verse have served to support the original estimate of her exceptional gift.

"He Sent Forth a Raven," her first major work since "The Great Meadow," has been in the making for five years, we are told.

The scene is Kentucky during the first 20 years of our century. Old Stover Drake, the prosperous owner of broad acres, and Jocelle, his granddaughter, are the principal characters.

At the death of his second wife, Drake makes a mad vow, calling the heavens to witness that he will never set his foot on God's green earth again, evidently laboring under the impression that a chuckle-headed divinity would thus be properly punished. Thereafter, day in and day out, for many years, he keeps to his house in violent opposition to those who would persuade him to break the vow, managing his farm from a bridge-like structure built for purposes of observation. Jocelle, the granddaughter, who serves as the old man's medium of contact with the outer world, may, presumably, be identified as the "raven" of the title, although it must be granted that the intended symbolism is not a little vague.

Nothing much seems to eventuate. There is a great deal of conversation about the mystery of the universe as rather nuttily conceived by the various strikingly odd characters. There are moments when the reader hopes that the author may be planning to set the house on fire by way of getting a bit of action out of the situation and testing old Stover's vow. But the hope fades out, and so also does the story, as it seems to one reader.

There are many passages in which the author reveals her distinctive powers as a writer, but to what end this reviewer is unable to say. It will be interesting to note what hidden meanings ingenious and authoritative critics will discover in the book.

ARCHITECTURE FOR THE NEW THEATRE. Edited by Edith J. R. Isaacs. (Theatre Arts, Inc., New York City, for the National Theatre Conference.)

OF elegant format, this book is printed on heavy glazed paper which brings out the details of the numerous illustrations and plans.

The wane of the typical theater, which depended upon long runs of popular plays to bring profitable returns on heavy capital investment, is indicated, as is the growing importance of two divergent types replacing it: the "little" theater for intimate plays, and the civic auditorium for great spectacles. Determining factors in the construction of the new theater are the modern emphasis on lighting, the necessity for qu change of many scenes and the use of theater as a social unit.

In the book are descriptions of seven the ters, with tables showing the percentage total cost devoted to building and fe stage equipment, lighting, etc., and the c per seat; information about Russian a Swedish theaters, and a series of imagin letters between an architect and his cli dealing with problems that arise in t building of a community theater. The bo is a valuable manual. L. M. B

A NATION TERRORIZED. By Ge Seger. (Reilly & Lee, Chicago.)

GERHART SEGER, one of the lea of the Social-Democratic party in G many and active in the labor movem for many years, served four terms as member of the German Reichstag. W Hitler came into power, Herr Seger w placed under "protective (!) arrest" by t new regime and held in the concentra camp at Oranienburg without trial, his c crime being that of political opposition the rise of Hitlerism. We have here an a count of his experiences during his months in prison and of his escape, late 1933.

Considering the physical and spiritual t tures that Herr Seger experienced and w nessed during his imprisonment, the nar tive is surprisingly moderate in tone. Th is no self-pity and no savage wrath. T author even remembers to be fair, being pains to tell of several guards who had lost the gift of human sympathy.

It is a terrifying revelation of the bl cruelty and monkey-like meanness to wh men, for all their potential greatness, easily descend. Those who read it in t pharisaic mood as merely an indictment Hitlerism will miss the vital points. F Hitlerism is only an acute manifestati of a progressive world-wide social madne the symptoms of which, ranging from t ludicrous to the tragic, are everywhere a parent. The paranoiac vanity and incre ible puerilities of the gentleman with t cooky duster could not have been taken se ously by the great race of Germans but f the antic doings at Versailles by men who four years of war had taught nothing ab the fatal joker in their scheme of things

JAPANESE WARN U. S. ON TRADE IN LATIN AMERICA

Says That, If Such Commerce Is Restricted, Buying of American Cotton Will Be Curtailed.

EMPIRE HAS ITS EYE ON BRAZIL

Seeking to Do More Business There But Finds Rigid Control of Foreign Exchange Is Barrier.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 12.—A statement which the Foreign Office issued to the Japanese press today said United States commercial interests were agitating to exclude Japanese products from Central and South America.

If Japanese exports to those markets are restricted, the statement added, "it will affect our purchasing power, especially with reference to United States cotton, and will consequently react unfavorably upon America's export trade to Japan."

United States cotton sales to Japan average some $100,000,000 annually. They constitute the largest single item in America's agricultural export trade. Sales last year totaled slightly more than all of Japan's exports to the United States—401,000,000 yen against 399,000,000 yen (the yen is currently quoted at about 28.3 United States cents).

Japanese commercial and industrial leaders are seeking to improve trade with Brazil, buying larger quantities of Brazilian cotton and selling more Japanese products there.

If the plan proves feasible, it is expected to remove the cramping effects on Japanese export trade of Brazil's rigid control of foreign exchange, which makes it imperative for any country wishing to sell goods in Brazil to buy there first.

Heretofore this control, coupled with Japanese inability to find use for any considerable amount of the products of the Amazon country, has nullified all efforts of the Japanese to find in Brazil the market found elsewhere in Latin America.

The foreign office statement was issued during the visit of American industrial leaders headed by W. Cameron Forbes, former American minister to Tokio and now Governor General of the Philippines.

The Foreign Office's assertion that Japan's exports to Latin America are decreasing is not borne out in figures issued by the Finance Ministry, which said that January and February exports to Central America and South America totaled 8,229,000 and 12,501,000 yen against 3,458,000 and 8,780,000 yen in the corresponding period last year.

Negotiations for Foreign Oil Trade in Japan Fail.

TOKIO, April 13. — Negotiations which sought a basis for foreign oil companies to continue business in Japan ended today without an agreement. Manchoukuo already has begun enforcement of an oil monopoly.

Anglo-American oil companies intend to present claims to Manchoukuo or Japan or both, because of the loss of the Manchoukuan markets.

The Manchoukuo monopoly completely eliminates American and British operators as distributing and retailing agents. Japan's answer to protests on the Manchoukuan monopoly was that Tokio did not wish to interfere in the affairs of Manchoukuo and that non-recognition of Manchoukuo meant that full benefits of the "open door" could not be gained.

FUNERAL OF MOTHER STINDLER

Head of Notre Dame Academy to Be Buried Monday.

Funeral services for Mother Athanasia Stindler, 57 years old, superior of Notre Dame Academy at Belleville, who died of heart disease Friday, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at the academy. Burial will be in the cemetery of the Ripa Mother Home, St. Louis County.

She was appointed mother superior of the academy last September. Born in Fort Wayne, Ind., she took the vows of the Notre Dame order in 1897. She had taught at the St. Boniface School, Quincy, Ill., and at the SS. Peter and Paul School of St. Louis and of Fort Madison, Ia. A sister, Mrs. Edna La Grange of Fort Madison, Ia., survives.

Head of Grottoes to Speak Here.

Miles S. Gregory of Los Angeles, Cal., head of the national organization of Grottoes in the United States and Canada, will speak tomorrow night before members of Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. He will visit Beder Grotto at Alton on Tuesday evening and the recreation park of the St. Louis Grotto near Rolla, Mo., the next day. Gregory is making a tour of the various organizations throughout the two countries.

Sale or Merger Is Vital Issue In Mellon Case

count carried under the designation "No. 602." These shares, worth about $13,000,000, were held in the names of nominees until the deal action with McClintic-Marshall on Feb. 10, 1931. These same shares were the ones paid over to Andrew Mellon; his brother, R. B., and McClintic and Marshall for all the assets that remained in the McClintic-Marshall Corporation. In addition the four partners got $8,200,000 worth of Bethlehem bonds.

Government's Contention.

It is an important part of the Government's charge that Bethlehem Steel did not increase is funded debt when it acquired McClintic-Marshall, for a total of $21,000,000 in its own stock and bonds. The deal, the Government contends, was all prearranged from beginning to end, with the purpose of making it seem a merger. Mellon's counsel, headed by Frank J. Hogan of Washington, felt they had scored when they succeeded in showing, through Patterson's testimony, that at one point Eugene G. Grace, head of Bethlehem, was ready to break off all negotiations, feeling that no agreement could be reached. Such abstruse points as whether stock transfer documents bear one transfer stamp or two are enough to set opposing lawyers to wrangling for half an hour.

The question of the comparative value of McClintic-Marshall stock in 1913 and in 1931 is vital because of the high rate of tax fixed upon capital gains which result when a stock is sold at a considerably higher price than it was worth when it was acquired, or, in this instance, when the income tax law went into effect. On the sale by Mellon of $1,300,000 of the bonds he received from Bethlehem there is a tax difference of about $100,000 between Mellon's valuation of McClintic-Marshall in 1913, $353, and the Government's valuation, $158.

The way in which McClintic-Marshall carried out its contract to construct the lock gates for the Panama Canal is a point in dispute in this matter of valuation. There has been introduced in the record the report of a congressional committtee, headed by Gen. George W. Goethals, to determine to what extent the Government was responsible for a loss of $2,805,059 which the company sustained on the contract. The committee held that the Government had probably been to blame for $714,007 of that loss and this amount Congress paid to the company in 1921. The Government contends that any potential purchaser of McClintic-Marshall stock would have known of this loss and would have been unwilling to pay a high price for the stock.

A considerable part of the McClintic-Marshall story has been told during the two months of the hearing. But Government counsel, with F. R. Shearer for the time being in charge, is filling out the picture. It is slow, painstaking work that is expected to take at least two weeks to complete. This process often annoys Hogan, and even the members of the board, headed by Ernest H. Van Fossan, who are hearing the case, sometimes lose patience. But doggedly, determinedly, Shearer goes through the ledgers, the files, the thick bundles of documents that he has had taken into court.

Art Testimony Later.

After this phase of the case has been covered the hearing will be transferred to Washington to get the testimony of art experts on the value of paintings for which Mellon claims a tax refund—because he deeded them to the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust. Mellon testified on the stand last week that most of these pictures were either in his Washington apartment or locked in a private vault in the Corcoran Gallery in Washington. Also, it is expected, Mellon's counsel will call Eugene Grace and other Bethlehem executives to complete the Mellon theory of McClintic-Marshall's valuation.

Hogan, in objecting to the admission of certain evidence, called the case "an endurance contest." And so it sometimes seems. But one thing has been proved, and that is that however long the endurance contest may continue, Mellon has not only the financial resources but the physical reserve to stick with it. And this latter, considering that he is 80 years old and that he has amassed a personal fortune of more than $200,000,000 through a career of unceasing activity, is little short of remarkable.

LASKI SAYS LIBERAL EPOCH IS NEAR END

"Lamp of Reason Going Out in Europe," Englishman Asserts in Speech.

The so-called liberal epoch is moving toward its close, Prof. Harold J. Laski of the University of London told his audience at the Y. M. H. A. last night. Europe is moving toward war with all the relentlessness of Greek tragedy, and war will finish the suppression, already begun, of liberal institutions. "The lamp of reason is going out in Europe, and the torch of civilization is being extinguished, glimmer by glimmer."

All this, the noted political scientist and author explained, applies to Europe. Hearers could make their own application as to the United States, but Prof. Laski assured them that he was not going to. He had seen what happened to stray Englishmen venturing to criticise American institutions, so he assured "any representative of the Department of Justice or the immigration service" who might be present, that anything that might sound dangerous had no relation to the United States. To make this more clear, he changed his announced topic from "The Future of Western Democracy" to "Future of Democratic Institutions in Western Europe."

He announced himself as a member of the British Labor Party, and of the left wing of that party. His background was that of wealth, and he learned at Oxford, he related, the art of "commanding others gracefully to do for you what you should be able to do for yourself." He concluded that there was something wrong in a system in which "educational opportunity was a function of social circumstance," and since 1911 Prof. Laski, now 42 years old, has been affiliated with the Labor Party.

"Capitalistic Democracy."

The speaker told of nineteenth century Europe, looking on parliamentary democracy and majority rule as the surest means of progress. The war changed all this, and few in Europe now give reverence to the principle of democracy.

This, Laski said, was because "Democracy was never democracy at all; it was capitalist democracy. Political power was intrusted to the mass of men and women on the understanding that they would never use political power to change the economic postulates.

"But when you confer universal suffrage—this may even be true in the United States—people will use their political power for rational benefits, better housing, more favorable working hours, higher wages, industrial security, education—may I emphasize this in Missouri?

"So long as expanding capitalism can offer an increase in the national well being, it works satisfactorily. But as soon as the epoch of contraction comes, the contradiction between political democracy and economic oligarchy becomes manifest.

"Machiavelli wrote that men will forgive the death of a relative more readily than the confiscation of the relative's property. So we may note that the alteration of fundamental economic postulates is not easily achieved in terms of peace. Fundamental changes in class relations do not take place without use of violence."

Some Pages in History.

Lest the peaceful evolution of British institutions should be cited, Laski declared that the revolution of 1688, often called peaceful and bloodless, was merely the culmination of the events of 1642, when the English made themselves the horror of the French and other continental peoples by beheading King Charles I.

Apparently as a parable for Americans, Laski gave an outline of the 40 years preceding the French Revolution—the rising threat to the governing class, the attempt to introduce moderate reforms, then the reaction and the sanguinary uprising of 1789.

"We felt in 1918, in Lloyd George's words," he said, "that England had to be made a place fit for heroes to live in. But then our people suddenly moved left, and a Labor government, I may call it a T-model Labor government, took power. When the price in terms of taxation was known, alarm was awakened among the governing class.

"England has been conquered twice—in 1056 by William the Norman, in 1925 by Montague the Norman, and the second conquest was the more disastrous. It enthroned the reactionaries.

"An Uneasy Union."

"You have heard about our 'marvelous recovery,' and how tragic it is that your President has not followed the example of that eminent Conservative leader, Ramsay MacDonald, and let all things alone.

"We have had attacks on the social services; we have had legislation against freedom of speech, and the utility of legislation against trade unions has been discussed. There has been loose talk about reorganizing the British Constitution, to prevent any subsequent Labor government from utilizing its principles. The marriage between Capitalism and Democracy has been proving an uneasy union.

"Italy and Germany have learned that capitalism must suppress democracy, or democracy will suppress capitalism. I see no reason why this should not occur in Great Britain, unless the governing class develops a spirit of abdication and self-sacrifice which would be unique in history.

"We talk about unity of the nation. I am interested in what that unity makes. You cannot have unity of authority between different classes unless they share equally in the gain, as in the toil, of living.

"Wishful Thinking" in U. S.

"Men are tolerant, are inclined to grant freedom of speech, when they feel secure, when the economic foundations are not threatened. When men become afraid, the reformer is mistaken for a revolutionary, and the revolutionary is treated as a criminal. I have been told, but of course it cannot be true, that this is occurring in the United States.

"I have heard that American men and women, descendants of those who founded the Republic, believe the last revolution was that of 1776, and that all subsequent revolutionary activity is out of order. A pathetic example of wishful thinking."

An Ideal for America.

Dropping the pretense of detachment from the American scene, Prof. Laski said as to the United States:

"Your nation was founded on postulates more radical, more capable of conferring emancipation, than those of European nations. If Americans, before it is too late, would have the courage and determination to remember what they have brought to birth, they might call into being a new world to redress the balance of the old. The younger Pitt said of England in 1806 that it had saved itself by its energy, and would save Europe by its example. That may well be an ideal for America."

Answering questions after his one-hour address, Laski said the most urgent single thing to be sought in the United States was to make labor unions capable of political action.

An audience of nearly 500, in the "Y" gymnasium, heard the speaker. He was introduced by Irving Dilliard of the Post-Dispatch staff, after preliminary words by Dr. M. G. Seelig.

Indians, Offered U. S. At Gridiron Dinner, Sing, "A Thousand Times No!"

In Other Sketches Long, Coughlin and Townsend Are Caricatured as Plague; Hogan Opens Mellon Art Gallery.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-5 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In the presence of President Roosevelt, most of his Cabinet and other prominent persons in public life, the Gridiron Club, the organization of Washington correspondents, tonight at their annual spring dinner, lampooned the Democratic administration, ridiculed the Republican opposition and caricatured the Huey Long-Father Coughlin-Dr. Townsend "plague."

The club, celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, began its dinner with a parade showing a half-century of political history, starting with President Cleveland's first administration and closing with a huge question mark to signify President Roosevelt's term.

For the first time in the club's history a President of the United State stook part in one of the satirical skits. Many Presidents have been guests of the club, but President Roosevelt, a breaker of precedents, joined in the dialogue as he sat at the side of President Ulric Bell of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The President's participation in this skit was followed somewhat later by his unreported speech, the traditional close of all Gridiron dinners. The other speaker was Congressman James W. Wadsworth of New York, who has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for the presidency in 1936.

The two initiates of the club were Lyle C. Wilson of the United Press and Raymond P. Brandt of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Both Wilson and Brandt are graduates of the University of Missouri School of Journalism at Columbia.

In Barnum's Freak Show.

P. T. Barnum was introduced to the 400 guests as "the historic predecessor of Franklin D. Roosevelt." Barnum presented "the most amazing group of oddities ever brought together in one administration" by introducing Fatima Farley, "the fat philatelist"; Pasha Homer Cummings, "the world's most accomplisher word swallower"; Senor Enrico Wallace, "the living skeleton who thinks he's prosperous," and Jumbo G. O. P., "the world's thinnest elephant."

The Mellon tax trial at Pittsburgh was the subject of a skit in which Frank J. Hogan, impeccably dressed in formal afternoon clothes, opened the new Andrew W. Mellon National Art Gallery, showing his expensive collection of "oils" along with a rare chromo of the district jail, titled "Right Up Hogan's Alley." This was a reference to his defense of former Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken Jr., who was sentenced to 10 days in jail for contempt of the Senate.

After finding out that everyone had paid a fee to enter the new gallery, Hogan said:

"From the unselfish depths of my heart, I want you good people to share the pleasure I have had in collecting these works of the masters. In all of this I have played a most humble role. I know nothing about art; I am only a collector.

"The man who has made possible this magnificent temple of art, Gentleman of the Jury—I mean just Gentlemen—is none other than Andrew W. Mellon, the greatest Secretary of the Treasury—I have ever defended.

Loyal Children Take Money.

"I wish that I could picture to you the patient effort of this great man to bring art to the plain people he loves. The long nights he spent with paper and pencil, shaving off a million here, diverting a million there. Arranging to sell these securities at a loss, and buy them back at still lower figures. The intimate family councils with his loyal children. 'Don't worry, father, I'll take another five million. The tax collectores shall not have it.'

"Even the faithful old servants, running to the bank—one to sell securities, the other to buy them back. The world little knows his sacrifices. In fact, he doesn't even know himself.

"I have called this portrait 'An Unfinished Picture.' You understand, we haven't heard from the Supreme Court."

"Nor collected the fee," interrupted his butler.

Hogan also displayed a picture of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, labeled, "A Portrait of a Pioneer," and one of Robert W. Stewart, formerly of Standard of Indiana, called "A Portrait in Oil." The masterpiece, however, was one called, "This Poor Old Man."

"I don't mean financially, for he was a Hogan client," the collector explained. "I mean that he was misunderstood. I served him in his hour of need, and his gratitude was such that I felt a million times repaid."

It was a portrait of Edward L. Doheny of California.

Origin of Gridiron Club.

The original of the Gridiron Club was shown by a scene at Welcker's, a famous old Washington restaurant, in the spring of 1885, when a group of Washington correspondents led by Ben Perley Poore, "organiped against the politicians." The name Gridiron was chosen over one referring to a Guild on the ground that "Guild" sounded too old-fashioned.

A musical number was "A New Deal Medley," sung by a brain-truster, a farmer, a banker and a business man, which ended, "Merrily we roll along—into the deep blue sea."

Two old friends of the Gridiron Club, Weber and Fields, tried to explain to each other the meaning of the United States Supreme Court decision in the gold clause cases and as they left the stage in argument nothing had been settled.

The meeting of European diplomats at Stresa was satirized in a successful rearmament conference held in an airport somewhere in Europe. Sir John Simon, Capt. Eden, Prime Minister Mussolini, Commissar Litvinoff and Reichsfuehrer Hitler listened with delight to a cablegram from President Roosevelt promising co-operation in re-armament.

"By Shores of Getcha Gimme."

An unsuccessful attempt to give the country back to the Indians was introduced by Senator Borah reciting in Hiawatha manner the theme song of the Indians who were "off the reservation":

By the shores of Getcha Gimme
By the broad Potomac water
Stands the wigwam of the Indians
Who are off the reservation.
From the South Dakota Bad Lands
From the wild grass of Nebraska,
From the Idaho potatoes
And the cheese vats of Wisconsin
Come the warriors of loud voices,
Fond of hearing their own voices,
With their frequent repetitions
And their wild reverberations
Shouting, "Wither are we drifting?"

Borah's tribesmen were Hugh Johnson, who operated a typewriter in his wigwam, and Big Chief McCarran, of Nevada. When Secretary of Labor Perkins and NRA Chairman Richberg appeared, the Indians hid. The message from President Roosevelt brought them back to the scene. The Indians refused to take the country back, singing to the tune of "No, No, A Thousand Times, No!"

One of the verses of this parody was:

Washington founded this nation,
Jefferson gave it a name;
Hamilton helped its creation,
Adams helped it to fame.
Jackson and Cleveland and Wilson did much
To help it survive, somehow.
In spite of the Hardings and Hoovers and such—
But, Heavens, just look at it now!

The question was settled by the declaration that the country would be saved by planting trees and the President, Roosevelt, had reconsidered his offer.

All Sing "Louisiana Hayride."

The closing skit presented the club's version of "The Pied Piper of Hamlin" with the country plagued by Senators Long, Overton, Schwellenbach, Father Coughlin, Dr. Townsend and Gov. Olson. But the Pied Piper's most fascinating tunes brought only jeers and the scene closed with everyone singing "Louisiana Hayride."

Six sons of Presidents of the United States were introduced to the other guests. They were: Richard F. Cleveland of Baltimore, James R. Garfield of Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt of New York, Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, John Coolidge of New Haven, and James Roosevelt of Boston.

The St. Louis guests at the dinner were: Charles G. Ross, George S. Johns, George M. Burbach and Paul Y. Anderson of the Post-Dispatch, Casper S. Yost of the Globe-Democrat, Dr. Arthur W. Proetz, Congressman Thomas C. Hennings Jr., and J. D. Perry Francis.

SHEILA BURLINGAME EXHIBITION OF ART

Her First Showing Here in Six Years Includes 18 Pieces of Sculpture.

By JOSEPH HANLON,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

They told Sheila Burlingame in Paris five years ago that her drawing was terrible. So she drew everything that fell under her eye, and in time confounded her critics.

More recently some of her pupils in sculpture, physicians, suggested that her knowledge of anatomy left something to be desired. So she went to medical school, shared a cadaver with a student, and learned about anatomy, first hand.

These incidents throw some light on the work of the St. Louis sculptor whose first exhibition here in six years opens this afternoon at the Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard, where it will be on view for two weeks. They explain, also, the development of her art in the years since it was last displayed to a home audience.

What Exhibition Includes.

Mrs. Burlingame's exhibition includes 18 pieces of sculpture, and countless drawings, of rodeos, picnics, wrestling bouts, court trials, baseball spectators, clinic scenes, skulls, animals, and the human form. Some of these drawings are in effect shorthand notes for potential sculptures, many are simply evidence of her omnivorous interest in people and things.

The sculptures are in bronze, wood, stone, terra cotta and plaster. There are portrait heads of Charles Nagel, Dr. Downey L. Harris, D. R. Fitzpatrick, Edgar C. Taylor, and others.

Mrs. Burlingame is more interested in the stone carvings, a field which she has entered since her last exhibition here. In the softer materials, such as sandstone, these are her own creations from start to finish, carved by her chisel either directly or from smaller models in the same material. In the tougher mediums, such as Tennessee marble, she has had to resort to the common device of sculptors of having skilled craftsmen rough out the sculpture from her models.

The Prehistoric Man.

There is a fidelity to the material apparent throughout the exhibition. In the plastic sculptures there is finesse and subtlety, the glyptic depend on beauty of mass and line. One which strikes the eye first is a recumbent figure of a prehistoric man which flows out of and back into a mass of stone.

"What's the matter, did it melt?", exclaimed one of the artist's friends in mock horror when she first saw this work. But Mrs. Burlingame did not accept the remark as unkind criticism. After all, that was the kind of sculpture it was intended to be. The subject was purely imaginative, suggested to her by the lump of stone itself.

It will be noted that the pedestals on which the sculpture is displayed are set out from the walls of the gallery, so that visitors may walk around and observe them from every angle. Often when a piece of sculpture is intended to be displayed in a niche or against a wall, the artist leaves the back unfinished, but Mrs. Burlingame takes a peculiar pride in leaving nothing undone, another example of that sincerity of purpose which led her to the medical school and the autopsy room.

The Masks on the Walls.

The fruit of the second of these experiences may be seen in the masks which hang on the walls with her drawings. These are purely anatomical specimens. Mrs. Burlingame wanted to know about the bone structure and muscle formation of the human head, and how these modify the facial characteristics and expression in the various racial types and at different ages of life. There was one way to find out. Leonardo, piqued by a similar curiosity, did something of the sort a good many years ago and acquired a rather sinister reputation as a grave robber.

How Much Work In the $4,880,000,000 Works Program

rect labor. Approximate percentages in other types of work are 13 for power systems, 23 for engineering structures, 25 for water systems, 30 for buildings and 31 for sewers.

It is difficult to estimate the possibilities of labor employment in the rural rehabilitation and reclamation item of $500,000,000. It was suggested this might include the making of loans to tenant farmers and share-croppers for purchase of farms, and any extensive use for this purpose, it is said, would reduce the funds available for new employment. The housing program undoubtedly would be one of the most prolific in providing employment, but some observers have expressed the fear that Government activity would prevent expansion of private industry in that field, and even reduce employment there.

Fight in Senate Over Direct Labor Provision.

The effort to make certain a substantial part of the fund would go for direct labor caused prolonged controversy in the Senate. It was proposed in an amendment that the $900,000,000 fund for loans and grants on state and municipal projects should be disbursed only for projects on which at least one-third of the cost would be used to pay wages of labor on the job. It was said this was needed to prevent expenditure by municipalities for existing utility plants which would not provide new employment.

Public Works Administrator Ickes objected to the amendment as precluding many desirable projects; in fact, as already shown, the average expenditure for direct labor in the PWA projects was only about 30 per cent. By compromise, the amendment, as finally approved, provided that the fund should be used only for projects where the President should find that at least 25 per cent of the cost would be paid out for labor, and presumably this could include indirect labor.

Critics of the work relief act have said that the possible extent of new indirect employment is not accurately measured by the prospective expenditures for materials and equipment. They say that in the case of many materials, large stocks are on hand and these stocks will be drawn on without increasing labor, and not immediately replenished. To whatever extent this conjecture is true, the opportunities for new employment will be reduced.

Another fact that has been cited is that increased use of machines in production, and improvements in machines, will reduce the volume of labor that might otherwise be employed in the production and distribution of materials used for public works. It is said that for this reason many producers are in position to increase greatly their output without a corresponding increase in employment. This is said to be true also by reason of the fact that the minimum forces maintained by some manufacturers through the depression are capable of considerable enlargement of output.

To Use Manual Labor as Much as Possible.

There is the further fact, they say, that improvement in machine efficiency has continued throughout the depression, increasing productivity per worker. From 1929 to 1933 there was an increase of 29 per cent in efficiency of manufacturing industries as measured by output per worker, according to estimates of experts in the Department of Labor.

Although plans and policies for administration of the new fund have not been announced in detail, it has been said officially that the use of manual labor on the new projects will be encouraged. It has been said a greater use of manual labor and less use of machines on actual construction jobs would tend to increase the proportion of cost that would be paid out for labor. Officials also made the broad etsimate that 42 per cent of the $4,000,000,000 would be paid out for materials, but made no analysis of the direct and indirect benefits to labor.

JEWISH WELFARE CAMPAIGN FUND REACHES $94,275

Leaders Say They Are Confident Goal of $139,000 Will Be Pledged in Drive.

Executives of the Jewish Welfare Campaign Fund expressed confidence yesterday that the goal of $139,000 would be reached, when they announced that $94,275 had been pledged on Friday at the second report luncheon.

The special gifts division, headed by R. Morton Moss, reported pledges of $75,150; the men's division, headed by Howard F. Baer, $13,240; the women's division, $5347; and the junior division, $348.

The two largest beneficiaries of the campaign are the Jewish Appeal, a national organization seeking relief for European Jewry, and the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. of St. Louis.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES IN ST. LOUIS CHURCHES

Special Observance of Close of Lent by Various Denominations.

Special services will be held in churches throughout the St. Louis district beginning today, Palm Sunday, and continuing through Holy Week until Easter, when sunrise services will be held in Forest and Tower Grove parks and special services in all the churches.

Lenten noonday services, sponsored by the Metropolitan Church Federation, which have been held for the last two weeks at Christ Church Cathedral, will be given also at Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, during Holy Week.

With 22 denominations co-operating, religious messages will be presented by ministers and other leaders at the two churches until Thursday, with a central service at noon, Good Friday, at Municipal Auditorium. Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat Jr., pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, N. C., will be the speaker at the Good Friday service.

At St. Louis Cathedral today Archbishop Glennon will officiate in the solemn blessing of the palms at 10:45 a. m. Services there for the rest of the week are as follows: Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., solemn tenebrae; Thursday, 9 a. m., solemn pontifical mass; 7:30 p. m., solemn tenebrae; Friday, 9 a. m., solemn pontifical mass of the presanctified; noon to 3 p. m., Tre Ore; 7:30 p. m., solemn tenebrae. On Easter Sunday, solemn pontifical mass will be celebrated by the Archbishop.

Lutheran noonday services will be held tomorrow and Tuesday at the American Theater and on Friday at the American, Capitol, Missouri, Mikado and Ozark theaters.

The ninth Easter sunrise service in Forest Park, sponsored by the church federation, will start at 5:16 a. m. at the customary location near Kingshighway and West Pine boulevard. The speaker will be the Rev. George M. Gibson of Webster Groves. Music will be furnished by the Salvation Army band.

The Tower Grove Park service, under auspices of the Christian Endeavor Union, will be held at 6 a. m. near Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. The Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, will speak.

DR. LAMPE'S ANNIVERSARY

15 Years at West Presbyterian to Be Marked Today.

The fifteenth anniversary of Dr. William B. Lampe's pastorate at West Presbyterian Church, Maple and Maryville avenues, will be observed today. During his ministry the membership of the church has become the largest in St. Louis Presbytery, growing from 817 to 1554.

Officers of the church will give a reception May 1 for Dr. Lampe and his family. Speakers will be Dr. Arnold H. Lowe, pastor of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church and president of the Metropolitan Church Federation, and the Rev. Mr. Frederick A. Roblee, pastor of Peters Memorial Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Mr. Roblee is one of several young men from West Church who have entered the ministry during Dr. Lampe's pastorate.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1935.

"Mary of Scotland" Renews Theater Season

Helen Hayes to Portray Unhappy Scottish Queen In Four Performances at American Beginning Thursday—Abbey Players Announce Repertory.

WITH only four performances scheduled, "Mary of Scotland," the Theater Guild play which may prove to be the high mark of the legitimate season in St. Louis, will arrive at the American Theater Thursday evening.

In the title role is Helen Hayes, star of the stage and screen. Philip Merivale appears as the Earl of Bothwell and Pauline Frederick as Queen Elizabeth. Miss Hayes and Merivale were both in the original New York production, which opened on Nov. 27, 1933, and ran until last June. Miss Frederick takes a part that was originally Helen Menken's.

The play, by Maxwell Anderson, details a tragic story of how Elizabeth broke the power of her lovelier rival. Taking the French-Scottish Queen from the time she arrived in Scotland, through her marriage to Darnley, the Rizzio murder and the affair with Bothwell, the plot attributes most of Mary's ill-fortune to the machinations of the English ruler.

Anderson, who aspired to be a poet before he became famous as a playwright, wrote "Mary of Scotland" in blank verse, with the lexicon of the English of the period at hand. The result was that "Mary of Scotland" was of such merit it entered into the controversy over last season's Pulitzer Prize.

"MARY OF SCOTLAND" is not the playwright's first venture in historical drama, or even into the Elizabethan era, as he also wrote "Elizabeth the Queen," and accorded the virgin monarch somewhat more sympathy than he gives her in the current piece. Anderson, who collaborated on "What Price Glory," and has the prize play, "Both Your Houses," to his credit, is in the running for 1935 with "Valley Forge," a short-lived play in which Merivale, incidentally, took the role of George Washington earlier this season.

"Mary of Scotland" was set for a road tour months ago, but the matter of Miss Hayes' picture contracts could not be adjusted, and she was forced to complete "Vanessa: Her Love Story," before rehearsals for the tour could begin. Miss Hayes announced several weeks ago in Detroit that she planned to retire from the screen permanently.

She began her stage career at the age of 5, and made her New York professional debut at 14. Her first great success was "Dear Brutus," in which she appeared with William Gillette. "To the Ladies," "We Moderns," "Dancing Mothers," "Caesar and Cleopatra," "Coquette," "Mr. Gilhooley" and "The Good Fairy" were other notable vehicles. in her first motion picture, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," she won the year's award for the best performance by a screen actress.

MERIVALE, who was born in India, the son af a civil engineer engaged in railroad construction, was educated at Oxford and studied Shakespearean roles under Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree. He came to America as leading man with Mrs. Patrick Campbell in Shaw's "Pygmalion." He has often appeared in St. Louis, and is scheduled to return next fall in "Macbeth" and "Othello," with Gladys Cooper.

Miss Frederick is, of course, well-known to St. Louis audiences. She was one of the first of the big Broadway stars to be drawn to Hollywood, and appeared in probably more "super" productions than any other star.

In the supporting cast are George Coulouris, Hugh Buckler, Charles Dalton, Harland Tucker, Charles Francis, Leonard Willey, Philip Leigh, Lowell Gilmore and G. Hannam Clark. Theresa Helburn of the Theater Guild, directed and Robert Edmond Jones designed the settings.

THE repertory for the Abbey Theater Players, beginning on Monday evening, April 29, is announced as follows: Monday evening, "The New Gossoon," three-act comedy by George Shields; Tuesday evening, "Riders to the Sea," a one-act play, and "The Playboy of the Western World," three-act comedy, both by J. M. Synge (pronounced "sing"); Wednesday matinee, "The White-Headed Boy," comedy by Lennox Robinson; Wednesday evening, "The Far-Off Hills," another Robinson comedy; Thursday evening, "Spring," a one-act play by T. C. Murray and "The Playboy of the Western World;" Friday evening, "Juno and the Paycock," Sean ("Shan") O'Casey's three-act comedy; Saturday matinee, "The New Gossoon" and Saturday evening, "The Far-Off Hills."

Subsidized by the Irish Free State, the Abbey Theater in Dublin plays a definite part in the development of the national culture.

In its present tour, the company concluded a successful engagement in New York with visits to Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other cities. It was to have reached the American Theater in February but instead took the jaunt to the West Coast. The players include F. J. McCormick, Eileen Crowe, Berry Fitzgerald, Maureen Delaney, Arthur Shields, May Craig, Michael Dolan, Aileen O'Connor, Denis O'Dea, Frolie Muhlhern, P. J. Carolan, W. O'Gorman, U. Wright and Joan Sullivan.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS :: :: By Colvin McPherson

IT IS with some sacrifice of patriotism, as well as a certain amount of apology, that I offer "The Runaway Queen," at the Ambassador, as the best new movie of the week. The picture, first of all, is quite English, presenting two stars, Anna Neagle and Fernand Graavey, practically unknown to American audiences, and in an accent that Americans are no more willing to accept than Britons were when the "foist" American talkies were shipped across the Atlantic. The element of apology, however, is not for "The Runaway Queen," its cast, its accent or its origin, but for the general quality of pictures offered at this season of the year. It is no secret that half a dozen screen orchids are being pinched back until after Easter and next week's billings will prove as much. But to the average film fan, "The Runaway Queen" and its American companion-piece, "Princess O'Hara," offer true entertainment. By an odd circumstance, both open in New York and the first shots, from sky-scrapers to subway, are much the same. "The Runaway Queen," from an Oscar Strauss operetta, tells the story of an American girl who is elevated to the throne of some half-acre spot in Europe and is almost immediately deposed by a dictator. The queen's exile and the dictator's holiday coincide later and their romance is worked out as orderly as grandmother's sampler. The story never takes itself seriously, jesting constantly although often too subtly for the average movie-goer (he's in again). The romance is of that unchaperoned sort that used to make the Gilbert-Garbo combination incandescent but which lately has looked censorable to American film boards. The background is lovely Lake Garda in Italy (in person, and not a process shot). A pleasant musical sequence shapes the whole effort into something exceedingly more than just an hour's work by two hired hands across the sea. "Princess O'Hara" was made from Damon Runyon's magazine story about a young lady (Jean Parker) who drove her father's hansom cab around Central Park and relates how two Broadway underlings stole a famous race-horse to replace her own steed when he became ill. The Runyon inventions are all there but only in one or two spots, when the "wise-guys" negotiate with a cowboy to steal the horse, and later when they root for their own entry not to win a race, have the filmers achieved the whimsical humor of Runyon. "Princess O'Hara" too nearly fits the familiar mold to be outstanding.

Dog of Flanders.

THAT old tear-jerker by "Ouida," "A Dog of Flanders," will arrive at the Shubert tomorrow, with "Rocky Mountain Mystery," a set of terrible doings away out in the woods. The production of "A Dog of Flanders" is sensible, the background interesting, casting above the average. For those reasons, the opus holds its own for half its distance. But, in the words of the president of the producing company, "We have constructed a happy ending which we think will satisfy the greatest percentage of both adults and children." The greatest percentage will have to be childishly naive to get any thrill out of Nello's adventures now. For many of us, I am sure, "A Dog of Flanders" was memorable because, in the manner of "The Little Lame Prince" and dozens of such other things which we now view as somewhat inferior to James Thurber and Noel Coward, it gave us some pleasant sniffling. "Rocky Mountain Mystery" has a unique interest in that it introduces Mrs. Leslie Carter, a celebrated actress whose name is all too little known to the celluloid generation.

It's a Small World.

IT may become most malicious to keep referring to "It Happened One Night," which, although it offered the maximum in motion picture entertainment, did not revolutionize the cinema art in any sense; which, though with a certain freshness of its own, did not open any new vistas in American life. There had been bus pictures before, other people had sung "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." Yet the movie-makers seem not to be able to get it out of their heads that "It Happened One Night" did revolutionize the box office. In "It's a Small World," I profess to see a very deft copy of "It Happened One Night," although with enough originality of situation to be deceiving. The points of comparison need not be brought up for they would spoil what virtues "It's a Small World" has and the film, at the Fox, until Tuesday, has its virtues. It tells of two St. Louisans who meet at Hope Center, La. Both family names are in the local telephone directory and one of the addresses, on Wendy Barrie's side of the house is, I believe, 231 Park avenue, St. Louis, so I presume she is probably from the right side of the tracks if not actually among them. The method of her introduction to Mr. Spencer Tracy of the St. Louis bar, is in an automobile smash-up, two new Chevrolets being demolished. Marooned in the village because of Napoleon's idea of the law, Spencer is permitted to keep Wendy under his thumb until she pays for damages to his machine. They learn to eat peanuts together, realizing then marriage will be a comparatively simple problem. There is a second picture, too, called "Tomorrow's Youth." A husband and wife are separated and Junior, always eager to do a good turn, falls out of a tree and brings them together.

While the Patient Slept.

ALINE MacMAHON and Guy Kibbee are teamed again, this time as nurse and detective, much after the manner of Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. It is only a passing suggestion that Aline and Edna May would make a great sister act. The picture, "While the Patient Slept," is at the Orpheum. Killings are effectively spaced, the hide-and-seek behind curtains a good game until somebody gets caught. Logic and authenticity are pretty scarce, having been sacrificed to allow Aline, Guy, Allen Jenkins and any other visitor opportunities for wise-cracking. Murders are becoming so funny that Bluebeard may one of these days prove to be just an ancestor of W. C. Fields. "Love in Bloom" synthesizes Gracie Allen, George Burns, Joe Morrison and Dixie Lee.

Flirting With Danger.

WILLIAM CAGNEY (brother of Jim), Robert Armstrong and Edgar Kennedy take their stand in front of the camera and move away hardly long enough to let a dynamite plant blow up three or four times, in "Flirting With Danger" at the Missouri. The thin plot describes the adventures of three employes of the mixing department of an explosive mill. "The Return of Bulldog Drummond," one of the less successful British efforts, has Ralph Richardson, a capable British actor, in the role of Drummond.

Naughty Marietta.

REACTION to "Naughty Marietta," at Loew's, varies. Many critics agree that it is superb entertainment and a manifold improvement on the stage version. Some worthy citizens find it a trifle long, especially in the fore part. In comparison to other motion pictures, I doubt if any would say that it is not of distinctly superior grade. For any who like operetta music, a lot of it, and have the time to spare, "Naughty Marietta" exactly fills the bill.

Hoot Gibson to Make Modernized Westerns

Western pictures still have their following but need modernizing to achieve a wider appeal, according to Hoot Gibson, cowboy star who was in St. Louis during the past week at the Milk Fund Rodeo.

Gibson, who entered the movies as a stunt man in the days when the pay was 50 cents a fall and $5 for the risk of life, has been riding the range in front of movie cameras for nearly 20 years. He is returning to Hollywood to make two new Westerns in which he hopes to include contemporary types, probably using gangsters as villains.

Musical Comedy in Latin.

Roman musical comedy 2000 years old will be presented by the Washington University chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classical fraternity, in January Hall auditorium on the campus, next Friday. The play, given in the original Latin, will form part of the program for the Classical Association of the Middle West and South, whose annual convention will be held from Thursday to Saturday. The "Miles Gloriosus" (Braggart Soldier), by the Roman playwright Plautus, is the comedy selected.

Tryouts for "The Squall."

The "Y" Players, dramatic organization at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., will hold public tryouts at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, for "The Squall," a drama to be presented late next month.

Little Theater Closes for Week.

The Little Theater will give no performances during Holy Week, but will reopen April 22, with "Her Master's Voice," to be alternated during the week with "Tom Jones."

Movies Treat Broadway To Hollywood Premiere

"Ceiling Zero," New Play Backed by Picture Money, Opens in New York in Setting of Film Splendor—Already Prepared for Screen.

IN one way and another, in recent years, movie money has been subsidizing Broadway. Actors and actresses deeply devoted to all the traditions of the "living" theater have been able to hurry out to the West Coast for a few pictures a year, make enough to buy the Beverly Hills ranch and swimming pool and then go back to winter in New York and renew their better natures, after a fashion.

Playwrights have followed the trail of celluloid chips along the path that the Forty-Niners took. They have come back with a horde that permitted them to remodel Connecticut farm houses and ride bicycles in Bermuda. Some, of course, have abandoned themselves in the Eldorado and their skins, if not their bones, bleach in the gardens of the Hollywood haciendas.

Producers have had their fingers in the pie as Hollywood paid lavishly for plays it could use and even some it could not use on the screen. The process is still going on, even with hard-up Hollywood complaining of the chimeras in taxation. There was the reported $125,000 for "The Petrified Forest," $72,500 for "Page Miss Glory," $65,000 for "The Farmer Takes a Wife, $60,000 for "Anything Goes," and so on.

NOT long ago a little comedy on "playing the ponies" breezed into Broadway favor and motion picture companies fell all over themselves to bid for it. Then it developed—it was known all along, in fact—that Warner Brothers had a half interest in the play. A little rearrangement in bidding took place, Warner Brothers moved some money from one pocket to another and "Three Men on a Horse" will probably come out of the stable as a mount for Al Jolson.

The peak of something or other, therefore, was reached last week when "Ceiling Zero" made its debut on Broadway, for the melodrama not only came with Warner Brothers' backing, but copied movie technique and movie presentation.

In keeping with the tone of the play, the lobby at the Music Box Theater was set in the manner of a Hollywood premiere. Under sun arcs, the surprised first-nighters were invited to communicate their thoughts to the radio audiences, as might any Los Angeles boluevardier.

"Ceiling Zero," actually already filmed, concerns a group of airmail fliers and their glamourous life. Toward the end of the play one of the most worthy members dies in a crash. Broadway concluded that many of the episodes and gags, although familiar, were amusing, but that "Ceiling Zero" would probably be better if you could see the flying.

And Hollywood had been unable to bring that along.

Greta Garbo No Fading Star; Signs Contract for Two New Films

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., April 13.

EVERY now and then you read that Greta Garbo is going back to Sweden and retire on the fortune which she has built up in Hollywood. You may have heard, too, that she is slipping—we have mentioned it ourself once or twice—and that she wanted to step out before it was necessary for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to put a net under her to prevent her falling out of the big league altogether.

Well, if the eccentric star has begun to fade, there is apparently no indication of it in the box offices—the only barometer the more or less astute film barons take any stock in. During the past week La Garbo has been signed by M-G-M to a contract calling for two more pictures, to be made in the next year following her present film, "Anna Karenina," at a set price of $250,000 per picture, plus a percentage of the profits.

Now a half a million smackers a year, plus cakes, is a lot of money. We—and we dare say you and you and you—would rather enjoy slipping to the point where we would be worth only that trifling sum. Being a non-communicative film star is good work—if you can get it.

Garbo is a wealthy young woman today. Just how wealthy and how young are matters which are frequently debated in Hollywood. Since she never talks about anything at all, there are no official figures. She has been paid several million dollars during the course of her American career and has spent little of it. There were rumors that she lost some money in the bank crashes of a few years ago, but it is doubtful if she kept any large sums in cash in any banks. She has never gone in for expensive living of any sort, making her home in rented houses and using, now, the same car which she bought a good many seasons ago when she treated herself to that bit of extravagance.

As to her age, it may be safely said that she is in her very early thirties. She keeps fit by way of long walks and lots of tennis. She and John Gilbert and George Brent get together frequently on the courts but it is always out of sight of the public.

ALTHOUGH timid and shy when she first landed in Hollywood less than a dozen years ago, Garbo was perfectly willing to talk, mainly just to be obliging, when she got here. As a matter of fact, the studio found her a little too obliging and after she had given one or two interviews which M-G-M regarded as rather over-candid the lid was clamped down and the young woman crawled into the shell from which she has never since emerged.

Used to hard work all of her early life — it is said that she was a nursemaid in New York for a time before a picture career and Hollywood gave her a golden nod —Greta has always felt the necessity of exercise after the money began to roll in upon her somewhat bewildered head. The long walks, rain or shine, came first. Tennis was a later affair.

Most of the picture stars, realizing fully the importance of keeping their figures, both in the bank and in their clothes, go in for a lot of exercise. Garbo because she likes it, many of the others because they have to. A few find that mental activity will do the trick but a lot of 'em find it a tough assignment.

Mae West, for instance, will face the most dyspeptic of cynics and tell him she keeps young by working—and means every word of it. "Face powder and rouge can hide hundreds of wrinkles," says Mae, "but they come back again at night when the war paint comes off. Work of the type that interests you keeps you from worrying and when you don't worry you don't have wrinkles, sagging chins and bleary eyes."

The star of "Goin' to Town" writes her own humorous dialogue, her own picture plays, helps design many of her costumes and sets and actually helps direct her own pictures—a series of jobs which keeps the old man with the scythe at some distance.

MARLENE DIETRICH achieves her personal Fountain of Youth by acting, thinking and playing just as she did 15 years ago when she was a schoolgirl. With her this method takes the form of nightly visits to popular dancing places.

Claudette Colbert won't admit she is yet in search of any fountain of youth, but she keeps vivacious and alert planning things to do. Her latest extra-professional interest is the building of an 18-room house at Holmby Hills—a veritable mansion which she planned from cellar to roof.

Carole Lombard retains her milk-and-cream complexion and bright outlook on life dashing to Agua Caliente, Palm Springs and other rejuvenating resorts where she rides a good deal.

Gary Cooper maintains that prankish and boyish spirit of his galloping frisky horses on mountainsides. In season he is almost frantic on the subjects of hunting and fishing. Certainly this is a more practical and pleasurable treatment than Ponce de Leon's visionary fountain.

Bing Crosby is one of the youngest top-flight stars in the business and the retention of youth isn't worrying him much, but he keeps pepped up by his interest in horses. Already this crooning star has the largest private stable of thoroughbreds in the film industry "and thinking in terms of two-year-olds ought to keep me in the juvenile class for years," he comments.

W. C. Fields is of an age when most men sit in club lounge chairs and tell time by the hardening click of their arteries, but Bill is lively as a colt with woodticks. His youth-retaining medicine is a ranch in the San Fernando valley.

Holbrook Selected As Dance Director For Municipal Opera

WILLIAM R. HOLBROOK, who was Municipal Opera's dance director in 1932 and 1933, will have charge of staging the dance numbers in the coming summer cycle of musical entertainment in Forest Park, according to announcement by the Municipal Theater Association last night.

Holbrook is the third in the list of artistic executives chosen by Laurence M. Schwab, Municipal Opera's new producing director, to aid him during the coming season. He is well known to St. Louis and has been in this city during the past few weeks directing the dances for the Junior League Follies.

He produced the dances for Charles Dillingham's "Better Times," for Fred Stone's "Ripples," for the "Bernard & Collier Revue," for Elsie Janis' "Puzzles," for J. Murray Anderson's "Almanacs," for the production of "The Little Racketeer," in which Queenie Smith was starred, and for "Everybody's Welcome," starring Frances Williams, Ann Pennington and Oscar Shaw, even before he came to make his debut in St. Louis.

During the last winter, Holbrook has been busy with a series of his own personal productions under the sponsorship of the Junior League of America, with which had been combined several college offerings.

San Carlo Company To Arrive Tomorrow

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company of 125 persons, including a large orchestra, chorus and principals, will arrive tomorrow by a special train from Denver. They will rest here during Holy Week, a custom generally observed by grand opera companies all over the world, and will open their season here Monday, April 22, with "Madame Butterfly," presenting Hizi Koyke, Japanese prima donna, in the title role.

The season will continue with "Aida" Tuesday evening; "Lohengrin," Wednesday evening; the double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "Pagliacci" Thursday evening; "Rigoletto" Friday evening; at Saturday matinee performance of Von Flotow's "Martha," followed by dance divertissements by the corps de ballet, which will also appear in "Aida." "Il Trovatore" will be given Saturday evening and the season will close with "Carmen" Sunday evening, April 28.

WHEELER, MARY—Entered into rest Sat., April 13, 1935, 7:40 a. m., dearly beloved wife of the late Francis T. Wheeler, and our dear friend.

Funeral will take place Mon., April 15, 7:30 a. m. from Brockland Chapel, Hogan and North Market sts., to Holy Ghost Church, thence to Bethany Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

THE family of the late Lena Etzel (nee Kramer), adopted daughter of Peter Hechelroth, wisho to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the many kind services rendered by Rev. Simon, Louis H. Bopp., undertaker, and Oscar C. Hoffmeister for use of the chapel; the harpist, pallbearers, relatives, friends and neighbors; also for the beautiful flowers tendered in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dear wife and mother.
THE ETZEL FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

CHESNIK, LILLIAN—In sweet memory of my darling daughter, who departed this life April 15, 1929.

Dear sweet lips that called me Mother,
Your love, my daughter, I have known,
And is cherished as a treasure rare,
As I whisper a precious name, so dear.
Lillian, my Lillian. MOTHER.

DALTON, ANNA T.—In sweetest memory of my darling daughter and our dear sister, who departed from life four years ago, April 15, 1931.

Sleep, dear Annie, take thy rest,
God called you when He thought it best.
God called you from this world of ours
To give you a home in His heavenly bowers.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

KLUDAS, IDA T.—In loving remembrance of our mother, who departed from us April 10, 1933.

Time rolls on; it will not stay.
What grief we've felt since that sad day,
With one so loving, kind and true;
How hard it was to part with you.
KLUDAS FAMILY.

KRATZER, ALVINA—In loving memory of Alvina Kratzer (nee Niemann), who departed this life April 18, 1933. Sadly missed by her CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MOORE, RALPH A.—In loving memory, who died suddenly April 9, 1927. Sadly missed by parents and brother, MR. AND MRS GEORGE A. MOORE AND HOWARD.

OWEN, SARAH ADELINE LINK—In loving memory of my dear wife, who departed this life April 13, 1934. Sadly missed by HUSBAND, SON AND SISTER AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

REILLY, JOHANNA—In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, who departed this life April 13, 1934.

When I lost you, darling mother, I lost my dear pal;
I love you and miss you and forever shall.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, DAUGHTER, SON-IN-LAW AND GRANDDAUGHTER.

RODENBERG, AUGUST H.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who departed this life April 12, 1933.
MRS. RODENBERG AND CHILDREN.

ROGERS, JOHN A.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who departed this life April 13, 1932, and our dear daughter, mother and sister, Mary E. Rohs (nee Rogers), who departed this life April 19, 1929. Your memory is as dear today as in the hours passed away.
Sadly missed by
MRS. ROGERS AND FAMILY.

SHULTZ, JOHN V.—In fond memory, who died April 14, 1928. Sadly missed by HIS FAMILY.

WAGENER, AMELIA—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died April 16, 1934.

One year has passed, our hearts are sad;
As time rolls on we miss you more.
A loving mother, tender and kind,
What a beautiful memory you left behind.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRAND-CHILDREN.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., April 13.—Horse and mule receipts were moderate the past week and there was no great change in quotations. Mules showed relatively the best strength and there was a ready outlet for any kind of an animal providing it was of good age. Demand continued good also for smooth-mouthed offerings weighing from 900 to 1200 lbs.

The horse trade slowed up somewhat, which was attributed to the fact that some stock did not ship well, due to bad weather. However, a good clearance was effected.

Commission arrivals of horses and mules for the week totaled slightly better than 900 head.

University Club Wives Promise Something New at Spring Party

Tired of Kind Their Husbands Give, They Have Made Own Arrangements for Dinner Dance April 27.

WEARY of the similarity of parties planned by their husbands and determined to introduce novelty in University Club entertaining, wives of the younger members and their friends have been busy for the past two weeks arranging a "different" spring dinner dance.

Invitations, mailed yesterday, were printed on cream wallpaper over which nosegays of pink roses and blue forget-me-nots were sprinkled in a diamond shaped motif, and urged the recipients to:

"Come see our club in glad array,
Hope you'll like it and want to stay.
The gals have planned it, so if you're fussy,
Dont' place the blame on President Russe.
We've something unusual in decorations—
Our show will bring forth exclamations!
The music is different, lights are low,
Two-fifty a plate, that's not much dough.
April twenty-seventh is the date,
Make reservations and come at eight.
The first two hundred will get a seat,
So make it snappy or miss a treat!"

A small lounge adjoining the main dining room has been converted into a workshop where groups of young women devote several mornings a week to cutting roses from crepe paper, twisting them into blossoms and stringing them on many yards of oord. When completed they will lower the high-ceilinged dining salon into a rose arbor, with flowers latticed above the chandeliers. Pale green drum shades with greenery silhouetted in shadow box effect, will conceal the formal candelabra, and the same pastel tone will be repeated in the chair covers. Winter draperies have been removed, and a flower festooned lattice will replace an ornate tapestry as a background for the orchestra, to be seated on a platform inclosed in a white picket fence.

The decorations were planned by Mrs. T. Middelton Levis, and executed by Mrs. Robert Dudley Mudd, Mrs. Louis Dennig, Mrs. Ralph W. Fisher, Mrs. Arthur H. Feuerbacher Jr., Mrs. Joseph W. Folk, Mrs. Lawrence C. Sherrill, Mrs. Edgar Rand, Miss Mary Louise Hammett, Mrs. Truman Walker, Mrs. John James Green, Mrs. Paul Goessling, Mrs. William Donaldson Hemenway Jr., Miss Carol Meier, Miss Grace Sager, Mrs. Samuel Pingree, Miss Alison Jones, Mrs. Roland M. Hoerr, Miss Marion Peters, Mrs. Walter Muckerman, Mrs. Walter Pauley and Mrs. Edward G. Bischoff.

Roman Revelry Next Stunt of Watch & Ward

THOSE patrons of feasts and frolics of the "Watch and Ward" now promise an evening of revelry on the eighth day before the kalends of May—which, as every one knows, is April 23—from 8:30 until 1 o'clock in the morning, the festivities to take place at "DCCXI Aquitionaris Majesta Via," which may be translated as 711 North Grand boulevard.

Patricians and plebeians, on receipt of the summons, delivered to them by the Vestal Virgins, have begun to prepare themselves for the Bacchanalia, to which they will be admitted only if attired in raiment befitting their station. The nobleman must match the hosts in the purple of his toga, the slave must not outshine his master, nor the master stoop to the humble garb of the peasant. Women of patrician birth will be resplendent in their jewels and other personal adornments. Even the warrior, the veteran of the wars in Africa and Spain, must not presume to disguise his calling. The dark-skinned Hannibal has also been summoned to appear.

Under auspices of Caesar Augustus, gladiators will engage in combat, charioteers will drive the hazardous course of the Circus Maximus, Cleopatra will bathe, the Vestal Virgins will dance, and 5000 lions will be thrown to the Christians—at least that is what the program says. Thereafter will follow, indeed it will never be interrupted, the symposium—the rites of Saturn and Bacchus, performed with diligence and frenzy.

A Roman Holiday has been proclaimed!

The invitations, in Latin, on being translated, read:

Roman Holiday
Watch and Ward
Tuesday, April 23, 1935; 8:27 p. m.
Dress As a Roman
(or don't get in)
Under the auspices of Caesar Augustus
5000—Count 'Em—5000
Lions will be thrown to the Christians!!
SEE
The Battle Royal
Cleopatra's Bath
The Dance of the Vestal Virgins
Gladiatorial Games
Awful Chariot Race

Images of Marius and Sulla, surmounted by the eagle-protected medallions of the Watch and Ward, adorn the invitations, which in their first drawing were to have borne likenesses of the Gaul, dying not from a sword thrust but from bibulous over-indulgence, and Romulus and Remus, in characteristic pose with their first nurse.

The committee, whose various duties are described in Latin, are: "Francesca Bates, Laurencia Gray, Katrina, Adeleida Mahaffey, Delphinia Polk, Ellena Corley, K. Davius Pulitzer, Geegeea McRea, Glennonus McDonald, Eduardus Walsh, Barrelheadus Schlafly, Lonnius Hocker, Fredericus Schlafly, Berrius Hocker, Ricardus Jones, Robertus Corley, Claudius Bakewell, Thomasus Dempsey, Warrenum Wagner, Davidus Wells, Alcaponeus Corley and Johannes Scott."

Mrs. J. W. Harrison Goes on Eastern Trip

MRS. JOHN W. HARRISON, 5371 Waterman avenue, left St. Louis this morning for the East. She will visit her daughter, Miss Pamela Harrison, who has been a librarian in New York for three years, and will attend the Daughters of the American Revolution Congress in Washington. There she will join Mrs. Tyson Dines and Mrs. John Shafroth, both of Denver, D. A. R. delegates from their own city. The three will motor from Washington through Virginia and the Carolinas.

Miss Stribling Is Married to Kenneth Bell

MISS ELIZABETH AMBLER STRIBLING, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Keith Marshall Stribling, 230 Blackmer place, Webster Groves, and Kenneth Adrian Bell of New York and Panama, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Adrian Bell of New Berne, N. C., were married last evening at 8:30 o'clock in Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves. The Rev. J. Manly Cobb performed the ceremony in the presence of several hundred guests.

The chancel was banked with greenery and lighted by standards of white tapers. Two baskets of spring flowers stood at either side of the steps leading to the altar.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin fashioned on princesse lines, tight to the knees where it flared into a three-paneled train, the central panel of which was a continuation of the yoke. The neckline of the yoke was outlined from neck to shoulder with tiny satin-colored buttons. Buttons also decorated the sleeves which were tight and pointed at the wrist. The tulle veil was held by a band of braided white satin and fell to the knees in front. The bride carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

The maid of honor was Miss Anne Robinson, daughter of Mrs. George R. Robinson of Kirkwood. Mrs. Gordon K. Evans of New York, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Mrs. G. Carroll Stribling, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Mead McArdle were bridesmaids. They wore pale green silk net, with deep capes trimmed in ruffled net and long full skirts. The neckline was boat-shaped, and the girdles were fastened low at the back with rhinestone buckles. They wore green net hats with off-the-face brims and silver slippers. The maid of honor carried yellow daisies and the other attendants white daisies. Mrs. Stribling was gowned in black tucked net made with full cape sleeves and a short train. She wore a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Maj. John W. Winslow of Chicago was best man and Lieut. Nelson I. Fooks of Columbus, O., G. Carroll Stribling, brother of the bride, and Joseph P. Shillington were groomsmen.

The Stribling home, where a reception followed the wedding, was decorated with greenery and white freesia. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. John Marshall of Alexandria, Va., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John W. S. Winslow of Chicago.

The bride is a graduate of Sweetbriar College. Mr. Bell, who has been employed by the Chase National Bank in Panama for two years, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he

Annual Spring Horse Show Next Month

THE St. Louis Horse Show Association decided Monday night at its headquarters in Hotel Chase that the annual spring horse show would be held May 16, 17 and 18. For a while the belief was prevalent that the spring show would be foregone this year in favor of a concerted effort for the national show in the fall. The show, with William N. Sitton as president, will be held in the arena of the Missouri Stables.

Fifty classes have been arranged for the three nights with stakes in the three gaited, five gaited, junior five gaited, roadster, jumper and hunter divisions as features. Special events for women riders have been added to all the programs. There also will be equestrian games and events for children and novice riders.

The exhibitors for the Spring Show will be limited to St. Louis and St. Louis County residents. Assisting Mr. Sitton as officers of the show will be Paul E. Winter, vice-president; Alfred N. Engle, secretary; William T. Treadway, treasurer, and Miss Madge M. Greenwood, manager.

The following chairmen and members of committees have been chosen: Executive, Alfred N. Engle, chairman; Bradford Shinkle Jr., M. E. Rowan, R. W. Brown and William N. Sitton; tickets; Harry J. Burkart, chairman; George B. Laufer, vice-chairman; prize list and entry, jumper and hunter, Paul Bakewell III, chairman; Bradford Shinkle Jr., and Hart Vance Jr.; saddle and harness, Paul E. Winter, chairman; George B. Laufer and Harry J. Burkart; trophy, Ray Bartholomew, chairman; Kurt Schrader, vice-chairman, and N. H. Cooper; ring, Colin Westerbeck, chairman; stabling and parking, Dr. William G. Gadsby, chairman.

Junior League Follies Tryouts Well Under Way

AS A PATIENT pianist pounds out tunes, and William R. Holbrook, producer, minus coat and vest, repeats the lines and directs dancers, volunteers for the Junior League Follies continue to try for speaking, solo and chorus parts in the forthcoming production, May 10 and 11.

Expressions such as "Remember this one: Now—AND, one, two, three, turn;" "Just a minute, hands over the head this time. Let's try again," may be heard in the ballroom of the home of Edward A. Faust, 1 Portland place, several mornings a week and on alternate evenings. Sometimes Mr. Holbrook says, "All right, now try the first chorus;" and men group themselves around the piano and sing the opening number, which begins "Step up, pep up, and let's have fun." On other occasions the "Ladies of Sophistication," looking very unsophisticated, practice show girl numbers, or the "hoofers" try their more intricate dance steps.

Meanwhile on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the home of Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, 10 Westmoreland place, skits, to be kept secret until the performance, are rehearsed.

By the end of the week the casting is expected to be over, and rehearsals will begin in earnest.

BOXHOLDERS for the Junior League Follies at the Municipal Auditorium May 10 and 11 are:

For Friday night—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson L. Lambert, Mrs. Henry Stuart Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Faust, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Theron E. Catlin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Sears Lehmann, Mr. and Mrs. S. Douglas Houser, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Drefs, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. David B. White and Mr. and Mrs. John V. Janes.

For Saturday's performance—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Magnus, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. O. Sharp Ezzell, Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. J. Stanard, Mrs. Arnold Stifel and Mrs. James H. Wear Jr.

Concert by Eden Male Chorus.

The Eden Club, a male chorus of 40 voices, will give a concert Saturday evening, April 27, at the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue. The club will present a program of old German folk songs, under the direction of Prof. Hiendlmayr. The soloists will be Miss Ruth Cowgill, soprano, and Edward Sieckmann, pianist.

Skeet Shooting Season Opens At Deer Creek

SKEET shooting, suspended during the winter months, was revived yesterday afternoon at the Deer Creek Club on the Litzinger road, where a team from that club, the St. Louis Country and from the Moochers, shot off the first of two rounds in competition for the Village Sports trophy, offered several years ago by Virgil A. Lewis and Robert Bagnell. The fourth member of the inter-club association—the Bridlespur Hunt—has not entered a team in the present competition.

Mr. Lewis is captain of the Moochers, for whom Mr. Bagnell, John Nulsen, Julius W. Reinholdt Jr. and Willard Cox shot: Edwin H. Steedman, Bradford Shinkle Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., captained by Joseph L. Werner, represented Deer Creek, while Mrs. Werner, competing against her husband, shot with the St. Louis Country Club team, captained by Charles McLure Clark and including Clinton L. Whittemore Jr., William D. Orthwein II and Dr. I. D. Kelley. Each entrant has 100 clay birds, 50 of which were disposed of yesterday, and 50 remaining for the finals, to be held at Deer Creek next Saturday or Sunday, depending on the weather.

At a cocktail party following the shooting, the captain of the winning team will receive the trophy—a silver punch bowl and tray—to be kept only until the next contest, and in addition each member of his team will be presented with a silver julep cup inscribed as follows: "Village Sports Trophy; Deer Creek Club. Team skeet shoot, April 20, 1935."

Deer Creek is the present holder of the trophy, which it won last spring. On it are engraved facsimile signatures of the previous winners and the sport in which they competed. All those in the contest must be over 30 years of age, and teams must be well matched.

San Carlo Opera Season Opens Easter Monday

EASTER Monday the San Carlo Company will begin its week's engagement at the Municipal Auditorium, with a performance of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." Among the season boxholders are: Charles Nagel, Walter W. Head, Bernard F. Dickmann, Frank M. Mayfield, Samuel C. Davis, John B. Strauch, Arthur B. Baer, Edwin A. Lemp, John W. Swift, Sidney M. Shoenberg, Edward A. Faust, W. Perry Chrisler and L. Warrington Baldwin.

A dinner for the company will be given at Mission Inn Saturday evening by the Italian Club of St. Louis. The special committee is composed of Vincent Sigillito, chairman; Joseph Freschi, Cavaliere Renato Citarelli, Vincent Benincasa, Dr. A. M. Tripodi, P. Coppolino, Isidor Oldani, Carl C. Weber, Dr. Joseph Cieri, Joseph Garavelli and George Pirone.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, April 14.

LESLIE HOWARD, who is fond of horses and polo, wanted very much to meet Gertrude Stein. He employed as a sort of "company manager" for himself a Western worthy named Harry Sherwin, whose duties included buying his ponies and fending off the autograph fiends and other nuisance values. Kind friends told Miss Stein of Mr. Howard's admiration and she, having seen him recently in "The Petrified Forest," called him up at his dressing room one day last week to express her intention of dropping in and meeting him. Mr. Howard overheard a sort of verbal commotion at the phone. His batman was being firm and only vaguely polite while announcing that Mr. Howard saw nobody backstage, nobody save by special appointment, nobody who had anything to sell, nobody under any circumstances who had anything to do with writing, writing meant autographs, didn't it? He hung up sharply and dusted off his hands with satisfaction in work well done. "Probably some dreadful autograph person," he remarked airily. "Said her name was Gertrude Stein."

The smoking of fine cigars has suffered a considerable decline in recent years with a consequent rise in sales of the less opulent brands, although to substantially wealthy men the wildest extravagance in tobacco could hardly be a matter for concern. Richard Steere, who presides over the most elaborate sales counter in town, recalls the days when Judge Elbert H. Gary, John W. Gates, James R. Keene and his son, Foxhall Keene, used to order $1000 worth of cigars at a time, and such expenditures, he estimates, were small to what other captains of industry and finance ordered at their clubs. Steere has had charge of the counter since 1888, outranking Oscar of the Waldorf by five years of service. The most costly smokes he now stocks are dollar apiece banquet size Partegas, but at one time there was a Partegas which retailed for $6 a copy. If you haven't got at home a humidor suitable for preserving fine cigars (60-70 degrees temperature, 60-65 atmosphere of dampness all year round) he will store your stock for you in a private locker. The oldest cigars he is preserving for a patron are some 15-year-old Hoyo de Monterreys and he is afraid for these, what with worms and other things that get into aged cigars.

William B. Osgood Field is one of the town's most cultivated amateurs of cigars. Steere thinks he gets his through the Century Club. The elder Morgan bought his from Park and Tilford at their downtown store. Andrew Mellon affects a cigarette size stogie which can be bought at any corner store for a quarter a dozen; William T. Leeds has a special size Bock, very like a Rothschild shape, rolled specially for him at the Havana factory. Mr. Steere himself, when interviewed was smoking a 10-cent cheroot that suited his taste very well, he said. He has to pay for his own. Although there were thousands of dollars worth of Upmanns, Romeo and Julietas, Belindas and Coronas stacked about him he seemed quite content.

Jerome Zerbe, staring pensively from the window of his Fifty-sixth street apartment last Sunday, observed an unusually smart and shiny Chrysler with a special body, draw up at the Coq Rouge across the street. Out stepped a resplendent youth, top-hatted and morning coated with blazing white gloves, a neatly folded Ascot tie and every accepted hallmark of affluent security. Aha, said Jerome to himself, high-toned trade at the Coq Rouge, resort of society and fashion. All the best people, the lucky Coq Rouge. He looked twice at the elegant gent and returned to his novel. It was the waiter captain arriving for work.

The third volume of G. Selmer Fougner's "Along the Wine Trail" handbooks has just appeared from the presses of "The Sun," and you can't go wrong on wine and its allied beverages if you consult these at once scholarly and chatty pamphlets. They cost only 15 cents apiece, the first of the series being devoted to wine, the second to spirits and the current one to an assortment of drinking matter ranging from the history of punch and blending of sherries to the debunking of great age in cognacs and a chapter warning against bargain wines.

Fougner is the arch foe of pretentiousness and ritualism in drinking, sneezes merrily at sherry as an all-occasion substitute for cocktails, and buzzes angrily about the ears of folks who make wine drinking an art and mystery, to the bafflement of honest and simple drinkers who bend an elbow for the sheer pleasure of it. He admits the validity of all sorts of American drinking customs and lays on no foreign dog, all of which should recommend his writings to gourmets who, while properly reverent about the great vintages of the world, know that America has made some contributions to the art.

Paris Notes On St. Louisans

PARIS, March 30.

MR. AND MRS. BARCLAY HUDSON are leaving Paris this week and returning to Greece, where they expect to remain for the rest of the year. The Hudsons occupied a villa on the island of Corfu last year and were so pleased that they have decided to return after spending six months in Paris. While here they took an apartment on the Left Bank.

Miss May Birkhead, who recently returned from a visit in the United States, will give the first of a series of radio talks from Paris, Easter Sunday. The talks will be similar to those she gave last year on life, fashions and social activities in the French capital, and will continue to the end of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Carr and Mrs. Carr's sister, Mrs. Louis W. Crampton, have left Greece and have gone to Egypt and the Holy Land. They wrote recently to friends here of their visit in Bethlehem.

Miss Mary Howard Fentress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fentress, has cancelled her plans for returning to the United States and will remain in Paris.

Princess Victoria Takes Apartment

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 13.

PRINCESS VICTORIA, King George's only sister, is the first member of the royal family to move into a modern apartment house. Her example is likely to be followed by the Duke of Gloucester the King's third son.

Hitherto members of the royal family have preferred to live in one of the many royal palaces scattered around London, but the upkeep of the palaces demanded too heavy an outlay of money.

Mrs. Robert W. Bingham, wife of the American Ambassador, with Lady Reading, is joint chairman of the British-American Jubilee Ball Committee.. Many American artists, now in London, have promised to donate their services.

Whitney Straight is soon to marry Lady Daphne Finch-Hatton, elder daughter of Lord Winchesea.

The Pilgrim's banquet, scheduled for April 30, will welcome the Duke of Kent formally back to London. The Earl of Derby will preside. American Ambassador Bingham, Lord Hailsham and John Buchan, the future Governor-General of Canada, will attend.

Special Stamp for San Diego Fair.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 13. — A three-cent postage stamp to advertise the San Diego, Cal., exposition next summer will be issued by the Postoffice Department on May 29.

Astigmatism Becomes Known

It is to Thomas Young that we owe this discovery. He carefully examined his own eyes and studied their defects. Dr. Young then made the first written scientific account of astigmatism, the basic theories of which still prevail in modern science.

THE St. Louis University and Washington University chapters of Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity will be hosts at a banquet to be given Wednesday evening at the University Club in honor of Dr. L. B. Arey of the School of Medicine of Northwestern University, who will be in St. Louis this week attending the convention of the American Association of Anatomists. Dr. Arey is national president of the fraternity. Alumni of both chapters including many prominent St. Louis physicians will be guests at the dinner.

The student and alumnae chapters of Alpha Xi Delta will give a banquet at the American Hotel Wednesday evening in celebration of the founding of the sorority on that date in 1893 at Lombard College. A speech of welcome will be made by Miss Marjorie Stephens, president of the Washington University chapter. Reports of the year's work will be made by Miss Audrey Lucas, alumnae historian, and Miss Harriet Wolf, student chapter historian. Miss Doris Rea, alumnae president, will speak and the alumnae chapter will present a one-act play. A musical program will be given by Miss Betty Powell, pianist.

A musical program will be presented by the alumnae of Alpha Chi Omega at a chapter meeting to be held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Marian Pfingsten, 6370 Waterman avenue. Soloists will be Miss Marjorie Broesel, pianist; Miss Grace Koch, violinist, and Miss Venus Frederiksen, soprano. At the business session, delegates will be elected for the national convention to be held in June at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Assistant hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. J. W. Enloe, Miss Nelda Heitner, Miss Marjorie Broesel, Miss Elmira Heritage and Miss Marian Moskop.

The president of Sigma Kappa, Mrs. J. G. Forsythe, will entertain the alumnae chapter tomorrow afternoon at her home, 1024 Kirkham road, Kirkwood. Mrs. Roland Bauer, who recently was elected regional president of the sorority, will begin an inspection trip this week, visiting first the chapters at Illinois Wesleyan College and the University of Illinois.

The Spring Eleusinian Festival of Chi Omega will be celebrated at a dinner to be given by the alumnae Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. David H. Leitch, 7225 Tulane avenue. The program will commemorate the founding of the sorority in 1895 at the University of Arkansas. The hostess group will include Mrs. Phillip Sandell, Mrs. Oather A. Kelley, Mrs. A. A. Hanicke and Mrs. John P. Nafe.

The Alpha Omicron Pi alumnae will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. George F. Borgeson, 619 Westwood drive, Clayton. There will be election of chapter officers.

Miss Mary Leah Bouldin, 1518 Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis, will give a luncheon at her home Saturday for the alumnae of Phi Omega Pi sorority.

Mrs. Kenneth Baker was elected president of the Pi Beta Phi alumnae chapter at a meeting held last week. Mrs. Charles Spoehrer is first vice-president; Mrs. F. G. Wooster, second vice-president; Mrs. D. G. Dunbar, third vice-president; Mrs. Edward L. Burns, treasurer; Miss Miriam Waite, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Hamilton, recording secretary; Mrs. Banks McDonald, Panhellenic Representative and Mrs. Walter Metcalfe and Miss Lucille Waite, members of the Advisory Board.

The alumnae of Alpha Phi sorority will give a bridge party tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Hubbell, 7317 Zephyr place, Richmond Heights.

The annual senior tea of the Kappa Kappa Gama Mothers' Club will be given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. B. Beckers, 16 Aberdeen place. The members of the student chapter will be guests, the party being in honor of the seniors. Kappa alumnae will serve and there will be a program which will include readings by Mrs. Herbert F. Boettler and songs by Louis Bunte, accompanied by Mrs. Will Shelly. The club will have a business meeting at 2 p. m. with Mrs. Fred S. Milan presiding

The Zeta Tau Alpha Mothers' Club has elected the following officers: Mrs. Edgar L. Paine, president; Mrs. William C. Timmerhoff, vice-president; Mrs. C. B. Gist, secretary; Mrs. Edward Schlagenhauf, treasurer, and Mrs. Paine and Mrs. George Bramsch, representatives to the Council of Mothers' Club.

Mrs. C. G. Blackmon, 5327 Maple avenue, will give a luncheon Thursday at her home for the Mother's Club of Sigma Nu. Mrs. R. N. Tyzzer and Mrs. Al Hess will be assistant hostesses. The club will give a card party May 1 at the fraternity house.

The April meeting of the Alpha Xi Delta Mothers' Club will be held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John C. Dyott, 5942 Waterman avenue. with luncheon at 1 o'clock. The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Carlyle Thomas and Mrs. O. T. Steudle.

The Alpha Chi Omega Mothers' Club will meet tomorrow afternoon for a business session and tea at the home of Mrs. John Smith, 7107 Pershing avenue. Plans will be made for the annual spring party to be given April 23.

WEDDINGS and ENGAGEMENTS

Davis-Flint

MRS. E. C. FLINT, 6136 Waterman avenue, entertained at a tea yesterday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Miss Mary Virginia Flint, whose marriage to John Kenneth Davis of Los Angeles, Cal., will take place May 4 in Los Angeles.

Assisting at the tea table, which was decorated with a center piece of spring flowers and pink candles, were Mrs. T. D. League, Mrs. C. Sinclair Murch and Miss Muriel Cote and Miss Nancy Goerner. Miss Flint wore a coral crepe gown with a shoulder corsage of gardenias and Mrs. Flint was gowned in deep rose crepe.

Miss Flint was graduated from Christian College, in Columbia, and from the Kroeger School of Music. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa. Her engagement to Mr. Davis was announced last July at a bridge luncheon given by her mother in their home.

Mr. Davis is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Davis of Los Angeles and is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

Miss Flint will leave St. Louis, April 22, accompanied by her mother and two aunts, Mrs. T. D. League and Mrs. H. J. Welsh, for Los Angeles, where the wedding will take place in the late afternoon at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather Church.

Lowenstein-Shyer

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Shyer of Nashville, Tenn., have announced the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Joan Shyer, and Lewis Lowenstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Lowenstein, 5555 Pershing avenue. Miss Shyer was graduated from Peabody Demonstration School and from the College of Arts and Sciences of Vanderbilt University. She is a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority.

Mr. Lowenstein attended Washington University and is engaged in the automobile business in Nashville.

Moldafsky-Harris

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Harris, 6250 Clemens avenue, and Marvin Moldafsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Moldafsky, 5817 Pershing avenue, took place March 17 at the Jewish Orthodox Old Folks' Home. Rabbi Samuel Thurman performed the ceremony in the presence of more than 800 friends.

Mr. Moldafsky and his bride have returned from a wedding trip and are now making their home at 6326 Southwood avenue.

Schwarz-McLean

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McLean, 6633 Kingsbury avenue, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Hardena McLean, and John Casper Schwarz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwarz of Cape Girardeau. The betrothal was first made known to members of Sigma Alpha Phi sorority of which Miss McLean is a member. Mr. Schwarz is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The wedding will take place early in June.

SCHOOL and COLLEGE LIFE

R. H. B. THOMPSON, head master of the Country Day School, returned Friday from New York, where he attended the spring meeting of the College Entrance Examination Board as a representative of the Private Schools' Association of the Central States.

Tomorrow evening the first of the annual parents' dinners will be held at the Country Day School. This one will be for parents of students in the upper and middle schools. The parents arrive at 5:30 p. m. and go through a shortened schedule, attending the classes that their sons ordinarily do, and meeting their teachers. A few short speeches and an opportunity to discuss common problems will follow dinner.

Members of the class in American history at the Country Day School spent Wednesday morning at the St. Louis University Law School, where they served as jurors in the moot court being held there.

Miss Ruth Gander, chairman of the executive committee for the Prep School Horse Show to be sponsored by Maryville College May 2 and 3 at the Missouri Stables arena, has announced the chairmen of the other committees making arrangements for the show. They are: Ribbons, Miss Cornelia Klinefelter; tickets, Miss Helen Obermoeller; patrons, Miss Louise Averill; trophies, Miss Mary Jeanne Rothweiler; program advertising, Miss Mary Louise Shaughnessy; decorations, Miss Betty Anne Witte; programs, Miss Lenore Harline.

In addition to Miss Gander, other members of the executive committee are: Miss Margaret Blewett, instructor in physical education at the Sacred Heart Academy; Miss Antoinette Schlafly, Miss Mary Virginia Taylor and Miss Mary Margaret Kelly, student representative from Maryville College.

The show is the second annual one sponsored by Maryville for students of preparatory schools in St. Louis and the viciinty. Invitations have been extended to 11 institutions.

Mayor Bernard Dickmann of St. Louis and Mayor Charles Shaw of Clayton have donated trophies for the Fontbonne second spring horse show to be given Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, at the Missouri Stables arena. August A. Busch Jr., vice-president and general manager of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., will officiate as judge.

The championship trophy donated by Mayor Dickmann will be awarded to the best all-round rider in the championship event scheduled for Saturday afternoon. First and second class winners of the advanced and novice class of Fontbonne College, St. Joseph's Academy and alumnae of both institutions are eligible for this event.

The Mayor Shaw trophy will be presented to the winning relay team in the event between the college and academy, Friday evening. The number of entries totals 50.

Alpha Psi Omega, dramatic honorary sorority at Lindenwood College, will have as its guest speaker Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock Miss Dorothy Walstead, authority on the subject of speech corrective work. Miss Walstead conducts a speech clinic in the St. Louis high schools, and has written a number of books on her subject. Miss Geraldine Biggers will be faculty sponsor. Student hostesses will be Miss Ruth Bewley, Miss Dorothy Bottani, Miss Evelyn Brown, Miss Nan Latham, Miss Carolyn Courtney, Miss Bettie Hooks and Miss Virginia Spears.

Miss Walstead is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston.

The seventh annual scholarship bridge party for the benefit of needy students in the School of Commerce and Finance of St. Louis University will take place Saturday, May 4, in the afternoon and evening in the lounge of the new university building on Lindell boulevard. The party is being sponsored by the Alumni Association of which Joseph C. Huehn heads the party committee.

Dean Walter E. McCourt, assistant chancellor of Washington University, will describe his recent trip around the world at the next meeting of the university's Alumnae Club Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, in the lounge of the Women's Building.

A business and professional club has been formed by St. Louis members of the Lindenwood College alumnae who are unable to attend the day meetings of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club. The first meeting took place Tuesday night at the Missouri Athletic Association. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood, and Mrs. Roemer, were guests at the dinner.

The following officers were elected at the business meeting: Miss Anna Louise Kelley, president; Miss Virginia Spalding, vice president; Miss Velma Olson, corresponding secsecretary; Miss Page Wright, secretary; Miss Dorothy Emery, treasurer.

The club will meet for a downtown dinner the fourth Tuesday night of each month.

The dramatic art class of the Ursuline Academy presented "Pink and Patches" Wednesday night in the auditorium of the school.

Miss Maurine Smith of Centralia, Ill., and Miss Cornelia Manley of Elgin, Ill., will give a joint recital at Monticello Junior College this afternoon. Both are graduates of Monticello and of the Music School of Northwestern University.

Eastern Star in Play.

UNIVERSITY CITY Chapter of the Daughters of the Eastern Star will present a play, "How the Story Grew," Tuesday evening, April 23. Mrs. Idelle Luntz is directing the play. QUEER CREATURES from the DREAM WORLD of an ARTIST

Clara Tice—Who Specializes in Nymphs and Animals—Says It All Represents the Free Spirit of Play in Nature's Kingdom.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

NOW, after a 20-year open season on fishing in the hidden pools of the subconscious mind, comes Clara Tice with a new and different catch. Writers and painters have dredged the depths indefatigably, and rather profitably. Horrid are the monsters they have hauled out into the light of day, the shuddering light of a day that has had all the shuddering it can care for and needs no more.

But Miss Tice finds nothing to shudder about. She dives gracefully into the same dark waters, and comes up, not with anything Silurian, but with nymphs and animals—gay little nymphs with blue eyes and carmine knees; animals fantastic enough in all consciousness (or unconscious), but snarling, figuratively, with tongue in cheek, sly but affectionate and quite engaging.

Miss Tice, who used to live in St. Louis, says it all began with some childish murals on the walls of her mother's kitchen, and blames in all on a Sealyham. A reasonable person informed her it was against all the rules of reason for a Sealyham to follow a horse. But her terrier followed her horses, and seemed to like it, and she liked the terrier.

And so, it seems—though the connection may be a little obscure—she decided that rule and reason were pretty stodgy; that unusual combinations, like Sealyhams and horses, were much nicer than the usual, like horses and collies; that ham and eggs were no better than, say ham and asparagus tips; nymphs and animals much nicer than animals without nymphs.

"Why do people try to live in a drab world of wooden puppets and blank faces?" she asks, with particular attention to lives patterned by "some static logic."

"If they would peer through their blindfolds they would soon discover that women and animals are not just domestic pets to be fed, petted and placed to sleep in kennels. If only people would put aside their monotonous routine for a moment and follow my prescription!

"All you have to do is to relax, simply allow your impulses to react to the free spirit of play in Nature's kingdom. A fresh and marvelous world will be unveiled. You will blush with shame for having remained sightless for so long."

The reproductions on this page represent a fair range of her work. The fanciful choice of colors, the capricious poses, are characteristic. Only the equestrienne is unusual, in that she is conventionally dressed.

Besides the nymphean menagerie, the artist has produced a group on polo, etchings, gold points, drawings and prints, a "Nursery" series and a "Turkish bath suite." She has done imaginative illustrations for magazines and books, and mural decorations for a night club. She is five feet tall, weighs 100 pounds. Her favorite recreations are art and parties. She lives in New York's Greenwich Village.

In 1921 she visited St. Louis, exhibited her drawings at the Public Library and made a number of sketches for local newspapers—the Browns, boxing, dancing, wrestling, Municipal Opera and so on. She says she'll always be grateful to St. Louis for "enlarging" her world.

"It was then," she relates, "I found that although baseball players, wrestlers and boxers lacked the entrancing beauty of my fictive nymphs, they had all the rhythmic naturalness that I demand in my own private world."

Why Gertrude Lawrence's Superstitious Friends Think She Is 'Jinxed'

With Over $100,000 in Unpaid Debts Facing Her, They Recall That Douglas Fairbanks Jr. Gave Her a Real Bracelet During the Performance of a Play and That a Bottle of Champagne Failed to Break During a Christening Ceremony.

Gertrude Lawrence, the beautiful English actress, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., her sweetheart on the stage and in films, and her reported fiance in real life, as they looked in a scene from the picture, "La Boheme."

The unfortunate christening ceremony. Miss Lawrence swung a bottle of champagne against the cabin cruiser, which was about to be launched, and it failed three times to break. So she took a hatchet and broke the bottle.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LONDON.

GERTRUDE HOWLEY, noted in the Hollywood studios and on the stage of London and Broadway as Gertrude Lawrence, sat the other day among 99 creditors at a long table in a long, drab room.

Her beige camels-hair coat and her dark green and brown Tyrolean hat were startling against the dull gray and black of lawyers and creditors, but she was none the less a pathetic little figure. There was misery in her face; her mouth drooped.

She had plenty of reason for it. Debts of $123,645 as against assets of $9395 for one thing, but only one in an inordinate train of misfortunes. She said, "ever since my return from America everything has seemed to conspire against me." Her superstitious friends of the stage believe she is pursued by a jinx, and they attribute it to two gifts to Miss Lawrence by Douglas Fairbanks Jr., whose name still is linked with hers despite denials that they are about to be married.

But jinx, though the chief topic in circles where opals are avoided, cat's-eyes are dreaded and whistling in dressing rooms is a cardinal sin, had no place in the official proceedings of bankruptcy court. Rather the factors cited in her statement, as read in court by her solicitor, were heavy domestic expenses, illnesses, living beyond her means, and an unexpected British demand for $70,000 taxes on income on which she had already paid tax in the United States.

"My name was held in high esteem," she said, "and any slight extravagance was multiplied by the insistance of various creditors that there was no hurry to pay, and that I could have anything I wished. That invariably meant letting them use my name as a reference, and allowing myself to be interviewed and photographed whenever they pleased.

"In March, 1932, I was forced to sacrifice my jewelry. While I was absent from London the interest on all my jewelry lapsed, and without any chance to save it. I returned to London to discover that the whole collection had been sold."

That wasn't half of it. The gems had been appraised at $100,000, all she got when she pawned them was $15,000.

A play flopped, and she was out of work. Then came a succession of illnesses—a broken arm, a nervous breakdown, a mastoid infection, with a consequent flood of hospital and doctor bills.

But there was still hope. She would call on Elstree studio in London, to see if work on her new film had begun. She had been chosen to star in it just before her nervous breakdown.

It had been begun. Also, it had been completed and she might see it that evening in the London movie houses. Furthermore, she was informed, the young actress brought in to take her part had done so well that she was to appear in the two coming productions.

Concluding Miss Lawrence's statement, her solicitor announced that friends were willing to contribute $15,000 toward settlement of the debts, to which would be added $5000 due her from moving picture producers—that is, if the creditors would consent to handle the matter out of court. They would not—and Miss Lawrence's friends thought that, too, was the jinx.

FOR its origin, they go back to the opening night of "Moonlight In Silver" at the Queen's Theater in London, with Doug Jr. and "Gee"—as they call Miss Lawrence—in the leading roles.

In the first act, Fairbanks was to give Miss Lawrence a bracelet, which the property man had provided at a cost of a shilling or so.

But he actually gave her a four-row pearl bracelet linked with diamonds.

She thought it a charming gift, distinctively bestowed. But before the supper parties were over that night, the superstitious were shaking their heads. Since the time of Cleopatra, pearls had symbolized women's tears. And, said the actor folk, if pearls were bad luck, then the manner of giving them was positively disastrous.

Everybody, they said, knew it was bad luck to accept anything from a fellow player in the course of a performance. They wouldn't be surprised if it queered the chances of a marriage.

Of course, both Doug and "Gee" laughed at that, for they have persistently denied that there was any thought of marriage. But the bracelet was not his only gift.

The scene from the play, "Moonlight in Silver," during which, young Fairbanks presented Miss Lawrence with a bracelet as a part of the plot. Much to her surprise—and to the horror of her superstitious friends who considered it bad luck—it turned out to be a real gift of real pearls.

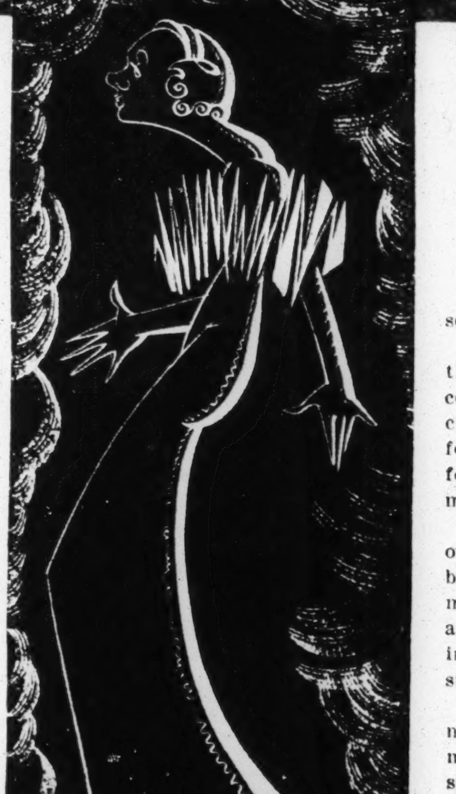
Last July, he gave her a 30-foot cabin cruiser—and it seemed that the very launching was attended by a jinx. They and their friends went down to Southampton for a cruise.

Very chic, surrounded by a holiday crowd, Miss Lawrence stood at the bow with a bottle of champagne gaily tied with ribbon. Twice she swung the bottle against the boat, but it failed to break. She swung again, and the ribbon broke. The crowd tittered. Miss Lawrence picked up a hatchet.

That did the trick. A little breathless, Miss Lawrence named her cruiser the "Grateful." She cut the mooring lines, and, with Fairbanks and their friends, set out for a week-end cruise.

But here she had run foul of superstitions quite as numerous and lively as those of the stage—the superstitions of the sea. Now there were whispers that the mishaps in christening were bad luck not only for the craft, but for her.

And there were wise-cracks to the effect that perhaps she'd have had better luck if she had discarded champagne for the occasion and used an ale advertised in the swagger British magazines by likenesses of herself and Fairbanks. From the bankruptcy court disclosures, it seems likely that the "advertisement" helps a poor girl get along in the world, but it does give some of her acquaintances a laugh.



Gertrude Lawrence, from a caricature by "Josephine," a London artist.

Malice, also, may tinge the forecast that her run of bad luck is not yet complete. That consummation will occur, the gossips predict, in the next few weeks, in the person of a visitor for the Jubilee festivities—Doug's former wife, Joan Crawford.

The point is that many cinema fans, on this side of the Atlantic at least, believe that Doug and Joan are by no means out of love with each other, and that the chance of their meeting in London in the spring is full of possibilities.

To be sure, this line of gossip ignores not only the denials by persons most concerned. Miss Lawrence is several years older than Fairbanks, and has a daughter in her teens. It is pointed out, too, that she would not consider too attractive the prospect of becoming step-daughter-in-law to Lady Ashley, who has been constantly in the company of the senior Douglas Fairbanks.

Just when the talk of a possible Fairbanks-Lawrence union was liveliest, last spring, Miss Lawrence discussed her views of matrimony in a special article written for a London daily. It may not have been a veiled reply to the rumors forecasting her own marriage, but certainly it more than intimated that she was not ready to consider submerging herself in orthodox wedded life.

"Marriage in two establishments! It is by no means so absurd as it sounds," she asserted. "One place that the husband can call his own; another that belongs exclusively to the wife.

"The husband invites the wife and the wife the husband to their respective domains, and when each wants to be alone there is nothing to prevent it.

"Every one of us, however much we are in love, craves at one time or another for solitude! We feel we are in a bad temper and must get away and recover from it, at the same time causing the least inconvenience to any one else.

"I know some will say: That's all very well for married people with lots of money. In the olden days, if you quarreled momentarily with your husband, you went a quarter of a mile off to the west wing of the feudal castle, shut yourself up in a wind-swept turret and had your meals ferried across the moat by faithful retainers.

"THUS you secured solitude and recovered your temper in a contemplative atmosphere without violating the established customs and regulations of normal marriage.

"Today few people can afford more than a bare minimum of rooms, and husband and wife are thrown together from the moment they leave the church. Is this essential?

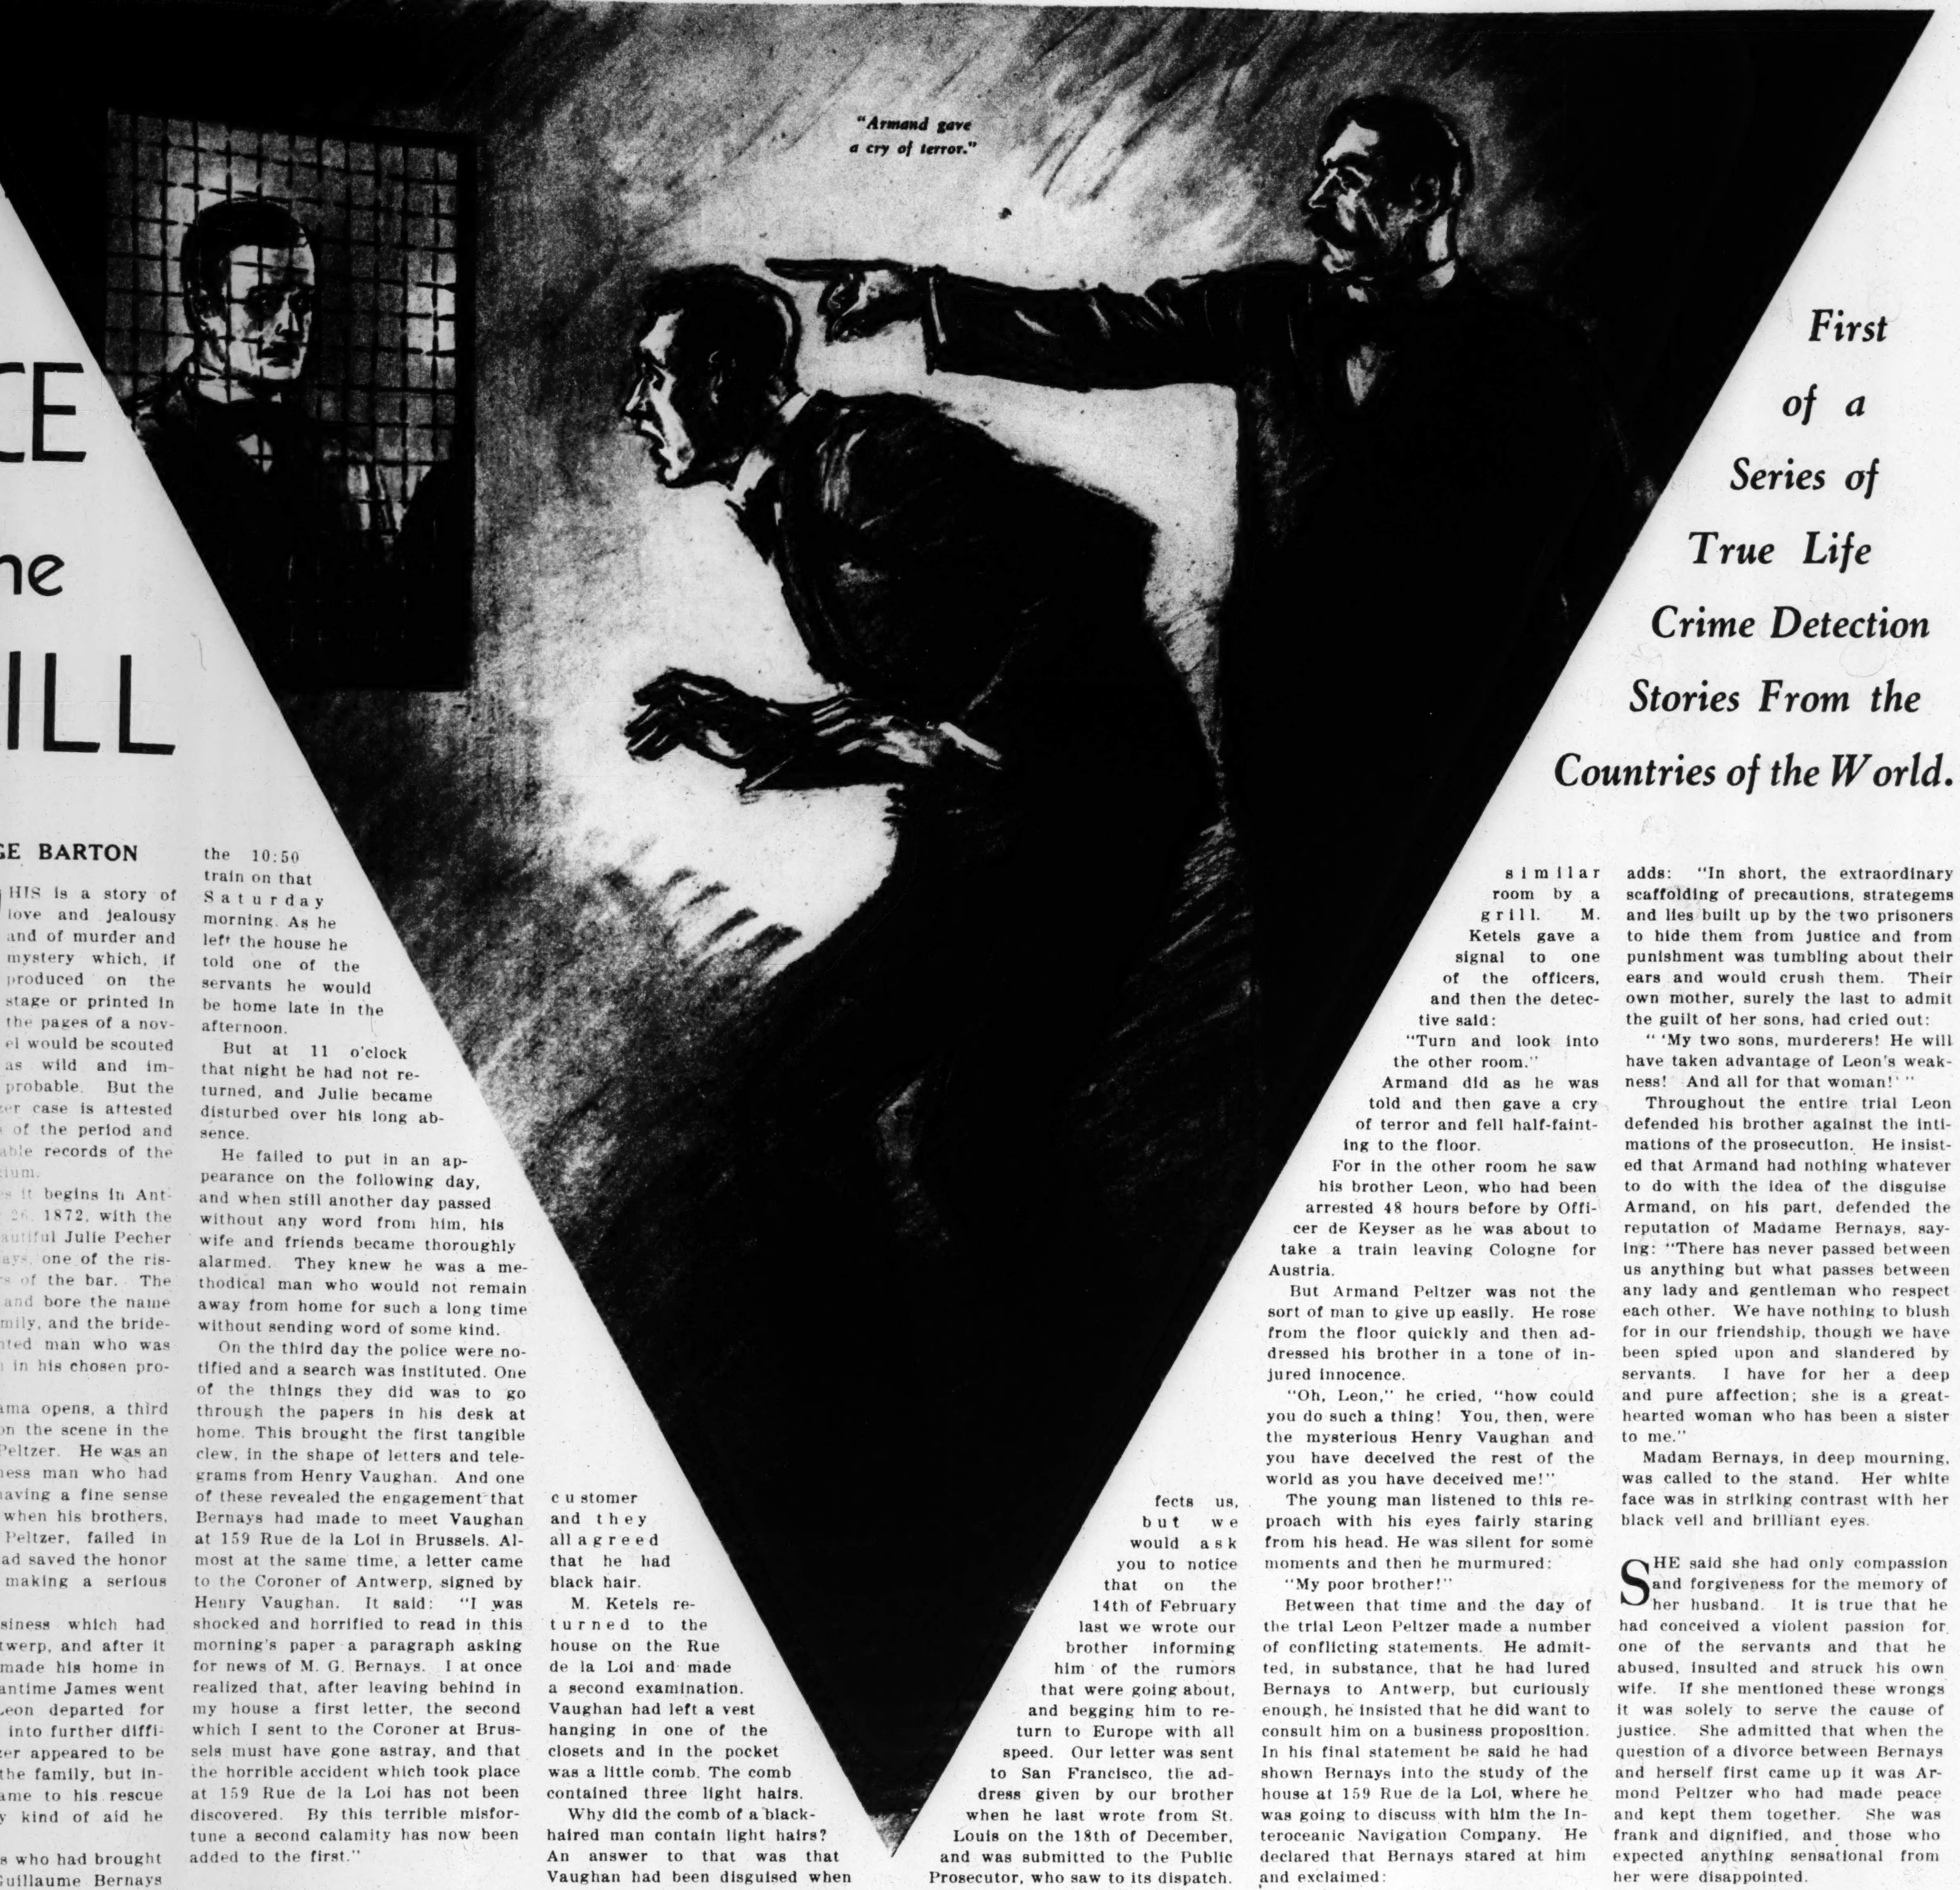
"Is it not a fact that today numerous couples, each person earning his or her living quite adequately, are afraid to marry? Social custom decrees that they must at a given hour on a given day tear themselves up by the roots and try to replant themselves in a new environment and under wholly different conditions a few hours later. No wonder to some of these marriage seems a tyranny, an unreasonable burden.

"Marriage has been invested with a dictatorial nature which frets and irritates the young people concerned until in these nervy, taut days they are too frightened to try the experiment. Separate establishments might well prove the solution.

" . . . I am not suggesting that the thousands of husbands and wives who live happily together should immediately set up two establishments. . . . these views are directed towards the minority who find it difficult to accept the normal, ordinary married state.

" . . . There is this minority who cannot accept the normal marriage easily. Better that they should learn gradually to appreciate its undeniable privileges and joys than that ultimately the success of their marriage should be jeopardized by a slavish adherence to orthodox customs."

The FACE in the GRILL



"Armand gave a cry of terror."

First of a Series of True Life Crime Detection Stories From the Countries of the World.

By GEORGE BARTON

THIS is a story of love and jealousy and of murder and mystery which, if produced on the stage or printed in the pages of a novel would be scouted as wild and improbable. But the truth of the Peltzer case is attested to the newspapers of the period and by the unimpeachable records of the law courts of Belgium.

For our purposes it begins in Antwerp on December 26, 1872, with the marriage of the beautiful Julie Pecher to Guillaume Bernays, one of the rising young members of the bar. The bride was wealthy and bore the name of an influential family, and the bridegroom was a talented man who was expected to go high in his chosen profession.

As the little drama opens, a third character appears on the scene in the person of Armand Peltzer. He was an engineer and business man who had the reputation of having a fine sense of honor. Indeed, when his brothers, Leon and James Peltzer, failed in business Armand had saved the honor of the family by making a serious financial sacrifice.

It was this business which had brought him to Antwerp, and after it was completed he made his home in that city. In the meantime James went to Brussels and Leon departed for London, only to get into further difficulties. Leon Peltzer appeared to be the black sheep of the family, but invariably Armand came to his rescue with money or any kind of aid he might need.

It was the Peltzers who had brought Julie Pecher and Guillaume Bernays together, and it was natural that Armand should become an intimate in the home of the newly-wedded pair.

Presently there was a rift in the love between man and wife and Armand drifted into the dangerous position of the understanding friend. He was cultured and fine-looking and only 37 years of age; she was red-haired, had green eyes and was lovable and sympathetic. They were kindred spirits, but it is to be noted that there never was anything at any time which reflected on her honor. It was obvious, however, Armond was becoming desperately fond of the young wife.

Certain reports concerning alleged misconduct on the part of Bernays reached the wife, and she became colder than ever to him. In the meantime the servants were spying on her and the tales they told caused Bernays to reproach his wife. The result was an open quarrel. Armand Peltzer was asked to leave the house and never return. This happened after eight years of warm friendship between Bernays and Armand.

It was at this stage of the story that the shadow of tragedy first showed itself on the scene in the form of a letter from a hitherto unknown person who signed himself "Henry Vaughan." He wrote to Bernays in English, saying: "Friends in London have commended you to me on account of your legal knowledge in commercial and mercantile affairs. Intrusted with the launching of an important business in connection with oversea trade, I beg that you will do me the favor of replying to the list of questions inclosed with regard to Belgian trade regulations for foreign limited companies, and of accepting as honorarium the inclosed check of 500 francs."

Pleased with this, Bernays answered the communication. Then, after several other letters had passed between them, Henry Vaughan asked the Antwerp lawyer if he would not come to see him at Brussels on January 7, 1882. He agreed at once and went by the 10:50 train on that Saturday morning. As he left the house he told one of the servants he would be home late in the afternoon.

But at 11 o'clock that night he had not returned, and Julie became disturbed over his long absence.

He failed to put in an appearance on the following day, and when still another day passed without any word from him, his wife and friends became thoroughly alarmed. They knew he was a methodical man who would not remain away from home for such a long time without sending word of some kind.

On the third day the police were notified and a search was instituted. One of the things they did was to go through the papers in his desk at home. This brought the first tangible clew, in the shape of letters and telegrams from Henry Vaughan. And one of these revealed the engagement that Bernays had made to meet Vaughan at 159 Rue de la Loi in Brussels. Almost at the same time, a letter came to the Coroner of Antwerp, signed by Henry Vaughan. It said: "I was shocked and horrified to read in this morning's paper a paragraph asking for news of M. G. Bernays. I at once realized that, after leaving behind in my house a first letter, the second which I sent to the Coroner at Brussels must have gone astray, and that the horrible accident which took place at 159 Rue de la Loi has not been discovered. By this terrible misfortune a second calamity has now been added to the first."

THE writer added that Bernays' death had happened while he was showing him a revolver. He said the weapon had accidentally gone off and killed the lawyer. Vaughan declared he was so scared he had run away. He was taking his wife to the south of France for her health, but he proposed to return as soon as possible for the purpose of giving himself up to the police.

After that, no time was lost in entering the house at 159 Rue de la Loi. Magistrate M. Ketels assumed charge of the investigation.

M. Ketels was accompanied to the house by Madame Bernays, M. Willemaers, the Public Prosecutor; a police officer and a locksmith. It gave them all a shock when they found the dead body of Guillaume Bernays seated in an arm chair in the library. At first glance it might have been supposed that he was asleep. There was blood on the carpet and a number of cards were scattered about the floor. Some carried the name of Henry Vaughan.

On a desk they discovered the letter to the Coroner. It told the same story of the accidental killing of Bernays. In it was inclosed the key of the house for the use of the official. The police took note of the fact that the house was sparsely furnished. Obviously it had been leased as a convenient spot for murdering Bernays.

But who was Henry Vaughan, and why had he gone to all this care in planning his crime?

M. Ketels started to find the answer to this question, and it was not long before he had a description of the mysterious stranger.

He learned that he was dark complexioned and that the mysterious fellow constantly wore colored glasses and that he carried his arm in a sling.

He had rented the house in the Rue de la Loi from an agent. Then he had made the rounds of the tradesmen without the slightest pretense to secrecy. All of these men described their customer and they all agreed that he had black hair.

M. Ketels returned to the house on the Rue de la Loi and made a second examination. Vaughan had left a vest hanging in one of the closets and in the pocket was a little comb. The comb contained three light hairs.

Why did the comb of a black-haired man contain light hairs? An answer to that was that Vaughan had been disguised when he called on the merchants. It suggested the possibility that the criminal might have been wearing a wig. M. Ketels now had a clew and he pursued it with unceasing industry.

In the meantime, in Antwerp, many persons were beginning to point the finger of suspicion at Armand Peltzer. He bore himself calmly and proudly. He could do this because he had undoubted proof that he was in Antwerp at the time Bernays was murdered in Brussels.

Then it became known that Armand had been sending letters and telegrams to his brother Leon.

He admitted this quite frankly and said the communications had to do with business matters. He said that in the guise of the Good Samaritan he was still extricating his foolish brother from financial difficulties in which he had become entangled.

There was a sensation when a chemist in Verviers, coming into possession of one of the many photographic copies of the letters of Henry Vaughan, declared that it resembled the handwriting of Leon Peltzer. It was further whispered that a well-known business man in Antwerp had acted as a messenger for Armand in carrying letters to Leon Peltzer. This had the effect of creating public hostility against Armand. As a result of this talk, Armand, with his brother James, sent a letter to the press. It said, in part:

"The newspapers have reported the issuance of a warrant against our brother, Leon Peltzer.

"We will not attempt to discuss this judicial measure which so nearly affects us, but we would ask you to notice that on the 14th of February last we wrote our brother informing him of the rumors that were going about, and begging him to return to Europe with all speed. Our letter was sent to San Francisco, the address given by our brother when he last wrote from St. Louis on the 18th of December, and was submitted to the Public Prosecutor, who saw to its dispatch.

"We are convinced that our brother will return as soon as he hears of the murder of Guillaume Bernays, and of the ghastly suspicion that has fallen upon him." . . .

The result of this seemingly straightforward statement stilled the voices of the people for a time.

Armand Peltzer, who had been worried, now seemed to be at ease again. He went about his accustomed duties with a serenity that surprised everybody. He even called upon Madame Bernays to assure her that she should not believe any of the cruel stories which were being circulated about the Peltzer family. Then an unexpected blow fell upon him.

Armand Peltzer was arrested on charge of complicity in the murder of Guillaume Bernays.

He protested violently and declared that it was an outrage. M. Ketels listened with stolid countenance and said nothing. Armand was placed in a cell.

For the next few days he was compelled to undergo a rigorous cross-examination.

"Armand Peltzer," said M. Ketels, "do you still persist in saying that your brother Leon is in America?"

"I do," he shouted. "I have told you so a dozen times, and I repeat it."

M. Ketels turned a pair of cold eyes on the prisoner. He spoke now with great deliberation.

"Armand, I am going to give you one more chance to tell the truth. Do you still insist that Leon is in the United States?"

"I do," repeated the witness.

The two men were in a small room that was set apart for the examination of prisoners. It was separated from a similar room by a grill. M. Ketels gave a signal to one of the officers, and then the detective said:

"Turn and look into the other room."

Armand did as he was told and then gave a cry of terror and fell half-fainting to the floor.

For in the other room he saw his brother Leon, who had been arrested 48 hours before by Officer de Keyser as he was about to take a train leaving Cologne for Austria.

But Armand Peltzer was not the sort of man to give up easily. He rose from the floor quickly and then addressed his brother in a tone of injured innocence.

"Oh, Leon," he cried, "how could you do such a thing! You, then, were the mysterious Henry Vaughan and you have deceived the rest of the world as you have deceived me!"

The young man listened to this reproach with his eyes fairly staring from his head. He was silent for some moments and then he murmured:

"My poor brother!"

Between that time and the day of the trial Leon Peltzer made a number of conflicting statements. He admitted, in substance, that he had lured Bernays to Antwerp, but curiously enough, he insisted that he did want to consult him on a business proposition. In his final statement he said he had shown Bernays into the study of the house at 159 Rue de la Loi, where he was going to discuss with him the Interoceanic Navigation Company. He declared that Bernays stared at him and exclaimed:

"But I know you, I know you!"

Bernays noticed that Peltzer was wearing a wig, Peltzer said, and he reached over and tore it from his head, crying: "I thought so; it's you, Leon! Leon Peltzer!" Then the statement proceeds:

"Using the most violent language, he threatened to denounce me for having, under a false name and in disguise, tricked him into entering my house. His insults and threats made me lose my head. Mechanically I seized from my table the first weapon I laid my hands on, to defend myself or to frighten him, I can't say which.

"I DO not yet know how the pistol went off and brought Bernays crashing to the ground. Filled with consternation I did my best to revive him with water and ammonia, but it was no use. Almost mad with terror I placed the body in a chair and wrote the letter to the Coroner, which I left behind me in my fright. I fled; you know the rest. As for an impression found in the blood in the carpet, it was made by my knee when I bent over the victim in my efforts to restore him to life."

The trial did not begin until November 27, 1882, and then M. Van Maldeghem, the Advocate-General, demanded the conviction of both brothers and insisted that while Leon had committed the murder it had been inspired and planned by Armand. Leon, he said, was a puppet who was entirely under the influence of his stronger-willed brother.

"It was," he declared, "Armand who thought out the details of the crime, including the transformation of Leon into Henry Vaughan. Leon had got his wig from Daumouche, a costumer for several of the smaller theaters of Paris, declaring he wanted it for a fancy dress ball."

Gerard Harry, a gifted writer, who was present at the trial and who has written a history of the case, tells how one bit of evidence after another was brought out against the Peltzers, and adds: "In short, the extraordinary scaffolding of precautions, strategems and lies built up by the two prisoners to hide them from justice and from punishment was tumbling about their ears and would crush them. Their own mother, surely the last to admit the guilt of her sons, had cried out:

" 'My two sons, murderers! He will have taken advantage of Leon's weakness! And all for that woman!' "

Throughout the entire trial Leon defended his brother against the intimations of the prosecution. He insisted that Armand had nothing whatever to do with the idea of the disguise. Armand, on his part, defended the reputation of Madame Bernays, saying: "There has never passed between us anything but what passes between any lady and gentleman who respect each other. We have nothing to blush for in our friendship, though we have been spied upon and slandered by servants. I have for her a deep and pure affection; she is a great-hearted woman who has been a sister to me."

Madam Bernays, in deep mourning, was called to the stand. Her white face was in striking contrast with her black veil and brilliant eyes.

SHE said she had only compassion and forgiveness for the memory of her husband. It is true that he had conceived a violent passion for one of the servants and that he abused, insulted and struck his own wife. If she mentioned these wrongs it was solely to serve the cause of justice. She admitted that when the question of a divorce between Bernays and herself first came up it was Armond Peltzer who had made peace and kept them together. She was frank and dignified, and those who expected anything sensational from her were disappointed.

Beasley, a gunsmith from London, took the stand and identified Leon as the man who had bought from him the weapon that was used in the crime. He said, rather proudly: "It was the best possible quality of pistol that could be bought anywhere."

There was a sensation when the mutilated skull of Bernays was brought into the courtroom. Dr. Stienon, an expert, handling this grewsome exhibit with a sort of professional fondness, declared that the victim had been killed point blank from behind. The consensus was that Bernays had been murdered almost as soon as he entered the room.

It was testified that the shooting could not have been an accident as described, because the victim had been shot from behind.

In summing up the evidence the prosecutor pointed an accusing finger at Armand Peltzer and called him "the sinister comedian." He declared the motive was obvious and, addressing the accused, cried:

"Armand Peltzer is proud, and he is vindictive. He had been humiliated and banished from the Bernays house, and he thirsted for revenge. Moreover, he was in love, and the frenzy of his passion drove him to get rid of the husband that stood in his way."

The jury was only out for half an hour. At the end of that time they brought in a verdict holding both brothers guilty of murder.

The Judge condemned the two men to death, declaring that the sentence should be carried out in the public square of Brussels. That is a fiction, because capital punishment had been abolished in Belgium. But the Court went through the form of imposing the death sentence, although the actual punishment was imprisonment for life.

This tragic tale, fittingly enough, has a tragic ending. Armand died in prison a few years later. Leon served 30 years and was pardoned. But he was a broken-down old man, dazed by his liberty, and after a time he ended it all by throwing himself into the sea.

NARROWLY AVERTED DEATH OR CAPTURE IN CIVIL WAR BY CLIMBING A GARDEN WALL

WASHINGTON, D. C.

INTO a quiet old side street in the Georgetown part of Washington, just at dusk on a recent spring day, wheeled a clattering troop of cavalry, all spick and span in the bright sunshine, led by its smart mounted brass band. Following came sleek limousines bearing in pompous magnificence His Excellency, the Secretary of War, with a group of high military officials in silk hats and striped trousers. The dashing cavalcade drew up with a flourish before a modest old house as a thin, bespectacled and grizzled gentleman stepped stiffly out on the porch and lifted a shaky hand in military salute.

Then, in the tiny front parlor, Secretary of War Dern took the old man's lapel in his hand, spoke of a "life of distinguished public service," pinned there the Congressional Medal of Honor. It was the third time in American history that this distinction has been conferred for non-combative service. Only one other non-combatant, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, is privileged to wear the emblem, perhaps the highest symbol of heroism this country can confer. Yet the pathetically aged veteran who was chosen for this gesture of admiration has been almost forgotten in the country he served to win his honor. When he first learned of the ceremony they planned for him, 91-year-old Major-General Adolphus Washington Greely had muttered querulously: "What difference does it make! I'll be dead in a year or two, anyway." And he went on a little ramblingly about his 74 years in the Army, his temperate early life, his shut-in existence now, his need for a haircut. . . .

Though he wouldn't have said anything about it five years ago, say General Greely's implied complaint over the tardiness of the recognition he has just received is well founded and is not just the testiness of a very old man. Aside from his promotions, this country has seemed lamentably indifferent to his heroic, unselfish services of a lifetime. Few remember now that he was the first of 3,000,000 Civil War volunteers to win a regular commission; that he once led the most sensational Arctic expedition of the time to a point nearer the North Pole than anyone had reached before him; that he built up the Army's signal corps almost single-handed; strung thousands of miles of telegraph lines across the Western deserts, across Cuba and Alaska and Puerto Rico and the Philippines and China; that he foresaw the airplane and its military use, braving certain ridicule to persuade and enable the unwilling Professor Langley to build his flying machine; that he was one of the earliest and most effective exponents of wireless. Once the friend of Presidents, Premiers, leaders in science and diplomacy, Greely was almost passed over for his pioneer service in important causes.

The General was born in the thriving New England seaport, Newburyport, Massachusetts, in March, 1844. The son of several generations of pioneers ("during three hundred years no one of my paternal ancestors has lived or died out of sight of the Cape Ann light. . . ."), he was brought up on a rigid system of moral discipline and the lively heroism of ancestors who had fought in every early war. His father used to tell him that Greely children in the seventeenth century were liable to punishment by death if they were guilty of "obstinate disobedience." Thus impregnated with puritanical morality and unquestioning acceptance of romantic ideas of warfare, Greely came rushing home from New Hampshire—where he was a private tutor—eager to enlist at the first rumors of civil war.

HE WAS then a callow, unimaginative boy of 17, handsome with his almost girlish eyes and resolute, severe chin. His lack of imagination he confesses frankly: "The work of each day, with no thought as to its value and logical outcome, was enough for me." It was the only quality he retained thereafter. His eyes became accustomed to misery and hardship, his chin was shattered by a bullet at Antietam and his callowness quickly gave way to premature maturity when, after 20 months with the Army of the Potomac, he was promoted to a second lieutenancy.

Greely's experiences in the Civil War were a severe introduction to a life that was a succession of adventures and hardships. Soon after he was accepted (after repeated rejections) by the 19th Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry, his company was sent into Maryland and Virginia. Although at first they saw little active service, the conditions under which they served were excessively hard; they were in the field without a break during the entire course of the war.

Like many others, Greely was a severe critic of the military tactics that characterized the campaign and his soldierly conduct, added to this intelligent observation, brought rapid promotion.

The Chickahominy campaign, swamp camps, malaria, continual wet and filthy uniforms, hunger, the discouragement of retreating when the Union forces had almost captured Richmond — these trials failed to shake his simple faith in duty. When he was wounded in the leg during a minor engagement, Greely refused to report it so that he would not be kept from the fighting or worry his family. Almost immediately afterwards his company was forced back and, after four days of constant marching, he was turned out in the rain to begin a midnight tramp in bare feet through the adhesive Virginia mud, so tired he actually "fell asleep while he marched." It was all like that. The conditions were so bad that scores dropped out of the ranks from sheer exhaustion and hunger, after continual, evidently purposeless marching. They were all disgusted with the inefficient, blundering commands, as they noted the losses that could have been prevented, the victories followed by retreat.

Wounded severely at Antietam, Greely managed to leave the hospital as soon as possible, even deserting the transport that was returning him to his company in order to reach the front more quickly. Weak from hospitalization, the young corporal was just in time for the "forlorn hope" at Fredericksburg, crossed the Rappahannock in a crowded boat under heavy fire, rushed into the city to hold an untenable position, was wounded in the hand, had his cap shot off and finally just escaped death when the Confederates closed in at two ends of a street he was helping to guard by clambering over a garden wall under fire. Just out of the street massacre of his own fellows, the 18-year-old boy watched the 20th Massachusetts Infantry march into the jaws of death in one of the most terrible slaughters of the war.

Secretary of War George H. Dern, pinning the Congressional Medal of Honor on General Greely.

He was made a sergeant after Fredericksburg and was given a commission shortly afterwards. The most eventful part of his Civil War service ended as he was ordered to assist in the organization of one of the first Negro companies with the promise (never fulfilled) that he would be made a first lieutenant almost immediately. After the war he was with this regiment during the yellow fever epidemic in New Orleans and not long thereafter he was sent to an outpost in Wyoming, where Indian trouble was at its height.

His introduction to the wild West came with a wrecked train and a scalped conductor while he was on his way out. The morning after witnessing all this he awoke to find that three outlaws had been lynched by the townspeople. But this was his only experience with frontier violence. Soon afterwards he was sent to Salt Lake City, where he met the actress who was to be Maude Adams' mother. A keen observer of the curious life of the Mormons, he heard Brigham Young preach and formed a high opinion of his sect, partly because Young was "a Yankee Vermonter." It was just after this that Greely was made commander of the famous expedition to Lady Franklin Bay, in the Arctic. This was the supreme experience of his career.

With 25 soldiers at his command, Lieutenant Greely established his base camp within 496 miles of the Pole, after working northward through the ice of Baffin Bay and Smith Sound in the sealer Proteus during the summer of 1881. The camp was "the most northerly colony of recorded history," about 250 miles beyond Eskimo settlements at Etah, Greenland. The expedition was not an attempt to accomplish a feat. It resulted in important discoveries, explored the interior of Grant Land, broke the 300-year-old English record for northern penetration, made important contributions to geographical knowledge of the north coast of Greenland—all while enduring "discomforts that words would fail to convey any idea of." Frequently the supplementary forays made by small groups of explorers were interrupted while they lay for several days in frozen sleeping bags, unable to get food until blizzards passed over. Sometimes the soldiers themselves (including Greely) had to slip on the dog harness and haul the sleds. They found the deserted ruins of Eskimo camps farther north than men had been known to have lived. Greely himself ascended Mount Arthur ([illegible] feet) after his one companion had to give up. The following year two of his men penetrated to the distant western islands he had sighted from this peak, the highest in Greenland. By this time two years had passed and his party anxiously hoped for a relieving steamer. None came, and in the summer of 1883 the expedition began its perilous retreat from the Arctic Circle.

The tiny steam launch, Lady Greely, towing three boats, three tons of coal and rations for 40 days, started south the beginning of August, passing through Hall Basin and Kennedy Channel with northern Grinnell Land, Ellesmere Island, on the starboard and Washington Land, Greenland, on the port. They didn't know then that one relieving steamer had been rammed and sunk, that the master of another had started north, witnessed conditions in Baffin Bay, and was even then retreating into a safe harbor half way down the coast of Greenland.

Before they had proceeded far, it became apparent that the ice floes had probably never broken in Kane Basin to the south. Heavy floes extended a mile out from the coast and navigation became almost impossible. Then an iceberg 60 feet high blocked their passage. Fortuitously it proved to have been split in the center and a tiny channel, a dozen feet wide and [illegible] yards long, permitted them to make an escape. "This was possibly the most wonderful experience of any Arctic navigator," Greely later wrote.

IN KANE BASIN, only [illegible] miles from their destination, Cape Sabine, they were suddenly beset by an early cold spell. The sea froze around them and the ice pack with which they drifted carried them rapidly southward. After days of lying idle with the weather colder than had ever before been recorded in August, the party voted to abandon the launch and try to make their way eastward across the ice pack to land. Tantalizingly close, Cape Sabine was visible over the ugly frozen ice hummocks, which made the transportation of their [illegible] equipment a matter of nerve-wracking, body-breaking effort. They were able to make only a tiny gain each day and it took 18 days to get within [illegible] miles of their destination. On the last of these days they pushed the sleds 13 hours, crossed [illegible] of water in the boat they [illegible] them and fell on the ice too [illegible] to eat or put up their tents. Nevertheless, they were in 'splendid [illegible]' because so near their goal.

That night a gale arose and the pack slowly spun round in an enormous circle. They awoke to find themselves back where they had been almost a month before. The incredibly hard trek had to be repeated. Then a giant floe came down from the north, forced its way between them and land, and they had to transfer all their luggage to it while it [illegible] to theirs. On September [illegible], after [illegible] days of hard travel over [illegible] miles of sea and ice, they reached land near Cape Sabine and [illegible] for the winter.

But the most terrible [illegible] journey was yet to come. [illegible] Proteus had sunk and Lieutenant Garlington, her commander, had left a [illegible] assuring note at Cape Sabine [illegible]

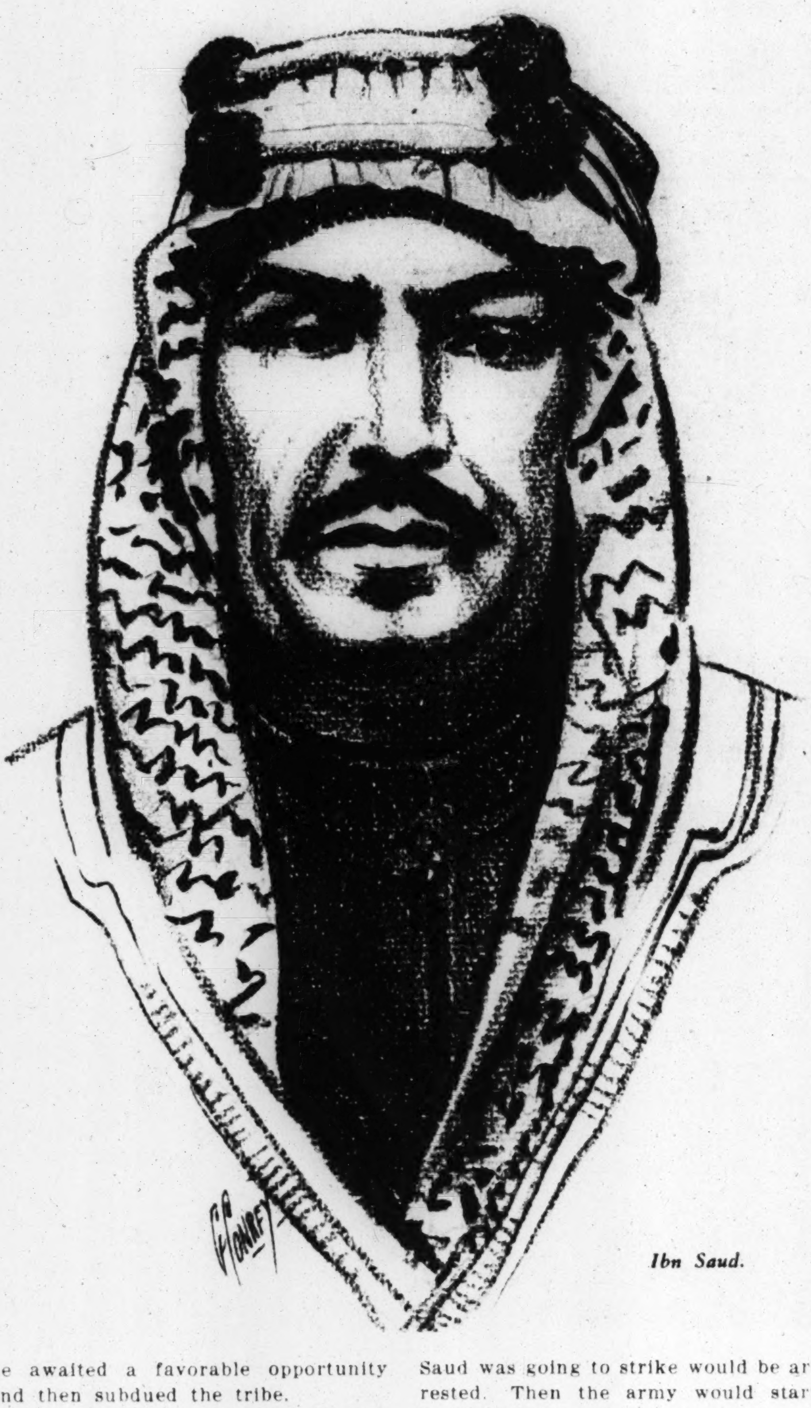
IBN SAUD

THE 'CROMWELL OF THE ARABS' WHO IS IN RELIGIOUS DIFFICULTIES AGAIN



Ibn Saud.

MECCA, Saudi-Arabia.

A POWERFULLY - BUILT man with jutting Elizabethan beard, aquiline nose and flashing eyes, towered above his brown-robed followers as they completed one of the seven ritual-required circumambulations of the Caaba. Reverentially they looked toward the small cubical shrine that contains the famous Black Stone, fabled to have come down from Paradise whiter than milk, only to be turned black by the sins of the faithful who have kissed it since the year 610. The stone, apparently of meteoric origin, is the holy of holies to Mohammedans, all of whom face toward Mecca when they pray, because the stone lies there.

Suddenly from behind the ornate columns of this sanctuary, three men dashed forward, daggers in hand, shouting "Death to King Abdul Aziz [illegible] the Saud." Accounts differ as to just what happened in the next few seconds. It seems, however, that Ibn Saud, six feet four inches tall and proportioned like a football fullback, braced himself to meet the attack. His bodyguards, who have saved him from assassins before, dropped two of the men with pistol shots almost within arm's length of the King. One of the King's sons grappled with the third assassin and, it is reported, received a deep knife wound in the shoulder. The King was defending himself ably when the guards finally got a chance for another shot at the last of the assassins. It was reported that Ibn Saud was wounded in the leg.

Following this dramatic occurrence a few weeks ago there have been repercussions throughout the Mohammedan world. Ibn Saud, whose sagacity, hardiness and ruthlessness in building his kingdom won him the title of "the Cromwell of the Arabs," has many enemies. These enemies have been busy pointing out that Mohammedans [illegible] binding rule against violence among believers in the sacred city of Mecca and particularly at the Caaba. The Koran emphasizes this prohibition. It is not even permitted that a molesting wasp or [illegible] be killed. Therefore, say the enemies of Ibn Saud, something must be done about a King who [illegible] not only permit but also be the [illegible] of sacrilege at the Caaba.

In the wake of the attempted assassination prayers of more than 200,000 pilgrims to the Holy City went up for forgiveness for the sacrilege of bloodshed at the shrine. Immediate arrangements were made for ceremonial absolution of the bodyguards who slew the assassins. It was an easy answer for the enemies of the King, few of whom dare face him openly, to fan the fire.

However, it was not the first time that enemies have tried to make Ibn Saud the victim of the religious rule to which he is a strict adherent. Back in 1928, when he was known as King of the Hejaz and Sultan of Nejd, Ibn Saud was the owner of a Model T Ford, and as a result found himself with a revolt on his hands. Certain tribes of the Wahabi sect, which does not believe in coffee drinking, smoking, shaving or riding in automobiles, aroused themselves into a brief guerilla warfare, but they soon were subdued and Ibn Saud kept his Ford.

His kingdom comprises most of the peninsula in the southwestern part of Asia, being bounded on the west by the Red Sea, on the east by Oman and the Persian Gulf; Hardramaut, south, and Iraq and Trans-Jordan, north.

It is doubtful whether there has been such a leader in Arabia since the days of the Prophet himself. He has risen from an exile to a Mohammed incarnate. He grew up in the domain of Sheik Mubarak of Koweit, where the Saud dynasty was in exile 50 years rather than submit to the Rashids who had taken the elder Saud's kingdom. Until he attained his majority in 1901, Ibn Saud devoted himself to riding horseback, shooting and leading a handful of followers in wild nightly raids on caravans and neighboring tribes. Among his admirers it was a common saying that "none but the devil can ride like Ibn Saud."

CONSTANTLY dreaming of recovering the glory of his fathers, nursing the hatred of the Rashids, assuring himself that destiny was with him, he laid his plans with trusted friends. At last one night in the summer of 1901, Ibn Saud and his handful of friends stole out into the desert on a mission that they had sworn would mean death or success. Cautiously, they approached the black walls of Riyadh, city of 20,000 and capital of Nejd. Ibn Saud, with several picked men, dismounted, left the main group and crept down upon the sentries at the gate. They cut the sentries' throats without a sound. Then came a wild dash for the castle, the slaughter of the guards and Ibn Saud himself furiously stabbing to death the Governor who had been installed by Ibn Rashid. The historic home of his ancestors was restored to him.

One of the raiders mounted to the palace roof and cried: "The kingdom belongs to Allah and to Ibn Saud!" With that cry began a career which for power, brilliance and success has seldom been equaled in Arabia since the days of the Prophet.

Rashid took refuge in Shammar to gather himself for a counter stroke. While he waited, Ibn Saud was busy extending his own power. He invited first one tribe and then another to send tribute to him, "the great chief at Riyadh." If no taxes came in, he awaited a favorable opportunity and then subdued the tribe.

Ibn Saul knew how to handle an army. He knew how to plan a campaign. He confided in no one. Suddenly, every man in the capital that had any connection with the tribe Ibn Saud was going to strike would be arrested. Then the army would start forth with the young giant, Ibn Saud, at the head of it. He rode at such a pace that no messenger or spy could keep up with it. Men rode day and night, until they began to drop from the saddle.

Without any warning the tribe would be struck and stripped bare. Punishment was severe, but the personality of the new ruler practically always drew the same passionate devotion that characterized Ibn Saud's original followers. Gradually all the inland tribes of Arabia came under his sway. Among these allied tribes petty raids, forays and thieving operations stopped. Life and property became secure for the first time in centuries. Most of these tribesmen were Wahabis, who guard jealously the purest Islamic doctrine. They have been called the Puritans of the Near East. They try to live strictly as did the Prophet and his immediate followers.

Ibn Saud and his followers kept on increasing their territory for 13 years. Then, just before the World War, he took himself out of the chieftain class by a daring stroke. He had had his eyes on Hasa and Katif, richest provinces in the eastern part of the peninsula and held by the Turks. For 50 years these provinces had sent tribute to Constantinople. Two thousand Turkish soldiers were quartered at Hofuf, principal city of this region.

Ibn Saud's spies laid the groundwork. Then, with 300 picked horsemen, he attacked through the gates that were opened by confederates. It was an easy victory, doubled Ibn Saud's revenue and brought him into world politics. Then came the World War and Ibn Saud's old enemy, Rashid, declared for the Turks. Ibn Saud entered into relations with the British and soon defeated the Turks and drove Rashid from Shammar.

After the World War, Ibn Saud devoted himself to improving the lot of his 2,000,000 half-starved subjects. Over the religious scruples of many of them, he succeeded in introducing the telephone, automobile and other necessary modern inventions. Despite his reputation for ruthlessness, his court soon became a byword for hospitality. He was never entertaining less than 200 guests in his perpetual "open house." Often there were 10 times that number. He easily affected a winsome manner and a smile that attracted and fascinated small children. Generosity to the poor kept his treasury at a low ebb, despite his relatively enormous revenues. At one feast, for example, 93 camels and 400 sheep were consumed by a band of visiting pilgrims.

In 1924, when King Husein of Hejaz proclaimed himself the ruler of all Arabia, this did not suit Ibn Saud. Leading his ever-ready army, he went to war. Husein soon abdicated, his son, King Ali, was driven into the desert and Mecca was captured by assault on September 14, 1925. Four months later, Ibn Saud was proclaimed King of the Hejaz and Sultan of Nejd. Since then, however, insubordination, plots, tribal feuds and the Arabs' uncontrollable passion for raiding have caused Ibn Saud no little trouble. He still keeps his army in first-class trim, going to war in armored automobiles now instead of on horseback. Incidentally, his wives follow the green and white flag, sometimes riding in what was once a police van and at other times in what was a bakery truck. He lives up to his religion in having only four wives. He also admits having divorced "many more than a hundred."

In 1929, Ibn Saud suppressed one revolt and then beheaded 200 of the tribesmen as a warning to other tribes. The next year, Faisal El Dowish, paramount sheik of the Mutairs and former lieutenant of the King, united with Sheik Ibn Hathlein of the Adman tribe. Faisal El Dowish, credited with killing more than 100 men with his own hands, and his ally, soon found they could not resist the army of 50,000 that their King led against them. They were so badly beaten that they fled into British territory.

LAST summer he sent his forces against those of Imam Yahya of Yeman, whom he charged with aggression in the highlands of Tehama, the disputed frontier between their territories. After a few weeks it was apparent that the Saudian forces, which had captured Hodeidah, the principal port, would take Sana, the capital. Yahya sued for peace.

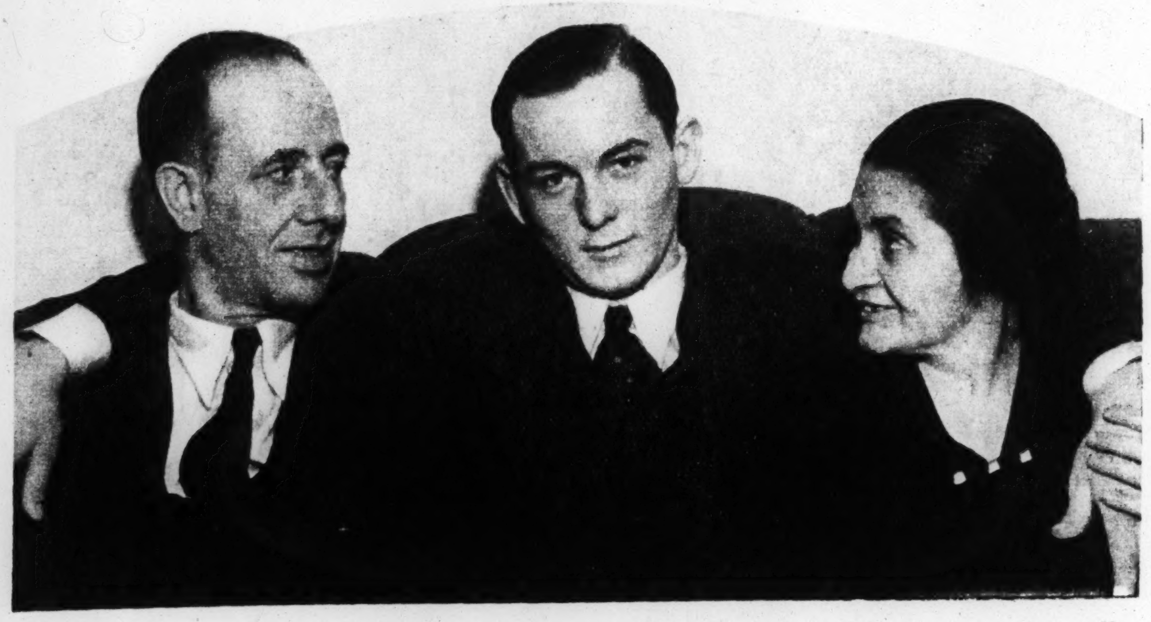
Then Ibn Saud set a wholesome example for the world. He made a peace that was the opposite of that engendered at Versailles. He annexed no land to which the Yeman people had a genuine claim. Nor did he impose a war indemnity. He merely bound Yahya and his people to be good neighbors and also put himself under the same ties.

Both nations have undertaken to submit disputes to arbitration, to abstain from aiding any insurrectionary move in the other's territory and to encourage inter-communication and to facilitate commerce. This doctrine of treating enemies is what the Arabs call "hilm." It is based on the idea of settling with an enemy in such a magnanimous manner that the fullest co-operation will result.

There is a story to the effect that when Ibn Saud paid his first official visit to Katif, after taking it from the Turks, a pearl-diving captain appeared with a diver who owed him money and complained that the poor man did not pay his debt. The King, knowing that the diving captains were utterly unscrupulous, called for the account book. Ibn Saud turned to the page bearing the particular diver's account and wrote on it: "Concerning the indebtedness of Khalid Ibn Abdullah, the diver, to Abdul Karim, the captain, he is excused from paying the first and the last and the entire amount of it," and affixed his seal.

KIDNAPED by GYPSIES

How James Mahfood Finally Was Reclaimed by His Parents After 17 Years of Virtual Captivity.



James Mahfood, center, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Mahfood.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio.

AFTER 17 years as a captive in the hands of a wandering, trading, sometimes thieving band of gypsies, James Mahfood, kidnaped in childhood, has come home.

"I don't know what he's going to do, but he'll stay with us," his father, Tony Mahfood, Syrian merchant, now [illegible] tells questioners, as [illegible] eight brothers and sisters gather around him. "I don't care [illegible] does anything. I [illegible] make up to him [illegible] missed."

"This," says his mother, [illegible] eyes, "is the last [illegible] cry. I promise. [illegible] years of my life [illegible] for this moment. I [illegible] nothing else."

The [illegible] shadows were [illegible] on a chill December [illegible] 1917 when she called for [illegible] in from play, and he did [illegible]. There began, for the parents, two decades of searching; for the boy, of wandering and abuse.

It was an English gypsy tribe which [illegible] him, with a chief known as [illegible] Smith. The boy soon forgot his own name, and the scenes of [illegible] years and memory of the town above this mill town on the [illegible] slipped from his mind.

His earliest recollections are of covered wagons and gypsy weddings, of wanton beatings, of having to live with the tribe and do their most menial work, though he always felt he was not one of them. They called him Andy Smith, and he knew no other name.

As years passed, the band discarded the old "gypsy wagons" and took to huge second-hand automobiles, as picturesque and as shabby. Twice they took him to Europe.

They lived well—for gypsies—on the sale of gaudy imitation Oriental rugs from house to house. "Andy" became their best salesman. But all he obtained had to be turned over to his captors, and when it was little, they beat him.

Sometimes he overheard elders of the band arguing heatedly about him. Once they mentioned kidnaping. Again, he heard them talking of Steubenville. And constantly, entering manhood, he was putting two and two together to piece out the picture of his birth and his parentage, to find the people with whom he belonged, to learn something of the unknown race of men who tilled farms, built cities and, above all, had homes.

So, when the band returned to this section, a year or two ago, he strolled away from the camp on the banks of a creek and, with two members of the tribe, came upon an outdoor service held by a church of the neighborhood. He listened with curious interest. When the services were over, he talked to several of the church people and then, thoughtfully, returned to camp.

Again the band wandered far, but, back in Eastern Ohio, 18 months ago, the abuses of his captors and the call of his kind became too much for him. When the band moved on he slipped away, and fled to the scene of his one contact with the adult institutions of his own race.

There, at Little Bush Run, near Wheeling, West Virgina—within 25 miles of his real home—he was taken in without question by the family of Arnold Dillon, a deacon in the church. He got a job in the steel mills. The gypsies tried to induce him to return to them. He refused, and when they threatened him Dillon drove them off.

Still he had not found his family, did not know who he was. Friends persuaded him to tell his story through a Wheeling newspaper. A dozen mothers answered.

All had lost their sons. Some of them knew that he was not their son, but offered, even so, to give him a home. In most there was obviously no possibility of a connection with his own past. But one answer came from the Mahfoods, and it named a date that coincided with his recollection of the time when he became a gypsy.

If the absolute contrast of the surroundings into which he was precipitated by his capture had tended to obscure his recollection of that December day, all the years since had gone to intensify it in the memory of his family. In a matter of hours after his absence was discovered, police were combing Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and in a few days their circulars had gone to police headquarters in every part of the United States.

There was no clew. By the morning after his disappearance, there were no gypsies near Steubenville, and his loss was never traced to the wandering band that took him. The Mahfoods prospered, but did not forget.

TEN years after the kidnaping, they heard reports that a white boy had been seen with a gypsy tribe on the West Coast. Eagerly the father wired police, anxiously waited, but the band had moved on before the police could catch up with them.

False hopes, awakened only to be destroyed, repeated the agony of the kidnaping itself. But they were not the last to rise and fade like a mirage. Three times false reports led Anthony Mahfood, now an increasingly substantial citizen, with a store of his own, enough and to spare for his big family to live on, to make hurried trips of investigation into Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and each time he came home alone and desolate.

But he would not abandon hope, nor would his wife. When they planned a new home, they set aside one room for the lost boy. He would be 25 now, they thought, a grown man; and some day he would come home to live in it.

While it was building, the oldest girl, Julia, dreamed of Jimmie as she remembered him, a laughing, playing boy; and then of meeting him, a tall young man. She woke saddened, slept again, and dreamed again of finding Jimmie, so vividly that she woke her parents to tell them about it.

But the new home, with its special room—to be fully furnished but kept closed until he came—was almost completed, with still no trace of him. And then they saw the letter in the Wheeling paper and, hardly daring to hope, arranged for "Andy Smith" to come here and meet them on March 3.

To them, the family resemblance was striking. Mrs. Mahfood, studying the young man's features, noting remembered scars now barely discernible, was convinced. But Anthony Mahfood — though the feeling that this young man was his son haunted his dreams —demanded proof that would cease all possible doubt.

Medical experts were called in. Years ago little Jimmie Mahfood had undergone an operation to counteract temporary paralysis in a childhood illness. Now the physicians, following up the inconclusive but significant finding that the young man's blood checked with the elder Mahfood's, obtained the hospital records of the operation and found a peculiar abdominal scar, diagonal scars on the back and forearms that, they concluded, were absolute proof.

And so, a few days ago, James Mahfood came home.

The room which had been built for him—neighbors had shaken their heads sadly at Jimmie's parents' persistence in the forlorn hope—never was shut up to gather the dust of years, but was occupied as soon as it was completed.

The long years in the hands of the gypsies did something to Jimmie. He is frail in physique, and his spirit has been dulled, but now that he has gained a home and freedom once again his bearing has undergone a change. In time he may overcome the haunting memories of old hardships.

Jimmie speaks reluctantly of the 17 years' nightmare that made up his life with the wandering gypsy tribe.

"They were cruel to me," he says.

"They forced me to work hard for them, and they beat me without excuse.

"I never had any money and seldom had enough clothing.

"They lead a wild life, not working any more than they have to, and they're always celebrating something or heading for some ceremonial. The biggest times they had were when someone was getting married. Then they splurged."

SPRING—and RADICAL CHANGES in the Silhouette in New Versions of JACKETS, CAPES and SKIRTS

CAPES—are here in force—from CHANEL'S tiny ruffled shoulder capes of lace and tulle for evening to the hip-length tailored masterpieces presented by MARCEL ROCHAS, CREED, HEIM and many others.

BELL-HOP JACKETS—and military top-coats—as tightly fitted as is humanly possible, with narrow belts accenting the normal waistline (and heaven help you if you haven't a thin one!). Brief tails flaring on some hip-length suit jackets—and moulded bodices on everything.

SKIRTS—for evening, are voluminous, spreading all over the place. Day skirts are almost invariably trim and narrow with 12-inch slashes or hidden pleats giving the necessary fullness for freedom of movement.

SLEEVES—are draped, puffed, slashed, and even made to do double duty as capes—trimmed with narrow strips of flat fur or cuffed and bordered with silver fox. MARCEL ROCHAS goes in heavily for the balloon sleeve, MAGGY ROUFF uses long tight sleeves, LUCILLE PARAY adores the bouffant elbow length, etc.

PLAIDS—are everywhere in evidence from the silky whispering taffetas used in the sweeping full-skirted evening models, to the gay lapels and blouses—skirts, capes, et cetera, in linen, wool, cellophane, etc., of the tailleurs.

HATS—are of two types. They either snap down in elongated brims over the eyes—upturned in back, or are blown straight off the forehead in a turned-back arrangement. Jockey caps, children's sailors, Chinese umbrellas, and halo hats—are other versions to be seen.

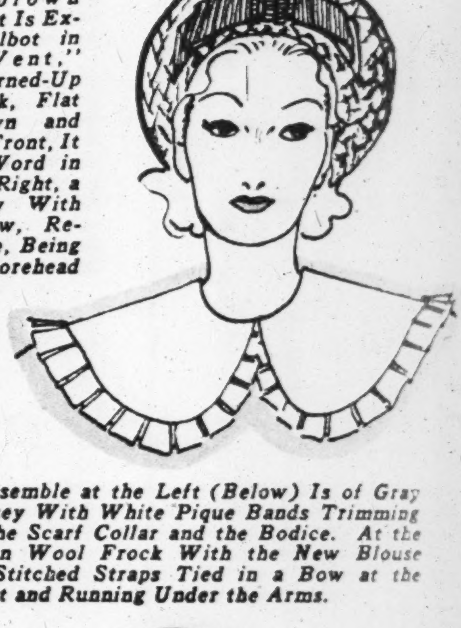
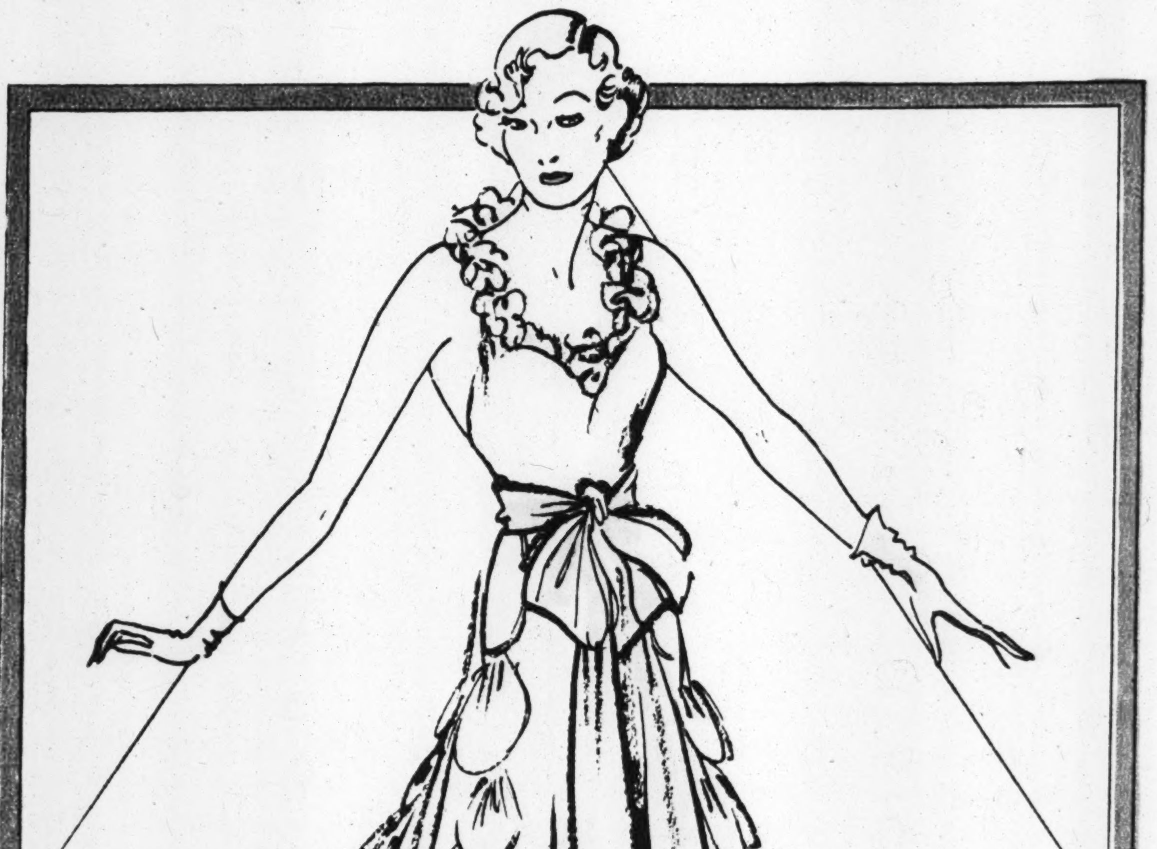
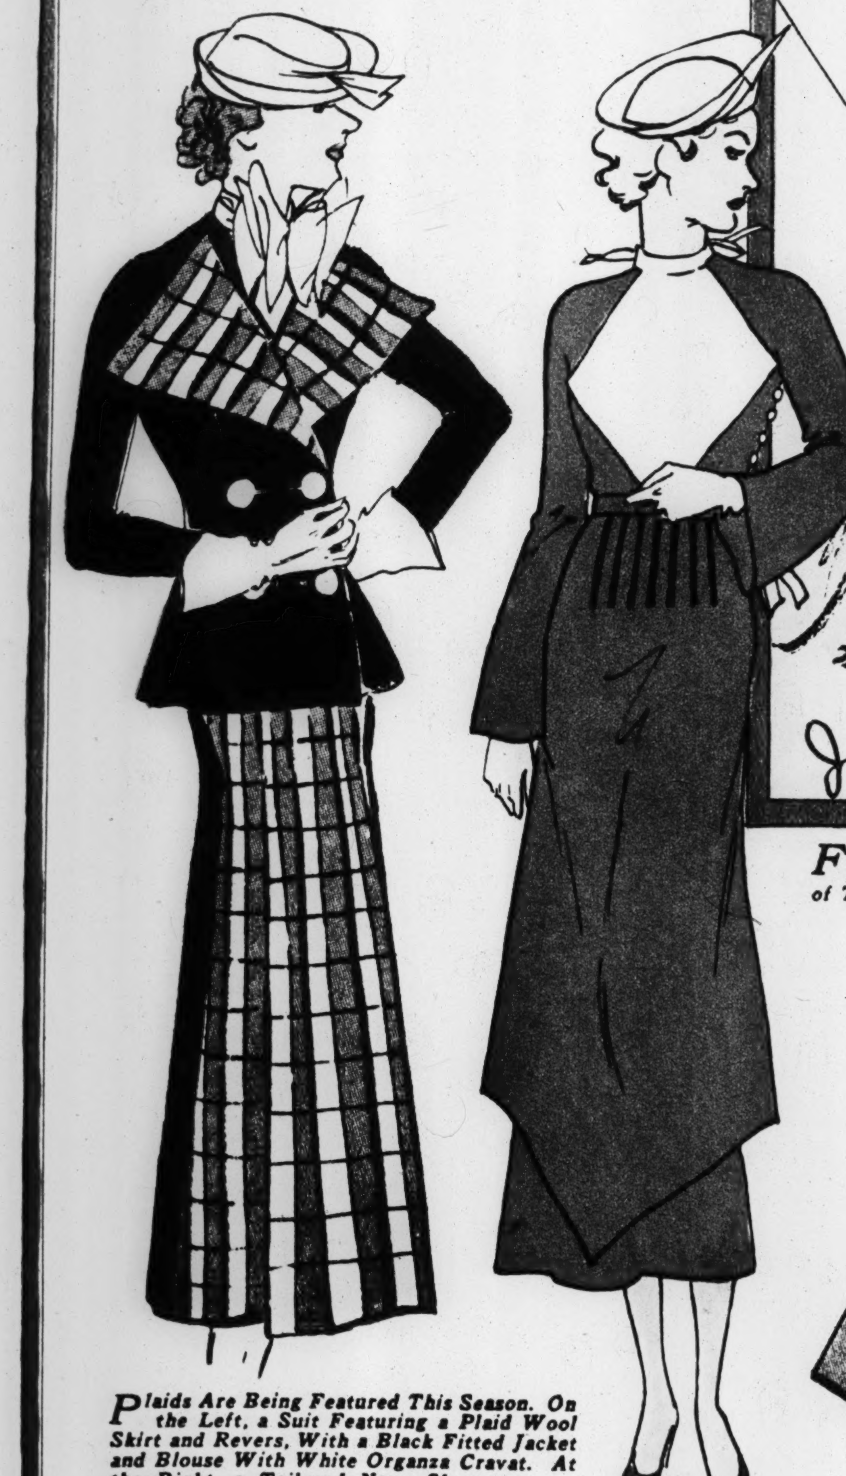
Berets Continue in Popularity. This One, a Tiny Black Affair, With a Sharp White Quill, Is Worn Pulled Smartly Forward and Down, With a Veil of Wide Mesh Horsehair Edged With Black and White Chenille.

The Windblown Type of Hat Is Executed by Talbot in "Coup de Vent," Above. A Turned-Up Brim in Back, Flat Shallow Crown and Snap Brim in Front, It Is the Last Word in Chic. At the Right, a Black Straw With Grosgrain Bow, Reverses in Style, Being an Off-the-Forehead Type.

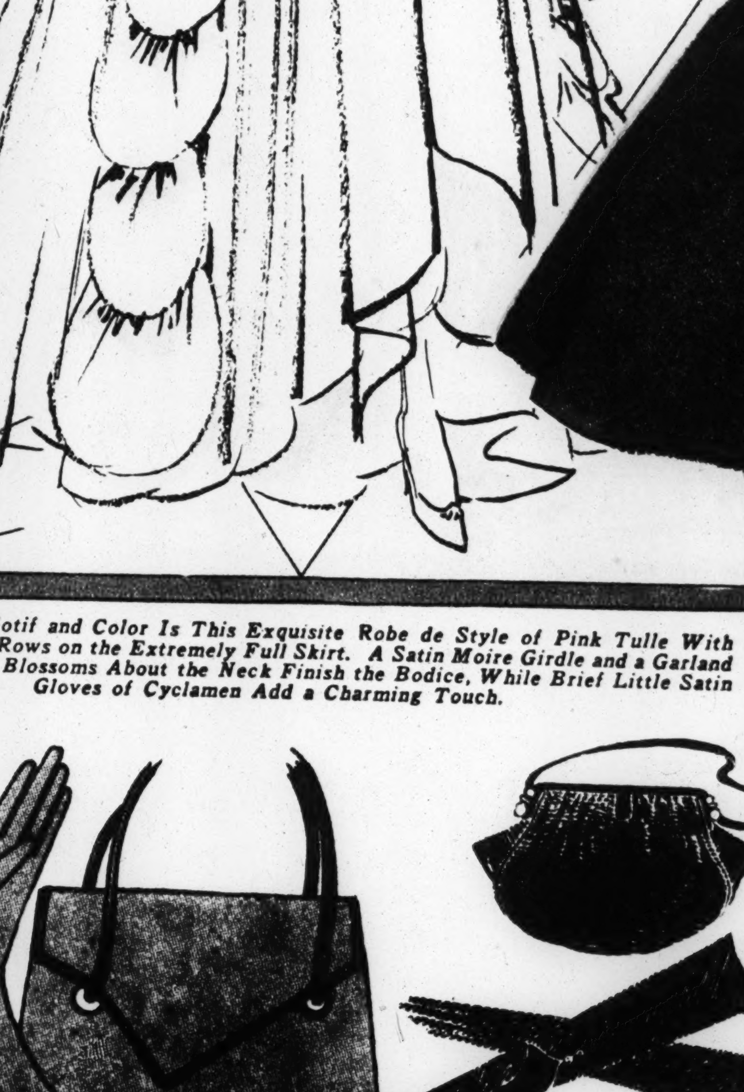




Flowerlike In Motif and Color Is This Exquisite Robe de Style of Pink Tulle With Petals Laid In Rows on the Extremely Full Skirt. A Satin Moire Girdle and a Garland of Tulle and Satin Blossoms About the Neck Finish the Bodice, While Brief Little Satin Gloves of Cyclamen Add a Charming Touch.



Plaids Are Being Featured This Season. On the Left, a Suit Featuring a Plaid Wool Skirt and Revers, With a Black Fitted Jacket and Blouse With White Organza Cravat. At the Right, a Tailored Navy Shantung Frock With White Pique Plastron and Collar. The Hats Are White Pique.



Matching Gloves and Bags Provide a Smart Touch to New Spring Ensembles. At the Left, a Set in "Havana Brown" Calf Velvet, Trimmed With Gold Eyelets. At the Right, an Evening Set of Threaded Black Silk Faille. Black Chiffon Is Used for the Palms and Fingers.

Spectacular Career of the McFadden Millions

The Latest Oddity in the Record of the Family Fortune Is That the Widow of George McFadden, Who Was Compelled by Her Husband's Will to Live Eight Months Each Year Within the Borders of the United States (and That Didn't Include New York), Now Sacrifices Her Annual Income of $110,000 by Marrying.

George McFadden.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

$110,000
Year

PHILADELPHIA.

THE recent marriage of Mrs. Josephine McFadden, widow of a millionaire cotton broker, and Bernon Sheldon Prentice, broker and sportsman who was considered one of New York's best "catches," brought together two prominent names in the Social Register, provided their world of the socially elect with a rich topic of conversation and gave the McFadden money another chance to claim public notice. By marrying, Mrs. McFadden, under the provisions of her late husband's peculiar will, sacrificed $110,000 a year and free rent.

The money of the Philadelphia McFaddens is not important money, as American fortunes go—not in the class with the Rockefeller, Mellon or Morgan millions—but it has a flair for the spectacular. Since old George H. McFadden died, leaving $8,000,000 and his interest in the firm of George H. McFadden and brother, international cotton brokers, which he founded, to his three children, the family's financial affairs have bobbed up repeatedly to claim attention. A jewel robbery, a suit for damages, an insurance controversy following George McFadden's strange death, his unusual will, court action to increase an income of "only $101,000" a year and, now, the forfeiture of a $110,000 income, have been among the incidents in which the sprightly dollars of the McFaddens have figured.

The three children who inherited the bulk of the fortune of George H. were George McFadden, Mrs. Ella Browning and Barclay McFadden. George carried on the business his father had established and became a leading citizen of Philadelphia.

In 1905 he married Josephine McIlvaine, handsome and popular daughter of Bloomfield McIlvaine of Philadelphia. They had four children: George McFadden II, Alexander B. McFadden, Caroline, who married John K. Ewing III in 1928, and Emily, who married John Randolph Harrison a year later. Their large country estate at Villanova was called Bloomfield.

Barclay McFadden took less interest in the cotton brokerage business than his elder brother; he devoted himself seriously to polo and became an outstanding player. He married the comely Virginia Heckscher and they had two children, Barclay Jr. and Barbara. Their home was Barclay Farms, at Rosemont, Pennsylvania. In 1929 the family went to England for the summer and there Barclay was killed in a polo match. He left more than $3,500,000 to his widow and children.

The George McFaddens entertained a good deal at Bloomfield. In October, 1920, they gave a dinner there which proved to be a much more costly affair than they had planned. In the course of the evening Mrs. McFadden discovered that more than $200,000 worth of her jewelry was missing; it had disappeared from her boudoir. Included in the lot was a necklace composed of 165 pearls, valued at $150,000.

Servants were questioned, and two of them, a maid and a governess, were jailed. Their innocence was soon established, however, and they were released. But exoneration was not sufficient to heal their lacerated feelings. They sued their employers for false arrest and imprisonment and collected a substantial amount in an out-of-court settlement. The McFaddens offered a reward of $25,000 for the return of the jewels, but never got them back.

The death of George McFadden occurred January 5, 1931. He failed to come down to dinner that night, and was found dead in his bath tub. There was several inches of water in the tub and beside it was an electric vibrator, still going.

At first it was thought that McFadden, who was 58 years old, had died of heart disease. But when the Delaware County Coroner examined the body he found two small burns on one of the lungs and decided death had been caused by electric shock. An official autopsy report stated that the organs were normal except for the burns on the lung, and it was assumed that McFadden had been using the vibrator while standing or sitting in water. The vibrator, when tested, gave evidence of a short circuit.

A SECOND autopsy was conducted by physicians representing insurance companies and the family. Insurance companies were interested in determining whether the death was accidental. A large amount of money was involved in that point. George McFadden carried accident insurance totaling more than $1,000,000—the largest amount of this kind of insurance, it was said at the time, ever carried by one man. Some of his life insurance politices, in addition, had clauses providing for double payment in case of accidental death.

After some controversy, the insurance companies paid, but it is understood that not all paid the full amounts of the policies. Lloyd's of London was the first to settle. Its accident insurance on McFadden was $650,000; according to attorneys for the estate, it paid "more than $500,000."

Exclusive of the insurance, which was not mentioned in his will, George McFadden left property exceeding $5,000,000 in value. And he had pretty definite ideas on what should be done with that property when he was no longer alive to look after it, his will disclosed. The will was a remarkable document. For one thing, it served as an instrument by which George McFadden, after his death, could regulate to a considerable extent his wife's way of life.

The bulk of the estate was placed in charge of trustees. There were trust funds for the children. There was a bequest of $10,000 for charity, "for such persons or charities as my wife Josephine shall select." His mother's emerald ring was left to his widow with the injunction that it never be sold. He bequeathed his polo cups to his son Alexander, with the request that at the latter's death they be handed on to his sons or others in the family who were interested in the sport.

For the maintenance of Bloomfield, the trustees were authorized to spend up to $20,000 a year. And it was stipulated that Josephiine could continue to live there, without paying any rent, provided she spent at least six months of the year there—and did not remarry.

In the event the widow remarried, the children, in the order of seniority, were to have the option of residing at Bloomfield at an annual rental of $10,000. If none of them chose to exercise this option, their mother might occupy the place, paying a reasonable rental and moderate maintenance costs. If none of the family wanted to live at Bloomfield, the trustees were empowered to sell it. Each child who wanted it could have a 10-acre tract of the estate free, such tracts to be at least 800 feet from the house.

A special trust fund was set up for the widow. From it, she was to receive $120,000 a year for the rest of her life—provided . . . There were two strings to this gift. First, Mrs. McFadden had to remain unmarried to receive this income; if she married, she would receive only $10,000 a year. The second condition was that she reside in the United States at least eight months of each year. And George McFadden, not deceived by conventional geographers, provided, himself, an interpretation of what he meant by that: "Residence in the City of New York must not be regarded as residing in the United States." In other words, Mrs. McFadden had to live within the boundaries of the United States, but outside of New York City, for eight months of every year to get her $120,000; if she didn't, the income would be cut to $10,000 every year she failed to comply with the condition.

Mrs. Bernon Sheldon Prentice, the former Mrs. George McFadden.

Mrs. McFadden accepted the conditions, and continued living at Bloomfield with her two sons. One daughter, Mrs. Harrison, lived in New York, the other, Mrs. Ewing, in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania.

Bernon Sheldon Prentice.

In the meantime, an interesting situation arose in connection with the fortune left by Barclay McFadden. Mrs. Virginia McFadden, his widow, went into court with a complaint that she was receiving "only $101,000" a year from her husband's estate and that it was inadequate. She said the family had had $125,000 a year when her husband was alive—an amount which enabled them "to live well, although not extravagantly."

Mrs. McFadden appealed for an increase in her allotment. She said she wanted this increase so that she might be able to maintain her Rosemont home and care for the children in a way of living which her husband, Barclay, would approve if he were alive. She asked that she be given some additional amount from the incomes of the children, Barclay Jr. and Barbara.

BARCLAY McFADDEN'S widow showed a household budget of $72,000; she showed that she had reduced her inside staff from nine to six persons, cut her outside help from 15 to nine persons, sold two of her eight motor cars, got rid of 24 of her 30 horses, and kept only two ponies for the youngsters.

She listed her necessary budget as $32,000 household expenses; $4000 outside wages; $2000 for light, gas, water and telephone; $2000 for coal and wood. She said that her own personsal expenses amounted to $12,000. As for the children, she declared that the upkeep of each child amounted to this:

School for one child	$ 250
Clothes	1,200
Governess and nurse	2,880
Recreation	3,000
Doctors and dentists	2,000
Upkeep of pony	480
Total	$9,810

The Court awarded Mrs. McFadden $15,000 a year extra from the income of each of her two children.

But Barclay McFadden had also stipulated in his will that should his widow remarry her income from his estate would stop. In 1932 Mrs. Virginia Heckscher McFadden did take a second husband, Alfred H. Geary of Chestnut Hill; her share of the McFadden fortune passed to Barclay Jr.

Not long ago Mrs. Josephine McFadden, tall, dark-haired, still handsome, began to be seen in public with the wealthy, personable Bernon Sheldon Prentice. Distinguished-looking, in his early fifties, Prentice was known in this country and abroad as the non-playing captain of the American Davis Cup tennis team in 1932 and 1933.

A Harvard graduate, he is one of the seven millionaires, all interested in tennis, who comprise the membership of the Courthouse Club in New York.

In the presence of the McFadden and Prentice families, in one of the spacious reception rooms of Bloomfield, Mrs. McFadden became Mrs. Prentice—and thereby cut herself off from $110,000 a year. Her two sons, George H. and Alexander, are occupying Bloomfield for the present. The $110,000 annual income which Mrs. Bernon Sheldon Prentice has forfeited will be divided among her four children.

Prentice has houses in New York, Rumson, New Jersey; Palm Beach, Florida, and Florence, Italy. It is likely that the new Mrs. Prentice will live a good deal of the time at 609 Park avenue, New York, which, according to her first husband's will, is not to be regarded as in the United States.

later discovered that he had taken every ounce of food he could carry southward, that his party were mutinous and that no help of any kind could be expected before the following summer. It was owing to Garlington's unwarranted promise of quick relief that the party was forced to stay at Cape Sabine for one of the most horrible winters any group of men have ever lived through.

The hut they were able to build for themselves was tiny, unventilated, so cramped that as they lay in their sleeping bags no man could move without touching his neighbors. Their efforts at diversions were pitiable under conditions that caused Greely to expect insanity to occur daily. Yet, somehow, they kept up morale and the commanding Lieutenant reinforced it by ordering promotions for special valor—promotions later canceled by the War Department, which, however, condoned Greely's sentencing to death a private who was caught stealing food when they had gotten down to sealskin thongs and almost microscopic shrimp and were in the process of starvation.

After three months and a half the men began to die, one after another. The survivors spent days in their frozen sleeping bags, each dispassionately expecting to be next. One man, who had lost hands and feet during a heroic venture to find a cache of supplies, was willingly given double rations (an eighth of an ounce), though he begged piteously to be shot. The heroism each man demonstrated in the face of these appalling conditions has seldom if ever been surpassed.

Yet when in June, 1884, the seven survivors were rescued, within a few days of certain death, by Commander (later Rear-Admiral) Winfield Scott Schley; and when they had been returned to the United States to recover, some of them as charity patients in city hospitals, none of them were officially rewarded by America, though European nations were liberal with their honors. Even Sergeant (now Brigadier-General) Brainard, the ablest member of the party and the only other member now living, was reduced to his former rank when he returned. Not one was given any distinction by the Government or the War Department for 20 years.

Greely, who refused fortunes offered by those who wished to exploit his heroism, continued in the army and undertook to meet a series of recurrent emergencies calling for knowledge of frontier methods and the ability to supervise erection of long telegraph lines over difficult sections of desert and wilderness. Then he was put in charge of the Weather Bureau, then under the War Department, and finally recalled to the signal corps as chief, with rank of Major-General.

IT WAS in that capacity that he managed all electrical communications during the Spanish-American War, in the face of great difficulties owing to the conservatism of his colleagues, few of whom yet realized the importance of communications in warfare. The wires and cables General Greely had constructed, sometimes under fire from Spanish guns, were an important link in the American victory and afterwards saved hundreds of soldiers from death in the yellow fever epidemic in Cuba.

After this service the General engaged in building lines of communication in Alaska, the Philippines and China. Frequently he was called on to be a diplomatist as well as an officer and engineer. He and General Funston together were in charge of rescue work after the San Francisco earthquake in 1906. He attended numerous conferences on wireless, telegraphy and other scientific subjects in which he was considered expert, despite his lack of formal training. He commanded the northern branch of the army from St. Louis and was in command of the Department of the Columbia at his retirement in 1908.

Since then General Greely has continued his interest in current affairs, prophesying air conquest of the Arctic and keeping up with exploration in those regions. Not content with past activity, he passed his time up to a few years ago in extensive writing.

General Brainard was present when Greely got his Congressional Medal the other day. The two old men were the last survivors of the almost forgotten Lady Franklin Bay expedition, where every birthday was duly celebrated—almost the only diversion permitted those Spartans of the ice cap. And, since the day of the presentation was General Greely's ninety-first birthday, General Brainard stood by while his former commander drew his old sword to cut the cake.

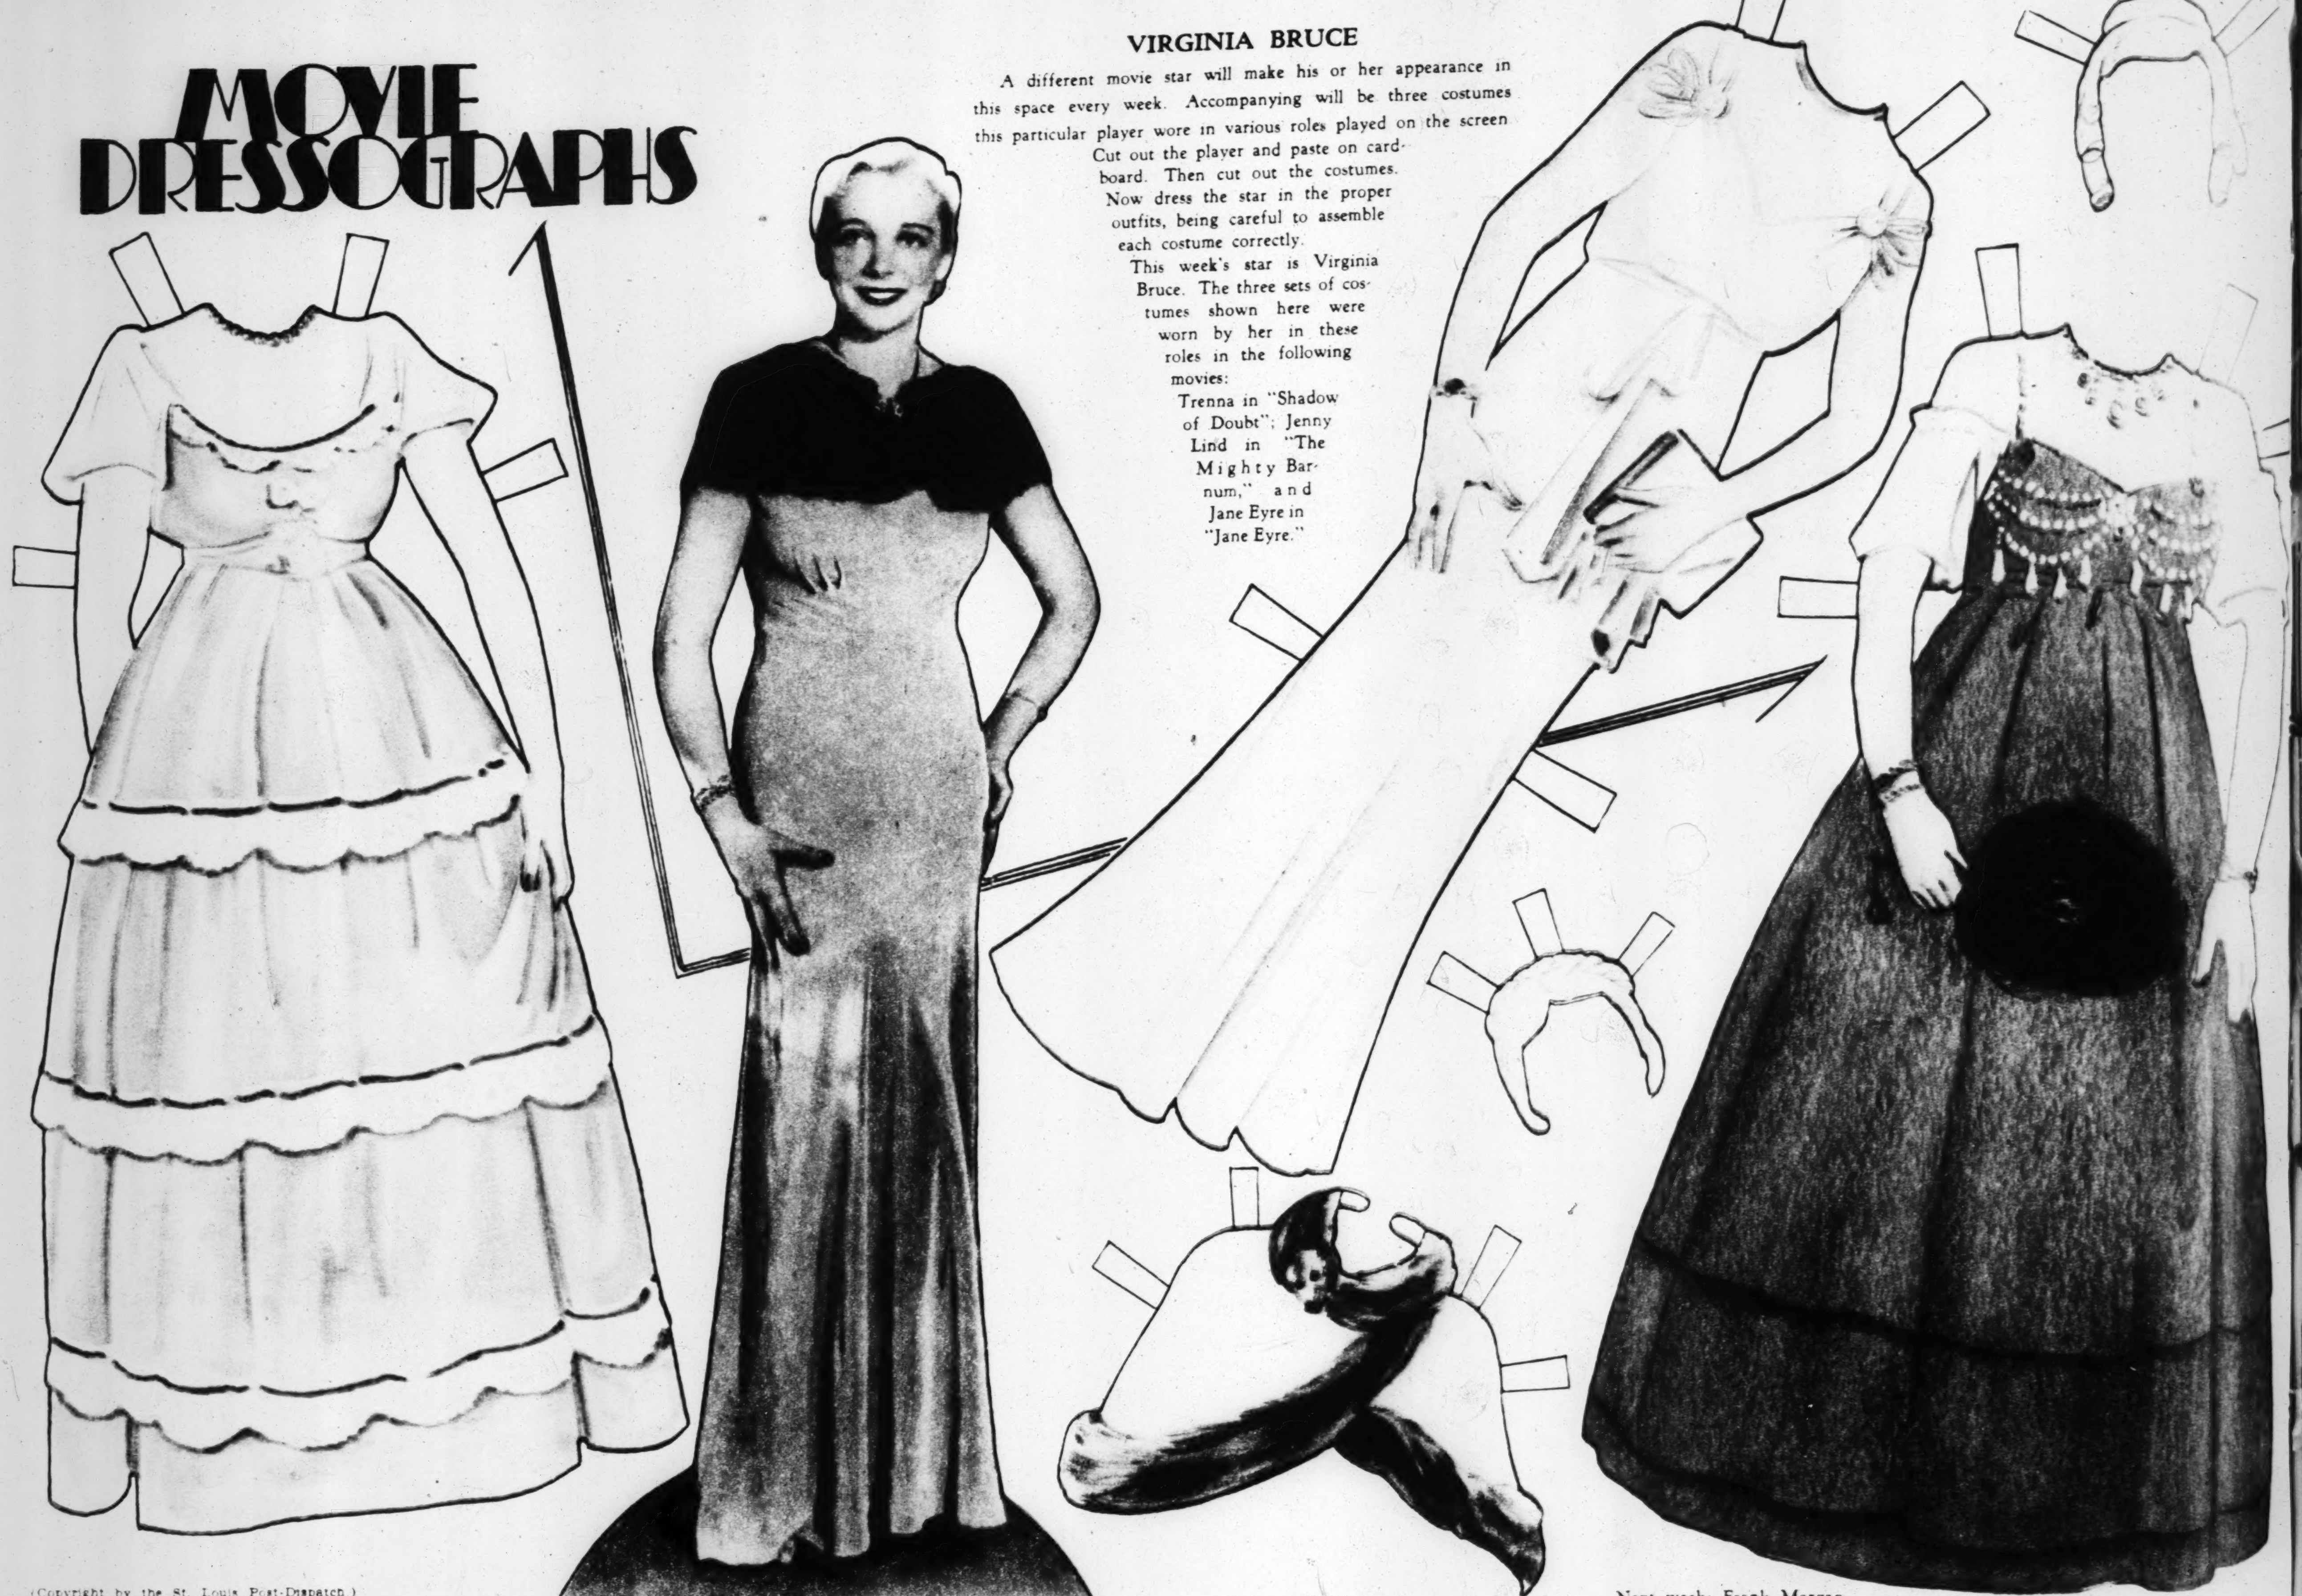
MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS



VIRGINIA BRUCE

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in the proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is Virginia Bruce. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies:

Trenna in "Shadow of Doubt"; Jenny Lind in "The Mighty Barnum," and Jane Eyre in "Jane Eyre."

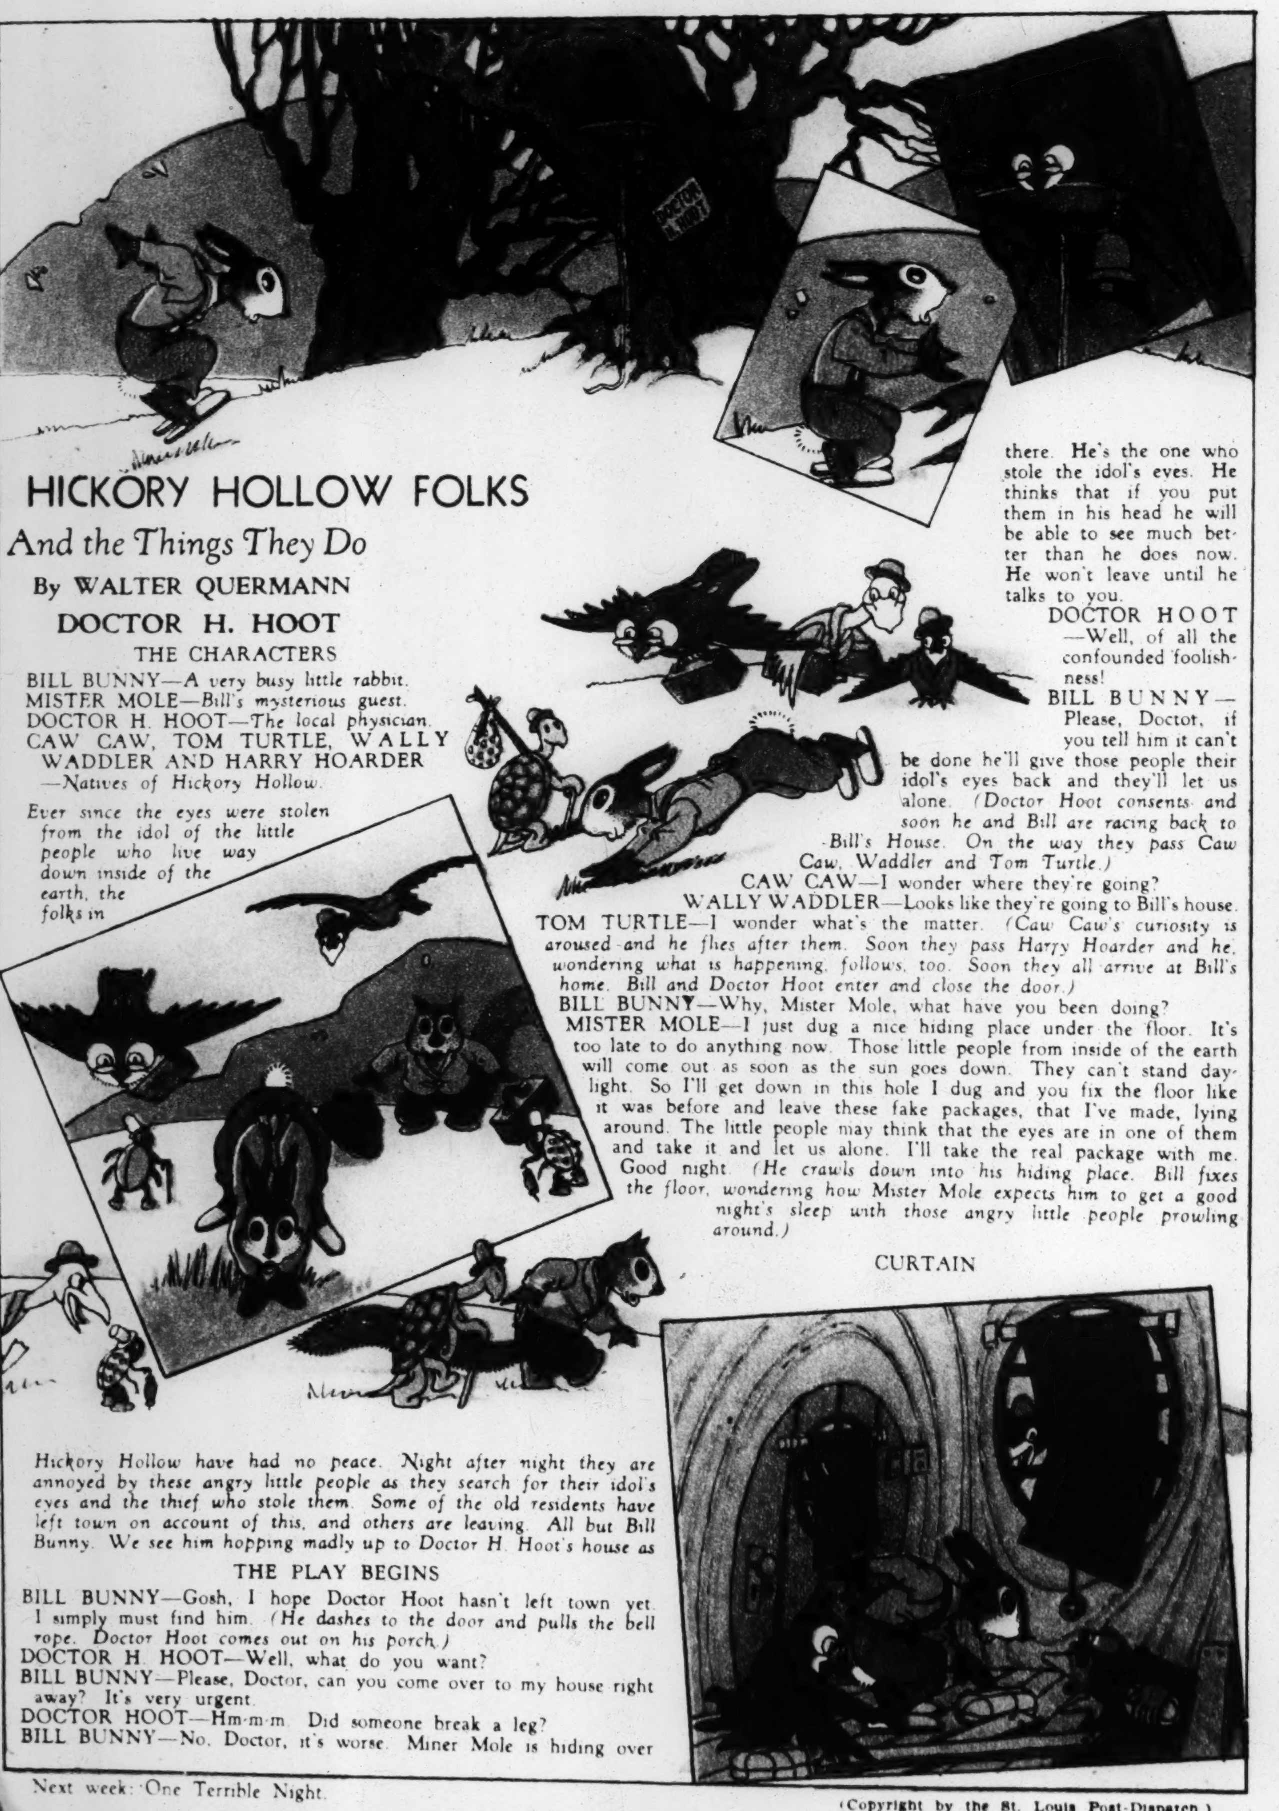
HICKORY HOLLOW FOLKS

And the Things They Do

By WALTER QUERMANN



DOCTOR H. HOOT

THE CHARACTERS

BILL BUNNY—A very busy little rabbit.
MISTER MOLE—Bill's mysterious guest.
DOCTOR H. HOOT—The local physician.
CAW CAW, TOM TURTLE, WALLY WADDLER AND HARRY HOARDER—Natives of Hickory Hollow.

Ever since the eyes were stolen from the idol of the little people who live way down inside of the earth, the folks in Hickory Hollow have had no peace. Night after night they are annoyed by these angry little people as they search for their idol's eyes and the thief who stole them. Some of the old residents have left town on account of this, and others are leaving. All but Bill Bunny. We see him hopping madly up to Doctor H. Hoot's house as

THE PLAY BEGINS

BILL BUNNY—Gosh, I hope Doctor Hoot hasn't left town yet. I simply must find him. (He dashes to the door and pulls the bell rope. Doctor Hoot comes out on his porch.)

DOCTOR H. HOOT—Well, what do you want?

BILL BUNNY—Please, Doctor, can you come over to my house right away? It's very urgent.

DOCTOR HOOT—Hm-m-m. Did someone break a leg?

BILL BUNNY—No, Doctor, it's worse. Miner Mole is hiding over there. He's the one who stole the idol's eyes. He thinks that if you put them in his head he will be able to see much better than he does now. He won't leave until he talks to you.

DOCTOR HOOT—Well, of all the confounded foolishness!

BILL BUNNY—Please, Doctor, if you tell him it can't be done he'll give those people their idol's eyes back and they'll let us alone. (Doctor Hoot consents and soon he and Bill are racing back to Bill's House. On the way they pass Caw Caw, Waddler and Tom Turtle.)

CAW CAW—I wonder where they're going?

WALLY WADDLER—Looks like they're going to Bill's house.

TOM TURTLE—I wonder what's the matter. (Caw Caw's curiosity is aroused and he flies after them. Soon they pass Harry Hoarder and he, wondering what is happening, follows, too. Soon they all arrive at Bill's home. Bill and Doctor Hoot enter and close the door.)

BILL BUNNY—Why, Mister Mole, what have you been doing?

MISTER MOLE—I just dug a nice hiding place under the floor. It's too late to do anything now. Those little people from inside of the earth will come out as soon as the sun goes down. They can't stand daylight. So I'll get down in this hole I dug and you fix the floor like it was before and leave these fake packages, that I've made, lying around. The little people may think that the eyes are in one of them and take it and let us alone. I'll take the real package with me. Good night. (He crawls down into his hiding place. Bill fixes the floor, wondering how Mister Mole expects him to get a good night's sleep with those angry little people prowling around.)

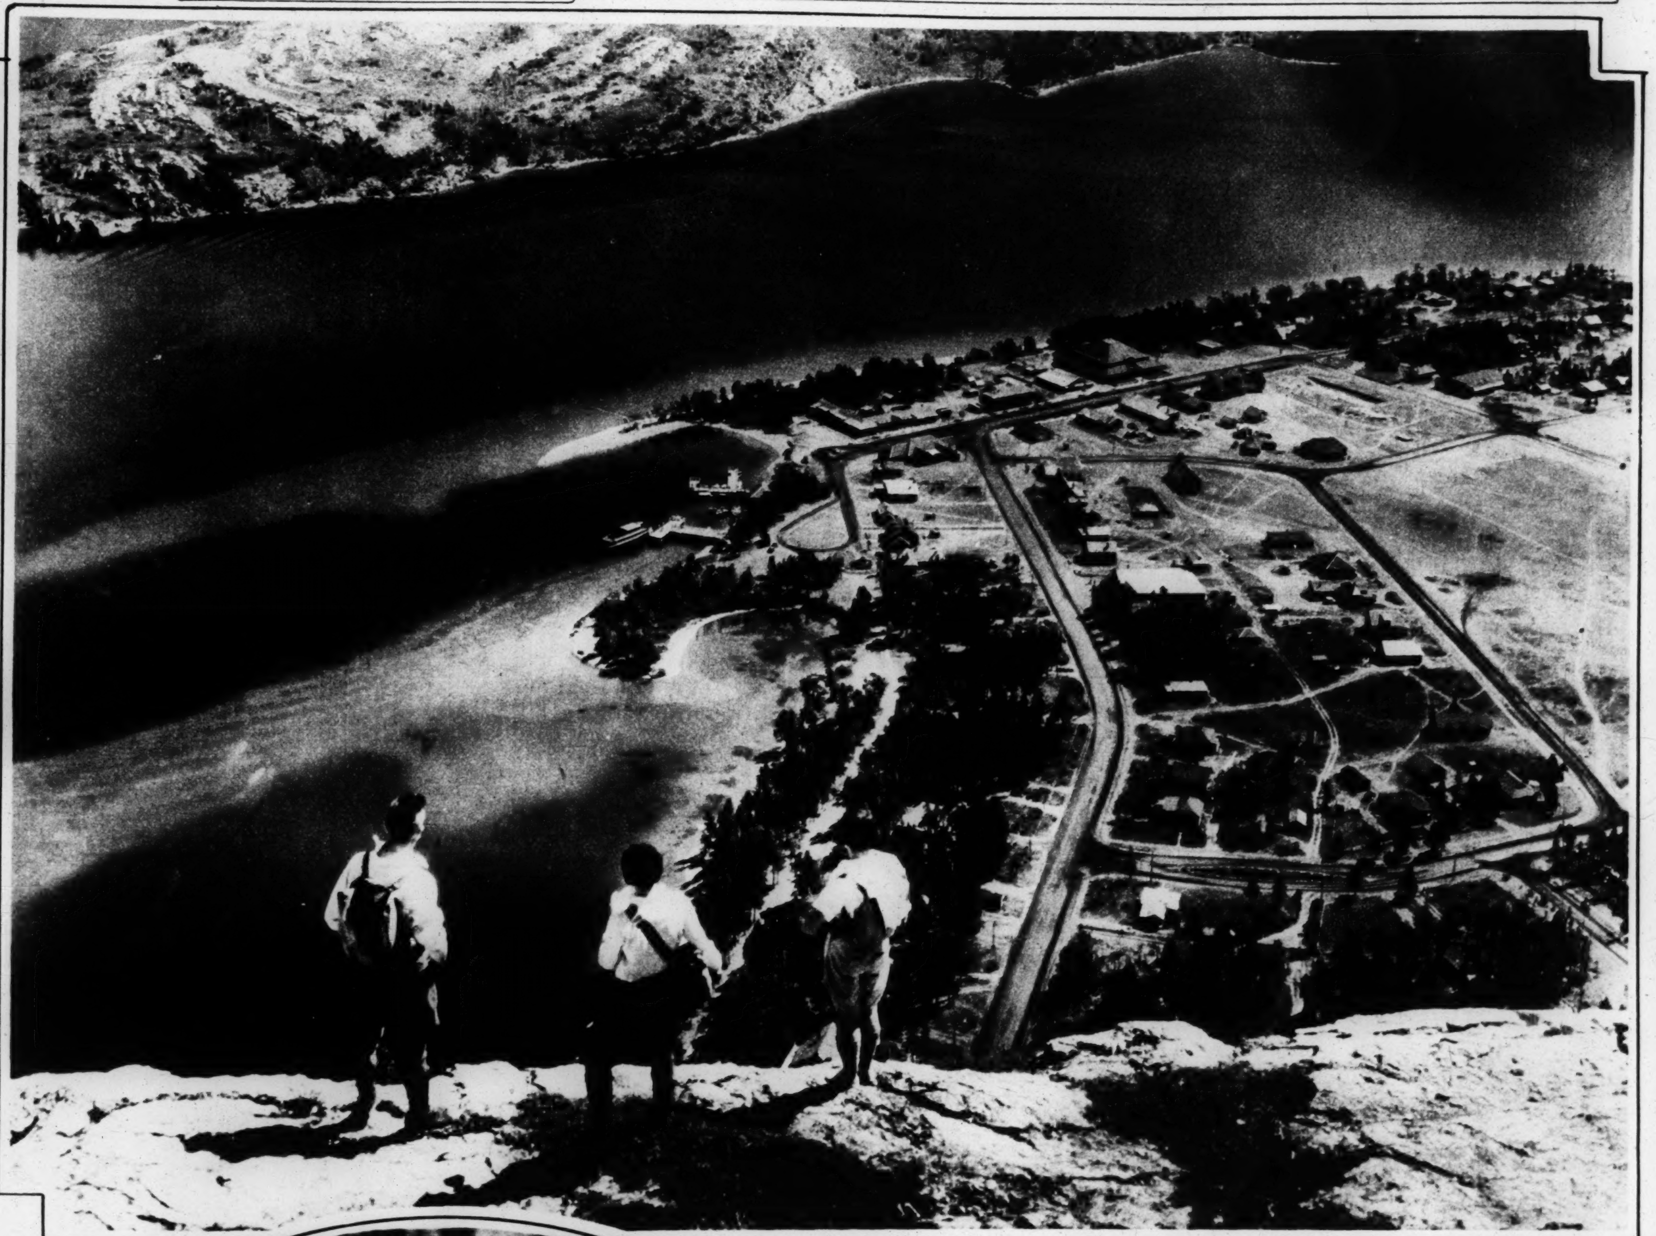
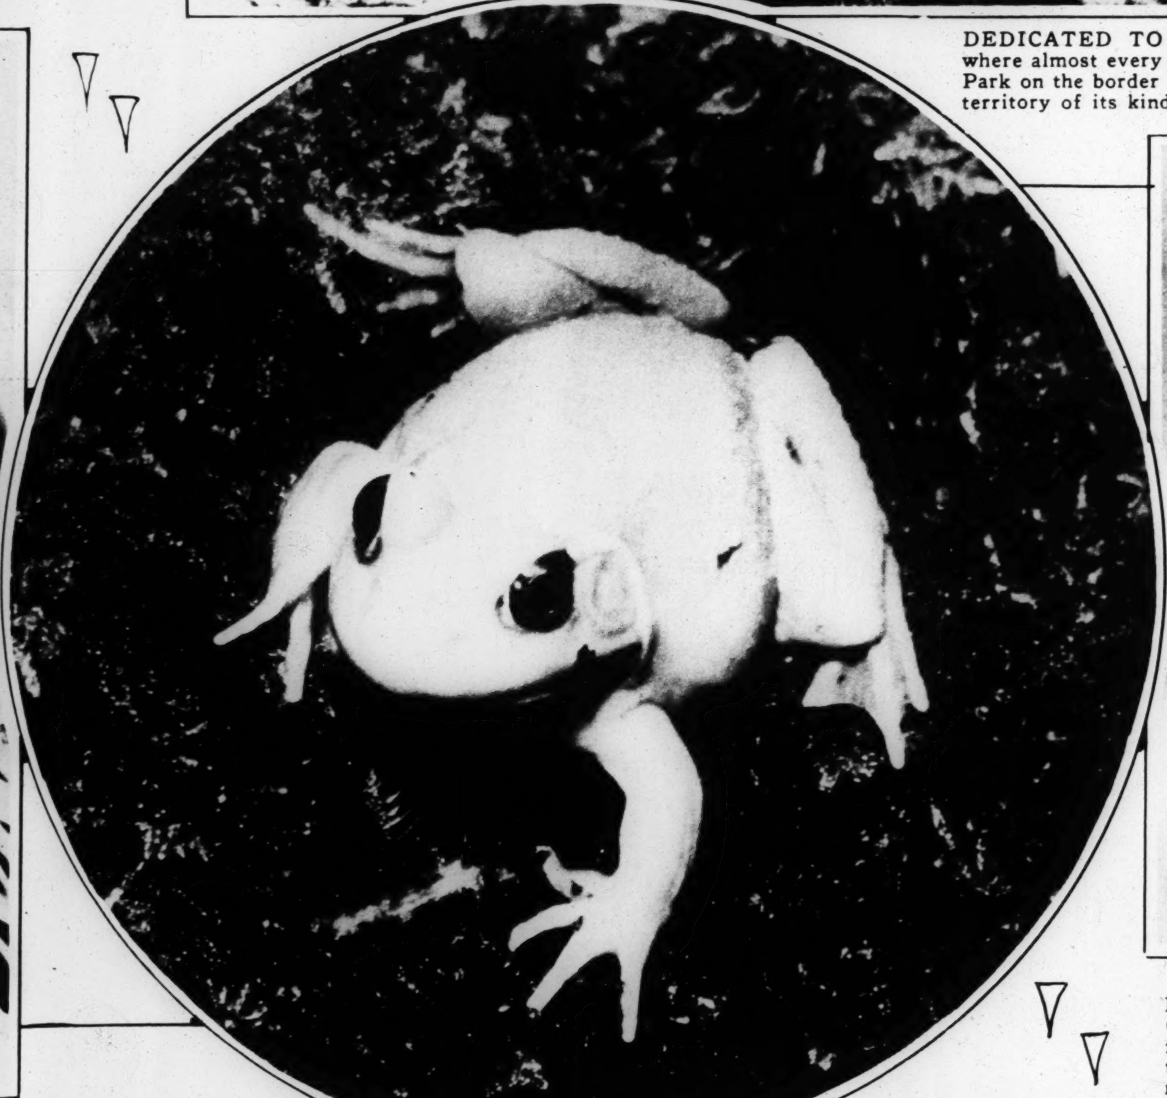
LADY-LIKE"—Was Gertrude Stein's comment on the giant redwoods at Yosemite, California. The obscurantist, Paris-American writer was good enough to add an explanation that the trees are like "beautiful ladies in swishing gowns."



DEDICATED TO INTERNATIONAL PEACE—In a harrassed world, where almost every boundary is a bone of contention, the International Peace Park on the border between Montana and Alberta, is believed to be the only territory of its kind. This view shows Waterton village, Canada.

RECONCILIATION IN THE OFFING?—This portrait of Adolf Hitler and Erich Ludendorff was made 10 years ago, just before the present Chancellor and the former German commander quarreled. Ludendorff's recent praise of the realm-leader's conscription edict is seen as a promise of their reconciliation and possible changes in general staff personnel. The veteran general just became 70 years old.



FREAK OF NATURE

FIRST PLANE TO LAND IN VATICAN CITY Piloted by Capt. Herman Koehl and appropriately named St. Peter, the ship was being flown from Germany to Africa, where it will be used by a Catholic Mission. THREE MARINE PHOTOGRAPHS BY AMATEURS

Contributions are invited by the Sunday Editor and those used are paid for at regular rates. Only five-by-four prints (or larger) with name, address, return postage and a description of the subject, can be considered. Further information will be sent if requested by mail.

SALT AIR AND SUNSHINE—A nautical composition that is noteworthy not only for the peculiar freshness of the subject matter, but also for its novel arrangement and simplicity. It was made aboard the S. S. President Garfield, in the Mediterranean, by Lolo Stinde of St. Louis.

IN THE GRIP OF THE ARCTIC OCEAN—The S. S. Northland, while on a medical expedition in Alaska, was held fast in an ice floe off Point Lay during July. The photo is by Dr. Julian Maurer of the United States Public Health Service.

DROPPING THE PILOT—View of an English Channel pilot boat off the Isle of Wight, made as the pilot was being taken aboard. The picture is by W. G. Weld of Clayton.

MEXICO'S WELCOME TO GERMANS—When the crew of the cruiser Karlsruhe visited Mexico City, Communists, 5000 strong, turned out to demonstrate against fascism. Name-calling was rife and posters declaring Hitler "dog of the bourgeoise world" and "the beast" were seen in the streets. Authorities warned Communists that any hostile demonstrations would be promptly suppressed.

POINTLESS
A couple of buck deer, in Glacier National Park, Montana, fight it out with their hoofs during their seasonal absence of antlers. Such battles frequently result in minor wounds, for the hoofs are sharp enough to pierce the hide.

SHORELINE HIGHWAY—An unusual formation of islands and peninsulas on the coast of Finland makes possible this scenic drive, skirting the sea.

FORMERLY WITH THE SYMPHONY
Otto Schneider, who played with the St. Louis orchestra for three seasons under the batons of Rudolph Ganz and Max Zach, is now a wandering fiddler. He is shown in a Columbia, Mo., cafe, a way station on his tour of Mexico and the United States.

BACK TO THE BIG TOP—Mrs. John Weikel, wife of a wealthy tobacco buyer whose family is prominent in Kentucky, returned to her old career recently after six years of married life. She is shown in Los Angeles.

THE "LITTLE GIANT" COMES OUT AGAIN—Recently the Gilbert P. Riswold statue of Stephen A. It now rivals Lincoln's statue in prominence.

During the history-making sessions while the English negotiated with Chancellor Hitler in Berlin, occurred this moment of merriment in which the unsmiling dictator (center) didn't participate. SPRINGTIME OPERA FOR ST. LOUIS

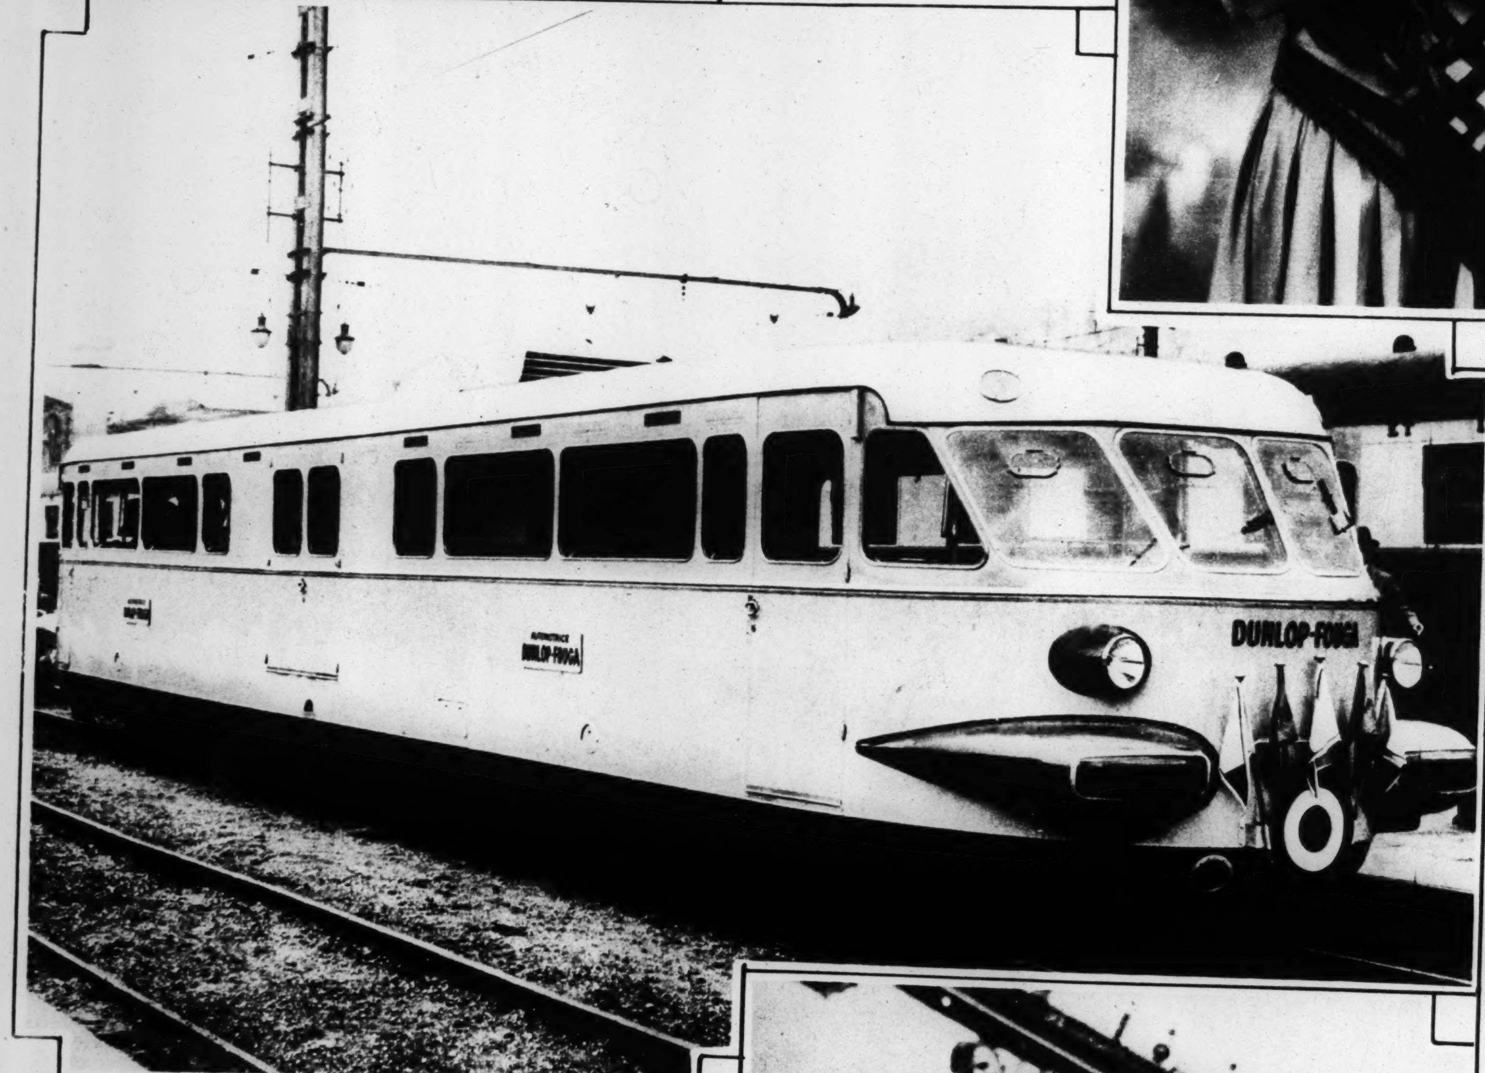
Dmitri Onofrei, lyric tenor.

Charlotte Simons, soprano, as Marguerite in "Faust."

Charlotte Bruno, mezzo-soprano and one of the principals in the San Carlo Opera which begins a one-week's season at the Municipal Auditorium the evening of Monday, April 22.

Hizi Koyke, the Japanese prima donna, whose impersonation of the name role in "Madame Butterfly" is already known in St. Louis.

Bianca Saroya, soprano.



BUILT FOR DODGING BOMBS

A motor car which runs on tracks and which can attain a speed high enough to make it immune from aerial attack. It was built in France for the use of headquarters staffs in time of war.

A NEW GAME IN NEBRASKA

Students of a school at Seward play follow-the-leader up a telegraph pole and then stop to pose for a photographer.

LOOK WHAT ONE TUBE OF COLGATE'S DID FOR ME!

Cleaner, Brighter Teeth...or DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BAC !

DOES YOUR mirror reflect teeth as beautifully bright and sparkling as those shown in this picture? If not, follow these simple directions:—

Get one tube of Colgate's Dental Cream. Brush your teeth with it for two minutes at least twice a day until it is all used up. Then look in your mirror.

If you do not honestly admit that your teeth are cleaner, brighter than ever before, send the empty tube to Colgate's, Jersey City, N. J. We will gladly send you a check for twice the price you paid for it. This same guarantee also applies to Colgate's Dental Powder.

We can back Colgate's Dental Cream with this startling guarantee because it has two cleansing actions instead of one.

Its penetrating foam gets down into crevices between the teeth—gets the whole tooth really clean. At the same time cial, grit-free polishing ingredient brings back the natural lustre of you

Millions of people in 72 countr and prefer this double-action de More dentists recommend Colgate tal Cream than any other.

Why don't you start using this toothpaste? Remember, you'll ge whiter, sparkling teeth you've wanted—or double your money back

YES, I SAW YOU IN CARTER BLACK'S OFFICE!
AH, NOW I REMEMBER- TSK-TSK-TSK- THAT MAN IS A SCOUNDREL-ER- PARDON ME— YOU DON'T WORK FOR HIM, DO YOU?
OH, NO—YOU MAY SAY WHAT YOU LIKE-I JUST WENT THERE TO—TO INVEST SOME MONEY!
THAT'S BAD- BAD-HE'LL SWINDLE YOU, I'M AFRAID!
LOOK HERE, YOUNG LADY- LET ME INTRODUCE MYSELF-I'M OSCAR BEAL— OF THE BEAL INVESTMENT COMPANY!
EVERYONE KNOWS OF THE BEAL INVESTMENT COMPANY, MR. BEAL!
THEN PERHAPS YOU'LL LET ME ADVISE YOU- DON'T INVEST ONE PENNY WITH CARTER BLACK!
THANK YOU FOR THE ADVICE, MR. BEAL!
I-AHEM-BLESS MY SOUL, I DON'T OFTEN DO THIS, BUT I DON'T WANT YOU TO LOSE YOUR MONEY- I'LL INVEST IT FOR YOU MYSELF!
THANK YOU— I—I'LL THINK IT OVER!
THIS IS MY PRIVATE PHONE NUMBER- IF I CAN BE OF SERVICE CALL ME!
HE WAS SO NICE AND KIND— I WAS TEMPTED TO TELL HIM WHY I COULDN'T ACCEPT HIS OFFER!
WHAT LUCK, OSCAR? DID YOU GET HER DOUGH?
CARTER BLACK INVESTMENTS
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND— I'M SURE I MADE IT LOOK ACCIDENTAL WHEN I BUMPED INTO HER—
THE BUILD-UP WAS PERFECT- SHE THINKS YOU'RE OSCAR BEAL, OF THE BEAL INVESTMENT COMPANY AND SHE'S GOT A THOUSAND BUCKS!
I'LL GET HER YET— I GAVE HER THIS PHONE NUMBER— TOLD HER IT WAS MY PRIVATE WIRE— IT WAS A RISK! HAD TO TAKE!

LENA PRY
WELL, I SEE THE POSTMAN BROUGHT YOU A LETTER TODAY MRS. BROWN!
OH, YES—IT WAS FROM HATTIE!
LAW, WHAT DID SHE SAY- DOES SHE LIKE IT UP IN GOSPORT?
SHE SAYS SHE LIKES IT!
SAKES ALIVE- SUCH A WOMAN! ALWAYS GOSSIPING!
I WOULDN'T SAY THAT-YOU AND SHE WERE SUCH GOOD FRIENDS!
I BET HER LETTER WAS JUST FULL OF GOSSIP-I'D LIKE TO READ IT!
MAYBE SHE'LL WRITE YOU ONE- I'LL BE BACK AS SOON AS I PUT THE TEAKETTLE ON!
SHUCKS, I'LL JUST SEE WHAT HATTIE HAD TO SAY- NOBODY WILL EVER KNOW—a relief to be here without Lena Pry always poking her nose into my affairs
WHY, LENA-AREN'T YOU GOING TO STAY FOR TEA?
SO HATTIE SAYS I POKE MY NOSE INTO OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS, EH? BAH!

NOW IF I CAN SNEAK TO WAJIJI'S HUT WITHOUT GETTING CAUGHT—BONG
GEE—I'VE GOT AN IDEA! IT'S GOING TO BE RISKY, BUT IF IT WORKS I CAN SAVE SPUD AND MR BANTON—
THEY'RE HAVING SOME KIND OF A CEREMONY—!
BLACK DIAMONDS ARE PILED UP IN FRONT OF WAJIJI, THE MAGICIAN!
LATER, AS WAJIJI PASSES CLOSE TO A WINDOW A HAND REACHES IN AND SNATCHES THE MAGIC WAND!!
ZIP
W-WHERE AM I?
"AKRAWAJI" —SPUD— WAKE UP—
UGH! TIM?
—TIM RUSHES TO THE FRONT OF WAJIJI'S "PALACE"! WITH A WAVE OF THE MAGIC WAND AND A SHOUT OF THE MYSTERIOUS WORD, "AKRAWAJI", BANTON AND SPUD REGAIN CONSCIOUSNESS!
WHAT'S HAPPENED? WHERE ARE WE?
THERE'S NO TIME TO ANSWER QUESTIONS, SIR —WE'VE GOT TO GET AWAY —QUICK!

WHAT, NO SOAP? AND AT AN IMPORTANT TIME LIKE THIS?
TELL ME! I'LL BET THOSE PHONE MEN HAVE BEEN FOOLING AROUND AGAIN WITH THE WIRES ON THE ROOF.
AND SOMEBODY BUSTED THE LADDER.
FINE STUFF! EVERY TIME I GET THAT RADIO GOING GOOD, THOSE PHONE OR ELECTRIC LIGHT MEN SNEAK UP HERE.
SURE ENOUGH, THOSE FOUR WIRES I HAD TWISTED TOGETHER HAVE BEEN SEPARATED BY SOME...
AH! I THINK I CAN GET 'EM TOGETHER AGAIN IF I CAN REACH...
OOPS!
HEY!
HELP!
WHAT! NO LADDER?
IT MUST HAVE SLIPPED DOWN WHEN I WAS CLIMBING UP HERE. NO, IT'S GONE. WELL I'VE GOT TO GET DOWN. SOME WAY.
UGH!
WHOO-OH! I WONDER HOW LONG I LAID THERE? I HOPE I HAVEN'T MISSED...
AH! ON TIME!
AND NOW, RADIO FRIENDS, WE GIVE YOU THE REGULAR FOUR MINUTE HEALTH DRILL. READY.... LIFT THE RIGHT FOOT AND THRUST BOTH HANDS OUT FROM THE SHOULDERS WHILE WE COUNT. ONE... TWO...
WHEN I GET THROUGH WITH THIS I'LL FIND OUT WHO GOT THAT LADDER, TOO.

BOB TALKS BACK
FRAN, I HATE TO KEEP SNEAKING VISITS BEHIND YOUR FATHER'S BACK – WHY NOT MARRY ME TODAY AND LET ME TAKE YOU OUT OF ALL THIS?
DAD IS UNREASONABLE AND BAD-TEMPERED, BOB, BUT HE HASN'T BEEN HIMSELF LATELY – I COULDN'T LET HIM DOWN NOW
WELL! THIS IS AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE!
HA! YOU CAUGHT 'EM THIS TIME!
WHY DAD, I DIDN'T EXPECT YOU HOME SO EARLY.
FRANCES, TELL THIS YOUNG SAP HE CAN GET OFF OUR PROPERTY!
GOOD RIDDANCE! WHAT RIGHT HAVE YOUNG PEOPLE TO ENJOY THEMSELVES ANYHOW?
MR. COFFEE NERVES
BEFORE I GO, MR. HARMON I'D LIKE TO TELL YOU ONE THING YOUR DISPOSITION IS RUINING FRAN'S LIFE AND YOURS TOO —
WHY, YOU INSOLENT YOUNG PUPPY – IF YOU HAD MY HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION YOU'D BE A RAVING MANIAC!
LISTEN TO HIM, CRITICIZING YOU! DON'T LET HIM GET AWAY WITH IT!
MR COFFEE NERVES
MY MOTHER SUFFERED WITH THE SAME THINGS, MR. HARMON THE DOCTOR SAID SHE HAD COFFEE-NERVES. SO SHE STARTED DRINKING POSTUM AND HER LIFE BECAME HAPPIER.
THE NERVE OF HIM! TELL HIM TO MIND HIS OWN BUSINESS AND SCRAM!
MR COFFEE NERVES
DAD, I THINK BOB WAS RIGHT – YOU HAVE BEEN DRINKING TOO MUCH COFFEE. WON'T YOU PLEASE DRINK POSTUM THIS MORNING AND STICK TO IT FOR A MONTH?
OH ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT – I'LL TRY IT JUST TO KEEP YOU QUIET
CURSES — WHEN POSTUM COMES IN, OUT I GO!
MR COFFEE NERVES
2 MONTHS LATER
OH BOB, WASN'T DAD WONDERFUL TO US!
HONESTLY, HONEY, I'VE NEVER SEEN SUCH A CHANGE! SINCE HE GAVE UP COFFEE AND SWITCHED TO POSTUM HE'S A NEW MAN!
JUST MARRIED

"I KNEW coffee was bad for children, but I had no idea it could have such an effect on anyone as it had on Dad."

"Oh, sure—the caffein in coffee bothers lots of grown people! It can set their nerves on edge, give them headaches or indigestion or prevent sound sleep."

Many people can safely drink coffee. But many others—and all children—should never drink it.

Is the caffein in coffee undermining your nerves, interfering with your digestion, robbing you of sleep?

If so—try POSTUM for 30 days. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's delicious, economical, easy to prepare—and may be a real help. A product of

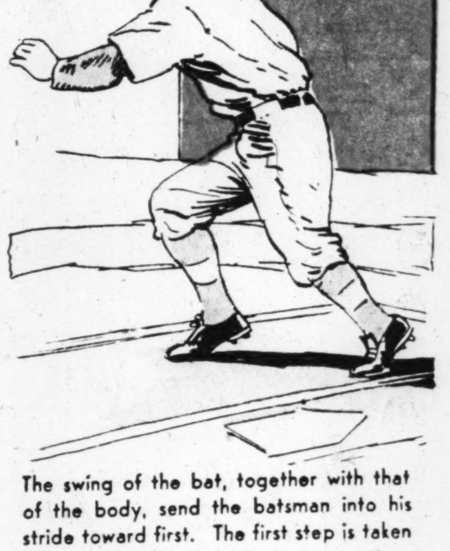
Baseball . . . . By NED BRANT

BASE RUNNING

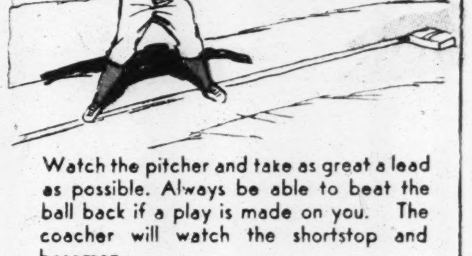
One does not have to be a fast runner to steal a lot of bases. A good judge of timing and distance can swipe many a base.

Swinging Into the Stride to First



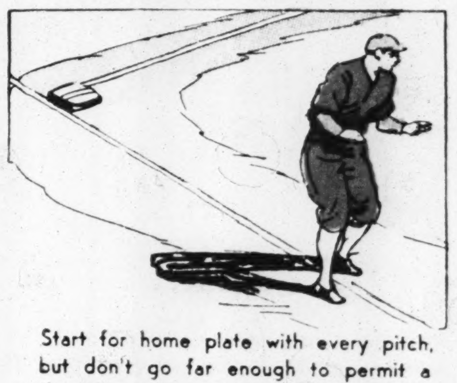
The swing of the bat, together with that of the body, send the batsman into his stride toward first. The first step is taken with the right foot.

Stealing Second or Third



Watch the pitcher and take as great a lead as possible. Always be able to beat the ball back if a play is made on you. The coacher will watch the shortstop and basemen.

The Runner on Third Base



Start for home plate with every pitch, but don't go far enough to permit a throw from the catcher to catch you flat-footed. Stop, balanced, ready to go on or hurry back.

Always Study the Pitcher's Motion

THAT'S SILLY! I DON'T BELIEVE IT!
EVEN GOOD FRIENDS "HAVE WORDS"
IT'S TRUE! I'LL PROVE IT!
STELLA, OH STELLA! HAVEN'T YOU GOT YOUR WASHING OUT YET? WE'LL BE LATE FOR THAT BRIDGE LUNCH.
OH, EDITH—I SIMPLY CAN'T GO. THIS WASH WILL TAKE AT LEAST 2 HOURS YET.
EDITH, IT'S NO USE TRYING—I SIMPLY CAN'T GET THROUGH.
WHY STELLA, IT'S RIDICULOUS TO TAKE SO LONG FOR SUCH A LITTLE DAB OF CLOTHES. HERE, LET'S USE THIS SPECIAL SOAP OF MINE ... OXYDOL ... AND WE'LL FINISH THEM UP IN A JIFFY.
OH, THAT'S JUST ANOTHER GRANULATED SOAP, ISN'T IT? I'M USING A GRANULATED SOAP ALREADY.
THAT'S WHERE YOU'RE WRONG. THIS IS AN ENTIRELY NEW KIND OF GRANULATED SOAP. JUST 15 MINUTES' SOAKING DOES THE WORK WITH OXYDOL.
OXYDOL
15 MINUTES' SOAKING? EDITH, YOU'LL RUIN MY CLOTHES! THAT SOAP MUST BE TWICE AS STRONG AS THE ONE I'VE GOT NOW. AND EVEN IT IS TOO HARD ON COLORS.
THAT'S THE GREAT THING ABOUT OXYDOL, STELLA. IT POSITIVELY WON'T FADE ANYTHING, EVEN THE SHEEREST COTTON PRINTS. YET IT WORKS TWICE AS FAST AS OTHER SOAPS.
OXYDOL
THAT'S SILLY! I DON'T BELIEVE IT.
IT'S TRUE! AND I'LL PROVE IT! JUST WAIT 15 MINUTES AND SEE.
15 MINUTES LATER
WHY EDITH, I CAN SCARCELY BELIEVE IT. THESE CLOTHES ARE SHADES WHITER THAN EVER BEFORE. BUT ARE YOU POSITIVE THAT SOAP IS SAFE?
YOU KNOW THAT PRINT DRESS OF MINE YOU THOUGHT WAS NEW? I'VE WASHED IT AT LEAST 14 TIMES IN OXYDOL ALREADY.
SO YOU'VE JUST DISCOVERED OXYDOL?
EVERYONE'S TALKING ABOUT IT.
I THOUGHT I WAS USING A MODERN SOAP, BUT EDITH CHANGED ME. SHE SAYS OXYDOL'S MORE ECONOMICAL, TOO.
YOU'LL NEVER BELIEVE TILL YOU TRY IT! READ THESE FACTS—MAKE THIS TEST
OXYDOL

STELLA WOULDN'T BELIEVE HER BEST FRIEND! BUT 15 MINUTES LATER SHE HAD TO ADMIT THAT EDITH WAS RIGHT.

New Million Dollar Granulated Soap Combines Safety With Utmost Speed. At Last A Safe Fast-Washing Soap That Actually Loosens Dirt Out of Clothes In 15 Minutes' Soaking—Gets Them 4 to 5 Shades Whiter Than Other Soaps Without Scrubbing or Boiling.

● New and Improved OXYDOL is different from any bar, flake, chip or ordinary granulated soap you ever used. Different in the way it's made and in the results it gets.

Due to its patented process of making, OXYDOL dissolves instantly in hard or soft water, and does these things:

FIRST—gives thick, 3-inch suds, rich as whipped dairy cream. Suds that go to work on grease, dirt and stains—in any water—2 to 3 times faster than less modern soaps.

SECOND—sets up a unique, new "soak and flush" washing action. 15 MINUTES' SOAKING loosens dirt out so it flushes away—without scrubbing or boiling.

You cut washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. You save long hours of soaking, scrubbing and boiling—you get clothes clean and white without washboard wear and tear.

And yet, due to its special formula—its special protective combination of mild soap ingredients—OXYDOL is safe. Absolutely safe to hands, colors, and fabrics!

Accept FREE Trial

Send your name and address to Procter & Gamble, Dept. D9-48, Box 1801, Cincinnati, Ohio, and we'll see you get a regular 10c package (enough for 2 full washings) absolutely free. Or to avoid delay—get OXYDOL tomorrow from your own grocer.

YOUR MONEY BACK
If This Test Fails in Your Home

● Into 2 pans, filled with equal amounts of water, put equal amounts of (1) your favorite soap and (2) the New and Improved OXYDOL. Then soak a dirty towel in each for 15 minutes by the clock. Then rinse.

● IF IN YOUR OPINION the towel that soaked in OXYDOL doesn't wash out whiter, smell sweeter, take the unused portion of the package of OXYDOL back to your grocer with this ad and get your money back.

TODAY
HE MADE A PERSONAL APPEARANCE THIS AFTERNOON AND GAVE THE CANE TO THE HOLDER OF THE LUCKY TICKET--- AND I WAS IT!!
HOW WAS THE PICTURE?
IT WAS PRETTY FUNNY, BUT A LOT OF THINGS HAPPENED IN IT THAT WERE IMPOSSIBLE!
FOR INSTANCE! IN ONE SCENE, THE COMEDIAN IS TRYING TO ESCAPE FROM SOME TOUGH GUYS!
THEY'RE SUPPOSED TO BE TAKING HIM FOR A RIDE! HE'S SITTING IN THE BACK SEAT WITH THEM, WITH A CANE IN HIS HAND!
WHAT'S IMPOSSIBLE ABOUT THAT?
I HAVEN'T COME TO THAT PART YET! ANYHOW, HE'S SITTING THERE, SCARED STIFF, TRYING TO THINK OF A WAY TO ESCAPE!
AND THEN IT HAPPENED! HE SEES A FIRE TRUCK COMING IN THE OPPOSITE DIRECTION- -- IT'S LOADED WITH LADDERS!
AND PHOOEY! IT SPOILED THE WHOLE PICTURE FOR ME WHEN I SAW THE CRAZY WAY THEY LET HIM ESCAPE!

"HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN"
(SINCE JOE FOUND A SIMPLE, DRUGLESS WAY TO OVERCOME SLEEPLESS NIGHTS)
IT'S AFTER 12 AND I HAVEN'T CLOSED MY EYES YET! ...WHAT MAKES ME SO RESTLESS?....COULD IT BE SOMETHING I ATE?...
AN HOUR LATER... STILL TOSSING
I WONDER IF I'M LOSING MY GRIP?... MY NERVES ARE ALL ON EDGE!...I'LL BE A WRECK AGAIN TOMORROW IF I DON'T SLEEP TONIGHT!
NEXT MORNING
I SIMPLY TOSSED AND TURNED AGAIN ALL NIGHT LAST NIGHT! MY NERVES ARE ABSOLUTELY "SHOT!"
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHAT'S WRONG! I'M GOING TO SEE FRANCES BROWN TODAY AND ASK HER WHAT TO DO.
YOU SAY ALL I DO IS GIVE HIM A CUP OF OVALTINE MADE WITH HOT MILK JUST BEFORE HE GOES TO BED AT NIGHT?
THAT'S IT! SO OFTEN IT WORKS LIKE A CHARM. I KNOW OF DOZENS OF PEOPLE WHO TAKE IT EVERY NIGHT AND SAY THEY DROP OFF TO SLEEP "ALMOST BEFORE THEY KNOW IT"
THAT NIGHT--THEY TRY OVALTINE MM! SAY I COULD SIT HERE AND DRINK THIS ALL NIGHT! IT TASTES GREAT!
I KNOW-- BUT THAT'S NOT THE POINT, JOE. IT'S TO HELP YOU GET TO SLEEP- -AND THEY SAY IT'S AMAZING THE WAY IT WORKS.
WELL, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT!
N-Z-Z-Z-Z-Z-Z-Z-Z
NEXT MORNING
BOY! DID I SLEEP LAST NIGHT! AND DO I FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN TODAY!.. HOW ABOUT A GOOD MORNING KISS?
STOP IT, SILLY! HOW DO YOU EXPECT ME TO GET BREAKFAST IF YOU'RE GOING TO START CUTTING UP LIKE THIS?

SOUND SLEEP AT NIGHT

—And Energetic Days

Ovaltine is a delicious pure food concentrate approved by thousands of physicians and used in 54 different countries today. When taken as a hot drink at bedtime it promotes sound sleep in a surprisingly short time.

By this method you avoid the use of drugs. And when you awaken in the morning you feel refreshed—clear-eyed, alert—with your nerves calm and mind clear—just the way you should feel after a perfect night's sleep.

Ovaltine is remarkably easy to digest, and because of its unusual food values, it assists nature in rebuilding nerve, brain, and body tissue while you sleep, supplying energy value also.

The following excerpt from a letter voluntarily written by Mr. Edward Felker of Erie, Pa., is typical of hundreds regularly received from delighted users: "The first night I started to use Ovaltine I went to sleep almost at once after I hit the pillow. After I took it for three nights, my nerves were much steadier and my brain was more clear. I highly recommend Ovaltine to persons who suffer from loss of sleep and unsteady nerves."

So outstanding are the results accredited to Ovaltine that, during the World War, it was used as a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. Thousands of people, men and women, use it regularly to restore vitality when fatigued. And it is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, under-nourished children—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

Get a can of Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store today. Or mail the coupon at the right for a 3-day trial supply.

Miss Maribelle Rodiger, one of the most charming of last season's debutantes, says: "Pond's Cold Cream keeps my skin free from blackheads and blemishes."

LINES, WRINKLES . . . are signs of wasting of the underskin—loss of tone—impaired nutrition—lack of invigorating oils.

COARSENESS is made worse by clogged pores, neglect, improper cleansing.

BLACKHEADS come when pores have been clogged by thick secretions from overactive skin glands.

BLEMISHES. Many factors lead to blemishes—among them, loss of tone, inactive circulation, improper cleansing.

DRYNESS is frequently attributable to poorly functioning underskin, inadequate oil supply.

SAGGING TISSUE due to loss of nerve tone, impaired circulation, fatty degeneration of the muscles.

Little Known Facts about Your Skin

Underneath your outer skin, or epidermis, is the true skin, or corium. Here are myriads of tiny blood vessels, cells, nerves, elastic fibres, fat and muscle tissues, oil and sweat glands, hair follicles! On these depends the beauty of the skin you see. When these grow sluggish, expect blackheads, blemishes, coarseness, lines, wrinkles!

If You Could look Under Your Skin!

There's where Beauty lies... where Lines Wrinkles Blemishes first develop — SKIN AUTHORITIES SAY

Learn how to fight them with this Single deep-reaching Cream

ONE of America's leading dermatologists says: "The whole beauty of the outer skin depends on the underskin. You cannot be too emphatic about that."

Yet most women keep trying one thing and another for the faults they see on the outside of their skin—never dreaming that what their skin really needs is help deep underneath where all the tiny nerves and cells and glands are that make skin truly beautiful.

Why Skin Faults Develop

Here's how dermatologists explain it . . .

The underskin is the workshop where the outward beauty of the skin is constantly being created. Once the teens are past, the underskin begins to lose its vigor. Its circulation slows. Oil glands decrease their supply. Fibres lose their snap. All of this slowly but surely shows up in your outer skin in the form of blackheads, lines, blemishes, wrinkles!

How can you ward them off? By invigorating your underskin!

There is one cream that goes right in and stirs your underskin to vigorous action—Pond's Cold Cream. Its specially processed oils sink down to those neglected depths instantly. It is so pure, melting, so gently but deeply penetrative that it quickly flushes every particle of clogging impurities right out of your pores. As you pat it on, your circulation is quickened. The fresh blood rushes up to nourish shrinking tissue. Failing oil glands are stimulated.

Just one treatment with Pond's Cold Cream and you actually feel your skin refreshed—invigorated. It looks smooth as silk—years younger.

H. R. H. MARGARET of Denmark, Princess René de Bourbon de Parme

"Skin remarkably firm—smooth. Not a trace of lines or crepiness"—Dermatologist's Report. "Pond's Cold Cream quickly blots out lines," Her Royal Highness says. "It keeps my contour firm."

The most glamorous princess of Europe is Princess Margaret of Denmark. Tall, slender, she has a gardenia complexion of rare loveliness and glorious hazel eyes.

MRS. FRANCIS GROVER CLEVELAND

member of the illustrious American family. "Mrs. Cleveland has a fine, delicate skin . . . no defects"—Dermatologist's Report. She says: "Pond's Cold Cream seems to wipe away lines—blemishes. I wouldn't be without it."

● Pond's Cold Cream—Its specially processed oils sink deep—it stirs the underskin to vigorous action. Germ-free, a thorough cleanser. Flushes make-up, dust, impurities from the pores. Leaves skin refreshed, smoothed, ready for powder and make-up. Pond's Liquefying Cream answers the vital needs of the skin—is quicker melting.

Never let a single night pass without cleansing your skin with this thorough, germ-free cream. Pat it in briskly, generously and you will feel your skin roused. All the day's dust and grime will float right out of the pores.

Every morning, during the day—every time you make up—cleanse with this cream first, and powder and rouge will go on like a charm.

See Skin Faults Fade
